We refer to the common use of soda to relieve heartburn or sour stomach, a habit which thousands of people practice and one which is fraught with danger; moreover the soda only gives temporary relief and in the end the stomach trouble gets worse and worse.

The soda serves as a mechanical irritant to the walls of the stomach and bowels and cases are on record where it has accumulated in the intestines, causing death by inflammation or peritonitis.

Dr. Harlandson recommends as the safest and surest cure for sour stomach (acid dyspepsia) an excellent preparation sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. These tablets are large 3½-grain lozenges, very pleasant to taste and contain the natural acids, peptones and digestive elements essential to good digestion, and when taken after meals they digest the food perfectly and promptly before it has time to ferment, sour and poison the blood and nervous system.

Dr. Harlandson states that he invariably uses Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in all cases of stomach derangements and finds them a certain cure not only for sour stomach, but by promptly digesting the food they create flesh and strengthen the action of the heart and liver. They are not a cathartic, but intended only for stomach diseases and weakness and will be found reliable in all stomach troubles except cancer of the stomach. All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at 50 cents per package.

AT SELWYN.

The Rines Brothers Holding Successful Services at Selwyn.

The services in the Methodist church at Selwyn last Sunday morning were conducted by the Rines Brothers, the singing evangelists. They also conducted the services in the Baptist church in the afternoon.

In the evening the large temperance hall was packed to the doors. The seating capacity of the hall was overtaxed and chairs had to be brought from the church to fill up the aisle. The singing by the audience was spirited, while the solos and duets rendered by the evangelists were most impressive and touching. The sermon preached by Mr. H. J. Rines was a powerful gospel address. At the close of the meeting several persons expressed themselves as seeking salvation.

The services for the week will be full of interest. Each subject is illustrated by views. The subjects for this week are: Monday, Both want you, which will have you? Tuesday, The house that Jack built. Wednesday, A service of illustrated song. Thursday, The devil's toboggan slide, and on Friday night it will be of a special nature, particulars to be announced later.

How Canada is Advertised Abroad.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company has the reputation of being a pretty good advertiser, but many doubtless would be surprised to learn that its publications are put to useful purposes in distant lands. In a recent number of the New York Outlook, Mr. George Kennan has an interesting article on the Regeneration of Cuba, in which incidentally is told how thoroughly Canada is advertised abroad by this company. Mr. Kennan described his visit to a Cuban school, in which he says:—"At 49 Segarra-st., for example, I visited with Major Barbour a private dwelling where, in two rooms that corresponded roughly to the front and back parlor of an American house, there were crowded one hundred and four boys, from six to twelve years of age, without desks, text-books or slates, and almost without blackboards or suitable maps. The principal of this school was an intelligent young Cuban, named Ramon Martinez, a graduate of the University of Havana, who had in his scanty library such books as Wickersham's "Methods of Instruction," Sully's "Psychology of Teaching," Froebel's "Education of Man," nearly all of Herbert Spencer's works, and the educational books of Currie, Sheldon and Fitch; but whose whole teaching outfit or plant, if I may call it, consisted of two small blackboards; a map of half the world on a globular projection, issued as an advertisement by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company; one worn, tattered copy of Ollendorff's "New Method of Learning English;" a few local butterflies, minerals and shells of his own collection; half a dozen kindergarten cubes, pyramids, spheres, etc., of glass, which he had bought with his own money; and a small assortment of second-hand carpenter's tools. With the single copy of Ollendorff he was teaching one hundred and four boys English, and by means of the Canadian Pacific advertising chart he was endeavoring to make them acquainted with the world in which they lived." Canadian Pacific officials claim that no better maps are needed for teaching in the schools of Cuba or any other country than those issued by the company. The one alluded to by Mr. Kennan shows the world on a proper scale, and is not distorted, as some charts are frequently liable to be, and being on Mercator's projection, is absolutely accurate.—Montreal Herald.

A BISHOP PEACEMAKER.

How a Young Catholic Prelate Settled a Disastrous Strike.

"You know that as a Bishop I am without a parish, but henceforth the docks of Buffalo shall be my parish. And I shall not leave you until you are back at work, happy and satisfied that the conditions under which you are working are what they ought to be."

So spoke the Rt. Rev. Dr. James Edward Quigley, the young Bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Buffalo, to the grainshovellers at one of their many meetings which he attended during the progress of the labor troubles on the docks of Buffalo. The happy phrase in the Bishop's address, "The docks shall be my parish," will be talked about and remembered lovingly along the docks of Buffalo Creek long after every one in Buffalo shall have forgotten all about the complications of the famous strike of the scoopers, which was amicably adjusted a week ago last Tuesday night. The men who heard what the Bishop said about his new parish cheered him wildly. They knew that he meant what he said, and that he would work with them until a satisfactory adjustment had been reached between them and the contractors.

Bishop Quigley did not appear in the controversy in a public way until after the members of the State Board of Mediation and Arbitration began their investigation, though he had before that been visited by various persons interested in the controversy who had tried to get him to take an active part in the trouble. To these persons and committees the Bishop gave some advice, but it is said they did not profit by it. At any rate the fight went on, the men and their leaders declaring that they would not go to work unless the contract between the Lake Carriers' Association and the contractor was broken. The Bishop, who is, of course, a good business man, saw at once that the breaking of a legal contract was an impossibility, and he so directed his efforts towards curbing the violent and unpractical leaders of the scoopers and formulating propositions for the benefit of the men that it seemed might be reasonably submitted to the contractor. There were some personal and political enemies of W. J. Connors, the contractor, who were urging the men to stand out for the breaking of the contract, and these men the Bishop had to eliminate from the controversy before there was any chance for any settlement at all.

He first got the confidence of the men by attending their meetings and talking to them in a frank and sincere manner. That was not hard for him to do, for before his appointment as Bishop he had been the pastor of St. Bridget's church, in the dock district, and it is to this church that the majority of the scoopers belong. Many of them knew the Bishop personally, and they were more than ready to be guided by his advice. Bishop Quigley was as the chairman of a committee to negotiate a settlement. The first meeting of this committee was held at the Bishop's house in Delaware-ave. When the other members of the committee reached the house at the hour set for the committee's first meeting, they found the Bishop's team and carriage in front of the house. The members of the committee were told that they would have to accompany the Bishop to the hall, where the men had been holding daily meetings. He said he wanted to get from the men credentials to act for them that would be unquestioned. The Bishop and the committee visited the hall, and he asked the men to vote to give the committee full authority to act for them and pledge themselves by formal resolution to accept any settlement that the committee might decide was just and reasonable. The authority asked for was granted in a minute, and then the committee went on with its negotiations.

Afterwards the strikers revolted for a day or two and seemed to have got beyond the control of everyone except the agitators, but this did not last long, for the men were in need of money, and were anxious to go to work. This was Bishop Quigley's first effort to settle a labor difficulty.

The above is published at the request of a reader. Bishop Quigley is a Canadian, having been born in Oshawa.

The Effect of Dampness.

People feel their corns ache and their bones rheumatic when rainy weather is at hand because of the dampness of the atmosphere, which affects its pressure upon the body and causes a temporary disturbance of the system. All general disturbances of the body manifest themselves in those parts which are in a morbid state, as in a corn, a rheumatic bone or a decayed tooth.

Ingenuous, but Precise.

"Are you the defendant in this case?" asked the judge sharply.

"No, sah," answered the mild eyed prisoner, "I has a lawyer hired ter do dat fendin. I's de man dat done it, an dat's de statement."

SCHOOL GIRLS' NERVES.

Many a pale, weak school girl, suffering the evil effects of an exhausted nervous system, and thin, watery blood, has been fully restored to the vigor and buoyancy of robust health, by using Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food. The healthful glow on the cheek and the brightness in the eye tell of the building up process which is taking place in the body.

Idyl Wyld Summer ....Resort

RICE LAKE, ONTARIO.

THIS Breezy and Beautiful Island Summer Resort will re-open for the season of 1899 on June 15th, under entirely new and up-to-date management. Important new additions to the building and hotel equipment have been effected. Twenty new Bed Rooms, Sitting Rooms and Waiting Rooms have been added, and entirely refurnished in modern style. Broad balconies extend around each of the two new stories erected, affording picturesque views of the surrounding scenery.

The cuisine will be a special feature—fresh meat, fresh fish, fresh eggs, milk and butter, as well as wholesome vegetables and fruit in abundance, necessitated by a robust appetite, sharpened by the ozone and continual breeze of this idyllic spot.

Good bass and muskinonge fishing are along the shore and lake. No charge for Americans fishing—no permits required. Boats and competent guides furnished. The island steam launch "Outlet Queen," can be engaged for cruising and sailing parties. The Park is open for excursion parties, whether public or private. Tables and Seats for picnic parties are all over the ground in shady groves. Come and spend your summer vacation at Idyl Wyld, and for your life don't miss it.

Daily boat and mail to and from Harwood, Peterborough and Hastings. Parties can be met at either point when requested.

Half Sick Half Well

Many persons have their good day and their bad day. Others are about half sick all the time. They have headache, backache, and are restless and nervous. Food does not taste good, and the digestion is poor; the skin is dry and sallow and disfigured with pimples or eruptions; sleep brings no rest and work is a burden.

What is the cause of all this? Impure blood.

And the remedy?

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

It clears out the channels through which poisons are carried from the body. When all impurities are removed from the blood nature takes right hold and completes the cure.

If there is constipation, take Ayer's Pills. They awaken the drowsy action of the liver; they cure biliousness.

THE TRACKMEN'S STRIKE.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Promises to See Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, C.T.R. President, About the Matter.

Montreal, June 10.—The committee of striking trackmen, having asked Sir Wilfrid Laurier to intercede with Sir Rivers-Wilson, the Premier replied last evening, saying that he would be most happy to do so.

Mr. Lowe, the organizer, returned yesterday morning from New Hampshire. He stated that the New Hampshire commissioners had notified the Grand Trunk Railway Company that unless the track is properly looked after they will forbid the entrance of G.T.R. trains into that State.

The company claim to have all the men they require.

They Used Revolvers.

Kingston, Ont., June 10.—Wednesday evening a car containing a number of men was left at Lansdowne, guarded by three constables, one a negro. During the night they opened fire on the village with revolvers. One bullet entered the window of G. F. Dean's store, while four or five more lodged in William Burns' stable, shortly after he had left it.

Thursday they worked on the track, while the negro stood guard over them. In the evening a warrant was issued for the arrest of the entire party. Constables McConnell and Consaul, accompanied by 900 men, arrested the whole party.

A special car was run down from here to Gananoque at midnight, returning with 14 men whom the populace of Gananoque had given a warm reception, making it so hot for them that the company thought it wise to withdraw them. They are still here and refuse to return to Gananoque.

The Situation in Toronto.

Toronto, June 10.—The trackmen's strike committee deny that General Superintendent McGuigan's statements of Thursday are correct, and they say that not more than 100 men are working on the middle division and that not a single union man is among the lot. Aided by public sympathy they are still confident of winning.

Picquart Released From Custody.

Paris, June 10.—Lieut.-Col. Picquart has been provisionally released from custody.

Railway Crash at Chatham.

Chatham, Ont., June 10.—Two freight trains came together here yesterday morning, resulting in a Wabash and a G.T.R. engine being wrecked, besides a box car and a consignment of buggies. The trains were running in opposite directions, and while one was crossing from the north to the south track the other crashed into it. The traffic was delayed for about four hours. No one was injured.

THE JOHANNESBURG TANGLE.

Trial of the Alleged Former British Officers at Pretoria.

Three of Them Turned State's Evidence—Lieut. Ellis Said He Was Approached and Asked to Hold the City of Johannesburg and the Forts Until the British Troop's Came—Other News by Cable.

Pretoria, June 10.—The trial of the eight alleged former British officers who were arrested at Johannesburg on May 16 last on the charge of high treason in having attempted to enroll men with a view to an outbreak of rebellion, began here yesterday. The charge against Lieut. E. J. Trembleth, Lieut. C. A. Ellis and Lieut. John Allen Mitchell, was withdrawn, and they were called as witnesses for the state. Lieut. Ellis testified that overtures were made to him to hold Johannesburg and the forts until the British troops came. He was given to understand that the co-operation of the military authorities had been secured, and that capitalists were financing the movement; but he deposed he did not know the names of the leaders of the movement. Capt. Patterson, formerly of the Lancers, and Col. R. F. Nicholls, on account of the alleged connection with the military authorities, are being defended at the instance of the Imperial Government with a view of eliciting proof that no British official has any knowledge of the matter.

Troops for South Africa.

London, June 10.—General Kitchener is in constant consultation at the War Office. The British forces in South Africa are to be raised from 9,000 to 32,000, and Canada, may, it is said, be asked to furnish a battalion or two.

A CHANGE OF FRONT.

British Government Will Reconsider Its Attitude Regarding the Pacific Cable Project.

London, June 10.—The Times announces this morning that the British Government has consented to reconsider its attitude towards the Pacific cable project, as the result of urgent representation from Canada and the colonies, and is now inclined to utilize British credit in providing the necessary capital.

THE POLICY OF DRIFTING.

Lord Beresford Denounces the Government for Dilly-Dallying About China.

London, June 10.—While the House of Commons was in committee of supply, on the Foreign Office vote yesterday, Rear Admiral Lord Charles Beresford, Conservative member for York City, delivered a scathing criticism of the Government's policy of "drifting" in China, during which he said the Government had deceived the people and allowed the open door policy to be finally killed, by permitting Russia to interfere in a purely commercial enterprise like the Shanghai-Kwan Railroad. The Admiral then proposed that the four countries most interested, Great Britain, the United States, Japan and Germany, go to China and offer to take over and organize her army, adding that if Great Britain took the lead he was sure the United States would follow, and asserted he also had a distinct intimation that Japan would join in such a movement.

Mr. Broderick's Reply.

The Parliamentary Secretary of the Foreign Office, the Right Hon. William St. John Broderick, replied, pointing out the difficulties in meeting Lord Beresford's desire, adding that he thought His Lordship was over-sanguine in believing the United States would follow the lead of Great Britain. Germany, he continued, had great interests in China, but she had a thousand times greater interests in Europe. As to treating the Yangtsekiang Valley like the Shangtung Peninsula, Her Majesty's Government was not prepared to undertake the immense responsibility of governing an inch of that large territory.

No Door Has Been Shut.

"Up to the present," continued Mr. Broderick, "the treaty of Tientsin has been observed. No door has been shut. As regards the Yangtse, we can send gunboats drawing six feet a thousand miles from its mouth. Although we are not prepared to undertake policing this province, constituting one-third of China, we are prepared to control the Yangtse in order to control our trade, and it is an essential part of the Government's policy that in changes occurring in China the protection of our trade was assured. Although it cannot undertake to relieve the Tsung Li Yamen of the responsibility of governing China, the Government is not prepared to let British trade suffer nor pass into other hands. Therefore it is proposed to take the following steps: With regard to the Yangtse, we shall hold the Chinese Government responsible for its undertaking not to alienate to any other power the provinces bordering thereon, and that a connection should be made with the Burmah Railway. The Government will also see, whenever it is desired, that the force on the Yangtse is sufficiently strong to protect our merchants and their trade."

Mr. Broderick also referred to the Anglo-Russian agreement as being a fair compromise.

Hamilton, June 10.—Early last evening Sadie Fairman, a 3-year-old daughter of Horace Fairman, 299 York street, was fatally burned while playing with matches. Her sister saw her in flames from an upstairs window and ran into the yard and tore the burning clothes from her. The physician said she was beyond human aid, death being a matter of a few hours only. The little one's body was horribly burned.

THE CALM AFTER THE STORM

Commoners Were Too Weary to Wrangle and Did Business.

The Government's Yukon Railway Policy Was Criticised by Sir Charles Tupper—The Premier Defended, and Argued That Until the Alaskan Boundary Question Was Settled That It Was Better Not to Issue Charters.

Ottawa, June 10.—At the opening of the House yesterday Mr. W. F. Maclean called the Premier's attention to his promise to bring down the correspondence with reference to the Grand Trunk strike, and the Premier promised that it would be brought down on Monday.

Mr. Sifton laid on the table the evidence taken by Mr. Ogilvie at his recent investigation of charges made against Yukon officials. The rules were suspended, and the evidence ordered to be printed immediately.

The Drummond County Bill.

On the third reading of the Drummond County bill being called Hon. Mr. Foster suggested that the third reading should be fixed for Tuesday.

The Premier consented to its postponement, on the understanding that both the Drummond County bill and the Grand Trunk lease bill should be passed at Tuesday's sitting of the House. This was agreed to.

Crooked Business Alleged.

On the orders of the day being reached, Dr. Roche called attention to a statement in The Winnipeg Telegram with reference to the improper practices of certain land agents in Manitoba and the Northwest, who are said to be in the habit of buying up Government lands and reselling them to the settlers. The case in point was that of a land agent to whom an Icelander applied, and who was induced to buy the land from a third party. A suit was brought by the Icelander against the agent, but it was dismissed, each party paying his own costs.

Hon. Mr. Sifton said he had heard nothing of the matter, but would have it inquired into.

The Alaska Boundary.

Sir Charles Tupper called attention to the cablegram in yesterday morning's papers with reference to the modus vivendi on the Alaskan boundary.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that there was really no change in the position since the last time he had spoken. A provisional boundary, as the House knew, had been established on the Chilcoot and Chilcat Passes at the summit, and negotiations were proceeding for the establishment of a similar provisional boundary on the Dalton Trail, but he had not yet received official information that negotiations were completed, and until that was done he was not at liberty to make any further statement.

About Deadman's Island.

Mr. Prior inquired if the Government had any information that Mr. Ludgate of Deadman's Island had abandoned his project and left the country.

Hon. Mr. Borden said he did not know anything about it.

Mr. McNeill asked if the Government was taking any steps to establish the fast Atlantic service.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said: "We are taking steps all the time." (Laughter.)

Railways for the Yukon.

Sir Charles Tupper called attention to the announcement made in the railway committee yesterday morning that the Government intended to adhere to its decision of last year, and not grant any charters for railways into the Yukon. He spoke of the application of the Hamilton Smith syndicate last year, which had proposed to deposit $250,000 as security, and which he understood had spent over $40,000 in surveys, and had their plans now ready to submit to the Government. He considered it of the utmost importance that convenient access should be had to the Yukon territory, and said it was a subject which interested not only Canada, but Great Britain and other countries. The Government certainly owed it to the House that some explanation should be given for its reasons for adopting this policy, which he (Sir Charles) considered adverse to the interest of Canada. There were a number of applications for charters made this year, some to get into the Atlin district, and some, he believed, to Teslin Lake, and he was in hopes that the Government, while not enforcing the prohibition which prevented action being taken last year, would have been disposed to allow these others to be considered by a sub-committee of the railway committee with a view of arriving at a policy which would be best calculated to promote the interest of Canada.

The Premier's Reply.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier—I am very much obliged to my hon. friend for bringing this question to the attention of the House. There is no question at this moment which in my estimation has so important a bearing upon the future of Canada as the very question which my hon. friend has referred to. I may say at once that it may perhaps seem a little strange

SATURDAY, JUNE 10, 1899.

THE LEADER ON BRIBERY.

THE other evening in Toronto, speaking before the Conservative Club, Mr Whitney, Ontario's next Premier, made a forcible reference to the bribery and corruption which has been practiced by the Liberal Government in its efforts to retain control at Toronto. In view of the revelations made by the South Ontario election trial Mr Whitney gave his special attention to the election methods of the Government and made his case strong by referring to the bribery which took place in his own riding, Dundas, in 1886, in which year Mr Whitney was defeated in that riding between Christmas and New Years by a majority of 25. Twelve months later his successful opponent was unseated and Mr Whitney was elected.

"I do not wish to say anything with reference to my opponent," said Mr Whitney, "because he is out of public life and is a very good citizen, and a very decent fellow; but I was defeated by open, undisguised bribery. There was no concealment of it whatever, and consequently I was beaten. The fact impressed the seriousness of the subject on my mind, and my attention was drawn to it perhaps a little earlier than it otherwise might have been, and as a sequel to the election trial at which my opponent was unseated on the 13th of December, 1887, four individuals who had been guilty of bribery were prosecuted and convicted, and therefore I had occasion to look up the law upon the subject. Now, at that time, and up to 1892, the law of the province of Ontario with regard to bribery was simply this: That at the trial, before or after the trial, on a summons being used on certain affidavits, the trial judges could, if they convicted an individual of bribery, impose a penalty or fine upon him of $200, and the conviction read that in default of payment of the fine he could be sent to gaol; but, of course, when a man was unable to pay the fine his friends would no doubt in many cases be ready to pay it for him.

"Now, as far as my recollection goes, and as far as my knowledge goes, the four men who were prosecuted by me were the only men ever prosecuted under that law, and, remember they were not prosecuted as criminals; it was not a criminal offence; they were not liable to imprisonment. Consequently it seemed to me that the law was a foolish law, that the law was one which did not reach out and attempt at all to touch, let alone cure, the evil for which it was intended to be the remedy. And when I thought upon what the English law was, as it is now, that upon a man's being convicted of the crime of bribery he is fined £200 sterling, and imprisoned six months at hard labor, and when I found that the law of the Dominion of Canada was practically the same, I thought it was a strange thing, a strange anomaly, that the Province of Ontario was left in that unsatisfactory state. Consequently, in 1889, I introduced a bill amending the law as it then stood, simply by imposing the punishment of imprisonment in addition to this money penalty—direct, positive imprisonment for six months—for the offence of bribery.

Now, that was voted down by the Government, and in order to give you my story without taking up too much of your time, I may as well tell you that I introduced it in 1890, and it was voted down by the Government; I introduced it in 1891 and it was voted down by the Government. But I want to tell you this, that one of the members of the Government, whose name I shall not mention, because he is not there now, objected in 1890, I think it was, to my bill, for this reason, among others: He said my bill did not provide for the trial of these people by juries, and that it would be wrong to leave the liberty of the subject to the mercy of a judge or judges; that they should be tried by jury. So, when I introduced the bill the next session, in my confidence in the intentions of this hon. gentleman, I introduced into the bill a clause providing for trial by jury; and that same member of the Government got right up in the same place in the House that year and declared that one of the greatest objections to this bill was that it provided for trial by jury. He said—and I think he was right this time—that if you leave these men to be tried by a jury there will be local sympathies, party sympathies, prejudice will be aroused in the minds of the jury, and you won't be able to get a proper verdict. I think he was right that time, although he could not have been right both times. However, three years passed in this way. The Government objected to punish these men by imprisonment. In the fourth year I met a Minister of the Crown, who is now a member of the government, in the corridor. He stopped me, and said:—"By the way, what was this you wanted to do about amending the election law in relation to punishing for bribery?" I told him. "Well," he said, "we are going to do something for you this time."

That winter, in 1892, the election law was amended and revised, and I want to show you just how. Sections 159, 160 and 161 of the Act were those providing against bribers, against those who accept bribes, and against those who were guilty of personation. Now the new section that was put in in 1892 provided that when a person was prosecuted before the Election Court under either of these three sections, or did not appear before the court, or the court thought it in the interests of justice expedient that he should be tried before some other court, the Election Court then, under those circumstances, if it chose, instead of trying the man itself, could send this individual, or any number of them, to some other court to be tried. Then the section provided this;

"That every person tried by a jury shall, if found guilty, be liable to imprisonment for any term not exceeding six months, as well as to a fine not exceeding $200, in the discretion of the court."

Now, you see, that simply provided this; That while the Election Court could go right on and fine these men, the new law refused to give the Election Court the power to imprison them at all; but the new law said;—"If the court sees fit to send these men to another court to be tried, if that other court happens to be a jury court—which it may or may not happen to be—and these men are convicted by the jury, then they may be imprisoned from five minutes up to six months, for a term not exceeding six months."

And this is the way the government dodged the idea which was uppermost in my mind—of providing that all men guilty of this crime, of this offence rather, should be punished by a direct, substantial term of imprisonment."

What She Said.

Mrs. R Peck, E 15th street, New York City, visited Canada last year, and had the good fortune to pick up something which not only suited her, but her neighbors also. Writing the manufacturer of Nerviline she says:—"I bought three bottles of Nerviline while in Canada and treated my neighbors to some of it, and all think it the best medicine for internal or external pain they have ever used." Nerviline deserves such a commendation, for it is a most powerful penetrating, and certain remedy for pain of all kinds. Take no substitute.

to the public at large that we should refuse at this moment to grant any charter to railways to communicate from the waters of the Pacific to the Yukon country. I may also say at once that we do not object and would not object to any scheme to build a railway from waters that are absolutely and without doubt in Canadian territory to the Yukon country, but we have decided objections, and I think my hon. friend will agree with me when he gives his attention more closely to the matter, to granting a charter to a line into the Yukon from the disputed territory between Canada and the United States. At the present time most of the charters which are asked for are to build a railway on the Dalton Trail, that is to say, from Pyramid Harbor towards Dawson City. Pyramid is in the disputed territory. We claim the ownership of it, and they have at present practically possession of it, as they have of the Lynn Canal. Well, if we were to grant a charter—and I believe it is so provided in the bills—our legislation would have to be supplemented by American legislation and we would be providing for communication through territory now practically in possession of the Americans. If we were to do this we would only be complicating the question of determining the boundary between us and the Americans. If we were to grant the charter which is asked for, and on which my hon. friend states a deposit of $250,000 would be made, we would be helping to build up an American city at Pyramid Harbor, and thereby make it all the more difficult for us ever to get back what we claim belongs to us by the establishment of the boundary where we claim it ought to be. At the present time the question between us and the American authorities is with the location of the boundaries on the Lynn Canal. We claim that the boundary is at the entrance of the Lynn Canal and that consequently the whole of the Lynn Canal belongs to us. The Americans claim, on the other hand, that the boundary passes around the Lynn Canal, and that they should have all the shore around it. That is to say, that they should be confirmed in the possession of the Skaguay and of Dyea, which they now hold, and also of Pyramid Harbor. Now, I think it is clear that Parliament acted with questionable wisdom when in 1897 we granted a charter to the British Yukon Company, because this company is acting under a Canadian charter and an American charter, and the consequence is that we have contributed to build up Skaguay, an American city, between which and Seattle there is a great and increasing trade. The American interests have been established there and are increasing all the time, and we have met and are constantly meeting, and will constantly meet, until this question is determined, the antagonism of powerful American interests which have been built up at Skaguay in opposition to our contention for the settlement of the boundary. If we were to grant this new charter from Pyramid Harbor, we would create on the other side of the Lynn Canal another American city, and if there is an American city at Pyramid Harbor and another one at Skaguay it is clear that when we come to the point of settling that boundary these powerful interests will weigh enormously at Washington against our contention as to what is the true boundary. Therefore, under these circumstances, I believe that we ought to retard and delay the granting of these charters from the waters of the Lynn Canal until the question of the boundary has been settled in some way or other, as we believe it will yet be settled by the recognition of our contention of what is the true boundary line. When it is settled, as we believe it will be, that the Lynn Canal belongs to us, and that Pyramid Harbor is ours, then we would be in a position to grant a charter from Pyramid Harbor as being in Canadian territory, and there would be no need for an American charter. It would be better to wait for one or two years and the certainty of having a Canadian city at Pyramid Harbor, rather than build a railway now, and having it made an American city. Under such circumstances I put myself on the judgment of the House, and I call the attention of my hon. friend to this view of the question, which, perhaps, has escaped him up to this moment, that it is advisable in the best interests of Canada as a whole, not to allow more American cities to be built on the Lynn Canal, but to wait until the question of the boundary has been determined. I may say further that if it be determined afterwards by the arbitrators that the Lynn Canal does not belong to us, but that it belongs to the Americans, then the policy of Canada will be to get access to the Yukon, not by the Lynn Canal, but by building railways from the waters of the Yukon down to what is indisputably Canadian waters, through the Cassiar district, the Atlin district and the Yukon district. Our best policy is to wait. That is the view that we have adopted. I know that as a general rule it is perhaps a little easier than it otherwise might have been, and as a sequel to the election trial at which my opponent was unseated on the 13th of December, 1887, four individuals who had been guilty of bribery were prosecuted and convicted, and therefore I had occasion to look up the law upon the subject. Now, at that time, and up to 1892, the law of the province of Ontario with regard to bribery was simply this: That at the trial, before or after the trial, on a summons being used on certain affidavits, the trial judges could, if they convicted an individual of bribery, impose a penalty or fine upon him of $200, and the conviction read that in default of payment of the fine he could be sent to gaol; but, of course, when a man was unable to pay the fine his friends would no doubt in many cases be ready to pay it for him.

NEW PUGILISTIC CHAMPION.

Jim Jeffries of California Knocks Out Bob Fitzsimmons.

The Fight Took Place at the Coney Island Athletic Club, and Lanky Bob Went Down Early in the Battle—Eleven Whirlwind Rounds Settled the Title to the Championship—The Men—The Fight by Rounds.

New York, June 10.—James J. Jeffries of California at the arena of the Coney Island A. C. last night defeated Robert Fitzsimmons, world champion in two classes—middleweight and heavyweight—in 11 rounds of whirlwind fighting. He came to the ring a rank outsider and left it the acknowledged master of the man he defeated. Less than a year ago he appeared in New York a great, awkward, gainly boy. To-day he is the lithe, active, alert, trained athlete. At 24 years he has defeated Robert Fitzsimmons, Tom Sharkey and Peter Jackson.

Robert Fitzsimmons, the defeated man, was just as good as when on the crispy morning on the plains of far away Nevada he lowered the colors of the then peerless Corbett. He was just as active, just as clever, just as tricky and just as fearless of punishment. He went unfalteringly to his defeat. He was the aggressor even at moments when he was bleeding and unsteady, and when stunned by the blows he received he reeled instinctively toward his opponent. He was fighting all the time.

The men fought before a crowd of 9,000 persons.

The Fight in Rounds.

Round 1—Both met in the centre of the ring. They feinted, with Fits breaking ground, Jeffries keeping almost in the middle of the ring. Jeffries was evidently trying to get the right over. Fits led left to the head, but Jeffries ducked cleverly. Jeffries led left and fell short. He led for stomach and again fell short. Again he led left swing for jaw, but Fits was out of the way. Jeffries led right for body and left for head, but Fits blocked and got away clear. Fits tried left, landing on neck. Fits essayed a right swing for the neck, landing lightly and came to a clinch, but broke clear. Jeffries tried a straight left for the jaw, but did not reach, and Fits blocked an attempt at a left hook, shooting his left to the ear as the bell rang.

Round 2—Fits, in middle of the ring, made Jeffries break ground and Fits sent left to body. Jeffries countered with stiff left on the face. Jeffries tried left for the body, but was neatly blocked. Jeff then assumed a crouching attitude, boring with left on body, but was again blocked and they came to a clinch. Jeff landed two lefts on the body and shot the left three times to Fits's face without a return. Fits tried his right for the head, but was short and they came to a clinch, the referee going between them. Jeff tried a left chop for the head, but Fits ducked safely. Jeffries tried a left swing for the head and another for the body, but Fits ducked away from him. Jeff then knocked Fits flat on his back with a straight left on the mouth. The champion was up in two seconds and then the bell rang.

Round 3—Fits looked very determined when he came up for this round, with Jeff on the aggressive. They clinched twice without doing damage. Fits tried a right hook for the body, but failed and it was then seen that he was bleeding from the nose. First blood claimed for Jeff. After another clinch Fits landed a hard left on Jeff's face and repeated it twice. Coming to the centre of the ring, Fits landed a left swing on the jaw and a left hook on the ear. Jeff came back with a left hook on the side of the head and they came to a clinch. After some feinting, Jeff sent both hands to the body and drove Fits back with a left on the chest. Fits endeavored to land a left swing on the head and they came to a clinch. Fits landed a left hook on the head, Jeff countering on the fact just as the round ended.

THE DOCTOR'S MISTAKE.

The doctor made a mistake in the number and called at the wrong house. No woman calls a doctor after she is once acquainted with the remedial value of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription in all diseases and drains common to the sex. Without humiliating questions or local examinations the cure is accomplished by the use of the "Favorite Prescription" supplemented by free medical advice if needed. This medicine is harmless in any condition of the system and can be taken without the slightest fear of bad consequences. It contains no whisky or alcohol. There is not an iota of anything narcotic in it. The relief it gives is permanent. In this it differs from many preparations which give temporary relief only by deadening the sense of feeling with narcotics, and the dangerous stimulants they contain create an appetite for strong drink. When a dealer offers a substitute for Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, remember these facts.

When their diseases are deep-seated and of long standing, women will find it to their interest to write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., who has had wonderful success in curing diseases of women. He gives advice free, and invites all to write him. Prompt, careful and personal attention is paid to each letter, and the fullest advice is always given.

"After five months of great suffering I write this for the benefit of other sufferers from the same affliction," says Mrs. M. A. Alsbrook, of Austin, Lonoke Co., Ark. "I doctored with our family physician without any good results, as my husband urged me to try Dr. Pierce's medicines—which I did, with wonderful results. I am completely cured. I took four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, four of his 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two vials of his

Sir Charles Again.

Sir Charles Tupper—By the consent of the House I may be permitted to add a single remark. I fail to see how the construction of a railway from one point to another point is going to determine the settlement of a boundary that has to be determined, if it ever is determined, by independent international experts. The only question that can arise is one that would not arise in this case, but might in regard to Skaguay or Dyea. It could not arise in reference to any settlement made now, because, if a commission decided that it was to be Canadian territory from the waters of the Pacific to Fort Selkirk, the question would be disposed of just as completely, whether the railway was in existence previously or not. I would also remark to my right hon. friend that in reference to the proposed construction of a railway from the waters of the Stikine to Teslin Lake, the contract provided that Messrs. Mann & Mackenie might build this line from Pyramid Harbor to Fort Selkirk. It did not appear at that time that the boundary question was taken into consideration. It was quite as open then as it is now, perhaps more, and I cannot see why authority could be given then and not now. I do not want to say a word further, because I am quite certain that the Right Hon. Premier has arrived at the conclusion which he has, believing it to be a necessary conclusion in the interest of Canada, but it does not appear to me that it conflicts in any way with the ultimate settlement of the boundary. At the same time, I agree with the Right Hon. Premier that the construction of a railway is important for the settlement of that country, and if the ultimate decision on the boundary question should be that Skaguay, Dyea and the Lynn Canal are in United States territory, I quite agree with the Premier that we must then have as promptly as possible a direct communication from a place undoubtedly on Canadian waters through this country to the City of Dawson. As no subsidy is asked, it does not appear to me that the grounds stated are sufficient to prevent the construction of the railway at the present time.

The House then went into committee of supply.

The G.N.W. Central Bill.

After recess, the House resumed the further consideration of the third reading of the bill respecting the Great Northwest Central Railway Company, and the motion of Mr. Douglas in amendment thereto having been lost on a vote of 21 for to 51 against, the third reading was passed.

The House then resumed in supply, and the whole of Sir Henri Joly's items were passed after debate and explanations. The House adjourned at 10.40 p.m.

A TRIP TO THE ETERNAL CITY

annoyance and embarassment. Thus, if half a franc is bestowed where two sous would have sufficed, the fact speedily becomes known, and the donor is sure to be besieged by numerous other applicants whose demands it is impossible to satisfy.

We left Milan early and after a run run of 164 miles found ourselves in sight of the Adriatic. After leaving the mainland we found ourselves on a bridge two and one-third miles long, with 222 arches of 30 ft. span, which took us over the Lagune to the City of the Sea. I was having a quiet snooze at the time and Jack awakened me to view Venice. Shelley in one of his letters says: "The approach to Venice over the Laguna, with its domes and turrets glittering in a long line over the blue waves, is one of the finest architectural delusions in the world. It seemed to have, and literally it has, its foundations in the sea. The silent streets are paved with water, and you hear nothing but the dashing of the oars and the occasional cries of the gondoliari."

There is a glorious City in the sea.
The sea is in the broad, the narrow streets,
Ebbing and flowing; and the salt seaweed
Clings to the marble of the palaces.
No track of men, no footsteps to and fro,
Lead to her gates. The path lies o'er the sea,
Invisible; and from the land we went,
As to a floating city—steering in,
And gliding up her streets as in a dream,
So smoothly, silently.—Rogers.

Byron in his fourth canto of Childe Harold's Pilgrimage writes of Venice:

"She looks a sea—Cybele fresh from the ocean,
Rising from her tiara of proud towers
At airy distance with majestic motion
A ruler of the waters and their powers."
"I saw from out the wave her structures rise
As from the stroke of the enchanter's wand:
A thousand years their cloudy wings expand.
Around me, and a dying glory smiles
O'er the far times, when many a subject land
Look'd to the winged Lion's marble piles,
Where Venice sate in state, throned on her hundred isles."

It seemed very odd on reaching Venice, instead of taking a cab or omnibus to our hotel, to be borne over the water streets, as smoothly as in a dream, in a luxurious gondola. In the strange stillness there was a suggestion of mystery, as though the silent gliding figures that we passed were not living men of the present, but ghosts of the dim generations of the shadowy past.

The gondola is a sombre funereal-looking barque. It has a low black cabin and black leather seats and holds 6 persons. The heavy indented iron prow, resembling a halberd, is partly intended to counterbalance the weight of the rower who stands on the stern, and partly as a measure of the height of the bridges, which cannot be passed unless the ferro, as it is called, the highest part of the craft, clears them. The rower is hailed as 'Poppe' from the 'poppa' on which he stands. The shouts of the gondoliers on turning a corner are weird and melancholy. When about to turn to the right they cry 'Stai oh!', to the left 'Sa premi." Most of the gondolas have one rower, whilst the rest have two. The fare is 20 cents an hour. Byron thus describes the gondola:

"'Tis a long covered boat that's common here,
Carved at the prow, built lightly but compactly,
Rowed by two rowers, each called a gondolier;
It glides along the water looking blackly,
Just like a coffin clapped in a canoe
Where none can make out what you say or do."

On leaving the station we were rowed for some distance up the Grand Canal, the George-st. of Venice, and then we took a short cut through a regular network of narrow and crooked canals to our hotel the Metropole, facing the canal of St. Mark's, which is a continuation of the Grand Canal. We were helped to alight by one of the loiterers who are found everywhere. They are known as 'ganzieri' or 'hookers' from their hooked poles and on helping a passenger to disembark expect a few centimes for their being in the way. We were fortunate in getting a front room which commanded a splendid view of the canal and in the distance the Lido on the Adriatic.

Venice or Venezia as the Italians call it lies 2 1-2 miles from the mainland in the Lagune, a shallow bay of the Adriatic. Its 15,000 houses and palaces, chiefly built on piles, stand on 117 small islands, formed by 160 canals and connected by 378 bridges. The population in 1890 was 158,000.

The city dates its foundation as early as the fifth century. No situation could be less inviting than the low lying sandy islets and marshes. But organization, industry, patriotism, in fullness of time made Venice the most famous of mediaeval states. In the 10th century the Venetians cleared the Adriatic of pirates and established a protectorate over the east shore. During the Crusades the city rose to opulence as her fleets transported the Crusaders to the east. The foundation of the eastern supremacy of Venice was laid in 1204 by the conquest of Constantinople. The 15th century witnessed the zenith of the glory of Venice. It was the focus of the commerce of Europe, numbering 200,000 inhabitants and was universally respected and admired.

"Her daughters had their dowers
From spoils of nations, and the exhaustless East
Poured in her lap all gems in sparkling showers.
In purple was she robed, and of her feast
Monarchs partook, and deemed their dignity increased."

Byron.

The city possesses 300 seagoing vessels with 8,000 sailors, 3,000 smaller craft with 17,000 men and a fleet of 45 galleys carrying 11,000 men who maintained the naval supremacy of the Republic. But in the middle of the 15th century an event of evil omen occurred. Constantinople was captured by the Turks in 1453 and the supremacy of Venice in the east was thus undermined. The crowning blow, however, was the discovery of a New World beyond the western wave by a son of her ancient rival, Genoa, and of the new sea-route to India by which its commerce was diverted to the Portuguese. Cadiz, Bristol, London, Amsterdam, became the new centres of trade; and the discrowned Queen of the Adriatic saw her glories fade away.

"What art thou now? Thy walls are grey and old
In thy lone hall the spider weaves his woof,
A leprous crust creeps o'er the house of gold,
And the cold rain drips through the pictured roof." Byron.

On the outbreak of the French Revolution, Venice refused to recognize the new Republic. Napoleon marched against the city, the last Doge abdicated and the Venetian republic was at an end. Venice was now French now Austrian, till she was finally handed over to Austria in 1814 and remained in the Austrian power till 1866 when she successfully revolted and threw in her lot with the Kingdom of Italy.

The city is intersected by innumerable canals from which most of the houses rise direct, though some of them are flanked with narrow footpaths. Among these houses extends a labyrinth of lanes paved with stone, brick, or asphalt, and alive with picturesque and busy throngs. While it is true that the streets are canals, yet you can walk to any part of the city by these lanes and you need not take boat whenever you go out of doors, as people sometimes think.

Our hotel was on the Riva degli Schiavoni a quay paved with unpolished marble. This quay presents a busy scene, being the most popular lounge in Venice. It leads to the Piazza of St. Mark's and along with it afforda the only promenade of any extent in the city. We took our first saunter down this quay, past the Equestrian Statue of Victor Emmanuel II., by which it is embellished and our first object of interest was the Ponte dei Sospiri or Bridge of Sighs. Byron writes:

"I stood in Venice on the Bridge of Sighs;
A palace and a prison on each hand."

Mr. Ruskin in his Stones of Venice says:—"The Venice of modern fiction and dramas is a thing of yesterday, a mere efflorescence of decay, a stage-dream, which the first ray of daylight must dissipate into dust. No prisoner whose name is worth remembering, or whose sorrows deserve sympathy, ever crossed that Bridge of Sighs, which is the centre of the Byronic ideal of Venice; no great merchant of Venice ever saw that Rialto under which the traveller now passes with breathless interest; the statue which Byron makes Faliero address as one of his great ancestors, was erected to a soldier of fortune 150 years after Faliero's death."

W. D. Howell's in his Venetian Life calls the Bridge of Sighs 'that pathetic swindle' and says:—"It was not built until the end of the sixteenth century, and no romantic episode of political imprisonment and punishmemnt, except one, occurs in Venetian history later than that period. But the Bridge of Sighs could have nowise a savour of sentiment from any such episode, being as it was, merely a means of communication between the criminal court sitting in the Ducal Palace and the Criminal Prison across the little canal. House-breakers, cutpurse knaves, and murderers do not commonly impart a poetic interest to places which have known them; and yet these are the only sufferers on whose Bridge of Sighs the whole sentimental world has looked with pathetic sensation ever since Byron drew attention to it. The name of the bridge was given by the people from that opulence of compassion which enables the Italians to pity even rascality in difficulties."

The Bridge recalls Thomas Hood's poem:

"One more unfortunate
Weary of breath,
Rashly importunate,
Gone to her death."

MAKING ARRANGEMENTS.

Toronto Oddfellows Running a Big Excursion to Town on July 1st.

Messrs. E. E. Short and E. J. Ritchie, a genial deputation representing Prospect Lodge, No. 314, I. O. O. F., Toronto, were in town to-day making arrangements for a big excursion they will run to Peterborough on July 1st. They will run two special trains via Port Hope and Lindsay, and expect an immense crowd as they have secured a return rate of $1. Mr John Short, of Lindsay, came down from that town with the two Toronto gentlemen.

The Civic Employees Union, of Toronto, is also running an excursion to town on July 1st per C P R, and as they will bring a big crowd the day should be a busy one in town.

Peterborough Oddfellows will do their best to give their Toronto brethren a good day when in Peterborough on Dominion Day. The programme in sight so far includes a couple of baseball matches, and the sports to be held at the Driving Park by the civic employees, for which the town is making a donation o prizes.

THE TRACKMEN'S STRIKE.

The Meeting to be Held in the Sons of England Hall This Evening.

Nothing new has developed in the strike situation locally. None of the men are at work, except the one who did not quit on Monday. The Frenchmen from Montreal who arrived here yesterday and went down the Junction to work were brought up last night but their car was taken through to Best's for the night, it not being considerd safe to leave the men here.

Word was received from the Executive at Montreal this morning that everything remained tight and the men were all out.

The general public are urged to attend the public meeting to be held by the trackmen in the Sons of England hall this evening. Mr J R Stratton, M P P, is to preside, and speeches will be made and the strikers case explained.

When the men brought up from the east were passing through last night on the "scab train" a number of the strikers were near the depot and called to the men to come off and expressed their opinion of them in various ways.

SAVINGS BANKS IN THE SCHOOLS.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—Public attention should be draw to the proposal lately made and endorsed by a committee of trustees that savings banks be established in our schools, as has been already done in a few other towns. I have no doubt that the movers in this matter are actuated by good motives, but there should be very careful consideration of all possible results before such a step be taken. Certainly it is well that our children should learn to be economical and saving. But no risks should be run of making them selfish, penurious and mean. There are enough active influences in the world which tend to stifle generosity without our school system lending its powerful influence in this dangerous direction.

It is urged that if this system is adopted children will be able to help their parents in times of distress. But will the children have the disposition to do this if we practically train them in the opposite direction? Perhaps so; but it seems to some of us a dangerous experiment.

The children of this town don't receive much money to spend in unnecessary ways, which they can put in savings banks, and many of the parents will not wish to be constantly appealed to for small sums which they can ill afford to even lay by for themselves and their families. At all events there are the beneficiary societies to which many of us belong and to which we have to pay, and there are the post office and four other savings banks in town close at hand, so there really does not seem to be a crying necessity for anything more at present.

There seems to be a rage for "improvements" sweeping over the country at present and there is a disposition to jump at and adopt one thing after another because it seems at first sight to be a good thing, and somebody else has done it. Let us be satisfied to go a little more slowly and first see how some of these things work.

Yours etc.,
CITIZEN.

Ed. Note.—The question our correspondent discusses is one that certainly has two sides, and argument will be found to be very evenly balanced. On the one side is the claim that the savings banks in the schools will tend to instill or cultivate habits of thrift and saving in the young people, while on the other hand it is urged, as our correspondent points out, that such a system may lead to the development of miserliness and selfishness in the children. Experience is a fair guide in this matter, and some of the correspondence that was gathered from other places where the system had been tried, we understand, went to show that the children were not inclined to become miserly. For instance, in one case it is said that children who had savings in the school banks, as they may be called, had made a substantial contribution to the fund for the relief of the Johnston flood sufferers. Thus, in this instance, at any rate, the fact that the children had savings afforded an opportunity to give them a practical lesson in rightly-directed generosity. The newsboys who sell the daily papers on the street are types of a large class of boys today and it will be found that many of these boys have already savings accounts from which they clothe themselves and by which they hope to help themselves in the future. Nor can these boys be called miserly. So that their case would seem evidence for either side of the savings bank argument. First, they have followed saving habits without any aid at school, and therefore do not require any Public school banking system, and on the other hand, their habits of saving has not made them miserly as some might fear.

There is no doubt that at a first glance many minds will say we need no such system in our Public schools. We have savings banks which can be used by any who have money to lay by, and what necessity is there for introducing a system into our schools which may arouse rivalry between the children that can result only in heart-burnings and jealousies? No doubt to-day there is a tendency, borne of present conditions, to make little old women and little old men out of the children and will such a system to supervise and take in charge the children's spare coppers and dimes increase this tendency? Is it natural for children to want candies, toys and such other childish luxuries. One has only to look back to his childhood days and answer this query. A child who cannot enjoy sweetmeats, toys, etc., is not natural, and there should be no desire to have the child anything but natural. Let it enjoys its childhood, for the experience of all adults teaches that it will have trouble enough of its own when it comes to mature years. As one of the members of the Board of Education remarked the other night at the meeting, "what gives one more enjoyment than to see the children enjoying their so-called luxuries?

But again looking at the other side, is there not a tendency nowadays among youths to have a very poor idea of the value of money, to live up to or beyond the means which they may be earning, and might not a proper system of encouraging savings result in a better recognition on the part of the youth of the value of money and make them stronger to face the battle of life? One thing should also be remembered that no child need go in for the savings bank system unless he or she cares to do so. Those unable to do so for lack of anything to save, the children of poor parents, will not form the majority of those who will have no bank accounts either, for many of the school children of parents of some means have bank accounts of their own, and will not change them from the ordinary method of depositing in order to enter the school system.

These disconnected notes have not been added to the above communication with a desire of combatting the statements made therein; but more with a view of giving suggestions for discussion of the subject rather than with a view of advocating or opposing the proposal to induce the savings bank system. One thing the Review would oppose, and that is any innovation that would curtail the legitimate enjoyment of childish pleasures, or would give to the world in a few years a larger number of these miserly, money-saving, selfish creatures who think only of themselves and live only to make money. We have enough of this kind of people already. Let the children be taught that the saving and accumulation of money is not to be made the chief aim of life. That money is not to be hoarded at the expense of everything else. Any further discussion of this question will be readily published, and may prove interesting to the members of the Board of Education who have with the very best motives in view investigated and decided to introduce the savings banks into our schools.

HERMAN CROWE WAS NOT KILLED

HE SPENT THE NIGHT AT MR. LEASON'S IN DOURO.

This Removes the Suspicion That He Came to His Death Through Violence—He is Understood to be Working in Emily at Present.

The mystery that has rested over the disappearance of Herman Crowe has been lifted to such an extent that there is no longer foundation for the least suspicion that he met with violent death at the hands of his father, Thos. Crowe, who is now in custody.

High County Constable Cochrane has found that the young man spent the night on which he disappeared at the residence of Mr. Thos. Leason, of Douro. He had his shirt torn, and said that his mother had died a short time before. Mr. Leason is positive the young man who came to his place was Herman Crowe. This shows that after having words with his father the son made away and reaching Leason's remained all night and then continued his journey in a determination not to return home.

The presnt whereabouts of Harman is known with a considerable degree of certainty. He is understood to be working for a man by the name of Bailey, in Emily. His discovery dispels the fears that he had met with violence, and his father, who said all along his son would be found alright, will be greatly relieved to learn that the evidence has turned up to remove all suspicion from him.

Later—Information was received this afternoon that Herman Crowe is at Sydney Bailey's, Emily, He came there on the Saturday morning following the Thursday night on which he disappeared.

Baseball.

Considerable disappointment was caused to-day by the non-arrival of the Argyle baseball team. The managers of the local team were greatly put out at being unable to have the game after it was advertised but they wer in no way to blame. The officers of the local team met all the Toronto trains to-day but the expected ones did not appear, nor was any explanation forthcoming.

GREAT BARGAINING

How Gough Bros. Have Secured Another Wonderful Clothing Scoop.

"Mr. Gough, your price represents very little more than the actual cost of the cloth and trimmings." So said the manufacturers, the McKenna-Thompson Co, of Montreal, from whom Gough Bros. made the biggest purchase of clothing on record. The transaction took place last week and was an immense one. But what is more wonderful than the great size of the purchase is the the very low figure at which the goods were secured. The manufacturers wanted cash and Gough Bros. took advantage of their needs to land some great bargains for their customers.

They captured 2,800 suits, blue serge, Halifax tweeds, Canadian tweeds, imported Scotch and West of England suits and black worsted suits. The price at which these are now being offered to the people of Peterborough is lower than the manufacturers' price. The particulars are good reading. They can be found in Gough Bros. ad. on page 3

Personal.

Dr Jebb, the optician, is in town. He is accompanied by Mrs and Master Jebb.

His Lordship Bishop O'Connor is in Hastings to-day, and will hold confirmation there to-morrow. He will return on Monday.

Mr R B Williamson, formerly of the Canadian General Electric Works here, is in town. Mr Williamson after his holiday goes to Scranton, Pa., where he has accepted a position.

Brevities.

—There was a good market this morning. Prices for general produce ruled fair.

—The adjourned monthly meeting of the Children's Aid Society will be held on Monday afternoon.

—A number of the summer cottages at Chemong are being put in readiness for the season.

—In some of the swampy parts of the country where the roadbeds are low the water is so high as to completely cover the roads.

—The local Union of Christian Endeavor hold a rally on Monday evning in St. Paul's church commencing at 8 o'clock.

—Alfred Dewan, five miles north of Omemee, had his log barn struck by lightning and a fine spring colt instantly killed this week.

—The Rines Bros., singing evangelists, will take part in the services at Grace church Sunday school to-morrow afternoon.

—The Bishop of Toronto, will celebrate the Scriptural rite of Confirmation at All Saints' church to-morrow at 11 a.m., and at St. John's at 7 p.m.

—A. Robinson, charged with being drunk and disorderly, was fined $2 and costs with the alternative of ten days in gaol at the police court this morning.

—The Church Boys' Brigade of All Saints' will give a play and entertainment next Thursday evening. The drama is entitled "The Plot of Potzentansend" and is well in hand.

As Mr Crossley was absent last Sunday a Conference, the monthly song sermon will be given to-morrow evening in Charlotte-st church for this month. A delightful evening of music. Song and sermon.

The Band Concert.

The concert given in Victoria park last evening by the 57th battalion band was very largely attended and was greatly enjoyed by all. The band played in the old stand and had to use oil lamps. The change of position resulted in a noticeable improvement in the music from the standpoint of the audience. The big bandstand as it now stands is an eyesore in the park and as these concerts are evidently very popular some steps should be taken to meet the wishes of the band regarding improvements in its smaller stand.

Druggists Early Closing.

On and after Thursday, June 15th inst., drug stores will close at 7 p m until September 1st.

One store will be found open each evening for the convenience of the medical profession and general public. Cards will be placed in each store closed intimating which place is open.

SPRING SITTINGS OF TWO COURTS

HIGH AND COUNTY COURTS FOR PETERBOROUGH NEXT WEEK.

A Number of Civil Actions to be Heard—Litigation Among the Live Stock Dealers—Criminal Docket Unimportant.

Next week promises to be a heavy week at the Court House as the spring sittings of both High Court and County Court will be held, County Court opening on Monday and High Court on Tuesday. The business for the High Court is light, but there are some interesting cases for the other.

There are but two civil cases entered for the High Court, which opens on Tuesday at 1 p m.

Alexander McNaughton and John Smith plaintiffs, and Wm Larmer et al (infants) defendants. The plaintiffs sue as executors of a "last" will and testament of Thomas Hutchinson, farmer, of Cavan, dated May 25th, 1895. It appears that Thos Hutchinson also made a will on June 28th, 1898, in which the defendant Larmer is made the sole devisee and legatee and sole executor. The plaintiffs allege that at the time of the second will Thomas Hutchinson was in poor health and was not of sound mind and that he was coerced to execute the last will. They also allege that Hutchinson was similarly influenced to make a sale to Larmer in March, 1897. They ask that the Court set aside this indenture of sale and to declare that the will of 1895 is the true will of the deceased. The defendant denies the main allegations of the plaintiffs. He claims that the last will was duly granted and that he is willing to pay to the proper persons or to pay into court the sum of $1,000 as mentioned in the indenture of the said sale. S S Smith, Port Hope, for plaintiffs; H F Holland, Cobourg, for defendants.

Cox vs Clarkeson.—The plaintiff, Edward William Cox, of Peterborough, carried on business at the town of Peterborough as hardware merchant under the firm name of A E Micks & Co, and the defendant, E R C Clarkeson, is an accountant in the city of Toronto, and is assignee of the estate of A E Micks & Co.

Plaintiff claims that on the 9th day of November, 1898, the plaintiff and A E Micks had a valuable business, and that on the advice and through the influence of defendant and his agent they were persuaded to make an assignment for the benefit of their creditors. Plaintiff claims that defendant did not take proper precaution in disposing of the said business, but sold it at a sacrifice, and then the defendant against protests of plaintiff collusively sold by private sale to A E Micks or some person representing said Micks without giving plaintiff a chance to purchase the same. The plaintiff claims among other things $3,000 as damages.

Defendant denies that he was and says he is not the assignee of said estate, that whatever sale was made of said business was made with knowledge of plaintiff. Stratton & Hall, for plaintiff; Parks, Toronto, for defendant.

COUNTY COURT.

The jury cases of the County Court are as follows:—

Watley vs Anglesea.—The plaintiff is a laborer residing in the township of Dummer and the defendant is a farmer, of Smith. The plaintiff sues for $200 damages and costs. He alleges that he was falsely and maliciously charged by the defendant before a Justice of the Peace in January last with having stolen the sum of $1 and was imprisoned on January 13th. He was admitted to bail and was discharged on January 25th. He claims that he was injured in character and put to great expense and sues as aforesaid. Defendant claims that he overpaid the defendant's wages to the amount of $1 and that the latter refused to refund this. He states that he acted without malice and believed he was pursuing his proper remedy. E B Stone for plaintiff; D O'Connell for defendant.

Evans et al vs Valentine. — David Evans and Wm. McNearn, cattle buyers, vs Silas Valentine, farmer, of butterworth, Victoria County. Plaintiffs claim that in August 1898 they bought 35 cattle at the price of $512.00 from defendant, to be delivered by defendant that they paid $10 in part payment and that the defendant did not deliver said cattle. They claim the $10 and $110 as damages for loss of profit resulting from alleged non-delivery. The defndant, Valentine, denies that he made the bargain as stated. He claims to have agreed to sell plaintiffs 34 cattle for $512 to be delivered at Kinmount. He drove them to Kinmount, he allegs, and plaintiffs were not there to receive them. He claims also that he sold them at a loss to other parties. Stratton & Hall for plaintiffs, Hugh O'Leary for defendant.

Kennedy vs Ironside—The plaintiff, who is a live stock dealer, in the town of Peterborough, seeks to recover off the defendant, well known live stock merchants of Montreal, the sum of $134.50 being the amount alleged to be due plaintiff upon a certain shipment of lambs which were delivered to defendant at Montreal as per contract but were not accepted by said defendant.

The defendant in his statement of defence denies the allegations contained in plaintiff's statement of claim and claims that if any contract was entered into with the plaintiff he did so as agent for Messrs. Gordon & Ironside, and did not make the contract personally binding on himself. The defendant claims that there is nothing owing to plaintiff by him and asks that the case be dismissed with costs. Roger & Bennett for plaintiff; DuVernet & Jones, Toronto, for the defendant.

A SPLENDID TRIP.

Probability of an Outing for the Battalion on July 4th.

An invitation has been received by the commanding officer of the 57th Battalion to visit Rochester on July 4th, Independence day, and it is understood that Col Bell has communicated with the department asking for permission for the battalion to leave the country. If the invitation is to be accepted, however, the ranks must be filled up immediately.

The idea has been suggested that one or two companies go, but if a trip is to be made at all is is desirable for the credit of the battalion that the showing should be a good one. The ranks must, therefore, fill up. There are but three weeks left till the day and prompt work is necessary. If the number of recruits joining during the early part of the coming week is such as to give the proper encouragement to the officers there is every probability of the scheme being carried out.

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by James Lynch, druggist, Hunter-st., Peterborough.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

clinched. Jeff tried a left swing for the body and left an opening, which Fitz failed to take advantage of. Jeff, encouraged by this overlook, put a left to the jaw and a right on mouth without a return. Fitz rushed, but, in trying to sidestep, almost fell through the ropes, but recovered and came back with a hard left on body. Jeff replied with two stiffs on chest. At this moment the bell separated them.

Round 6—Fitz jumped across the ring and Jeff broke ground. Fitz swung his left for head, landing lightly, and blocked a right lead for the body. Both tried lefts for the head, but were short. Then Fitz put his left to the face and missed a right cross for jaw. Fitz, still on aggressive, bored in, sending left to face. Jeff countering lightly on the wind. Fitz crowded in with his left for the wind and Jeff crossed his right to the ear. They broke from a clinch and Fitz sent left to face and a hard right over the injured eye. Another clinch followed, and the referee had to separate them. Fitz sent left twice to head and followed with a hard left to chest. Jeff fought back wildly, landing both hands outside Fitz's guard, and, after another clinch, Fitz uppercut his opponent with his right on the wind. This was the last blow of the round, which was in Fitz's favor.

Round 7—Jeff was a bit slow coming to the scratch and broke ground with a circle of the ring. Fitz tried right to head, landing lightly, and Jeff got a bat on ribs. Jeff jabbed his left to ribs and got away clean. Then Jeff endeavored to land a straight left to face, but was blocked neatly and received a left on ribs. Fitz was on the aggressive and sent a left far back on the neck. Jeff tried to crowd Fitz to the ropes, but Fitz got away neatly. Then in a rapid mix-up both swung rights and lefts for the head, landing lightly. Then Fitz poked a left to the side of the head and Jeff jumped in with a right hard on the body. Jeff swung his left clear, but Fitz got inside of it. He drove his right over the heart, when the gong sent them to their corners. This was Fitz's round.

Round 8—Jeff was tardy in coming up and the referee had to wave his hand to him to come to the scratch. Both men rushed matters, without doing damage other than in clinching. Fitz sent his left to the ribs and Jeff hooked two lefts to the face. Jeff tried with his right, but Fitz countered lightly on the chest. Fitz put a straight left on Jeff's bad eye. Jeff came back with a hard left on the body. Fitz endeavored to land a vicious swing with his left on the body, but Jeff came back with a blow on Fitz's head. Jeff then bored in and sent a straight left to Fitz's face, staggering the champion to the ropes. Nothing of any moment occurred during the remainder of the round, and as Fitz walked to his corner he smiled at his seconds. This was Jeffries' round.

Round 9—Both came up willingly, with Fitz the aggressor, but Jeff sent him back with a straight left to face. Fitz missed a left swing for the head and received a hard right on the body; then they clinched, and after the break-away both tried lefts at close quarters. Jeff landing twice. Fitz, still on the aggressive, went back once more with a left on body. After another clinch, Jeff put two small left raps on the nose, which made Bob bleed again. Jeff played again for the head smartly with his left, hitting straight, and then with a back-hand blow brought his left in contact with Fitz's nose. Fitz failed to respond to these and clinched. Jeff threw his right over the heart with all his might, and had Fitz guessing when the bell rang. Jeff had decidedly the best of the round.

Round 10—Jeff came up looking confident, and Fitz wore an earnest look on his face. The Californian was first to land with a straight left on the body, bringing it up to the head, Fitz clinching. Going into the clinch, Fitz drove his left hard to the wind. After a lot of diddling, Fitz tried a left swing, but went wide of the mark, but caught the Californian a second later with a left swing on the nose. A straight left from Jeff made Fitz's head wobble, and then with a left swing on the jaw, put Fitz on his back. Fitz was very groggy when he got up in five seconds, and was sent down again with left and right on the jaw. He came up again in five seconds, and Jeff rushed him into the corner, trying very hard to finish the champion, who was groggy. Jeff was too anxious, and failed to finish his man.

Round 11—Fitz came up slowly, but assumed the aggressive, Jeff standing off, evidently waiting for a knockout. They clinched three times, coming to close quarters. Jeff put two hard rights over Fitz's heart, sending him back, and then sent a straight left to the neck, following with a left on the chest. Fitz crowded in, trying his right for the jaw, fell short, but succeeded in blocking the Californian's right return. Jeff then assumed the aggressive and jabbed his left to head. A left on the jaw from Jeff dazed Fitz, who stood helpless in the middle of the ring. Jeff looked at him for a second, and then had him at his mercy, swung his left again to the jaw, and Fitz went down and out, giving the champion ship to the Californian. Time of 11th round, 1 minute 32 3-5 seconds.

As soon as Fitz was carried to his corner the spectators crowded over the benches and through the ropes, and the police had great difficulty in keeping the ring clear. The partisans of the Californian almost went crazy in the excitement. Fitz came to very quickly, and Jeff walked across to the defeated champion's corner, and both shook hands warmly. Judging from the expression on Fitz's face, he did not feel much disgruntled with his defeat.

A Fatal Wedding

By BERTHA M. CLAY.

Author of "On Her Wedding Morn," "Which Loved Him Best," Story of a Wedding Ring," "Between Two Loves," Etc.

CHAPTER XXIII.

"THE TRUE LOVE CONQUERETH."

Two years passed since Sybil Ayrton returned to Glynn. She was young still, and the sorrow that darkened her life had passed away.

She stood one bright day out on the lawn; the squire with his own hands had removed the widow's cap from her fair head and let loose the ripples of golden hair. One by one Irene had removed the heavy mourning dresses and on this bright June morning she stood out among the roses fair as they, nothing telling the tragical story of her sorrows but the subdued, softened beauty of her face, and the wedding ring upon her finger.

Irene came up to her as she stood there with some little anxiety in her kindly gaze.

"Sybil," she said, "there is a visitor for you—some one you have not seen for some years."

Her face grew pale; she turned quickly.

"I know who it is," she replied; "you mean Sir Rupert Dacre. Oh, sister! how can I meet him? How can I see him again?"

"Think of his goodness," said Irene, slowly, "and forget yourself. Think how he loved you—how true he was to you, darling, when all the world was cold. Remember he has exiled himself from home, lest seeing him should cause you pain."

"I know," she said. "I have not forgotten one of these things."

"Try to meet him bravely," continued Irene; "for, remember, nothing will sadden him so much as tears from you."

They walked back to the house together; and Irene, stealing little glances at her sister's countenance, thought she had never seen it more beautiful. Soft flushes of color came and went upon it; glances of light played in the shy eyes. She had gathered some roses, and held them nervously in her little hands; but when they entered the room, and she saw once more the noble face that had never altered for her, shining down upon her with unutterable love and tenderness, the roses dropped from her hands, and she stretched them out with a glad cry to him.

He was deeply moved. Had he seen her in the first sorrow of her widowhood, he would have felt less. It was Sybil as he had known her, fair and blooming, with something of the old expression. The years seemed to fall from him as he looked at her; but for the ring upon her finger, he could have thought the whole nothing but a terrible dream.

They were rather shy and distant with each other after that first kindly greeting. Sir Rupert could not rest away from her; the old charm was working. When he was with her, he knew not what to say; he was afraid to speak of the past, lest it should grieve her; of the present, lest it disturb the quiet intimacy; or of the future, lest it should startle her.

He grew bewildered as the weeks rolled on, uncertain as to whether she cared for him, longing to renew the old love, yet fearing to mention it. For Sybil had altered strangely; she rarely looked at him, rarely spoke to him; he saw that she avoided him, that her beautiful eyes drooped if her glance met his, that she trembled if Irene left them alone. Yet, despite all these symptoms, he could not help a growing conviction that day by day he grew nearer to her.

For Sybil—the willful, imperious child, who had suffered more than falls to the lot of most women—that learned to understand her own heart at last. She had learned to estimate at its true value the character of Sir Rupert Dacre. She saw where she had been led astray, where she had so fatally mistaken silver for gold. She saw how the glamour of a fair face, the sweet, false words from perjured lips, had blinded her better judgment, and caused her to make the greatest mistake woman can ever make. She knew now that Sir Rupert was far superior to the man she had married, as the sun to a shooting star.

She had mistaken passion for love. Had it been less of a tragedy, she could have smiled to think that she had ever been deceived by the drooping of a graceful plume, or the glitter of gold lace.

Thinking of the two as she had known them, Tennyson's grand words came home to her:

"I thought I could not breathe in that pure air—
That pure serenity of perfect light;
I wanted warmth and color."

She saw now that she had been something like Queen Guenevere, in overlooking the brightest and most perfect man for one who dazzled by warmth and color.

In her sweet humility, she never thought Sir Rupert could forgive her, or love her again; and she grew shy and timid, fearful of herself, knowing she loved him, wondering only that years ago she had not seen things as she understood them now.

Then she remembered for whom and for what she had so lightly held the great treasure of Sir Rupert's love. Her face flushed hotly. How he must despise her—how little and foolish, and ignorant he must think her, to have been turned from him by that man whose traits she had forgotten because he was dead.

One like Sir Rupert could never care again for a woman who had shown so little sense or judgment.

She resigned herself, resolving to keep away from him as much as possible. Another thing troubled her, supposing—ah! supposing that in time he learned to forgive her, and care for her, could she who had been through such painful scenes; she who had borne oaths, blows, foul language; she who had lived in an atmosphere of sin—could she ever become the wife of an honorable, noble man?

Ah! no, the bright head drooped lower and lower; but it could never be; the sin of her undisciplined youth had found her out. She could see the gates of paradise she longer to enter, but they were closed to her forever. She must stand outside with folded hands forever and for evermore!

So she said to herself, and so she believed; and she kept true to her resolve of avoiding Sir Rupert whenever she could.

Her loyal lips never uttered one word against the dead man who had tortured her so; but one morning Sir Rupert brought over a new book, one that pleased him very much, a series of magnificent views, all taken from the picturesque county of which Glynn was the pride.

He found Irene and Sybil in their pretty morning-room, and when he told his errand, received a warm welcome.

"I am glad you have come," said Irene; "I thought Sybil looked pale this morning, and did not care to leave her alone. I shall trust her to you, Sir Rupert, for Simmons, our head gardener, has been waiting for me this hour past."

She left them alone, and for some minutes not a word was spoken, then Sir Rupert crossed the room to where she was sitting.

"I am sorry your sister thinks you not so well," he said. "Have you been grieving over anything?"

"No," she replied, while a hot flush covered her face; "Irene fidgets about me always; but more especially when she has nothing else to do."

"Let me show your these engravings," he said, taking a chair by her side; "there is a magnificent view of Glynn."

He turned over the leaves, pleased at her evident interest in them. Suddenly she pushed the book from her, and shuddered as she placed her hands before her with a startled cry. He looked, first at her, then at the picture; it was a view of Birley Woods; no wonder she had cried out, poor child, as she saw it.

"Sybil," he said, gently taking her hands from her pale face, "was it so very bad, my dear child?"

"So bad!" she cried. "Oh, Rupert! it kills me to remember!"

"Let me teach you to forget," he said. "Oh, Sybil! if you could know—if you could understand how I love you the better for your sorrow, the better for the cloud that has shadowed your youth! The brightest gift I ask from Heaven is the power to comfort you, my darling—to make your life bright and happy again! Will you give it to me?"

But she shrunk from him, sobbing that she was not worthy—she was not worthy of his love.

"Let me judge of that, Sybil," he said, gently. "Your true lips have uttered no word against him, the poor, misguided man, who has gone to his judgment; but I know what you have suffered, dear. I know through what dark scenes you have passed. I know the people you have lived among, and also what you have seen and heard. I know it all, yet I hold you no less pure, my darling. Lilies bloom in noisome places sometimes. You are no less pure than when, years ago, your father's love sheltered you, and my love lay at your feet."

She answered him never a word, for passionate tears rained from her eyes. He placed his arm round her.

"Blot out that miserable past," he said; 'let it be dead and buried. You have suffered sorely for the error. Look up my darling, and tell me it shall be so."

He raised the sweet face to his, and kissed away the streaming tears.

"I love you so dearly in your desolation," he said; "even your sorrow charms me more than another woman's joy could do. My life is your life. Why, Sybil, from the time you were a little child, ordering me as you would, have I ever cared or thought of anything but you?"

She knew he had not, and the knowledge brought a gleam of tenderness into her eyes.

"Be kind to me, Sybil," he continued; "it is in your power to atone to me for my troubled youth and manhood—troubled because I could not win your love."

"I am not for you now," she said humbly. "You should marry some good young girl who never fell in love foolishly, or ran away from home."

"I would rather marry you, if you will let me," he replied, with a grave smile. "Let it be so, Sybil. Your home is here, in my heart. I claim you there."

She did not resist when he clasped her in his arms, kissing her tenderly—murmuring loving words over her, as mothers do over children who have been lost.

"Make me quite happy," he pleaded; "say you love me!"

"I do love you, Rupert," she cried; "and if I can make you happy, I am willing to be your wife."

"Only willing?" he said, with a smile.

THIN GIRLS GET PLUMP

while using Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food.

There comes a critical time in the life of every woman when the bud of girlhood is unfolding into the full blown flower of womanhood. Mothers at this time should carefully guard their daughters' health, for this is a time when many a girl falls victim to insidious diseases which make life a misery.

Loss of flesh, headaches, pains in back and side, nervousness, irritability, dull eyes and pale, sallow complexion, these are the symptoms that warn you to use Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food.

The blood is impoverished and the nerves require nutrition. Nature must have assistance and there is no better way to help nature than by using Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food. It is a food for blood and nerves, and creates rich, red blood, solid flesh and new nerve tissue. The color will return to the cheek, the brightness to the eye, and increase in weight will tell of solid advance in health.

Liverpool Wheat Advanced, While Chicago Futures Declined Again—U. S. Farmers Sold Old Wheat Freely.

Liverpool, June 10.—Wheat futures advanced ¼d to ⅝d per cental yesterday.

Chicago, June 10.—Chicago's wheat was heavy again yesterday, partially owing to the arrival of the first cars of new wheat at St. Louis, and partly because of the farmers' free deliveries of old wheat, which would seem to indicate little fear on their part of any failure in the incoming crop. The July and September options fell off a cent a bushel. The July delivery, however, recovered half and the September delivery three quarters of the loss before the close.

THE ODORLESS CREMATORY CLOSETS.

I have been appointed Sole Agent for the Odorless Crematory Closet manufactured by the Crematry Closet and General Heating Co., of Hamilton.

This Closet has found a place in many of the best homes in the province, and all who have used it cannot speak too highly of its merits. Medical men speak of it from a sanitary point of view, claiming that, if health is any consideration, no home should be without one. Here are some of the

TESTIMONIALS

Alliston, March 1st, 1898.

I have had one of your "Crematory Closets" in use now for several weeks and am glad to be able to say that I have found it entirely satisfactory in every respect. I have not been able to detect the slightest odor from it at any time and would not be without it. I am sure it must prove a great convenience to people in the country and in towns where water is not obtainable.

Yours respectfully, JAMES CONWAY.

Sheddon, February 22th, 1898.

I have used it for some time and find it perfectly odorless. It is a long felt want and I believe it will become very popular especially in rural districts, towns and villages where wells are so frequently contaminated by the ordinary closets. I am, yours, etc.,

DIRECT FROM SURPASSINGLY SPLENDID TRIUMPHS AT MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK

SPECIAL NOTICE—These are the same great shows, the same gigantic aggregation, the same colossal combination that so startled the metropolis of the country by its overwhelming magnitude, its comprehensive completeness, and its veritable avalanche of novelties and floodtide of innovations when it inaugurated its tour of this season at the Madison Square Garden, New York City. Its tremendous triumph was attested by the unanimous and unqualified praises of the press and plaudits of the people, and patronage only limited by the capacity of the largest temple of amusement in the world.

SPECIAL NOTICE—EXTRA!!—It is hereby promised without reserve, and the promise will be faithfully kept, that the programme of the shows to be presented in this city will be absolutely and exactly the same, man for man, horse for horse, animal for animal, feature for feature and detail for detail as the exhibition that so completely conquered the mighty metropolis.

EXTRA SPECIAL NOTICE—EXTRA!!!—The prices for the great consolidation in New York were as high as $2 per seat. Here only the usual prices charged by merely ordinary shows will be asked. No advance over usual prices in spite of the double shows.

SPRING SITTINGS OF TWO COURTS

The County Court non-jury case is as follows:

Walsh vs Reynolds et al.—The plaintiff, John Walsh, is a drover carrying on business in the township of Asphodel, and the defendants, T. H. Reynolds and John Darch, at the time of the making of the alleged contract were carrying on the butcher business at Bowmanville. The plaintiff claims that the defendant entered into a contract with him to supply Walsh, the said plaintiff, with a shipment of hogs at a certain price to be delivered at Montreal at set date and plaintiff paid defendants $20 thereon, but the hogs, the plaintiff claims, were not delivered. He claims $180 damages for alleged breach of contract, and the further sum of this action.

The defendants admit that a contract was entered into but that the price of said hogs was to be regulated with reference to the price hogs were sellat. The defendants claim that they notified the plaintiff of their willingness to fulfil said contract and deliver said hogs to Jas. Morgan & Sons, of Montreal, as agreed and were paid $5,557.67 thereon. The defendants also set up a counter claim of $48.97.

Ruddy and Clarry, Hastings, for the plaintiffs; R. Loscombe for defendants.

There are two charges of theft to be heard at the sessions, one against Edward Allen and one against Thos. Maguire. There is also an appeal, Rossel against Willison in the matter of keeping a junk shop.

HERE FOR THE SUMMER.

And May be Available for an Address Before the Board of Trade.

That Peterborough may become a place of residence for the busy man of affairs is illustrated by the fact that Mr. Ryerson Ritchie, of New York, has taken the attractive home formerly occupied by Mr H S Griffin, on the corner of Park and Homewood Avenue, which will be occupied throughout the summer and early autumn months. Mrs Ritchie has in recent years, spent most of the summer here, and the establishment of a permanent home is a very practical expression of her attachment for Peterborough. Mr. Ritchie goes to New York this afternoon, but will return for his midsummer vacation. The Board of Trade ought to take advantage of his frequent visits, to enlist his interest in its development and work. Mr Ritchie has the distinction of having occupied the highest position in the United States as a commercial secretary, and he is understood to have received the largest salary ever paid by the chief executive of a Chamber of Commerce. As a native of this town, Mr Ritchie must feel a strong interest in our welfare, and the Board of Trade is exceedingly fortunate in being able to get the benefit of his rare experience and ability.

It is stated on good authority that Mr Ritchie will give an address to the Board of Trade early in the fall, and it may be that he can be induced to infuse stronger spirit of civic patriotism and energy into the work.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement, that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefitted from first dose. She continued its use and after taking six bottles, found herself sound and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. For sale by James Lynch, druggiest, Hunter-st., Peterborough, large bottles 50 cents and $1.00.

Board of Trade.

Owing to the amount of business which had to be brought before the members at the last meeting on Tuesday, 6th inst., the following communications were not dealt with by the Board, but will, however, receive the attention of the Council within a few days:—From Mr Cecil Bethune, Secretary Board of Trade, Ottawa, re Pacific cable; from Mr Thomas Tate, Manager, Canadian Pacific Railway Company, Montreal, re removal of train crews from Havelock to Smith's Falls; from the E C Stearns, Bicycle Company, Toronto; from Messrs William Barber & Bro., (Paper Mills), Georgetown; and from the Laidlaw, Watson Shoe Company, Limited, London, Ont., the last three re locating their manufacturing businesses in this town.

A TRIP TO THE ETERNAL CITY

(Written for the "Review.")

LETTER NO. NINE.

ST. GOTTHARD RAILWAY, MILAN, VENICE.

In no country in the world have such engineering feats been accomplished as in Switzerland. It seems as if wherever a goat can climb the Swiss engineers will run a mountain railway. The St. Gotthard railway, which we have referred to, is one of the greatest works of modern times.

There is nothing particularly skilful in the zig-zag system of mountain railways; and so far from its being the original thought of any particular engineer, this system of ascending mountains had its earliest inventors in the beasts of various kinds whose natural homes are in the mountains. Horses and oxen and sheep, which, in the main, are found only in those mountains where man has taken up his abode, adopt this method of climbing mountains as naturally as the chamois and the mountain-goat. In mechanical mountaineering, whether man likes the fact or scorns it, the mountain goat is the pioneer; and in many instances the path of the goat has indicated the path for the pack-horse; the path of the pack-horse has indicated the path for the diligence; and the path of the diligence has indicated the path for the steam engine. An interesting example of the process of road-making is supplied in the history of the St. Gotthard railway.

The writer of "Over the Alps" says: "The use of the Gotthard route as a line of communication between the valleys of Switzerland and the plains of Lombardy dates from about the middle of the 13th century. Albert Von Stade published an account claiming that it was possible to reach Lucerne in three days from Bellinzona. At that time the road consisted of a simple footpath. Towards the end of the century it came into further use for pack-animals, rendering possible the transport of merchandise to a limited extent. Little by little the road continued to be improved; but this improvement was so slow that it was not until 1775 that the first coach went through it. In 1820 the Federal Government began the construction of a first class post road on the north side of the mountain; and within the next decade the adjacent cantons completed the road from Goschenen to Airolo. Then, half a century later, car the St. Gotthard railway, piercing mountains, spanning chasms, bridging torrents, scaling heights, and forming, in its entirety, the grandest engineering triumph of modern times. In this slow, but steady development of the dizzy, unfrequented footpath, into the solidly constructed, granite-bedded railway, we read the whole story of the growth and progress of science and civilization."

The St. Gotthard railway constructed in 1872-1896 at a cost of 262 million francs ($52,400,000) is one of the grandest achievements of modern engineering. Altogether the line has 79 tunnels of an aggregate length of 28 1-2 miles, 83 bridges, 14 viaducts, and 32 minor bridges.

The St. Gotthard tunnel on this line is a little over nine and a quarter miles, or about one and a half miles longer than the Mont. Cenis tunnel. The tunnel is from 5,000 to 6,500 feet below the peaks of St. Gotthard. Its constructoin is thus described by an engineer: "At the entrance of the tunnel were huge reservoirs, in which the air was compressed by means of the water-power of the Reuss and of the Ticino to less than 1-20 of its volume. The compressed air was conducted in pipes to the scene of operations, where was a cylinder, the piston of which was forced backwards and forwards with immense velocity by the expansion of the air. The piston was connected with the perforator, which penetrated deeper and deeper into the rock at every stroke. After the boring the perforator was withdrawn, the miners put in the charge of dynamite, the explosion followed, shattering the rock. Compressed air was then allowed to escape into the opening, driving the smoke to the mouth of the tunnel. The debris was removed and the process repeated. The obstacles met with were many and various. They consisted mainly in the hard and difficult nature of the rock, fissures, beds of clay or loam, and frequent rushes of water. The saddest day during the 7 1-2 years was on July 19th, 1879, when Louis Favre, the contractor, was struck with apoplexy while inspecting the interior, and died in the arms of those accompanying him. On Feb. 28th, 1880, a perforator from the south side penetrated the last partition between north and south. The workmen on either side exchanged greetings, and the leaden capsule containing the portrait of Louis Favre was pushed through the aperture—a touching act of recognition on the part of the workmen of the merits of their late employer."

The tunnel was begun in June, 1872, at Goschenen and a month later at Airolo. During 7 1-2 years no fewer than 2500 workmen were on the average employed here daily. The cost was $11,000,000. The tunnel, 28 ft. broad and 21 ft. high, is lined with masonry throughout, and is laid with a double line. In the interior there is always a strong current of air; temperature 70 degrees. Our express train took 16 minutes in passing through.

One of the most extraordinary things about the road is that in four places it turns completely around in the heart of the mountain in a spiral curve, crossing its own track at a higher level, either in the mountain or just as it emerges from it. Unless one follows a map, he can hardly believe that the road which he sees far below is the one by which he has entered the mountain. At Wasen we see the same church now far above us, then on a level, then far below, and it requires almost a mathematical demonstration to convince one that, after all the travel we are having, it is still the same church.

As the train leaps out of a dark tunnel into the bright light, reflected from the snow-clad mountains and the evergreen pines, it is one of the most remarkable experiences of the journey.

After leaving the tunnel we begin to descend the Alps following the course of the river Ticino. The scenery still retains quite an Alpine character and is very pretty. The valley of the Ticino 25 miles from the tunnel expands and takes the name of Riviera. Luxuriant vines, chestnuts, walnuts, mulberries and fig-trees remind the traveller of his proximity to the garden of the earth, fair Italy. We stopped at Lugano which is charmingly situated on the lake of the same name and enjoys quite an Italian climate. We bid fruewell to Switzerland at Chiasso, 144 miles from Lucerne, the last Swiss village on our route and here we had our baggage examined and set foot on Italian soil.

Callous as a very clod must be the man who for the first time tread upon the soil of Italy without emotion. The "lone mother of dead empires" stirs our deepest sympathies and rouses our warmest enthusiasm. The storied past of this land of the Cæsars and the saints, this land of art and song, of classic eloquence and scenic loveliness, exerts its spell of power over every mind.

"Thou art the garden of the world, the home
Of all art yields, and nature can decree;
E'en in thy desert, what is like to thee?
Thy very weeds are beautiful, thy waste
More rich than other climes' fertility,
Thy wreck a glory, and thy ruin graced.
With an immaculate charm which cannot be defaced."

A run of three miles from Chiasso brought us to Como, the birthplace of the elder and younger Pliny. The lake of Como upon which it is situated is extolled by Vilgil in his Georgics II 159. From that poet's time until the present the Italian lakes Como, Lugano and Maggiore have challenged the admiration of poet and painter. Less sublime in their environment than those of Switzerland they are more beautiful. The surrounding foilage, also, is much richer; the orange and myrtle take the place of the spruce and the pine. The syk is of a sunnier blue, and the air of a balmier breath, and the water of a deeper and more transparent hue.

From Como to Milan is an hour's ride through the fertile plain of Lombardy which has been called the "Garden of Europe." We found the heat very oppressive. Seven o'clock found us seated in the garden of the Hotel du Nord, doing justice to an Italian dinner for which our ride over the Alps had given us a good appetite.

Milan surnamed 'la grande,' the Mediolanum of the Romans, is the capital of Lombardy, the chief financial centre of Italy, and one of the wealthiest manufacturing and commercial towns in the country. It was entirely destroyed by Frederick Barbarossa in 1162 and afterwards rebuilt. It is surrounded by ramparts and is entered by 16 gates. The ramparts have been turned into splendid promenades formed by a double range of wild chestnut trees. The population is 450,000. Its streets are quite clean and Milan may be considered the second capital of Italy.

The focus of the commercial and public life of Milan is the Piazza del Duomo enclosed by imposing edifices. The celebrated Cathedral is regarded by the Milanese as the eighth wonder of the world and is next to St. Peter's at Rome and the cathedral at Seville in Spain, the largest church in Europe. This huge structure covers an area of 24,000 square yards and holds 40,000 people. The interior is 162 yards in length, the transept 96 yards in breadth. The nave is 157 ft. in height. The dome is 220 ft. in height; the tower 360 ft. above the pavement. It is built entirely of white marble. The roof, marble like the rest, is adorned with 98 turrets and the exterior with upwards of 2000 statues in marble. The stained glass windows in the choir are said to be the largest in the world. The building was commenced in 1386.

The facade remained uncompleted until in 1805 Napoleon, whose marble statue in antique costume is among those on the roof, caused the work to be resumed. The interior is supported by 52 pillars, each 12 ft. in diameter, the summits of which are adorned with canopied niches with statues instead of capitals. The pavement consists of mosaic in marble of different colors. 4500 statues made by the best sculptors of Italy adorn the exterior and interior of this wonderful cathedral.

The roof and tower afford a grand prospect and extremely interesting survey of the spires, the panorama of the city, the vast plain of Lombardy and in the distance the gigantic Alps.

Opposite the cathedral to the south stands the Plazzo Reale. It is the residence of the Sovereign during his stay at Milan. We found similar royal residences in every city we visited in Italy.

On the north side of the Piazza del Duomo is the imposing palatial facade to the Galleria Vittorio Emanuele. This is the most spacious and attractive structure of the kind in Europe. It leads to the Piazza della Scala which is embellished with the monument of Leonardo da Vinci.

We saw the celebrated painting of this artist, "The Last Supper." The picture is unfortunately in bad preservation chiefly from having been painted on the wall in oils. In the same room are exhibited contemporaneous copies by 4 artists. The motive of the work has been explained by Goethe: "The artist represents the peaceful band round the sacred table as thunderstruck by the Master's words, 'One of you shall betray me.' They have been pronounced; the whole company is in dismay, while he himself bows his head with downcast eyes. His whole attitude, the motion of his arms and hands, all seem to repeat with heavenly resignation, and his silence to confirm, the mournful words—It cannot be otherwise. One of you shall betray me!"

In the Piazza Cavour a fine monument has been erected to the memory of the great statesman Cavour, the founder of Italian unity and one of the most remarkable men of the present century.

The monument of the Cinque Giornate commemorates the terrible five day's fighting between the Milanese and the Austrian army, which ended in the complete victory of the Milanese, securing the freedom of their city.

The celebrated Biblioteca Ambrosiana has acquired great celebrity for its manuscript treasures. Among the chief are fragments of a Ms. of Homer illuminated, at the end of the 4th century; a copy of Virgil, with marginalia by Petrarch; a palimseat of the 5th century with the Pauline epistles; Dante's Divine comedy, a Ms. of the first half of the 14th century.

The Arena constructed under Napoleon I. accommodates 30,000 spectators. It is principally devoted to horse races, and as it can easily be put under water, boats may be often be seen plying on its surface.

The Arco della Pace is one of the most splendid monuments of the time, built of white marble. The basreliefs to be seen in every part of the work are very remarkable for their delicate execution.

The cemetery outside of the city contains numerous and handsome monuments which form a veritable museum of modern Milanese sculpture. In the Tempio di Cremazione dead bodies are burned at a cost of $10 each. Paupers are cremated without charge.

The first night we were in Milan we saw a curious sight. On our way up to the Piazza del Duomo we came to a place where the road was being repaired. Stretched at length on the cobble stones at the side of the road, and on the stone pavement, were upwards of 50 workmen. They had quit work and had lain down beside their pickaxes and shovels for their night's repose. It was a hard sight and convinced us that there must be something rotten in the state of Italy. No wonder there had been serious bread riots in the north of Italy but a short time before. With a population of 30 millions, Italy keeps up a standing army of nearly a quarter of a million soldiers who are to be seen everywhere strutting about in gay uniforms. It is nearly time for a Peace Conference.

The French monetary system is in use throughout Italy. The lira is the same as the franc and equal to 20 cents. It is issued in both paper and silver in consequence of the financial stringency gold coins have disappeared almost entirely, and the silver coins largely from circulation. Gold coins should be exchanged by the traveller at a moneychanger's as the premium (16 per cent.) is lost in hotels and shops. Circular notes or Letters of Credit, which afford the best means of taking money, can be cashed at the Cook & Sons' Agencies, to be met with in all important places along the line of travel. We always found their agents very obliging and more satisfactory to do business with than the foreign bankers.

We sampled some Italian cigars in Milan and found them very much off color. They are about 18 inches long and have a straw in the end of them to facilitate the passage of the smoke. Good imported cigars, however, may be had for 25-60 centimes each.

We found it very hot in Milan. The sun's rays beat down with great intensity and it is well to keep in the shade where it is not so bad. According to a Roman proverb, dogs and foreigners (Inglesi) alone walk in the sun, Christians in the shade.

The traveller should always be abundantly supplied with copper coin in Italy, as trifling donations are in constant demand. One need have no scruple, however, in limiting his donations to the smallest possible sums, as liberality frequently becomes a source of

A very old time fashion is revived by adding to half length dress sleeves of silk, satin, brocade, etc., Marie Antoinette undersleeves of embroidered chiffon, net or lisse, finished with little turn back cuffs or falling ruffles of the embroidery.

Plisse veilings and very handsome silk crepons are used for deep mourning by fashionable dressmakers. They are used for gowns entire or as garnitures on dresses of fine silk and wool fabrics, closely woven imperial reps or mailroca cloths.

The shapely little mutton leg sleeve, so easily fashioned and so graceful in its present modified style, still continues to divide honors with the close coat shapes, open or cleshed on the shoulders, tucked, strap finished and with many other fanciful arrangements.

At an exhibition of French dress models this week more than half of the evening toilets and tailor costumes of cloth, vicuna, crepon, carmeilte, drap d'ete, bengaline or silk warp mohair were of gray or fawn color in one or the other of the delicate shades so much the fashion this season.

Allurements in Wash Goods, Shirt Waists and Summer Ready-to-wear Skirts

The great summer selling of WASH GOODS swings into line at the GOLDEN LION with increased momentum, accelerated by renewed assortments and better values than ever before.

Last months' selling surpassed all previous figures. It wouldn't if REAL VALUE GIVING hadn't been at the bottom of the movement.

SHIRT WAISTS

An inspiring array of Shirt Waist beauties await you here this week. The already large gathering has been augmented by the arrival of artistically novel conceits, all so good and pretty you may safely buy them with your eyes closed.

These Novelties are priced at 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.10, $1.25, $1.50 and $1.75.

CRASH AND PIQUE SKIRTS

IN READY TO WEAR SKIRTS the allurements to shrewd women are of the most practical kind. Such dressy helps to home comforts as our CRASH and PIQUE Skirts will be appreciated on sight. Every one is cut full size.

Is it surprising that the ladies of Peterborough flock here for these summer garment when values such as these exist?

Crash Skirts, full pleated at back, 95c., $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50.

WASH GOODS

Our new and latest importations of WASH GOODS beauties have been piling in day by day. They embrace Ginghams, Percales, Organdies, Crashes, and Piques. The printing on some of these filmy fabrics are more superb than ever before.

If you would have a glimpse of what is new and alluring in airy wash DRESS GOODS, visit the Golden Lion.

No such glittering of daintily pretty stuffs ever reached this or any other store in town before.

Did you ever See a Snow Storm in Summer?

We never did; but we have seen the clothing at this time of the year so covered with dandruff that it looked as if it had been out in a regular snowstorm.

No need of this snowstorm.

As the summer sun would melt the falling snow so will melt these flakes of dandruff in the scalp. It goes further than this: it prevents their formation.

It has still other properties: it will restore color to gray hair in just ten times out of every ten cases.

And it does even more: it feeds and nourishes the roots of the hair. Thin hair becomes thick hair; and short hair becomes long hair.

We have a book on the Hair and Scalp. It is yours, for the asking.

If you do not obtain all the benefits you expected from the use of the Vigor, write the doctor about it. Probably there is some difficulty with your general system which may be easily removed. Address, DR. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

BLAIR'S TRAIN, BOOTH'S ROAD.

Senators, Commoners and Pressmen Had a Jaunt on Saturday.

Ottawa, June 12.—The Senators, members and pressmen were given an outing on Saturday by the joint courtesy of Mr. J. R. Booth and the Minister of Railways and Canals, in the Intercolonial train which was on exhibition here, over the line of the Parry Sound extension of the Canada Atlantic. The trip was highly enjoyable, and many compliments were paid to Mr. Blair on the completeness and comfort of the train, and to Mr. Booth on the excellence of the roadbed, which is undoubtedly one of the best on the continent, as was shown by the fact that for a short spurt the magnificent big engine of the Intercolonial was able to draw the train of six cars at the rate of nearly 70 miles an hour. About 150 members and others took in the trip. Luncheon was served on the way down from Golden Lake, the terminus of the trip, about 90 miles from Ottawa.

A scrap of news picked up on the way is that traffic on the Parry Sound road is about one-third heavier this season so far than it was for the corresponding period last year, and that business is being hampered by scarcity of tonnage and lack of shipping facilities at Montreal.

A rumor was also heard, which may or may not have foundation in fact. It is to the effect that having got the Intercolonial extended to Montreal, Mr. Blair now contemplates reaching out further, and extending it to the Georgian Bay, by leasing or purchasing the Canada Atlantic and Ottawa, Arnprior & Parry Sound Railways from Mr. Booth. By this means he will be able to tap the grain trade of the Northwest for Montreal during the summer and for Halifax or St. John during the winter.

The Boat Worked.

Cherbourg, June 12.—A successful trial was made on Saturday of a new submarine boat, the invention of Capt. Del Passo, which is expected to take the place of the ordinary diving methods. The boat was sunk 16 feet and filled all the requirements of its design.

James Giddy Killed at Port Hope.

Port Hope, Ont., June 12.—A very sad accident occurred here last evening, by which James, the 18-year-old son of Ald. Giddy, lost his life. Mr. Giddy and his son were at the G.T.R. yards to water some cattle and James was passing between two cars, when the engine, which he did not see, backed down and crushed him to death.

DEWAR THE MAN OF THE HOUR

He Has Liquefied Hydrogen and Started a Revolution.

Lord Kelvin Prophecies Much From This Discovery—The Effect of It on the World of Propulsion Cannot Yet Be Calculated—A Strong Company Formed to Manufacture Steel in Vacuum—A Hint of Its Meaning.

London, June 12.—The man of the hour in the scientific world is Professor Dewar of the Royal Institute of London, who has liquefied hydrogen.

"The discovery," said the professor, "has cost many a weary night during the last ten years, and the amount of money spent upon it has been considerable. Still, I think it was worth it all. We have now got within 20 degrees of absolute zero, which is represented by 499 degrees Fahrenheit and 273 degrees centigrade below zero. The boiling point of liquid hydrogen is 259 degrees below zero, at which it is capable of enormous pressure. Its practical utility, according to the average lay mind, no man can speak about yet."

Lord Kelvin's Remarks.

"Professor Dewar's discovery," said Lord Kelvin, "is an epoch in a marvellous scientific age. It cannot fail to have most far-reaching effects on science in general, because it clears up many hazy ideas of relations between matter and energy, and established that hydrogen belongs to non-metallic bodies. To get within 20 or 22 degrees of absolute zero is an achievement which would have made Davey and Faraday stagger. Its effect on the world of propulsion cannot yet be gauged. Experiments many and varied must be made."

A Practical Move.

Prof. Dewar's success is already leading to practical results. A company was formed on Saturday with a capital of £30,000 to ascertain whether steel can be cast in a vacuum. If the plan is successful the air bubbles that now cause flaws and weakness will be done away with and a metal will result such as the world has never seen. The results of the experiments may revolutionize the steel trade.

THREE HOURS—NOTHING.

The Slow Work of the Drafting Committee of the Peace Conference.

The Hague, June 12.—The drafting committee was in session for three hours on Saturday, although not a single conclusion was reached, with the exception of the acceptances of the British scheme as the basis upon which to discuss the establishment of a tribunal of arbitration.

After the session most of the members of the committee telegraphed to their respective Governments, indicating that the discussion showed the necessity of having their instructions amplified. It is understood that several of the delegates of the smaller powers expressed a wish that the permanence of the tribunal might be made more effective, and even moved amendments in this sense.

The great powers, however, think it impossible, it is understood, to go beyond Sir Julian Pauncefote's proposals. Nevertheless a determined effort is being made to secure the institution of a permanent tribunal. The American and Russian projects have not been abandoned. Sir Julian Pauncefote's will merely be taken as the basis of discussion.

Britain's Cautious Policy.

The Brussels conference section met on Saturday, Prof. F. de Maartens of the Russian delegation, presiding.

Major-Gen. Sir John Ardagh, of the British delegates, declared that Great Britain could not bind herself to sign a convention drawn from the Brussels conference of 1874, but must reserve the right of judging of the necessity or expediency of abiding by the stipulations of that conference or this conference in general orders to her armies in the event of war or of opening a campaign.

Prof. Maartens replied that Russia did not ask the powers to sign a convention on the Brussels conference, but desired the powers to undertake to embody the stipulations now agreed upon in the instructions given troops at the opening of a campaign.

Major-Gen. Ardagh said his declaration was only of a personal character and he would consult his Government on so important a matter.

The Pope to Have a Seat.

Rome, June 12.—It is rumored here that Count Nigra, head of the Italian delegation at the peace conference, will propose that the Pope have a permanent seat on the arbitration tribunal.

Birds and Tuberculosis.

London, June 12.—A bill now before the Local Council provides that all owners of canary birds and other feathered pets secure once every month from the health department certificates of the freedom of their birds from tuberculosis. The bill was framed at the urgent instigation of a number of phthisis experts, headed by Dr. A. Tucker Wise. Numerous cases of consumption have been shown to originate from the deadly tuberculosis germs which breed with such startling fecundity in the wing and tail feathers of these supposedly harmless pets. Investigation has shown that the mucous membrane in the throat of the canary is more adapted to the rapid growth of phthisis germs than the most carefully prepared cultures.

PRESIDENT LOUBET'S REVENGE.

He Receives a Tremendous Demonstration on Sunday.

Paris, June 12.—President Loubet has had his revenge for Sunday's (4th) outrage at Auteuil. When he drove to Long Champs yesterday to attend the Grand Prix he was the hero of a great popular demonstration, expressing itself in one form or another along the whole route from the Elysee Palace to the race course. He remained only a quarter of an hour, just long enough to witness the race, and, having congratulated the owner of the winner, returned to the palace, where he arrived without special incident.

The revisionists and Socialist organs summoned their readers to assemble along the thoroughfares to be traversed by the President and his party, and from the hour of noon thousands of demonstrators set out from Montmartre, Belleville and other working-class quarters, in big organized bands, all wearing a small artificial red flower in the buttonhole, and marched across Paris, taking up positions along the Avenue des Champs-Elysee and the Avenue du Bois de Boulogne.

They gave M. Loubet a tremendous ovation, confining their cries almost entirely to "Vive Loubet" and "Vive la Republique." The President did not hear a discordant cry, although there were one or two scuffles before and after he passed between the police and an occasional hot-headed anti-Dreyfusard, who tried to shout "A bas Loubet," and was immediately pounced upon by a swarm of policemen.

A policeman was stationed every dozen yards along the whole route, and there were squadrons of dragoons armed with lances, and mounted Republican Guards at all important points.

Enquiry at the prefecture of police at a late hour elicited the information that about 90 arrests were made during the day, and ten policemen were more or less seriously injured.

Frank Currie's Suicide.

Bothwell, Ont., June 12.—A young man named Frank Currie committed suicide by hanging himself in his brother-in-law's barn on Saturday afternoon. He was just recovering from an illness caused from injuries received in a gasoline explosion some time ago. His wife and family are in Rossland, B.C.

THE NEW C.P.R. PRESIDENT.

Vice-President Shaughnessy to Ascend to the Top Rung.

This Important Change Will Take Place at the Meeting of the Board To-Day (Monday)—Sir William Van Horne Will Fill the Position of Chairman of the Board, an Office to Be Created by the Directorate.

Toronto, June 12.—There will be great doings done in Montreal to-day, when the regular monthly meeting of the C.P.R. directorate takes place, and where a full attendance of the board has been called. When the board meets to-day one of the most eventful railway changes that has ever taken place in Canada will take place. Sir William will lay down the president's mantle and Mr. Shaughnessy will be unanimously placed at the head of Canada's great trans-continental highway. Sir William Van Horne will maintain his connection with the executive as chairman of the board, a position which will also be created to-day, and which will be similar to the office held by the well-known chairman of the Vanderbilt lines in the United States, Senator Chauncey Depew.

Came to Canada in 1883.

In 1883 Mr. Shaughnessy was appointed to the position of general purchasing agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway. He revised the contracts, as well as the system of buying, and during his first years with the company saved it millions of money. It is also said that he saved the company immense sums on construction contracts. Two years later, in January, 1884, he was appointed assistant to the general manager. In 1889 he was appointed assistant president. In June, 1891, Mr. Shaughnessy was elected a director and promoted to the position of vice-president, which position he held until to-day.

The Daily Review.

MONDAY, JUNE 12, 1899.

HONEST JOHN DRYDEN.

HON. John Dryden has written a letter to the party managers in South Ontario, and it is a most plausible communication. It reads as well as the protestations of the other leaders of the "party of purity" who want the general public to believe that they know nothing of the organized gang of outsiders who went from riding to riding in the bye-elections corrupting, impersonating and manipulating the ballots and poll books. In the face of the exposures of the organized bribery in South Ontario, in face of the exposure of unparalelled election corruption and dishonesty in West Elgin, something had to be done, and so Mr Dryden writes his letter, In this letter he says in one place:—

I cannot consent to accept the nomination except you yourself and others who are leaders of the party in South Ontario are willing to set your faces against the tide of corruption which seems to have been setting in in our country, and which, I observe, is likely to continue on the part of those opposed to us.

Now, what a statement for a member of the Ontario Government. All will rejoice that Mr Dryden asks his manager, to set their faces against corruption, but when, in face of the exposure of the organized gang of Government boodlers who were imported into and operated in his riding, Mr Dryden makes such a statement and at the same time casts such a reflection on his opponents, it simply is too good to be wholesome. If Mr Dryden believes that the present tide of corruption has not been the result of the campaign methods of his Government, then he is not as intelligent a man as we give him credit for being. Can he cite any case where Ontario Conservatives were ever guilty of such election frauds as were practiced by imported Government agents in Elgin, where ballots marked for the Conservative candidate were replaced by those marked for his opponent? Mr. Dryden's bid for a "purity" reputation is of the weakest and tamest kind, and the Government's record in the bye-elections makes it worse than ridiculous. Let Mr Dryden go into the election and have the corruption fund withheld and the outsiders kept at home and he need not write any such letters for publication.

WHILE condemnation is general of such pugilistic encounters it was wonderful to see the number of people who were anxious to read the account of the Fitzsimmons-Jeffries fight first thing on Saturday.

SIR CHARLES RIVERS-WILSON.

Interview With the President of the Grand Trunk Railway.

Montreal, June 12.—Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, accompanied by his wife, Honorable Lady Violet Wilson, arrived here yesterday from New York, and, being interviewed, the president of the Grand Trunk, while declining to say whether he would interfere in the strike or not, stated that the question at issue would no doubt be considered. He said that the conditions were so different that no proper comparison could be made between the wages paid by the Grand Trunk and the Canadian Pacific. It is simply, in Sir Charles' opinion, a question of supply and demand, and here he referred to statements he had seen in the newspapers, in which the term "greedy corporation" had been applied. The gentlemen, he said, who used such language had certainly forgotten the state of affairs existing on the Grand Trunk three years ago, when the road was on the verge of bankruptcy. Had this continued, Sir Charles Rivers intimated, a still greater curtailment of expenses would have been necessary. People seemed to forget, he said, that the holders of Grand Trunk stock had to be considered as well as those employed on the system.

Good Words for Mr. Hays.

He also said that the proprietors of the Grand Trunk had the best of reasons for being grateful to Mr. Hays for what he had done for them since he had been in charge of the road. The general manager had certainly earned the confidence of the people on the other side of the water, and Sir Rivers also said he was glad to see that Mr. Hays was so heartily supported by the Canadian people. He said there would be no formal opening of the Victoria Jubilee Bridge, as he would only be able to remain here five weeks.

DANGER IN SODA.

Serious Results Sometimes Follow Its Excessive Use.

Common soda is all right in its place and indispensable in the kitchen and for cooking and washing purposes, but it was never intended as a medicine, and people who use it as such will some day regret it.

We refer to the common use of soda to relieve heartburn or sour stomach, a habit which thousands of people practice and one which is fraught with danger; moreover the soda only gives temporary relief and in the end the stomach trouble gets worse and worse.

The soda acts as a mechanical irritant to the walls of the stomach and bowels and cases are on record where it has accumulated in the intestines, causing death by inflammation or peritonitis.

Dr. Harlandson recommends as the safest and surest cure for sour stomach (acid dyspepsia) an excellent preparation sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. These tablets are large 2-grain lozenges, very pleasant to taste and contain the natural acids, peptones and digestive elements essential to good digestion, and when taken after meals they digest the food perfectly and promptly before it has time to ferment, sour and poison the blood and nervous system.

Dr. Wuerth states that he invariably uses Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in all cases of stomach derangements and finds them a certain cure not only for sour stomach, but by promptly digesting the food they create flesh and strengthen the action of the heart and liver. They are not a cathartic, but intended only for stomach diseases and weakness and will be found reliable in all stomach troubles except cancer of the stomach. All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at 50 cents per package.

A little book describing all forms of stomach weakness and their cure mailed free by addressing the F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich.

HOT FIGHTING IS ON AGAIN.

Gen. Lawton Sweeps Country Between Manila and Bay Lake South.

Manila, June 12.—At daybreak on Saturday a force of 4500 men, under Generals Lawton, Wheaton and Ovenshine, advanced from San Pedro Macati, sweeping the country between the Bay of Manila and Bay Lake, south of Manila. By noon the country had been cleared almost to Paranaque. The Americans lost two officers killed and 21 soldiers wounded.

The rebels resisted desperately at the stronger of their positions, and left 50 dead in the trenches. Many more wounded were left behind by the rebels in their retreat.

The heat during the day was overpowering, and there were many prostrations of American soldiers from that cause.

The Filipinos Slipped Away.

Manila, June 12.—The Filipino occupation of the Province of Cavite has been broken, and, as the result of the present movement, the Americans now control the important coast towns of Paranaque and Las Pinas, while a long line of insurgent trenches, facing the south line, has been cleared. The insurgents have again proved their facility as dodgers, between 3,000 and 4,000 warriors, who seemed destined to be captured, having disappeared, the majority sliding away under cover of night, after fighting the Americans all Saturday.

The 15th Infantry lost one man killed and six wounded; the 9th Infantry one man killed and five wounded; the 14th Infantry three wounded, and the 1st Colorado Volunteer Regiment 11 wounded.

So far as can yet be ascertained the Filipinos' loss is about 50 killed, about 350 wounded and 20 taken prisoners.

Casualties of the War.

Washington, June 12.—Among the reports submitted by General Otis concerning the operations of the army in Manila is one from Col. Henry Lippincott, chief surgeon of the army, for the month of March. Col. Lippincott says: "The long list of engagements between our troops and the Filipinos continuing through the month resulted in the following casualties to our command:

"Killed—Officers, 6; enlisted men, 71. Died from wounds—Officers, 3; enlisted men, 14.

"Wounded—Officers, 18; enlisted men, 485. Total casualties for the month, 596. Total casualties since outbreak, 1,020."

The seismograph at Toronto Observatory recorded two earthquake shocks during the past week. The first shock occurred on Sunday night, 4th inst., at 11.36 p.m. It lasted until 7.36 Monday morning. For ten minutes the shock was great, but after that it was slight. The second shock was recorded at 10.07 on Monday morning, and lasted until 19.18 o'clock. It was at its height at 10.15 o'clock.

Jim Jeffries, the new pugilistic champion, who whipped Bob Fitzsimmons on Friday night, is a Canadian by birth. He was born in North Norwich, about ten miles south of Woodstock. His father was a hotelkeeper and moved with his family to California about 16 years ago. Although the winner, he gets the least out of the fight, the Coney Island Club taking $35,000, the defeated Fitzsimmons a like amount, and Jeffries takes $15,000.

MARCHAND IN A DILEMMA.

Amusing Incidents in the Life of France's Serious Hero.

Paris, June 12.—Major Marchand, who was hurried from the capital by the Government, is now in an amusing dilemma. He started to see his parents in his native town of Thoissey, but the crowds who received him imploringly explained that they wanted to give him a heroic reception, but had not expected him yet. The mayor and corporation were not ready, and would be kindly take the train somewhere else, pending the preparations. He went to Macon, where he disconsolately waited in a local hotel. He is already tired of this, and means to cruise in a Government vessel in the English Channel until June 28, when Thoissey hopes to be able to receive him.

Meanwhile he is unbosoming himself against England. He declares that with secret native allies he could have held Fashoda against the British, and would have undertaken to drive them out of the country. He remarks the strange similitude in the histories of Fashoda and the Suez Canal. "We were first in both—now nowhere in either." He concludes cryptically that France must now do something to save herself.

FAMINE HORRORS IN RUSSIA.

The Peasants Have Now Exhausted Their Last Resources.

St. Petersburg, June 12.—The correspondents of the different newspapers speak more and more strongly of the ever-increasing need of help for the peasants. One of the most prominent workers in the interest reads as follows: "We may say that the distress in these regions has now reached its climax. The peasants have exhausted their last resources.

"In some places the number of scurvy cases has of late doubled, trebled and even quadrupled. In the single district of Stavropol, in the Government of Samara, 5,000 people are now receiving medical attention, and we may reckon the total number of sufferers in the district at not less than 10,000. A large majority of them are women and children. Apart from the want of food, these people stand now in the utmost need of grain for sowing."

Gould and the Killarneys.

London, June 12.—The report that Howard Gould intends to purchase the Lakes of Killarney has brought F. W. Crossley of Dublin to London to interview the Irish Commoners. He is anxious to start a shilling fund to make the lakes and the island public property. He has sent a thousand shillings to the Lord Mayor of Dublin, who will act as trustee of the fund. The present owner, the Standard Insurance Company, refused £35,000 for the property.

Dreyfus Leaves Cayenne.

Cayenne, French Guiana, June 12.—The French cruiser Sfax left the island at 6.30 a.m. on Saturday, with Dreyfus on board. The latter embarked on the warship at 5 o'clock Friday morning.

Armstrong Ordnance Works Burned.

Newcastle-on-Tyne, June 12.—Three of the largest shops connected with the Armstrong-Whitworth ordnance works here were destroyed by fire yesterday. The damage is estimated at £200,000.

CONSUMPTION.

The germs of consumption are everywhere. You may breathe them in with the air, drink them with water, eat them with your food. They are not dangerous if you are in perfect health but if you have a slight cold, or cough, or if you have inherited weak lungs, or if you are weak and run-down generally—look out!

Once consumption gets a strong foothold it is almost impossible to dislodge it. The time to cure it is at the beginning or before it starts. If you are run-down—build yourself up. Make every tissue so strong and well that consumption germs cannot find a foothold. Fill your body with rich, red blood—build up strong, healthy flesh—put your digestive system in perfect order. Don't drag along half dead. You may be well as well as not. The following letter from Mrs. Jennie Dingman, of Van Buren, Kalkaska Co., Mich., will tell you how to do it. She says: "Before I took

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

I was hardly able to do my work at all; had pain in my left side and back, and had headache all the time. I tried your medicine and it helped me. Last spring I had a bad cough; got so bad I had to be in bed all the time. My husband thought I had consumption. We thought we would try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and before I had taken one bottle the cough stopped and I have since had no signs of its returning."

THE CAUSE OF THE TRACKMEN

men and go out rather than see the men getting only 98 cents. He expressed thanks to the Board of Trade and the clergymen who had taken their part for their sympathy.

Mayor Davis followed. He assured the men of his heartiest sympathy. He felt that $1 a day was not enough for a decent day's work. A by-law has been passed by which all men working for the town receive $1.25 a day. Efforts would also be made to have legislation passed providing that men working for contractors for the town should receive $1.25 a day at least. Mayor Davis believed that the men had done right in striking. Everybody knows that the G. T. R. is making money and the men had good reason in asking for a share of the prosperity. The speaker believed that the Grand Trunk should have made some increase to the men and be prepared to raise their pay in proportion to the road's prosperity. A principle was involved in this strike beyond that of wages. It is whether a man is not entitled to a fair day's wage for a fair day's work. It seems strange that some law should not be made or some force brought somewhere to put men in a position to be able to send their children to school as the law demands. In a land full of Christian institutions there is a great moral spirit and support and this should bring about the relief that is desired. There should be something to prevent the law of competition grinding men down. Labor should be entitled to some share in the net profits of any business in which it assists. If a manufacturing concern makes big profits one year it should share these profits with the men and then if the concern experiences hard time sthe laborers could be told the facts and they would abide by the condition of their employers. Mayor Davis stated that he would be pleased to do anything he could for the men. (Applause.)

Rev. J. C. Davidson gave the next address. He spoke first to the strikers present. They look back to a past in which they believe that they have not been fairly treated and the people of Canada are evidently in union with them. They could also look back to good, honest, unselfish service. There was a satisfaction to know that they had stuck to their work so solidly. But now the men have decided to abandon their work in a body and take their present attitude. Rev. Mr. Davidson believed the men had done well. It was evident that they had taken proper steps to secure the remedy. He believed also that the men would remain to be a body of peaceable citizens and would continue to follow just and peaceable methods. This was the attitude of solid men. It gives more than everything else the sympathy and support and admiration of the people of the country. This sympathy is the great hope of the men. The tribunal of the whole people of Canada, the tribunal of public opinion, is the only one in which they can get justice and relief. The Grand Trunk railway will be bound to bow before the opinion of the people of Canada. He held out encouragement for the future. If the effect of the justice of the strikers' cause is that the G.T.R. will give it in the future it will be all right. He hoped earnestly that the solid labor of the country will stand by the men and refuse to do the work even with poverty facing them. Even if, however, other men do take the places many doors will be opened to the strikers and many men will give them employment. Rev. Mr. Davidson was loudly applauded.

Rev. Mr. Shory followed with some remarks. His sympathies are all with the men who toil. He would like Mr. Hays to be present to hear the opinion of the meeting. Rev. Mr. Shorey stated that it was his interest in right-eousness and justice that had brought him to the meeting. A strike is always an evil but he believed that in the present case it was a lesser evil. While manufacturers may have to reduce wages some times owing to competition this does not apply with the same force to a railway, for a railway is by virtue of its very nature a monopoly. Men can, therefore, only secure their rights from such a concern by a strike. He closed by expressing hearty sympathy for the men. The wages are not adequate for living, nor in proportion with the earnings of the road. He thought the railway might at least meet the men half way in their demands. The railway is a national institution and everyone is interested in it. The company can no longer afford to imperil the safety of the public by continuing the fight. But he assured his audience that it is better to suffer wrong than to do wrong. Following this motto out the country will see to it that they gain their honest demands.

Rev. Mr. Symonds, well known for his interest in social questions, was the next speaker. This strike is the practical evidence of a social question. He noticed that the meeting should be full of encouragement to the strikers. In sympathy he was entirely with the speaker. He appreciated the good conduct of the members of the trackmen's union. He believed that trade and labor unions were right for it is the only way in which men without capital can protect themselves. The strike had been a great trial to the men and the speaker congratulated them upon the admirable manner in which they had conducted themselves. Especially was this the case when the men returned voluntarily to their work with the understanding of fair treatment. He believed that in the men had done right in quitting again, as he believed they had been deceived by those whom they had endeavored to treat honestly and fairly. He closed with expressing the hope "that out of evil may grow good."

Ald. McWilliams followed. His remarks were short. He regretted that it was necessary to hold such a meeting to secure but just rights. In a young country like this men should be able to earn a fair living. He expressed cordial sympathy and hoped for victory for the men within forty-eight hours.

Rev. F. D. Kerr was called upon and expressed sympathy for the men. He would like that no concern should receive Government aid that did not pay fair wages. Both parties should unite in this. At present the workingman is always the first man to feel hard times and the last to receive the effects of good times. Mr. Kerr put in a word for the Premier, but believed it was Hon. Mr. Laurier's duty to see that the people of the country were receiving a living wage, especially in this case when it is a matter of bread.

Mr. Foster, one of the striking trackmen, made an interesting explanation. There was a broken rail on the track between Nicholls park and Best's station the other evening. It was a case of a sure wreck, as Mr. Foster showed. Train No. 24 was coming along. Mr. Foster's wife saw the broken rail and saw the train coming, and Mr. Foster had sent his little boy down to flag the train and save it from certain destruction. In doing this he believed that he had done right but he made the explanation to relieve the impression that had gained ground that he had gone back to the G.T.R. He left it to the meeting if he had not done right and received warm endorsation.

Mr. Noyes stated that Mr. Foster had done perfectly right.

A man present stated that he and several in his company had been offered $1.50 a day by the G.T.R. to do track work for them on different occasions during the week.

THE RESOLUTION.

The following resolution, moved by Rev. Mr. Shorey and seconded by Rev. Mr. Symonds, was carried enthusiastically:

That this meeting of citizens of the town of Peterborough desires to express its hearty sympathy with the trackmen of the G.T.R. in their present effort to secure from that corporation fair living wages for the important and responsible work they are required to do; and we cannot but express the hope that if the matter in dispute be not amicably settled at once between the parties concerned, it may be referred to some independent and competent tribunal for arbitration.

The meeting was brought to a close with the singing of "God Save the Queen."

SHOT UP INTO SPACE.

AN UNEXPECTED BALLOON RIDE BY A VERMONT FARMER.

A Thrilling Voyage That Was Forced Upon Him by Accident—His Experience in Midair and His Descent to the Earth in Safety.

Eugene McCarthy, a tall, slender Irish Yankee who lived at Waitsfield, Vt., made a sensational voyage at the Mad River Valley fair on Sept. 1, 1897, in a hot air balloon. Tangled in the car ropes, a prisoner by accident, he shot into the air to a height of 3,000 feet, and after struggling and dangling in midair helpless below the car he returned to earth, not a corpse, but the same rugged Green mountain farmer.

More than 2,000 spectators had assembled at the fair grounds in order to witness the balloon ascension. To make the ascension as advertised the professor called to the crowd for volunteer workmen. Eugene McCarthy responded and took his assigned station inside the canvas balloon car. On the outside, by this time, the huge bag had been raised and supported securely by guy ropes on all sides. A fire had been started in a tunnel in order to furnish the necessary hot air. Fed by kerosene, the flame ran through the tunnel and came up inside the uplifted bag with a stream of sparks. McCarthy and the professor were there to prevent these sparks from firing the cloth. Gradually, as the current of hot air swept into the car, the top part swelled forth until the airship became restless in its attempts to leap heavenward. By the faint applause outside McCarthy knew that the young woman performer, who was to make the descent in a parachute, was ready to start.

At a given signal, in order to escape entanglement in the ropes fastened from the balloon car to the parachute, McCarthy jumped to the center of his small circle space. But he caught the hot air from the tunnel full in his face. Half blinded by smoke and flame, he naturally stepped back and unintentionally placed a foot across a raised parachute rope. So when the balloon car, freed from guy ropes, jumped upward, the volunteer workman felt the rope tighten under his leg. By natural impulse he grabbed the rope overhead in order to keep himself from falling head downward. He accordingly soon found himself, not on the ground where he belonged, but in midair, swinging 20 feet above the parachute performer and rushing skyward at express train speed.

In the first confusion of the start upward the spectators did not recognise McCarthy in the balloon. They saw a stranger in the rigging dangling below the big canvas bag and naturally thought, as everything went up noiselessly, his presence there an unadvertised part of the programme. What made the double ascension still more interesting to them was the everyday appearance of the man. He was dressed, not in stage ballet costume like the woman, but in modest farm clothes. Therefore, when a short, thickset man suggested a yell of approval, the 2,000 men, women and children sent up a mixed cheer to the balloon. In answer the young woman, who rested comfortably on a trapeze bar, bowed and threw a kiss to her admirers. As for the other performer, the man in shirt sleeves, he seemed frightened. He neither bowed nor waved his hand, but held on tight and took no notice of the spectators. They watched him rise to a height of 2,500 feet, where, like his companion, he was merely a dot at the end of a thread.

McCarthy, at the start, heard and obeyed the sound advice of the professor to hold on tight. He felt the earth sink rapidly as in an express elevator in a tall office building, and at 1,000 feet began to feel himself more at home. His car then began to go slower and steadier. So he examined his position in the balloon. For a seat, half way between the hot air bag and parachute top, he had a small iron ring, to which were fastened the ropes of the hot air car and parachute. He attempted to look downward, but as the thought of falling unnerved him he grew dizzy. Then he remembered a faint cheer and wondered why his friends seemed so much pleased at his dangerous position. His musings in midair continued until he heard the voice of his companion performer.

"Hello!" said she.

"Hello!" said McCarthy.

"Are you safe?"

"I guess so."

"Hold on, for I'm going."

"Goodby!" said McCarthy.

"Goodby!" said the girl.

Although at a height of 2,500 feet, McCarthy by this time had begun to be encouraged by the presence of his airship companion. He further had hoped that because of his accidental trip she might not make her drop in the parachute. Her announced start homeward therefore gave him some uneasiness. He naturally preferred her company. But with true Green mountain grit he held on to the ropes and patiently waited for her departure.

From his boyhood McCarthy had lived on a farm and had never studied at the little white schoolhouse on Waitsfield common such questions as the behavior of hot air balloons in the sky. Therefore he never expected when his friend left him to shoot higher in the air. Personally he was satisfied with 2,500 feet, but he was forced to obey the law of nature. Freed of the weight of the girl and parachute, which dropped toward the fair grounds, McCarthy and his airship leaped skyward again. For the next few seconds the solitary prisoner closed his eyelids, held his breath and grasped the ropes tighter. He quickly rose 500 feet, and there, at an altitude of 3,000 feet, floated lazily in the still mountain air. Far above Bald mountain he took a panoramic view of the scenery, which showed the Montreal mountain in Canada, the white peaks in New Hampshire, the whole sweep of Vermont to the south and Lake Champlain and the Adirondacks in New York state. But the man in the balloon soon tired of his view. He then waited for the hot, smoky air in the car to cool and take him home.

On the trip homeward McCarthy equalled in grace the parachute drop of the young woman. As the hot air cooled he slowly descended and finally disappeared not half a mile from the park behind a clump of trees in Paynton valley. On the ground again, he dodged the falling canvas and immediately started for the fair grounds. There McCarthy found himself a hero. In a few words he told the story of his wonderful experience in midair, then hitched up his horse, jumped into the wagon and started for home.—New York Sun.

LAW POINTS.

A municipal corporation enforcing a valid ordinance for vaccination is held in Wyatt versus Rome (Ga.), 42 L. A. R., 180, to be exercising a governmental function and therefore not liable for any damages caused by impure vaccine matter.

A policy omitting the usual suicide clause and containing an "absolutely incontestable" clause is held in Patterson versus Natural Premium Mutual Life Insurance company (Wis.), 42 L. R. A., 253, to cover a case of death by suicide.

The right to shoot at a person who is merely running away from an officer to escape from arrest for a misdemeanor is denied in Brown versus Weaver (Miss.), 42 L. R. A., 422, and, if the officer does shoot wrongfully, it is held to be an official act covered by his bond.

HE HATED LONG PRAYERS.

And Well He Might After His Agonizing Experience.

"It happened," said the colonel, "that there were two colored preachers inhabiting cells in the penitentiary at Frankfort at the same time. If I remember aright, both were sentenced for polygamy, but old Sam was a Methodist parson, while old Jake was of the Baptist faith. It seems that Sam had done something to greatly offend the warden, and the punishment decided on was an old fashioned lashing. Some weeks after the affair came off Rev. Sam, whom I had known from boyhood, was telling me about it.

"'I didn't mind de whippin so much, Mars Jack, of it hadn't been for de way old Jake acted. You see, de warden he said to me: "Sam, I'se gwine to whip you, and 'low de whippin will do you a whole heap uv good. I'se gwine to let old Jake pray for you, and de blows will continue to fall on your black hide while Jake's pra'r is a goin on. When he comes to a final stop, den de punishament will likewise end."

"'Land sakes, Mars Jack, I knowed it was all up wid me den, for dat ignorant old nigger never did know when it was time to get up off'n his knees! De fac' dat a po' human bein was in distress wasn't gwine to make a bit of difference wid him. Well, sir, it was jes' like I 'spected it'd be. Dey brought me out, and old Jake, de old villun, started in, and as fast as he prayed de warden come down on me wid a whip dat cut like a knife. I never did want to hear a pra'r come to an end so bad in my life, but it weren't any use. Every time I thought he was mos' through old Jake took a fresh hold, and down come de licks harder'n ever. Shorely it seemed to me like he prayed a month, and, Mars Jack, I wants to tell you right now dat I am set against long pra'rs for de rest uv my life.'"

His Story.

He stood before the police judge a wreck. He suggested an echo of better days. He had been arrested the night before for sleeping in an open doorway.

The judge saw that the prisoner had not always been a tramp and questioned him with regard to his past.

"Well, your honor, it was this way," the man said quietly. "I haven't always been as you see me now. I was a stockbroker once. When I was a younger man, I became interested in copper. Copper is usually solid, you know. Well, I made a little pile, then shifted to iron. Iron is hard to handle, and I lost. I withdrew from the speculating for a time, but the old fascination drew me again into the maelstrom. I took a flier in some glittering mining stock, but it was a loser. I said I would try again. I bought a little train of different railway stock, but I didn't tie to it long enough and went nearly broke. Then I shoved all of my remaining fortune into pork. It turned out that pork was on the hog, and here I am."

The judge had listened to the story attentively, and at its conclusion discharged the prisoner. "Have you any money?" he inquired as the man turned to leave the courtroom.

"No, sir," was the reply. "I'm broker now than ever I was."—Detroit Free Press.

A Word About Seasickness.

V. A. Chapman, late surgeon of the Holland-America line, writing to The Medical Record, says:

"Just a word about seasickness. If you intend to take a sea voyage, have your friends come the evening before your departure. Get them to stay half the night at least. Open several bottles of 'bon voyage' cheer, eat plenty of cake, ice cream, etc., and if you are not good and seasick when you get out upon the waters then you never will be seasick.

"If those about to depart upon a voyage would take eight hourly doses of one-fourth grain of calomel each on the day before embarking, go to bed early that evening and take two or three doses of one-fiftieth grain of strychnine nitrate the next forenoon, about one-half the cases of seasickness would be averted."

A Historic Schoolhouse.

On the Isle of Wight stands the old Jacobean grammar school where Charles I held his court during the abortive negotiations with the parliamentary commissioners who sat at the old town hall. The schoolhouse stands on the road to Carisbrooke castle, where the king was a prisoner. The royal apartments were in the gabled front facing the street leading to Cowes, and the schoolroom was used as the king's presence chamber.

A Painful Accident.

Dr King was called down into Otonabee yesterday afternoon about five o'clock to attend to a two-year-old child of Wm Saunders, which had met with a painful and serious accident. While playing with a sharp pointed knife it ran the point into its eye, penetrating the cornea and iris. The injury is a severe one and will, it is altogether probable, result in the loss of the eye. The sight of the other one also may be affected or perhaps destroyed.

W. F. CHAPMAN DEAD.

Former Secretary of the Local Y M C A Dies at Montreal.

Special to the Review.

Montreal, June 12.—W F Chapman, Assistant Secretary of the Y M C A, died at the Royal Victoria Hospital of a complication of diseases induced by tuberculosis. He belonged to Gravenhurst, Ont., and was formerly Secretary of the local Associations at Brantford and Peterborough. He was 35 years of age. His father was a Methodist minister.

Friends in Peterborough will regret to learn of the death of Mr Chapman, who while Secretary of the local Y M C A won the respect and friendship of a large number of Peterborough's citizens. Deceased was an earnest Bible student and a conscientious Christian worker.

HAVE A GRIEVANCE.

Farmers From Down the River Discuss the Drowned Lands.

A meeting of farmers owning lands bordering on the Otonabee and on Rice lake was held in the Council Chamber on Saturday afternoon to discuss their grievance regarding the drowning of portions of their land said to be caused by the Government works at Hastings. Mr John Clark was appointed to the chair and Mr W J Hall acted as secretary. There was a big attendance of farmers. Mr R B Rogers, C E, was also present to give information where necessary.

The grievance was discussed at considerable length, many of those present making addresses and many cases were described where good lands have been rendered useless. The opinion was strongly expressed by all the speakers that they have rights in this matter and that some compensation is due them for the damage done to their property.

The idea of any relief by which the lands could be recovered was abandoned and it was decided that strong action be taken to secure financial return from the Government for the injury already done. It was also decided to urge that additional sluices be constructed at Hastings to carry off the water at times when it is found necessary to do so.

After considerable discussion a committee was appointed to wait upon the representatives of East and West Peterborough in order that the case may be laid before the Government.

The establishment of the frog preserves in the Otonabee came up in the discussion and was commented upon in a way that showed that the action of the Ontario Government is not regarded with favor by the farmers.

Died in Belleville.

Mr Joe Green, of Belleville, brother of of Mr Ed Green, Water-st, town, died in the Belleville hospital on Friday morning, from the result of an accident which befel him on Tuesday. He fell, fracturing several of his ribs, and being a man 82 years of age, the shock was too much for him and he succumbed to his injuries. Deceased had been a sailor in his younger days and had visited many parts of the world. He had been a resident of Belleville for thirty years, and was a quite, conscientious Christian man, who was respected by his friends and acquaintances. The funeral took place on Saturday.

HIGH COURT OPENS.

Non-Jury Sittings of the High Court at the Court House To-day.

The non-jury sessions of the High Court opened at the Court House at one o'clock this afternoon, Chief Justice Armour on the bench. Beside the local legal talent the following outside lawyers were present: Messrs. B. B. Osler, Q.C. and Wallace Nesbitt, Q. C., Toronto; S. S. Smith, Port Hope; F. H. Hollard, Cobourg, and A. A. Smith, Millbrook.

The first case to come up for hearing was that of McNaughton et al vs. Larmer, a dispute concerning the will of the late Thos. Hutchinson, of Cavan, and a sale made by him. Mr. Osler is associated with Mr. Smith of Port Hope, in the case, for plaintiffs, and Mr. Nesbitt and Mr. Holland for defendants.

HAD BEEN ATTACKED.

The G.T.R. Patrol Train Looked the Worse of Rough Usage.

The "scab train" of the G.T.R. came down the line this morning looking as if it had been in a wreck. The windows were all smashed and the sides were marked by bullet holes. The train went up the line Saturday evening and was held over at Reaboro, the station between Omemee and Lindsay, those in charge evidently not deeming it wise to send it into Lindsay, where the strikers are hostile. However this did not save it as a crowd of the sympathizers of the strikers made a vigorous attack on it yesterday afternoon at the small station. No personal injury is reported.

Last week the train was kept at night near Best's station but a threat was made to upset it into one of the bottomless pits that adorn the missing link and this is said to be the reason why it was moved to Reaboro.

The local strikers received a very encouraging message this morning from their central executive.

URGED TO JOIN.

Chaplain Davidson, of the 57th Battalion, Urges Patriotism.

Rev. J. C. Davidson took the opportunity of the large congregation being present at St. John's last evening to urge young and middle aged men of the town to join the 57th battalion. The officer commanding was desirous that its ranks should be filled up as much as possible by moral, churchgoing men, believing that those who were accustomed to do their duty to the Almighty in the different churches would most readily and effectively do their duty to their country in the ranks of her militia. An invitation had lately been received from Rochester and the honor of Peterborough was concerned in having the battalion placed on a creditable footing.

THE CAUSE OF THE TRACKMEN

STRONGLY ENDORSED AT A SUCCESSFUL PUBLIC MEETING.

The Strike of the G T R Trackmen the Occasion of a Public Demonstration in the Sons of England Hall - A Big Attendance and Excellent Speeches.

A largely attended and enthusiastic meeting of the striking G.T.R. trackmen and their friends was held in the Sons of England hall on Saturday evening. It was of great encouragement to the strikers by reason of the warm and unanimous sympathy expressed and of the large gathering which assembled, representative as it was of laborers, mechanics and professional men. The addresses were all interesting and inspiring. The chair was occupied by Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., and with him on the platform were Mayor Davis and Rev. Messrs. Symonds, Shorey and Davidson.

Mr. Stratton took the chair shortly after eight o'clock. In opening the meeting he stated that so far as he was personally concerned his sympathies were entirely with the men. If a man was not worth more than 98 cents a day he was not worth that much. A man could not educate his family on it. As a citizen of Peterborough he was glad to see that the men had conducted themselves orderly and in a legitimate manner. This was to their credit. He was glad also that members of Parliament, irrespective of party, had shown themselves interested in the cause of the men. It was not a question into which party politics should enter. Both Liberals and Conservatives should do everything in their power to secure justice for the people. He believed that the offer of the Premier to act as mediator would be supported by both parties. The strikers had acted in a legitimate manner, thus gaining the entire country and with this at their backs the Grand Trunk Railway or any other railway could not refuse justice. (Applause.)

Mr. Noyes, chairman of the local committee of the trackmen, stated that the object of the meeting had been to sustain interest in the strike and to demonstrate that the sympathy of the people is with the men. As a striker he could say that they knew by experiences the grievances that others had only read of. He had worked for the Grand Trunk railway for 21 years. In the early days he had worked for a year at $1 a day, but living was cheaper in those days. After the amalgamation of the roads now forming the G.T.R. the men got $1.10. This was on the Midland division. Then the Grand Trunk struck off the extra 10 cents a day, and ever since that time the work has been growing harder and the men became greatly dissatisfied. One factor in this was that the C.P.R. men doing the same work received $1.20 a day and the foremen $1.85, while there were four men in every C.P.R. gang as compared to three on the G.T.R. When the Brotherhood was formed those members who joined it were discharged. It was organized again by Mr. Lowe and all or nearly all joined and became as one. The local branch is one of the best in the Dominion. Last year there were one hundred and twenty members. But Mr. Moyes was sorry to say that one had turned a traitor. The speaker himself was a foreman and received $1.50 a day. But the foremen are bound to stick to the

SACRED RITE OF CONFIRMATION

ADMINISTERED AT THE CHURCHES OF ST. JOHN'S AND ALL SAINTS'.

The Bishop of Toronto Confirms Large Classes in Peterborough—Items From the Other Churches.

The flag flying over the handsome church of St. John's yesterday showed that it was a day of importance to the congregation, and no more beautiful day could be imagined. At the early communion service special prayers were offered for all who were to be confirmed at the churches.

The service at 11 a.m. was made particularly interesting by the public baptism of four men. The service was a deeply solemn and impressive one. The Rector preached no sermon, merely remarking that no testimony could be more eloquent than the baptismal service which they had just witnessed.

In the evening the church began to fill up at 6.30 o'clock and was crowded long before the hour of service. Owing to this long preparatory wait the bell was stopped earlier and the prelude played on the organ by the organist, Mr. C. J. Rogers, whose work during the day was well performed. The confirmation candidates assembled early in the school room, where the dress was arranged and final prayers offered. At precisely 7 o'clock, the procession entered the church, singing the inspiring hymn, "Forward be our watchword." The order of the procession was: Choir, Bishop's acting chaplain, Rev. A. W. Mackenzie, the Bishop of the diocese, the church wardens, Messrs. Dr. Boucher and R. H. Kells, the confirmation candidates and the Rector. The candidates were sixty-four in number, twenty-seven men and boys and thirty-seven women and girls. They were of all ages, and all professions, the great majority being adults. After the long procession had reached the chancel the candidates were seated in the front of the church and a shortened service was begun. The candidates were then formally presented to the Bishop by the Rector and in answer to the Bishop's question their fitness for the sacred rite was assured. The preface to the confirmation was then read by Rev. A. W. Mackenzie, after which the Bishop addressed the great congregation present from the pulpit, taking as his subject the nature of confirmation, to which he said there were two sides, the subjective and objective. The former was the profession of faith and solemn assent to baptismal vows. The other and higher side was chiefly dealt upon. This was the direct giving of the holy spirit of God in answer to prayer and the laying on of hands. While the former was the ecclesiastical this was the Scriptural side and had its beginning in Bible days. Within a few months of our Lord's ascension the apostles began the practice of laying their hands with prayer on the heads of such as had been baptized, with the result that the Holy Ghost was then and there given to them—Acts VIII., 15, 16, 17. It is true that our Lord, Himself did not publicly ordain this rite, but is it possible to suppose that His apostles could have made such a departure without instructions from Him. His chief work after resurrection lay in instructing them in the things pertaining to the kingdom of God, in which this was probably concluded. At all events God sanctioned the ordinances by the sending of the Holy Ghost. The Bishop then showed the futility if the argument against the ordinance and explained that the Church did not claim that the Holy Ghost was given only in confirmation, His work also being manifested in Baptism, but there with reference to the past while in Confirmation He came into the hearts of believers to strengthen and guide for the future. He closed his address by expressing his pleasure at the large classes presented to him in this parish and his appreciation of the general work which is being done. As the old central parish in this part of the country their influence should be felt throughout all the neighboring districts.

His Lordship then proceeded to ask of the candidates the solemn question as to the ratification of their baptismal responsibilities, calling upon the Rector to read the list of names. As each name was called the person answered "I do." After the prayer for the coming of the Holy Spirit the candidates went forward for individual confirmation, kneeling before the Bishop in the sanctuary.

The hymns "Just as I am" and "Fight the good fight" were sung verse by verse, as they were going and returning. During the offertory Miss Howden, of Port Hope, sang beautifully "One Sweetly Solemn Thought."

The service was concluded by the Bishop and the confirmation class going again in procession to the schoolhouse and dispersing.

AT ALL SAINTS'.

A Class of Fifty were Confirmed at All Saints' Church.

The first confirmation held in All Saints' church took place yesterday, Bishop Sweatman, of Toronto, officiating. The church presented a beautiful appearance, the alter, chancel and interior being prettily decorated with flowers. The attendance was large, exceeding the accommodation. The confirmation class numbered fifty, a very large number for a congregation like All Saints'. After the impressive confirmation rite, the Bishop delivered a forcible address appropriate to the occasion.

To-day the rite of confirmation is being administered at the residence of one of the class who was prevented through illness from attending yesterday.

MATRON AND MAID.

Miss Isabella Thoburn of India, the first missionary sent out by the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church, will visit this country this spring.

Mme. Eleanora Duse has recently had her portrait painted by Franz Lenbach, the artist who painted portraits of Emperor William I, Bismarck, and, among other famous people recently, Mme. Sembrich, the opera singer.

Mrs. Jessie Lozier Payne, assistant auditor of Scrooia, has earned a reputation as a bright and witty speaker. Mrs. Payne was graduated from a college in Syracuse and, in addition to her success as a speaker, is an accomplished pianist and French scholar.

Mrs. Ella Knowles Haskell of Helena, Mon., who has just retired from the assistant attorney generalship of that state, was the first and only woman to hold that place. She was elected by the Populists and is a native of New Hampshire and a graduate of Bates college.

Fraulein Wedekin of the Royal Opera House, Dresden, recently declined to renew her engagement at Dresden unless her fiance received a government appointment. His majesty of Saxony graciously acceded to Fraulein Wedekin's request and appointed the young man to be assessor of taxes.

Miss Lavinia Dempsey of New York, the crowned queen of the Holland Dames, has written a play called "Neutral Ground" and will produce it as a Broadway theater at her own expense. She will personally superintend the rehearsals, and the proceeds, if there are any, will be given to charity.

Mme. Lilli Lehmann, the great singer, is the leader of a crusade in Germany against the killing of birds for hat decorating purposes. She asks the women of Germany not to encourage or patronize the fashion, and she has published an illustrated circular "in the name of the 80,000,000 birds killed every year."

Lady Tennyson, the wife of the new viceroy of South Australia, is an Irish woman. Her name when she married the laureate's son, the Hon. Hallam Tennyson, in 1884, was Audrey Florence Boyle of the famous fighting Boyle family of Cork. She is the mother of three sons, two of whom remain in England.

Mrs. Nancy Ann Barger, who lives near Williamsport, Pa., is 107 years old. She lost her husband in the war of 1812 and two sons in the civil war. For 86 years after her husband's death she lived, as she still lives, in a log house which he built. She has the best garden in the neighborhood and does her own housework.

Mlle. de Richelieu, whose engagement to Count Edouard de la Rochefoucauld, a descendant of the epigrammatist, has just been announced in Paris, is, through her mother, of Hebrew blood and a great-niece of Heine. Her father was a direct descendant of the famous Duc de Richelieu. The prospective bride's mother is now the Princess of Morocco.

THE ROYAL BOX.

The empress of Russia takes a great interest in Irish affairs and intends to begin the study of the Celtic tongue.

Emperor William of Germany has announced his intention of visiting England next summer, to be once more present at Cowes during the August yachting.

The Princess of Naples is an enthusiastic sportswoman and an excellent shot. She often takes part in shooting parties arranged by King Humbert and recently killed several boars at Castelporziano.

Queen Victoria intends to place a white marble bust of Prince Alfred of Coburg in the corridor at Windsor castle, and a similar memorial will be put up in the prince consort's mausoleum at Frogmore.

The German empress commands the famous Passewak cuirassiers, and she is not infrequently seen riding at their head as colonel and saluting the emperor, then reining in beside him to see them pass. On these occasions she wears the showy regimental uniform of white with red facings, the scarf of the order of Hohenzollern and the famous three cornered hat with large drooping heron's plumes.

JEWELRY JOTTINGS.

The tiniest of stickpins show elongated, pear shaped heads.

A timely chain pendant is furnished by a gold rimmed crystal charm inclosing a beautiful representation of the Easter lily.

Quite the latest thing in lace pins are bars in scroll, key and other conventional patterns set with numerous small diamonds.

Jeweled walking sticks bid fair to appear with the presence of spring. London has approved of them, and already women here are using the jeweled umbrellas so tightly rolled as to resemble a cane.

Sets of sleeve links, collar button and three studs, all matching, are designed for the summer shirt waist. One set noted was in round balls of pink coral, in each of which was imbedded a small brilliant.

The newest cutting of fine large diamonds for rings is in the likeness of a plump, many faceted, sparkling heart. The shank of the ring on either side of the gem is incrusted with brilliants, so that no gold shows anywhere, and the whole effect becomes light and elegant in the extreme.—Jewelers' Circular.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Glass doorknobs are handsome and more easily kept in condition than those of bronze or brass.

To clean mother of pearl, wash it with whiting and cold water. Do not use soap, for it discolors and destroys the brilliancy of the shell.

A jardiniere or pot cover should always be of simple material and unobtrusive in design. Anything at all gay or showy detracts from the charm of the plant and its bloom.

The resinous paint from lard and cottolene pails may be removed by immersing the pails in a strong solution of sal soda, bringing them to a boil and then washing in soapsuds.

A Fatal Wedding

By BERTHA M. CLAY.

Author of "On Her Wedding Morn," "Which Loved Him Best," Story of a Wedding Ring," "Between Two Loves," Etc.

"Well, pleased, if you must have it," she said, with a slight blush. "If sorrow and suffering make women wise, I am a very wise woman now."

"I believe it," he replied; "and shall do my best to make you unlearn all such wisdom."

CHAPTER XXIV.

"I SHOULD BE SO HAPPY IF IT WERE NOT FOR MY DREAM."

"I have not a wish left ungratified," said the squire that evening, while tears of happiness shone brightly in his eyes. "The dearest desire of my heart was to see Sybil your wife, Rupert; and now, thank God, it will be gratified."

"The sooner the better," said Sir Rupert. "Mine has been a long courtship, squire. It began when I was nine years old, and will only end when I die."

"I can hardly believe so much happiness can be real," said the squire. "The few last years have been such wretched ones, it is difficult to believe in the bright future before us."

"Sorrow endureth but for a time," said Sir Rupert. "Of course we shall have trials, and must bear them bravely, if God pleases to send them; at the same time I believe there lies before us an unclouded stretch of years."

They were very happy; in the dark after days they looked back upon this time in longing amaze. The news of the engagement gave universal satisfaction—every one rejoiced in it. Irene was busy and content; the squire had told her to provide everything necessary; for his Sybil, no expense, no trouble was to be spared. Sybil must have everything fitting the rank of Lady Dacre, of The Hilde.

As for Sir Rupert, he seemed to think his love best expressed by the magnificent preparations made for the reception of his beautiful bride. A superb suite of rooms was prepared for her. He traveled through London, anxious to find the most costly treasures of art for their adorning.

People smiled as day after day huge van loads of furniture, of pictures, and of statues were brought from the railway station to The Hilde. He forgot none of her tastes; he remembered every careless wish she had ever expressed. If in the years past she had said she liked or should like anything, he found it for her now. No king could have paid more gorgeous deference to the desires of a queen than he did to hers.

She had one great desire, and much against his will, he yielded. It was that they should not be married until May, when the spring flowers were blooming, and nature at her fairest. He consented, because she wished it; knowing the preparations at The Hilde would all be completed by then.

It was a golden time; the weeks and months seemed to fly by like magic. She realized then, poor child, what Sir Rupert's love was like—the love of a grand, generous man. Every night she knelt and fervently thanked Heaven that she was safely sheltered by it at last!

She tried hard to forget—but the memory of those years of unutterable sorrow came over her at times, turning her very heart sick and faint, like a frightful dream, from which she would awake shuddering, clinging to one of those who loved her.

And there were times when Irene, bending over her in her sleep, heard the faint sound of muttered prayers that she might quite forget.

The time came—the last picture was hung at The Hilde; the superb suite of rooms had received the final graceful touches; her favorite books were arranged in order—her favorite flowers, in magnificent stands—costly statues were placed in the sites prepared for them; The Hilde, in its grandest days, had never looked one-half so fair.

The large gardens presented one gorgeous mass of blooming summer flowers. Sir Rupert looked around; and even he, who thought nothing good enough for Sybil, was satisfied.

They had not been idle at Glynn. In one thing the squire yielded to Sybil's wish—he consented to allow the marriage to be quite quiet, without any grand ceremonies, fetes or entertainments.

"It was not fitting," she said; and he allowed her to do as she liked.

The wedding-day was fixed for the thirteenth of May. They were not to go abroad; Sybil shrunk from the idea. "They had been long enough away," she said. And it was arranged that in six weeks' time Sir Rupert should give a series of brilliant entertainments in lieu of any taking place at the marriage.

Everything was ready. The beautiful costume, chosen by Irene for her sister, had arrived from London, was unpacked, and lay on the bed in Sybil's room, where curious house-maids peeped in from time to time to look at it.

The castle was like a huge floral hall; and though no stranger-guests had been invited, all those within its hospitable walls had prepared most brilliant array. The large bride-cake, packed with such extreme care, came from Gunter's; and Irene looked round with thoughtful eyes, happy to find nothing had been forgotten or overlooked.

The twelfth of May dawned, the day before Sybil's wedding-day; they thought her looking very pale at breakfast time, and asked the reason why.

"She had such a strange dream," she said; "a most frightful dream, that had quite unnerved her."

The squire laughed; he could not understand any one believing in a dream.

"Here is something," he said, "which will drive all such nonsense out of your mind. This is my wedding present to my darling child. May she wear them for many happy years."

He unfastened the string of a large parcel as he spoke, and opening a morocco case, showed her a most beautiful suite of diamonds. They glanced and sparkled in their beds of soft green satin like so many points of living flame.

"There!" cried the happy squire—"there lies a king's ransom, Sybil. When my Lady Dacre, of The Hilde, pays her homage to her most gracious majesty, her diamonds will equal those worn by any peeress in England."

"You are too kind—too good, papa," she cried, kissing him. "You always did spoil me. I am so unworthy to wear them!" and then, to his surprise, she was clinging to him, weeping aloud.

"Why, Sybil," cried the squire, "what is it?"

"My dream—my dream!" she cried. "If I could but forget it, papa!"

And again the squire laughed.

"What is there in a dream which should frighten one so?"

He fastened the tiara of diamonds round her golden head, and cried out in delight at their effect.

"If Rupert were to see you now!" he said.

"He would not love me any better," she interrupted. "Oh, papa! I should be happy if it were not for my dream."

And though he thought it all nonsense, he wrote a note to Sir Rupert, telling him that Sybil seemed out of spirits and dull; and that, although it might be contrary, perhaps, to the strictest forms of etiquette, yet he should be glad if Sir Rupert would come over and spend the day with them.

"Poor child!" said the happy lover, "she is nervous and anxious."

He left the little arrangements he intended making and went at once to Glynn Castle. He never forgot the beautiful light that came into her face when she saw him. There was no need to ask if she loved him, for one who beheld knew that.

She looked pale when the flush faded, and when the squire had gone out for his morning drive he asked her what had changed her.

"I had a frightful dream, Rupert," she said, clinging to him; "and though I love you so dearly—though to-morrow is my wedding day—I feel as though some dreadful calamity hung over me."

"You are nervous," he said, gently. "Remember, my darling, though young in years, you have had much sorrow. The sorrow is part now; you have nothing but love and happiness to think of. Come out with me; when you stand in the sunshine you shall tell me your dream."

They went out into the park, where the buds were springing on the trees, the green grass was soft under their feet, birds were singing in the chestnut trees, the fragrance of white hawthorn came to them from the far-off meadows, the perfume of the violets from mossy dells.

"Now," said Sir Rupert, "the very sun is smiling on us; tell me your dream."

"It seems foolish," she said, turning to him, with that clinging, caressing touch he valued so dearly. "I can almost laugh at it in the sunshine."

"What was it?" asked Sir Rupert. "The best way to get rid of a fear is to share it with some one else."

"I will share mine with you," she said. "I dreamed, Rupert, it was just such a morning as this; the sun shining, birds singing, flowers blooming, the air golden with light, and I stood out in the midst by the side of an open grave—oh, Rupert! such a cold, deep grave! and some one—I know not whom—said I must leave the sunshine and lie down there! I can feel it now," she continued, with a shudder; "the touch of the cold earth. I was lying there, and slowly enough the earth was falling on me, and crushed the life out of me. I woke in such awful fear, Rupert! My hair lay damp over my face. What did it means, dear, that most terrible dream?"

"Nothing at all," said Sir Rupert, with a smile, "only that you were overtired or overanxious. I, myself, have had worse dreams than that."

He laughed her fears away—he talked to her of the future, that had so many happy years for them; of all they would do during those years—of duties to be fulfilled, so that their lives might be useful to those around them.

He spoke such brave, noble words, that she looked up to him again, wondering how she had ever been so blind—so foolish as to undervalue him.

There was not a shadow on her fair face as he led her back through the park. She had forgotten her sorrows and presentiments, her fears and forebodings, in her love.

Sir Rupert never left her during the day; he read to her, talked to her, and cheered her.

After dinner the squire did what he had not done since the fatal day Sybil left her home. He asked her to sing for him all the songs he had wont to care for. She sang, and the old man's head bent lower and lower beneath the weight of his happiness as he listened. He thanked God for the peace which had come to him in his old age.

Sir Rupert was obliged to retire early, for he expected the arrival of an old college friend who was to be his best man. The evening gloaming had set in, and Sybil, he thought, was tired of singing.

"Come and say good-night to me out in the garden," he said. "I can hardly leave you! Come, and let me show the night-flowers their queen!"

She laughed at the quotation, and bending over her father to kiss him, went with Sir Rupert into the garden.

WEARY OF EXPERIMENTING.

With salves, suppositories and ointments and dreading a surgical operation, scores and hundreds have turned to Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment and found in it an absolute cure for piles. The first application brings relief from the terrible itching, and it is very seldom that more than one box is required to effect a permanent cure.

FREE MEDICINES AND APPLIANCE

To any honest man who may try them a reasonable time.

If he is pleased with the result, he is to keep and pay for them. If he is dissatisfied, he has simply to return the appliance and remainder of medicine to us, and that ends the transaction without any expense whatsoever. There is no C.O.D. fraud, no deception of any nature.

Our treatment is so sure to give bodily strength, to remove impediments to marriage, to stop unhealthy losses, to bring natural development and tone to every portion of the body, and to restore to weak men the feelings and buoyancy of youth, that we gladly make this offer in good faith.

If you are interested and in earnest, write your name and address in the blank form below, cut out the coupon and mail it to Erie Medical Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

We pay Canadian duty. No delay, no exposure.

MASS MEETING HELD.

No Settlement Will Be Acceptable Except a Recognition of Equal Rights for All.

Johannesburg, June 12.—At the mass meeting of Uitlanders held here on Saturday for the purpose of confirming and supporting the proposals of Sir Alfred Milner, the British high commissioner, a resolution was adopted declaring that "no settlement will be satisfactory which does not provide for the recognition of equal Parliamentary rights for all."

President Kruger's proposals were considered wholly inadequate to satisfy the just demands of the unenfranchised; while Sir Alfred Milner's were indorsed as the irreducible minimum acceptable. The meeting was orderly and was attended by 5,000 Uitlanders. The Government issued a notice advising the enfranchised Burghers to allow the meeting to proceed without disturbance.

Oom Paul Playing His Game.

Pretoria, Transvaal Republic, June 12.—After deliberating secretly all the morning the Volksraad on Friday afternoon approved President Kruger's franchise proposals and instructed the Government to draw them up in the form of a law, which will be submitted to the Volksraad.

The Volksraad also passed a resolution of regret that the British high commissioner had not accepted President Kruger's proposals, which the Volksraad "considers in the highest degree reasonable."

The Exodus Has Begun.

London, June 12.—The Cape Town correspondent of The Daily Mail says that the expected exodus from Johannesburg has begun, and that business is at a standstill.

To Abolish Dynamite Monopoly.

Bloemfontein, Orange Free State, June 12.—It is asserted in official circles here that President Kruger will propose to the Transvaal Raad the abolition of the dynamite monopoly. While the Orange Free State is in the Transvaal, the railway company has sent all its available rolling stock to Johannesburg to be in readiness for a possible exodus of the population.

THIN GIRLS GET PLUMP

while using Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food.

There comes a critical time in the life of every woman when the bud of girlhood is unfolding into the full blown flower of womanhood. Mothers at this time should carefully guard their daughters' health, for this is a time when many a girl falls victim to insidious diseases which make life a misery.

Loss of flesh, headaches, pains in back and side, nervousness, irritability, dull eyes and a pale, sallow complexion, these are the symptoms that warn you to use Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food.

The blood is impoverished and the nerves require nutrition. Nature must have assistance and there is no better way to help nature than by using Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food. It is a food for blood and nerves, and creates rich, red blood, solid flesh and new nerve tissue. The color will return to the cheek, the brightness to the eye, and increase in weight will tell of solid advance in health.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food, 50c. a box. At all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

The Pugnacious Sparrow.

The English sparrow (Passer domesticus, or common house sparrow) is the champion lightweight of the feathered species. Indeed Professor Palmer says, "We do not know any bird or animal enemy which will do the English sparrow much real hurt." They are also the champion breeders, a single pair being able to rear 24 young in one year.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool Wheat a Shade Higher—U. S. Prices Advance Generally for All Options—The Prices.

Liverpool, June 12.—Wheat futures were steady and unchanged to ¼d per cental higher on Saturday.

Chicago, June 12.—The wheat market recovered itself to some extent on Saturday and there was a general advance in prices. The July option rose one cent, the September delivery 1⅜c and the December future 1¾c. Crop reports from the American wheat fields are improving, and another bearish influence is found in the continued large deliveries of wheat.

THE ODORLESS

CREMATORY CLOSETS.

I have been appointed Sole Agent for the Odorless Crematory Closet manufactured by the Crematry Closet and General Heating Co., of Hamilton.

This Closet has found a place in many of the best homes in the province, and all who have used it cannot speak too highly of its merits. Medical men speak of it from a sanitary point of view, claiming that, if health is any consideration, no home should be without one. Here are some of the

TESTIMONIALS

Alliston, March 1st, 1898.

I have had one of your "Crematory Closets" in use now for several weeks and am glad to be able to say that I have found it entirely satisfactory in every respect. I have not been able to detect the slightest odor from it at any time and would not be without it. I am sure it must prove a great convenience to people in the country and in towns where water is not obtainable.

Yours respectfully, JAMES CONWAY.

Sheddon, February 28th, 1898.

I have used it for some time and find it perfectly odorless. It is a long felt want and I believe it will become very popular especially in rural districts, towns and villages where wells are so frequently contaminated by the ordinary closets. I am, yours, etc.,

DIRECT FROM SURPASSINGLY SPLENDID TRIUMPHS AT MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK

SPECIAL NOTICE—These are the same great shows, the same gigantic aggregation, the same colossal combination that so startled the metropolis of the country by its overwhelming magnitude, its comprehensive completeness, and its veritable avalanche of novelties and floodtide of innovations when it inaugurated its tour of this season at the Madison Square Garden, New York City. Its tremendous triumph was attested by the unanimous and unqualified praises of the press and plaudits of the people, and patronage only limited by the capacity of the largest temple of amusement in the world.

SPECIAL NOTICE—EXTRA!!—It is hereby promised without reserve, and the promise will be faithfully kept, that the programme of the shows to be presented in this city will be absolutely and exactly the same, man for man, horse for horse, animal for animal, feature for feature and detail for detail as the exhibition that so completely conquered the mighty metropolis.

EXTRA SPECIAL NOTICE—EXTRA!!!—The prices for the great consolidation in New York were as high as $2 per seat. Here only the usual prices charged by merely ordinary shows will be asked. No advance over usual prices in spite of the double shows.

LAKE AND RIVER.

Movements of the Steamboats on the Otonabee and Rice Lake.

Four steamers were moored at the Wolfe-st. wharf on Saturday. They were the Eclipse, North Star, Beaver and Rainbow. A large number of passengers from the points on the river and Rice lake came up on the craft.

The North Star brought up the Coldsprings brass band excursion. There were about 250 on board the boat and scow. The Beaver had about 35 from Gore's Landing. The Eclipse brought about 40 from Harwood and points on the river.

The Rainbow brought about 15 passengers from Birdsall's.

The water in the river and lake is over a foot higher than it was this time last year.

All the steamers were well loaded with freight on their return trip, the purchases of the excursionists.

Mr Wilbert Harris, proprietor of the North Star, reports that the Star will lay up the last week in June as he contemplates putting a new compound boiler in her. He will start his regular daily trips from town on July 3rd.

The Eclipse had a successful excursion to Idyl Wyld on Friday under the auspices of Beaufort Union Sunday school. An excursion was also run per Eclipse to Hastings on Thursday by the Bewdley Baptists. They had a big crowd.

The rains of the week have raised the water in Rice lake fully eight inches.

The City of Peterborough will run her first trip this week, taking down the annual farmers' excursion from Peterborough to Jubilee. The Eclipse will run on the same day from Keene and immediate points, and the other steamers will carry passengers from Hastings, Harwood, Bewdley and other places.

The Eclipse is towing up a scow load of hogs to-day.

A moonlight excursion under the auspices of the Sons of England will be run down the river per Eclipse on Tuesday evening.

A large quantity of pipe was shipped down to Idyl Wyld on Saturday to be used in the fittings of the new hotel.

Have You Thought of It?

For four thousand years or more the world groaned, suffered and fumed about its corns, for there was no positive relief—no certain and painless cure until Dr Scott Putnam gave to the world his great corn Extractor. If there is suffering now it is a result of carelessness, for the remedy is at hand? Try Putnam's Corn Extractor. It is sure, painless and prompt. Beware of substitutes. AMONG THE CHURCHES.

Items of Interest Gathered From the Different Congregations

GEORGE ST.

The music throughout the day at George-st. church was specially interesting in character. The Rines Bros., who have lately come to town, assisted the choir at the morning service. The duet entitled "Blessed Jesus," was rendered by Rines Bros. with fine effect, with guitar accompaniment. During the offeratory a trio was rendered by Rines Bros. and Mr. Walden. The voices blended in perfect harmony and the effect was very fine. The evening anthem was "Messiah is King." The duet was taken by Misses Annie and Clara Billeghem in good voice. During the offertory a Gospel solo entitled "Trusting in the promise of the Savior" was sung by Mr. Walden.

CHARLOTTE ST.

Specially delightful music marked the services at Charlotte-st. church yesterday. The programme for the song service in the evening had been arranged with great care and excellent taste and no pains were spared to produce the music effectively. The result was all that could be desired. Every number was rendered faultlessly and all were heard with the most sincere pleasure by the congregation. All the selections were both beautiful and of high standard. The choir had the able assistance of Miss Myrtle Hendron, of Lakefield. Miss Hendron shows great improvement since her last appearance here, both in voice and method, and her numbers were beautifully sung. Dudley Buck's beautiful anthem "Rock of Ages," was one of the finest numbers of the evening. Mr. Crossley's sermon at the evening's service was on hymns, he treating a number of the old favorites in interesting style.

The music for the morning was:—

Anthem—Seek ye the Lord—solo by Miss Hendron and obligato solo by Mr. A. L. Davis.

Offertory—Solo, "Never Alone," by Miss Hendron.

For the evening it was as follows:—

Anthem — "Lead Kindly Light" — Schnecker—Solo by Miss F. Hall.

Duet — Forever with the Lord — Gunod—Miss Hendron and Mr. Davis.

Hymns — Lead Kindly Light, One Sweetly Solemn Thought, Depth of Mercy.

Anthem—Rock of Ages — Dudley Buck—Solo taken by Mr. A. L. Davis.

Offertory quartette — The Flower Land—Misses Hendron and Stephens and Messrs. Squires and Skitch.

ST. LUKE'S.

The Lord Bishop of the Diocese will conduct a confirmation service in St. Luke's church at 8 o'clock this evening. All seats are free and the public is cordially invited to attend.

ST. PAUL'S.

Large congregations attended at St. Paul's yesterday. The music by the choir was excellent. At the morning service Miss Ethel White sang a solo, Gray's "Song of Paradise." She possesses a pure, sweet voice and the solo was well sung. At the evening service Messrs. Crane, Mein, Shelton and Dawson sang a quartette. The anthem of the evening was "Hark, Hark, My Soul," with solos by Miss Montgomery and Mrs. Mein.

Spain's Greatest Need.

Mr. R. P. Olivia, of Barcelona, Spain, spends his winters at Aiken, S.C. Weak nerves had caused severe pains in the back of his head. On using Electric Bitters, America's greatest Blood and Nerve Remedy, all pain soon left him. He says this grand medicine is what his country needs. All America knows that it cures liver and kidney trouble, purifies the blood, tones up the stomach, strengthen the nerves, puts vim vigor and new life into every muscle, nerve and organ of the body. If weak, tired or ailing you need it. Every bottle guaranteed, only 50 cents. For sale by James Lynch, Druggist, Hunter-st., Peterborough.

The use of the Workingman.

To the Editor of the Review:

Sir,—While we all sympathize more or less with our fellowmen, the striking trackmen, it seems to me that the great problem of the hour is not how are we to secure justice for the workingman, but how to make him regard himself as a man with a right to life, and not as a slave grateful for the means of living. I recognize that it requires a generous soul to pull out of the slough a slave that spurns the helping hand, but then remember that the workingmen have votes and by sheer weight of numbers keep you in constant peril of being dragged into the festering pit of slavery in which they perennially wallow and ever wallow deeper. Remember that if we ourselves escape, we have no guarantee that our children, who are dearer to us than ourselves, may not be dragged in beyond all our power to save them. Self perservation is the first law of nature, and this law must operate in the case of the workingman. Hence, while he continues to eternally vote his own destruction, he must be made to save himself by some, intelligence higher than his own present state of mental cultivation fosters. This being so must not then the controlling intelligence be of that nature which makes for justice and freedom instead of that which makes for degrading pauperism and slavery? Do not therefore raise any despairing cry, but cultivate the genius of that higher intelligence which in turn will conquer the suicidal pervisity of the working man, and unknown to, if not in spite of, himself, shall make him stand erect in mind and body free. An intelligent knowledge of the principles of the single tax, operating with the force of the sledge-hammer blows of the workingman through the means of his ballot would soon accomplish his emancipation and railroad employee's strikes and agitations arising from corporate tyranny would be a thing of the past.

With thanks for space in your estimable journal, I remain yours truly,

Is the baby too thin?

Does he increase too slowly in weight?

Are you in constant fear he will be ill?

Then give him more flesh. Give him more power to resist disease. He certainly needs a fat-forming food.

Scott's Emulsion is just that food. It will make the baby plump; increase the weight; bring color to the cheeks, and prosperity to the whole body. Thin children take to it as naturally as they do to their milk.

TO INSPECT G.T.R.

Reported That Government Engineers Are Going Over the Road to See the Trackmen Equipment.

Hamilton, June 12.—Chairman Pole says: "The Government engineers are going over the G.T.R. to-day to see how the road is equipped with trackmen. In this district reports from all points round Hamilton are all in one key. No one returned to work here; same in Toronto; reports from points west and north to the same effect; none returned to work.

"Hamilton Trades and Labor Council are arranging to pay men on strike a weekly allowance, the gifts of the generous Hamiltonians to help the striking trackmen. The public sympathy at all points is intense. Mass meetings to-night at Brantford, others to follow at Fort Erie, Stratford, London, etc."

Montreal, June 12.—There is nothing new with regard to the Grand Trunk strike.

Mead Sent for Trial.

Kingston, Ont., June 12.—William Mead, Gananoque, arrested by G.T.R. detectives on Friday night and accused of being a leader of 150 rioters against men sent to that point to do track work, was before Mayor Ryan on Saturday for hearing. Detectives McLaughlin and Crowe testified as to Mead's actions, and he was sent to Gananoque for trial. Mead said he was innocent.

Car Strike at Cleveland.

Cleveland, O., June 12.—The motormen and conductors of the Cleveland Electric Railway Company declared a strike at 4 o'clock on Saturday morning, tying up the entire system, including the Euclid, Wade Park, Cedar, Central, Scoville, Wilson, Broadway, Jennings and Brooklyn Lines.

President Bryan announced that no more conferences would be held with the company unless the officers seek out and treat with the union. The fight is over the recognition by the company of the employes' union, which is a part of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employes of America.

Labor War at Buffalo Again.

Buffalo, June 12.—Three hundred freight handlers employed in the Erie freight house struck on Friday last for an advance of one cent an hour in wages. They were getting 14 cents and demanded 15 cents. Yesterday a meeting of the Freight Handlers' Union was held and a sympathetic strike of all the men employed inside of the freight houses was ordered for this morning. This will bring out 1,000 men and will virtually throw three times as many out of work. The officials at the different freight houses say that the demands of the men will not be acceded to, and there the matter rests.

Good Thing for the Men.

Detroit, Mich., June 12.—The final conference between the representatives of the iron and steel manufacturers and the iron and steel workers accepted the wage scale for iron and steel workers as fixed by the recent convention of the Amalgamated Association. This means a general raise of 25 per cent. for some 45,000 men employed in the iron and steel manufacturing industries.

REV KANNAWIN CALLED

To the Vacant Pastorate at Omemee and Mount Pleasant.

The congregation of Omemee, Mt. Pleasant and Lakevale have extended a call to Rev. Wm. Kannawin, B.A., of Sherbourne, Ont., to their pastorate, made vacant by the resignation of Rev. J. U. Tanner, B.A.

The stipend is $800, with four weeks holidays. The call will be presented at the next meeting of the Peterborough Presbytery to be held in St. Andrew's church on Tuesday, July 4th.

It is expected that Rev. Mr. Kannawin will accept the call.

Do You Mean It?

Do you really want to be rid of your rheumatism or are you only growling from habit? The straight way to be rid of rheumatism is to take Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure. Mr. Thomas Simmons, of Chaffey's Locks, Ont., Steamboat Engineer, suffered with Sciatic Rheumatism for two years. Four bottles of Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure cured him completely. This preparation is taken internally. 50 cents a bottle, containing ten days' treatment. For sale at all drug stores.

Matchmaking in Japan.

"There exists in Japan, among some of the classes, a certain custom of hiring a midwoman, nakoda or professional matchmaker, in order to make an engagement between a couple," writes Onoto Watanna in The Ladies' Home Journal. "It often happens that a family will desire an alliance with another family with whom they are not intimately acquainted. Then are the services of the professional matchmaker invaluable. To be successful in such a profession one must never be known as such to the family she desires to court. Very often nakodas and midwomen follow this profession for years and yet are not known as such save to those who have employed them.

"Most of the matchmakers are very honest, and it is their duty to discover all the good and bad points of the couple and point them out to the parents. They give good advice and do everything possible to promote the happiness of the pair. They travel back and forth to the homes of the young people, who are entirely ignorant of their motive, carrying compliments and presents and trying in a delicate manner to work on their sentiment."

The West Huron Protest.

Goderich, June 13.—The trial of the West Huron election petition began here yesterday afternoon before Judges Osler and Rose. Joseph Beck is petitioner, and the Hon. J. T. Garrow respondent. The election in question was held on the 8th of December last, and Garrow's majority was 45.

Most of the afternoon was taken up in giving what is called "organization" or "agency" evidence.

Van Van Norman, nightwatchman at Wingham, gave some account of the midnight expedition made by the now celebrated Capt. Sullivan, or Roberts, just before the election, to see doubtful voters. He was in part corroborated by a boy who accompanied the mysterious "Cap" on his nocturnal ramble. The court adjourned till 9.30 to-day.

Three at a Birth.

Blackstock, June 13.—There was born on Saturday last at the home of George Wilson, township of Cartwright, near the village of Blackstock, two boys and a girl. The mother of these triplets is now the proud possessor of nine children. She is a woman of small stature, and usually weighs about 120 pounds, the daughter of William Graham of the township of Manvers, being a twin herself. Mr. Wilson is a man of medium size, usually weighing about 175 pounds, and is a farmer. At the time of writing the mother and three little ones are all doing well under the care of Dr. W. A. Fisher. The total weight of the children is 18¼ pounds.

Tobacco Growers Find a Market.

Windsor, Ont., June 13.—Essex tobacco raisers have at last found buyers for their product. The Empire Tobacco Co. of Granby, Que., gave a contract for the erection of three large warehouses at Kingsville some time ago. The first was completed last week and immediately filled. The prices vary from 4c to 6c per pound. Work is progressing on the other two buildings, and they will soon be ready for the reception of a large quantity.

Christian Scientists Held for Trial.

Buffalo, June 13.—George H. Kinter, a Christian Science healer, and James C. Saunders, charged with manslaughter in the case of 7-year-old Ralph L. Saunders, the son of the latter defendant, who died of pneumonia at the residence of Capt. Semple at Fort Porter, while under Kinter's care, were held yesterday by United States Commissioner Robins for the United States grand jury.

PROHIBITION IN MANITOBA.

Premier Greenway Has Practically Promised It.

He Had Voted for Prohibition, the Votes Showed the People Wanted It, and the Government Would Pass Prohibitory Legislation as Far as It Can—At Present This Means "No Licenses to Sell."

Winnipeg, June 13.—Premier Greenway made an unexpected announcement yesterday afternoon. A prohibition deputation to the number of five or six hundred waited on him in the legislative chamber of the Parliament Buildings. The speakers were: W. R. Mulock, Q.C.; W. W. Buchanan, late editor of The Templar, Hamilton, and Rev. Leonard Gaetz, president of the Methodist Conference. They asked for the greatest measure of prohibition the Government was willing to give.

Mr. Greenway, in reply, made a short but important speech. He remarked that the deputation had said they did not want ante-election pledges, but he had this to say, he had voted for prohibition, and votes taken in this province showed the people wanted it. When in Ottawa he had endeavored to get concurrent legislation in connection with any action taken by Manitoba. Failing that, Mr. Greenway pledged that the Manitoba Government would pass prohibitory legislation to the fullest extent of its power. This means no licenses to sell. Mr. Greenway did not mention when the law would be passed. The House meets on Thursday.

250 TO 500 DEAD.

Cyclone in Minnesota and Wisconsin Causes Tremendous Loss of Life—New Richmond Wiped Out.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 13.—A message was received at the Wisconsin Central offices here late last night from Stevens Point, from Mr. Horn, the division superintendent of the Wisconsin Central at that place, in which he says: "At 8.45 to-night we got a message from Robertson of the Omaha, via Marshall, saying that a cyclone had struck New Richmond about 7.30, killing and wounding from 250 to 500 people. We have started a special train with surgeons."

A Terrible Night.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 13.—A special despatch last night to The Tribune from Stillwater, Minn., says: "This was a terrible night for New Richmond, the village being almost wiped out of existence by one of the most severe cyclones that ever visited that locality. It carried ruin and death in its path. The news of the disaster was brought here by a travelling man, who was stopping at the Nicolet House in New Richmond when the cyclone struck. He saw the funnel-shaped cloud as it came up the principal street and took refuge in the basement of the hotel, which was completely wrecked, together with every other business house in the city."

West Elgin Particulars.

Toronto, June 13.—Particulars containing 252 charges were filed yesterday at Osgoode Hall in the West Elgin petition against Donald MacNish and Sheriff Brown. Lawyer T. W. Crothers of St. Thomas filed the particulars. John G. Nunn is petitioner. The trial takes place June 26 at St. Thomas.

Did the Boy Eat Poison?

Brantford, Ont., June 13.—Richard Helterman, a 6-year-old son of Ald. Helterman, died yesterday afternoon with about half an hour's illness. It is supposed the little fellow had eaten some poisonous weed while playing. Two physicians were called, but could not save him.

Sacrificed an Indian Girl.

Victoria, B.C., June 13.—Miners who have just reached here from the headwaters of the Stewart River tell of a number of deaths from starvation among the Indians. Chief Oaros sacrificed an Indian girl, and the troops have gone from Selkirk barracks to arrest him.

$47,900,487 TO RUN CANADA

The Laurier Government Wants $2,647,628 at Once.

Mr. Fielding Not at All Backward in Calling for Funds—Supplementary Estimates Brought Down on Monday Bring the Total Up to a Very Heavy Figure Even for Prosperous Canada in Her Growing Time.

Ottawa, June 13.—In the House yesterday, Mr. Belcourt introduced a bill to amalgamate the Ottawa, Arnprior & Parry Sound Railway Company with the Canada Atlantic Railway Company. The bill was read a first time.

In reply to Mr. Taylor, Hon. Mr. Paterson said that "a Mr. E. S. Bresby," formerly employed at Boston and Portland as a railway customs officer, when he was paid by the railway company, had been appointed to a similar position in Skaguay, where he was paid $4.50 a day by the railway company.

In reply to a question by Mr. Foster, asking what were the working expenses of the Intercolonial for May and June, 1898, the Minister of Railways and Canals (Mr. Blair) gave the figures for those months under the various heads, showing the increased cost of the road on account of the extension into Montreal.

In reply to a question by Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper as to who tendered for supplying militia clothing, Hon. Dr. Borden gave the names of the tenderers.

Toronto and Georgian Bay Canal.

Hon. N. Clarke Wallace, in moving for copies of all petitions, applications, correspondence, charter and reports with reference to the Toronto & Georgian Bay Ship Canal Company, spoke of the importance of the project. Next year will see a depth of water of 14 feet from the upper lakes via the Welland and St. Lawrence Canals to the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the Atlantic Ocean, and, in view of the large increase in traffic, the Government could now afford to pay some attention to other canal routes.

The motion was agreed to without any expression of opinion from the Government.

Beet Root Sugar Industry.

Mr. T. S. Sproule (East Grey) moved: "That having regard to the large importations of sugar into Canada for home consumption, amounting to 239,670,028 pounds in the year 1898, at a cost of $4,-368,956, and that it has been demonstrated beyond a doubt that the cultivation of the sugar beet in the Dominion is not only feasible but is being successfully grown in many parts of the country at present: Therefore, in the opinion of this House, in order to stimulate the farmers of Canada to engage in the growth of this valuable product and also to encourage the establishment of beet root sugar factories, a bounty should be offered for all beet root sugar manufactured in the Dominion during the next ten years, and that the machinery necessary for such plant not made in Canada be admitted free of duty."

The mover made a strong speech in favor of his motion. The debate was continued by Sir Charles Tupper, Mr. Fielding and Hon. Sidney Fisher, who opposed the motion.

The motion was declared lost.

After recess several private bills were advanced a stage, and Dr. Sproule's bill to amend the Criminal Code, 1892, with respect to combinations in restraint of trade, passed through committee and was read a third time and passed.

The House then proceeded with further consideration of Mr. Poupore's motion with reference to the Ottawa & Georgian Bay Canal, speeches in favor of the canal being made by Messrs. Belcourt and Klock and against by Dr. Sproule, who held that the Toronto route was by far the cheapest and best.

Mr. Casey moved the adjournment of the debate, and the House adjourned at 11.40.

THE SUPPLEMENTARY ESTIMATES.

Hon. Mr. Fielding Asks for $2,647,628 for Dominion Expenses.

The Daily Review.

TUESDAY, JUNE 13, 1899.

WITH its large electric works Peterborough should be the home of the horseless vehicles.

TORONTO has no advantage that Peterborough cannot give to the manufacturers of horseless carriages, while Peterborough has already the electric works here, and is thus in better position to begin operations.

DOMINION Day this year falls on Saturday, and there is talk in some places of postponing the observance of our national holiday until Monday. Here are two opinions on the subject:—

Dominion Day falls on Saturday this year, but as that is a market day and generally the best in the week for merchants, the City Council might find it popular to proclaim the vacation for Monday instead. Other places have decided to celebrate on Monday, and all interests in Toronto would be as well or better served by adopting the same plan. —Toronto Star.

That's very Dundas. In the long ago Hamilton used to do that sort of thing, the people imagining that they would lose something if they kept a holiday on Saturday. But people buy and sell so much goods in the year, and it makes not the slightest difference if a Saturday be taken out of business.—Hamilton Spectator.

The REVIEW is inclined to agree with the Spectator. If all observe the day, as all business men will, who can be the loser in a business sense? By all means let our national celebration be held on the same day all over the Dominion.

HON. John Dryden in his nice-sounding letter demands as a condition of his acceptance of the nomination again in South Ontario that the party managers shall "set their faces against corruption." In the face of the exposures made in the election courts this is rather insulting to the South Ontario Liberals. The election trial showed that an organized gang of Government agents from outside had operated in South Ontario. These men were not brought in by the local party managers, but were sent in by the party managers at headquarters. Hence, comes the insulting and weak point in Mr Dryden's letter. Instead of demanding local managers to "set their faces against corruption" let him demand that the headquarters of his Government be purified and that they cease to send out the organized paid agents to hoodle and corrupt. Now, John, if you are sincere in your demand for a pure campaign deal with the men at headquarters and shut off the outside hoodlers, who are the paid agents of the Government, spending Government money and sent into the riding to corrupt it. Go to the fountain head, Honest John, if you are sincere.

EVENTS is a publication at Ottawa that is ably edited. It has given both political parties hard raps, and has been fearless in its criticisms. It is edited by a Liberal, but this Liberal has not closed his eyes to the hypocrisy of the Liberal leaders, and hence Liberals of the new school have not looked upon him with the warmest favor. However, let the editor state his own case. He says:—"Events is accused of being a Conservative journal, and its critics found the accusation on the fact that I have at times been severe in my criticism of the Government. If every man, yea, if every Liberal, who does not agree with the Government of the day is to be classed as a Conservative, then, indeed, is the Conservative party in a sound and healthy condition. For my part, I am not a Conservative, and I have no faith whatever in the leader of the Conservative party to-day, and have no wish to see him returned to power. The chief fault with the Liberals is their brazen hypocrisy. They profess to be doing what they have not done, and to have fulfilled the promises on which they obtained power and have trampled under foot. We know, for instance, that they have appointed member after member to office, and we have their own word for it that the thing is scandalous. Yet when their own opinions of such practices are applied to themselves, they cry out that the man who uses them is an enemy—a Tory. Again, they were to have decreased expenditure, but they have increased it to an alarming extent. Thirty-eight millions of expenditure was a crime three years ago—every good Liberal was expected to believe it then. Now forty or fifty millions is a virtue, and because a good Liberal of three years ago cannot swallow himself so rapidly as his leaders can swallow themselves, he is a Tory. The thing is so outrageously unreasonable that it seems a waste of time and space to refer to it, but unless I keep pounding it into them that I have no quarrel with the Liberals, as Liberals, and no partiality for the Conservatives because they are Conservatives, I shall be constantly misrepresented. The Liberals of the opposition days professed a virtue which came very near to my ideal of what a Government should be; the Liberals in power do not live up to their profession, and that is where the difficulty comes in."

Farmers Visit the Model Farm.

Toronto, June 13.—Three farmers' excursions were carried to the Guelph Agricultural Fair yesterday by the Grand Trunk. From Centre Simcoe 500 took in the trip, and a big crowd also went from Lambton County. To-day the Farmers' Institutes of East and West Victoria will go from Omemee and other points. The C.P.R. will convey 600 from West York on Friday, the excursion being from points between Kleinburg and Cooksville.

A Sure Reward When Paine's Celery Compound is Used.

The Only Medicine That is Able to Call a Halt to All Wasting and Dangerous Diseases.

If sick people—young and old—acted with greater promptness and decision, suffering, agony and misery would be vastly reduced.

To delay the work of regulating and bracing the nerves and purifying the blood is a serious mistake.

When the blood is sluggish, impure and poisoned, when the nervous system is unbalanced, when digestion is deranged, and the appetite poor and variable, be assured your condition is critical and calls for instant attention before the hot summer weather brings many added dangers.

At this time the use of Paine's Celery Compound will do a marvellous work for every rundown, sick and diseased man and woman. Its life-giving work first commences with the blood, which is made clean and pure; then the nerves are quickly set in order, digestive vigor is fully restored, the appetite is made natural, sleep is refreshing, and the despondent heart is made light and joyous.

It is well to bear in mind that Paine's Celery Compound owes its origin to the most distinguished physician that this North American continent ever produced, and his great and worthy prescription is publicly endorsed by our best medical experts.

If all disheartened sufferers will start promptly with Paine's Celery Compound they will be astonished and delighted with the speed with which this wonderful remedy is able to call a halt to wasting and dangerous diseases. It is now making tens of thousands well and strong for the hot and sickly summer weather.

$47,900,487 TO RUN CANADA

were laid on the table by Mr. Fielding. They amount to $2,647,628, of which $433,919 is capital, consolidated fund $1,893,515, railway subsidies $6300 and unprovided items, 1897-98, $194,900.

This estimate, added to the main estimates already brought down, brings the whole amount asked for this year to $47,900,487.

Money Already Spent.

A greater part of these votes is for money already spent or obligations incurred. Amongst the most noticeable votes are $10,000 additional for printing Dominion notes, $21,342 civil government, most of which is for contingencies and a few increases of salaries; for penitentiaries, $11,000 more is required, amongst the items being $2000 gratuity to Mrs. J. H. Metcalfe on account of her husband's retirement from the wardenship of Kingston Penitentiary, $344.50 balance to Mr. Bilbeck, secretary of St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary Commissioners.

For legislation $22,000 more is needed, amongst the items being $8000 for reporting and printing debates of the Senate, and $8000 for publishing debates, Commons; $275 for the widow of the late D'Alton McCarthy; $3000 for expense of committees. Under head of quarantine there is a further vote of $5000 for salaries and expenses in connection with tuberculosis, and $13,000 more in connection with hog cholera and sheep scab to pay for slaughtered animals.

Militia and Defence.

For militia and defence $100,280 is asked as capital account for annual ammunition and $274,290 on account consolidated fund for the following:

Annual drill, $125,000; salaries and wages of civil employes, $9000; military properties, $35,000; stores, $30,700; clothing, $20,000; transportation, $15,000; miscellaneous and unforeseen, $10,000; Royal Military College (including an increase of pay to Prof. Worrell), $200; and to Prof. Charlesand, $200; $10,400; purchase of Hamilton rifle range, $8000; to complete payment for London property $1000; for Defence Scheme Committee, $6100.

For Railways.

For railways, $35,400; for intercolonial, for rolling stock, $30,000.

For canals, $242,000, of which $212,000 is for deepening the north channel and $8500 for deepening the St. Pierre River.

These items are chargeable to capital.

Railway Subsidies.

Under railway subsidies $530) is asked to pay an old claim of the New Brunswick Central Railway.

Sixty thousand dollars more is asked on capital for River St. Lawrence ship canal.

For public works chargeable to income $123,900 is asked, amongst the vote being: Montreal public buildings, work done, $2000; Quebec Citadel, work done, $2230; public buildings, Ottawa, repairing, etc., $30,982; public buildings, Ottawa, photographic establishment for Department of Agriculture, $7000.

General Repairs.

General repairs—Harbor, Quebec, $5000; Kincardine harbor, balance due contractor, $6284; new dredging plant, $15,000; additional amount for surveys, $10,000; under ocean and river service, $10,000 is asked for repairs to Stanley and Lansdowne, and $20,000 further amount for maintenance Dominion steamers, etc.

For lighthouse to replace lightship at Upper Traverse, St. Lawrence River, $20,000; for purchase of a steamer and equipment for buoy service in St. Lawrence, between Quebec and Montreal, $21,500; for rebuilding dwelling in the Observatory grounds, Toronto, $2000.

Entrusted for Fisheries.

Under fisheries $15,941 is asked, amongst the votes being $1800 balance expenses Behring Sea arbitration at Paris, and $1000 each to Frank Peters and E. V. Bodwell for distributing the Behring Sea award.

For Mounted Police $50,000 more is asked "to complete the service of last year."

Yukon Expenses.

Under the head of Yukon Provisional District $1,130,054 is asked, some of the larger items being: Administration of justice, $15,750; Mounted Police, "to complete service for year," $386,000; to pay troops, erect barracks, etc., $220,000; improvements Yukon and Lewis Rivers, $25,000; postoffice, amount for service, $108,600.

A Graft in This.

The following is the last item under Yukon Provisional District, and is a very peculiar one, which would doubtless require a good deal of explanation. On the face of it it appears as if the officials had been hard up and had collared every cent of cash they could lay hand to, and the Government now asks Parliament to whitewash the crowd and the Government itself. Here is the item: Sum required to recoup the consolidated revenue fund for the amount of customs revenue, $100,976.37, and of Dominion lands revenue, $23,427.48, used without le[illegible] by officials charged w[illegible] the Government of the Yukon provisional district, in carrying on the different services under their control, viz.: Northwest Mounted Police, $144,077.19; public works, $15,836.90; customs, $15,565.32; government of the Yukon provisional district, $24,924.44. "Authority is hereby given for the passing of such entries as may be required to bring these amounts into the accounts of the financial year ending 30th June, 1899, (and the members of the Queen's Privy Council for Canada, and the officers and persons who authorized or made the expenditure as aforesaid, are hereby indemnified and exonerated from all liability by reason of having used or authorized the use of the abovementioned revenues, without due legal authority, and all expenditure as aforesaid shall be held to have been lawfully made."

For relief of distress by hurricane in West Indies, $25,000 is added, and $14,000 more is needed for the International Conference at Washington.

Land and cable telegraph lines of the sea coasts and islands, of the lower rivers and Gulf of St. Lawrence and Maritime Provinces, including cost of working steamer Newfield and other vessels when required for cable service work done, $10,400.

Unprovided items, 1897-98, as shown in Auditor-General's report, $194,904.

THE TRACKMEN'S STRIKE.

Men Still Confident of Winning Although G.T.R. Earnings Have Gone Up—Government Inspection of the Road.

Toronto, June 13.—Both sides tell opposing stories of the number of men at work on the G.T.R. tracks, but the men continue confident that they will win the fight.

The earnings of the G.T.R. for the week ending June 7 were made known yesterday, and show an increase of $36,606 over the corresponding period of last year. All the trains were again on time yesterday, with the exception of No. 6 from Stratford, which was 30 minutes late.

Another special train pulled out of Toronto yesterday, with a party of Government engineers on board. They will inspect the road, and see if it is in a safe condition for public travel. They will first visit the Hamilton branch, and then the main and branch lines of western Ontario.

Information Withheld.

Ottawa, June 13.—In the House last night, in reply to Mr. Clarke, the Minister of Finance said he could not at present lay upon the table the correspondence that had been asked for, and promised, with reference to the Grand Trunk strike, because he had received a demand from the trackmen in regard to their grievances, and he thought it would be inadmissable to bring down the papers pending the completion of the present and prospective negotiations.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier had an interview with Mr. Wainwright, assistant general manager, and it is stated that there is a strong prospect of a settlement.

No Change at Chatham.

Chatham, Ont., June 13.—There is not any change of importance here in the situation of the G.T.R. strike. Ten gangs of men are reported at work between St. Thomas and Windsor. This is about half the usual force.

Methodist Conference Sympathizes.

Owen Sound, Ont, June 13.—Yesterday's debate at the Methodist Conference on the trackmen's strike was again taken up, and the discussion continued until the resolution of sympathy, introduced on Saturday, was carried with one clause changed, but this does not change it in effect.

Eight-Hour Day in Force.

Spokane, Wash., June 13.—Yesterday the suspended British Columbia law prohibiting underground miners working more than eight hours out of 24 came into force.

In the Slocan the miners' union refused to accept a reduction of wages offered by the association from $3.50 to $3 for an eight-hour shift, and every big mine is closed down.

The miners' union at Nelson sprung a complete surprise yesterday, when it ordered out all its members, closing down the Athabasca, Granite and Royal Canadian mines. This leaves only the Hall and Exchequer mines working near Nelson.

Still Another Strike.

New York, June 13.—A strike of 6,000 members of the Children's Jacket Makers' and Knee Breeches Makers' Unions went into effect yesterday.

Fiend for Elliott.

Toronto, June 13.—Edward Elliott lies in Whitby Jail sentenced to be hanged for a murder done in Beaverton Nov. 12. Yesterday Lawyer Godson of Beaverton appealed before the Divisional Court at Osgoode Hall for a new trial, on the ground that the prisoner had not been sufficiently cautioned when he was examined while in custody. He did not think this evidence should have been used at the trial. Judgment was reserved.

C.P.R. CHANGES.

Board of Directors Acted on Monday—Why the Changes Were Made—What Sir Wm. Van Horne Said.

Montreal, June 13.—At the regular monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, held yesterday, Sir William Van Horne was elected chairman of the board and Mr. Thomas G. Shaughnessy was elected president. The following directors were present: Sir William Van Horne, Mr. Thomas G. Shaughnessy, and Mr. R. B. Angus, E. B. Osler, Sir Sanford Fleming, George R. Harris and W. D. Mathews.

Other Changes.

When the meeting was over, Mr. Shaughnessy authorized the statement that Mr. D. McNicoll had been appointed assistant general manager, but he added that the question of providing a vice-president had not yet been dealt with. It is believed, however, that the next vice-president of the Canadian Pacific will be no other than Mr. R. B. Angus, who is already on the board of directors.

What Sir Wm. Van Horne Said.

Sir William Van Horne made the following statement:

"The reason for the change, from a railway standpoint, was the need of providing for the enlargement of the executive organization of the company, the vast growth of its system and the wide extent of its operations having resulted in an amount of executive work quite beyond the powers of endurance possessed by any two men. As to myself, I am not cutting loose from the Canadian Pacific, and shall take just as much interest in its affairs as I ever did, but I shall now be free from every-day duties and be able to see something of the world, should I feel like it. This is my 42nd year of continuous railway work, and my 18th with the Canadian Pacific, and in all these years I have had but two short holidays, and I have felt for a good while back that I ought to free myself from the daily demands of business, and at the same time make way for the younger men. The present seems a most favorable time for such a change, for the company is in a splendid position in every way, and its prosperous future seems quite assured.

His Tribute to Mr. Shaughnessy.

"But," continued Sir William, "one of my chief reasons for asking our directors to permit me to relinquish the duties of the office of president was to secure the well-earned promotion of Mr. Shaughnessy, whose services to the company have been beyond estimation, and whom I look upon as all that could be wished for as the chief executive officer of a great corporation. He is honorable, capable, energetic and fair-dealing, and, although I have known him intimately for many years, I have never yet discovered a fault in him, unless it be injustice to himself. The warmth of my feelings towards him can only be imagined by those who know him well. The shareholders of the Canadian Pacific Company are to be congratulated on having such a man in command."

Crops in Manitoba.

Winnipeg, Man., June 13.—In the Provincial Government's crop bulletins issued yesterday the acreage is as follows: Wheat, 1,639,995; oats, 575,135; barley, 182,919; flax, 9,178; rye, 3,217; peas, 1,366; corn, 3,480; buckwheat, 83; brome, 1,990. The total acreage in 1897 was 1,248,085 acres; 1898, 2,210,942, and this year it is 2,449,078. The wheat acreage is increased almost 900,000 acres, with 9,500 more farmers in the province this year.

Roller Boat Came to Grief.

Bowmanville, Ont., June 13.—The big roller boat from Toronto came to grief near this port on Saturday night. Off Port Bowmanville Harbor the anchor line snapped in two, and the big, unwieldy craft drifted ashore and was considerably damaged. Being in shallow water it will be somewhat difficult to reach her with a tug.

WORKING WOMEN.

Women are women after all. Mistress and maid are alike in physical make-up. Both are women. Both are subject to the ills and ailments peculiar to their sex. But the servant seldom gets any consideration. She is expected to do her work even if her head does throb and a dreary, dragging, bearing-down feeling makes her wish that each step might be her last.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is made for maid as well as mistress. It makes weak women strong and sick women well, no matter what their station in life. It gives the poor working woman an equal chance with her richer sister and at exactly the same price.

The servant who uses "Favorite Prescription" at a moderate price per bottle is much more likely to get well than her mistress who calls in an expensive, local physician. If she will write plainly to Dr. R. V. Pierce, at Buffalo, N. Y., her case will have the attention of a physician who has cured more women than any one hundred other doctors and who has a record of over thirty years' successful practice. Her letter will be considered strictly confidential, will be promptly answered in a plain envelope, so that prying eyes of others may not get even a hint, and she will have the benefit of the very best medical skill without a cent of charge for it. Thousands of women have written and been cured. And by this method they have avoided the "examinations" and "local treatment" so invariably insisted upon by local practitioners and so abhorrent to every modest woman.

GOT SIX MONTHS.

Hobson Sentenced to Six Months in the Central Prison.

At the Police Court this morning Hobson sat in the prisoner's box. It was not Hobson the shining hero of the Merrimac, but Benjamin Hobson. He was charged with having obtained $5 from Mr G W Hatton by fraud, by representing himself to be another man. The crime amounted to larceny. He pleaded guilty to the charge, pleading drunkenness as an excuse. The Magistrate stated that they had examined Hobson's record and found that he had been convicted of different offences in Hastings county. He then imposed a sentence of six months in the Central Prison on the prisoner.

STARTLING CONFESSIONS.

Show that 25 per cent of men and women suffer the tortures of itching piles. Investigation proves that Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment has never yet failed to cure itching piles, and all of these men and women could end their sufferings at once by using it. Scores of thousands have been cured by this treatment. Everybody can be cured in the same way.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Mr. G. H. Williamson addressed the men's meeting in the Y.M.C.A. Sunday afternoon. He took as his subject, "Echoes from the Grand Rapids Convention." He touched on the speakers and delegates who represented not only Canada and the United States but also Norway, Cape Colony, Japan, and Hawaii. He touched on some of the points made by the speakers on army and navy work, forces which destroy young men. Does the all round work of the association increase its religious usefulness? Bible study and International work. As this was the 33rd international convention and the most successful of them all, even an outline of the address was helpful and interesting.

At the convention the sum of $8,400 was raised to send six secretaries as missionaries for Y.M.C.A. work in foreign lands. During the convention Mr. John Penman gave a banquet to the Canadian delegates present, of whom there were about thirty.

Spain's Greatest Head.

Mr. R. P. Olivia, of Barcelona, Spain, spends his winters at Aiken, S.C. Weak nerves had caused severe pains in the back of his head. On using Electric Bitters, America's greatest Blood and Nerve Remedy, all pain soon left him. He says this grand medicine is what his country needs. All America knows that it cures liver and kidney trouble, purifies the blood, tones up the stomach, strengthen the nerves, puts vim vigor and new life into every muscle, nerve and organ of the body. If weak, tired or ailing you need it. Every bottle guaranteed, only 50 cents. For sale by James Lynch, Druggist, Hunter-st., Peterborough.

DEFEAT OF PREMIER DUPUY.

He and His Colleagues in the Ministry Have Resigned.

President Loubet, Who Is Thought to Have Foreseen the Ministry's Downfall, Accepts the Resignations—Gossip as to the Composition of the New Cabinet—M. Dupuy Says Luckier But No Braver Men May Be Called.

Paris, June 13.—The Chamber of Deputies was crowded yesterday, and there was considerable suppressed excitement when M. Vaillant, Socialist, interpellated the Government on Sunday's "police outrages" at the Pavilion d'Armenoville, and demanded to know the instructions the Government gave the police in regard to the Socialists, who, he said, defended the republic against the reactionaries.

The Premier, M. Dupuy, replied, saying the Government acknowledged the services of the police, adding that the maintenance of the Government was impossible without public order. (Applause from the Centre and protests from the Leftists.)

The text of M. Ruan's motion was as follows: "The Chamber is determined to support only a Government resolved to defend vigorously republican institutions and to secure public order and passes to the order of the day."

The Chamber adopted the motion by a vote of 321 to 178.

The Ministers forthwith left the House amid immense excitement, the Socialists shouting "Vive la Republique!"

The Ministry Resigns.

Premier Dupuy has tendered his resignation to the President.

Loubet Forsaw Dupuy's Overthrow.

President Loubet has accepted the resignation of the Cabinet Ministers and has requested them to remain their offices until their successors are named. It is presumed that Loubet will summon the presidents of the Chambers to-day in order to consult with them the formation of a new Cabinet.

On leaving the Chamber, M. Dupuy observed to a group of Deputies in the lobby: "We hand over the business to luckier but not to more courageous men."

The general impression is that the crisis will not last beyond Wednesday, M. Loubet having foreseen, it is said, the fall of Dupuy at an early date, having already considered the composition of the new Cabinet.

WHO STOLE THE DOCUMENTS?

Wicked Newspaper Men Got Hold of Hague Conference Secrets.

The Hague, June 13.—The drafting committee of the arbitration committee of the peace conference met yesterday and continued the discussion of the arbitration schemes. The delegates, not having received additional instructions from their respective Governments, the committee adjourned until Friday without further progress.

The discussion as to furnishing the newspapers with abstracts of the proceedings developed a remarkable scene. M. Bernaert, head of the Belgian delegation, on rising to speak, addressed M. de Staal, and in the most pointed manner said that publicity might as well be granted, as certain documents had been published in the newspapers. "Some of these documents," he said, looking M. de Staal full in the face, "were stolen, I have heard, from M. de Staal, but I cannot believe this, feeling sure that the visitors to the Auddolen Hotel are all far too honest to stoop to theft."

M. de Staal received these remarks in silence.

They Will Give Out the News.

The Hague, June 13.—At an adjourned meeting of delegates to the peace conference, under the presidency of M. de Staal yesterday morning, it was resolved to furnish the newspapers with statements of the proceedings of the committees, as well as of the plenary sittings.

Wolseley's Warlike Work.

London, June 13. — Commander-in-Chief Wolseley has been busy for several days and evenings at the War Office, preparing for eventualities in South Africa. The effective lists of the first-class reserve have been prepared, and transport for the first army corps has been provisionally arranged. The officers on furlough have been warned to hold themselves in readiness to return to their regiments. The general trend of news, however, is more pacific.

It Will Cost Lipton $40[illegible].

London, June 13. — It is said the America's cup challenger Shamrock will not be launched until the beginning of July, the progress of work on her being retarded by the fact that the designer, W. Fife, jr., is suffering from influenza. According to estimate, the contest, from first to last, will cost Sir Thomas Lipton about $400,000. Sir Thomas Lipton has invited Lady Russell of Killowen, wife of the Lord Chief Justice of England, to christen the Shamrock.

Gone to Seek the Pole.

Christiania, June 13.—The Stella Polare, with the Duke of Abbruzi, nephew of the King of Italy, and his Polar expedition on board, sailed at 11.30 yesterday morning from this port.

DAVIS SHOT HIMSELF.

A Well-Known Resident of Niagara-on-the-Lake Attempts Suicide.

Niagara-on-the-Lake, June 13.—William Davis, a well-known resident of this town, attempted suicide last night by shooting himself. He placed a 32-calibre revolver behind his ear and fired the bullet into his head. It cleared the base of the brain and fractured the jawbone, and caused other serious injuries, which may prove fatal. The act was committed at the home of his sister, Mrs. Hartley. Davis is a single man and is about 40 years of age. He is fairly well off, and is said to have suffered a financial reverse lately, but this is not confirmed. He has been unwell for a month or more, but his relatives can assign no cause for his rash act.

Old Lady Burned to Death.

Halifax, June 13.—The residence of Isaac Paris at Goldenville was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. His mother, a blind woman, 90 years of age, perished in the flames, though every possible effort was made to rescue her.

Suicide of Albert Fisher of Galt.

Galt, Ont., June 13.—Albert Fisher, aged 17 years, and who was employed in the country as a farm hand, committed suicide here Sunday evening by hanging himself in his mother's barn. Young Fisher had come to town to spend Sunday with his mother, and complained all day of very severe pain in the head. Deceased's father committed suicide about eight years ago, by stabbing himself.

Mr. Tarte in Buffalo.

Buffalo, June 13.—Hon. J. Israel Tarte, Minister of Public Works for the Dominion of Canada, is in Buffalo looking over the harbor, the breakwater and other places of interest. He arrived here on Sunday on his yacht, John Pratt, from Port Colborne, and has with him his daughter, his private secretary and two engineers. Mr. Tarte made an inspection of the harbor yesterday.

Twenty-Eight Lynchings This Year.

Washington, June 13. — The Afro-American Council, in an appeal to Governors to prevent lawlessness, say that since the first of this year there have been 28 cases of lynching in the south.

JACKETS AND CAPES.

Prevailing Fashions In Out of Door Apparel.

Jackets and capes are both worn and will continue to be worn for some time. The jacket does not replace the cape, because each has its different uses. The jacket is for general wear; the cape accompanies more elaborate toilets. Short capes of silk, satin, embroidery, lace, chiffon and guipure are seen in all varieties and colors and are lavishly trimmed. The more extravagant ones have often a hat and parasol to match.

The ornamentation of cloth capes consists principally of applications and incrustations of cloth and straps, pipings and folds of cloth or satin. White predominates among these trimmings, with attractive results. Two or more shades of the same color are also employed and are always pleasing—for example, dark brown, light brown and beige or dark gray and light gray. As for embroidery upon cloth, it is quieter and less elaborate than it was last year and is used alone or in combination with lines of stitching or bands of satin.

The picture shows a charming costume for a girl from 14 to 16 years old. It is of silver gray satin cloth, the skirt having two slant circular ruffles around the foot, bordered with stitching. The open coat, which has a short basque, is made with large horizontal stitched plaits and has a row of large pearl buttons on each side of the front. The circular pelerine is bordered with stitching, and there are stitched cuffs at the wrists of the tight sleeves. The chemisette is of white surah, the cravat of white lace, and a plain linen collar is worn. The hat of gray straw is trimmed with a drapery of white tulle and a fan of lace. JUDIC CBOLLET.

PARASOLS.

They Are Gayly Colored and Richly Embroidered.

Parasols are this year less fluffy than they have been in previous years, but are no less costly and elaborate, for frills are no more expensive than the rich applications and embroideries now employed. The covering is usually of silk or satin plainly stretched, but covered with incrustations of lace or guipure or mos. Embroidered moire covers are also seen. Parasols of plain or embroidered mousseline de soie are not by any means entirely abandoned, however. They are trimmed with ruches, shirring and lace and are carried with elaborate costumes. There are also one or two bizarre novelties, noticeable because of their oddity, but hardly to be reckoned as a fashionable influence. Among them may be be mentioned a parasol covered with a large plaid silk, having blue and white bars on a straw ground. In the middle of each square is a chou of white mousseline de soie with a gold button in the center. Another novelty is the circular covering, which is all in one piece instead of being cut in breadths with a seam down each rib. Among plain parasols are solid colors in rose, cherry, blue, lilac and green, very attractive stripes in black or color and white and small plaids. The last are also employed for sun umbrellas, which are seen in the usual reds, blues and browns besides, with cases to match. Natural wood handles, stained green or black, are favorites.

A picture is given of an attractive vest or plastron to be worn with an open coat or bolero. The middle plait of white satin is studded with gold buttons, and on each side of it is a revers of white satin with an embroidered border falling in coquilles. Outside the revers is a ruffle of white mousseline de soie, and the collar is also of mousseline de soie. The cravat of black or colored velvet is fastened by an ornamental buckle. JUDIC CBOLLET.

THEIR FIRST BABY.

Showing How Easy It Is, Sometimes, to Be a Doctor.

The doctor had come in late from a hard day's work, driving from place to place, feeling pulses, giving encouragement and writing prescriptions. He had eaten his supper at 11 o'clock, made a last call on a man with the grip and had turned into bed dog tired.

It was long after midnight when the telephone bell rang. The doctor was sunk in a deep sleep. Again the bell rang out sharply and impatiently and continued to ring, but the doctor did not hear it. At the other end of the hall a pale student pored over his book. He was studying law. The bell disturbed him, and he at length decided to answer it and end the ringing. He took down the receiver and shouted, "Hello!"

"Is that you, doctor?" asked an anxious voice.

"Yes. What do you want?" replied the student, who knew the doctor was tired and did not wish to wake him unless the case was serious.

"This is Potts, doctor; H. J. Potts. My wife wanted me to call you up to tell you that the baby wouldn't play with his blocks tonight and seemed kind of heavy and dull. What do you suppose is the matter, doctor? My wife is very uneasy."

"Hum," said the student, trying to think of something to say. "Is the baby feverish?"

"No, I don't think he is," replied the voice, "but he sneezed once tonight."

"Ah," said the bogus doctor, "that's a good sign! If he sneezed and is not feverish, he is all right. You might give him a little water if he wakes up and cries. If he gets too warm, take some of the covers off."

"All right, doctor; much obliged! Sorry to have had to disturb you, but my wife wouldn't go to sleep until I called you up. Good night."

"Ah," thought the pale student, "that's $2 for the doctor. Wish I could earn it as easily."

When he told the doctor about his deception the next day, he was thanked, and Mr. Potts' bill was swelled by $2, one-half of which went to the pale student.

"It's their first baby," explained the doctor, "and they're doted to death to pay any price for it. I couldn't have given Potts any better advice myself."

Now you know how easy it is to be a doctor—sometimes.

Ships' Anchors.

Ships' anchors cost from 5 to 7 cents a pound, so that a 4,000 pound anchor, which would be a very large one, would cost, even at the lowest price, about $300, and the big ship that required an anchor of that size would carry two of them. The two big anchors carried by a ship of, say, 9,000 tons would weigh from 4,800 to 5,000 pounds each.

The anchors of merchant vessels are painted or tarred. Whenever the vessel is painted the anchors are painted also to preserve them from rust. But on yachts and various smaller pleasure craft galvanized anchors are used, which, of course, do not require painting. Galvanized iron anchors have been made for torpedo boats in the navy; but, generally speaking, their use is confined to pleasure craft. A galvanized anchor costs nearly as much again as one not galvanized.

The galvanising preserves the anchor from rusting and makes it more sightly in appearance, and it prevents the anchor from dripping rusty water and so staining and marring decks or other surfaces with which it might come in contact.—New York Sun.

IMPROVING THE PARKS.

Both Victoria and Central Parks Being Improved and Beautified.

Mr. Cobb and staff are engaged in putting in the summer plants in the beds at Victoria park and the display this year promises to be one of great beauty.

The band will hereafter use the smaller stand in the lower part of Victoria park for the Friday evening concerts. It will be wired for electric lighting and some changes will be made to give the seating accommodation that is required.

The improved appearance of Central park is being much noticed and favorably commented upon. Alderman Langford, chairman of the Parks committee, has devoted considerable attention to this heretofore neglected spot and has produced good results. Citizens residing in the vicinity especially are well pleased and its neat and trim appearance and the large number who pass daily must be gratified that it is no longer allowed to lie as it was.

A suggestion has been made that is worthy of consideration. It is that a band stand be erected in Central park and that some of the bands play there occasionally. The level nature of the ground is favorable to good music and the block is well lighted. There is plenty of room around for the people to promenade and enjoy the music and any concerts given there would be sure to be largely patronized.

An Interesting Relic.

Alderman McWilliams has secured for the Victoria museum another curio of interest. It is an Indian smoking pipe, of metal, and was discovered near Beaverstone on the French river. It was presented to Mr. McWilliams by Mr. J. F. Crumley. Its appearance would suggest that it has figured in many a peace gathering of the Indians and had assisted in promoting the proper feelings of goodfellowship among the copper colored chiefs. It is a valuable addition to the already large and rapidly growing collection of Indian relics in Victoria museum.

Personal.

Mr H E Cowle, son of Mr Wm Cowle, town, and a former employee of the Review office, has been appointed city ticket clerk for Detroit for the Canadian Pacific railway. The appointment is an important one, and his Peterborough friends will congratulate Harry on his success.

PETERBOROUGH HAS CLAIMS.

Some time ago it was announced that it had been decided to manufacture horseless vehicles in Canada, and that the work of manufacture was to be done at the works of the Canadian General Electric Company in Peterborough, the gentlemen interested in the electric company being also the principal promoters of the horseless carriage enterprise. Toronto, always anxious to gather to itself all that promises to add to its industrial importance, is making a push to secure the horseless vehicle industry. Yesterday the Toronto World editorially said:

We are given to understand that the horseless vehicle is about to invade Toronto with a rush. It is said that either Peterborough or Toronto will be selected as the site of the factory for constructing them. We trust that the gentlemen who are behind the enterprise will not side-track Toronto, as they did on the occasion of the establishment of the electric light works at Peterborough. The men who organized the Canadian General Electric Company were Torontonians, and their loyalty to this city should have induced them to locate their factory in Toronto. It is practically the same people who have organized the horseless vehicle company. The least they can do to square themselves with Toronto is to see that the new factory is located in Toronto. Peterborough has no advantage to offer which cannot be obtained in Toronto. It is Toronto capital that is going into the business, and it is Toronto that should be selected as the site for the factory.

No one will blame the World for urging Toronto's claims, but Peterborough's claims should not be lost sight of and should be urged with all possible force and vigor. The electric works here afford the facilities for the manufacture of the horseless vehicle, and Peterborough's liberal treatment of the electric company when it located here will not be overlooked. It is not necessary to urge Peterborough's claims in a newspaper article. Mayor Davis and the aldermen, and President Carnegie and the Board of Trade are the proper mediums through which Peterborough's claims can be advanced and our interests looked after. Our case should be safe in their hands.

Annual Outing.

The public will bear in mind the annual Farmers' excursion and picnic to Jubilee Point, to be held on Thursday, the 15th inst. The steamer City of Peterborough will leave her wharf at 8 o'clock in the morning, and as this will be the opening excursion of the season everything will be done to make it interesting to the general public as well as to farmers. Addresses will be delivered by prominent speakers. A first class orchestra will be in attendance. Return tickets only 50 cents. 2d137

Had a Falling Out.

At the Police Court this morning two citizens were present to argue out a dispute. While passing on Aylmer-st. one had jostled the other and this led to a quarrel. Each alleged disorderly conduct by the other, but the Magistrate gave them a lecture on politeness and dismissed the charges.

THE HIGH COURT.

The Session Concludes After the Hearing of Only One Case.

The non-jury sessions of the High Court opened yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock and closed at 4.30. There was only one case for hearing, that of McLaughlin, suing as executor of the will of the late Thos. Hutchinson of Cavan, made in 1895, against Larmer, of Millbrook, to whom the farm was deeded on certain conditions after the making of the said will. The plaintiffs charged that in this transaction Thos. Hutchinson was unduly influenced by Larmer and they asked that it be set aside and also that a will made by Hutchinson in 1898 by set aside on the ground of improper influence. Chief Justice Armour presided. Mr. B. B. Osler argued the case for the plaintiff and Mr. Wallace Nesbitt for the defendant. Several witnesses from Millbrook and Cavan were examined chiefly on the mental capacity of Larmer. The evidence was somewhat contradictory and after hearing a number of the witnesses the lawyers held a consultation and agreed upon a settlement. The farm in question is to be sold and all costs are to be paid out of the proceeds. Larmer is to get half the net proceeds, the infants represented by McLaughlin are to get $1,000, and the residue to be divided between them and the other legatees of the will of 1895. Larmer is to have possession till Nov. 1st and all charges of fraudulent conduct are withdrawn. F. H. Holland, Cobourg, and B. B. Osler, Q.C., Toronto, for plaintiffs; A. A. Smith, Millbrook, and Wallace Nesbitt, Q.C., Toronto, for defendants.

The case apparently aroused great interest in the Millbrook section for there was a big attendance in the court of people from that neighborhood.

The case of Cox vs. Clarkson was withdrawn.

A New Watchmaking Establishment.

Mr. B. Tate, formerly of St. Catharines, father of Dr. J. T. Tate, of the Tate Optical Co., has opened a store in the Opera house block where he will carry on the making and repairing of all kinds of fine watches and jewelry. Mr. Tate is an expert in his line and makes a specialty of this line of business, also the repairing of all fine surveyors and surgical instruments. He comes to Peterborough well recommended by the most prominent people of St. Catharines. Mr. Tate has had a long experience, having been employed in the best shops in England, United States and Canada for a number of years having charge of the large watchmaking department of Dent's, in London, England. His Peterborough work shop will be equipped with all the modern tools necessary to construct an entire watch. Mr. Tate has made the watchmaking a practice and study for the past thirty-five years, and by the numerous testimonials which he has we feel safe in saying that his work will give entire satisfaction. The firm's name is J. G. Tate & Co.

STREETS, BRIDGES AND PUBLIC WORKS

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR BRIDGES ON DALHOUSIE AND SHERBROOKE STS.

G. T. R. will be Asked to Re-construct the Bridge over the Creek on Smith-st.—Streets that are to be Repaired and Improved.

The Council held a short meeting last evening. Mayor Davis presided. The following report of the Board of Works, presented by Alderman Langford, acting chairman, was adopted:

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:—

Gentlemen,—Your Board of Works beg leave to report and recommend as follows:—

1. That Mrs. E. Hall be permitted to open Queen street under the supervision of the Town Engineer to make connection with the drain on that street, and that if she so desires the Town Engineer inform her of the amount she should pay under the agreement the Town has with Mr. Knox.

2. That the Clerk be instructed to write the Grand Trunk Railway Company to put a crossing over the railway track ditch at Mr. W. J. Martin's.

3. That the petition of the Toronto Savings and Loan Co. and Joseph Mills for a granolithic sidewalk on Hunter street on both sides from Park street to Belmont avenue being sufficiently signed be granted.

4. That John street be graded and a sidewalk constructed on it from old material, the cost not to exceed $10.

5. That William street be graded the cost not to exceed $10.

6. That a sidewalk be constructed on Farnell street from old material, as asked by M. Ranger and others.

7. That the Engineer be instructed to repair Smith street west of the Grand Trunk Railway track.

8. That Messrs. Kennedy & Wade be paid the balance coming to them on their sewer contract in accordance with the terms of their contract if the engineer finds everything connected with the work satisfactory.

9. That the Engineer be given authority to put in crossings where urgently needed.

10. That, provided a petition sufficiently signed is presented, the sewer on Gilmour street be continued to St. Joseph street.

That the engineer be authorized to procure from Mr. J. A. Aylmer the use of an engine for the stone crusher for a few days at $3 per day for the engine and engineer.

12. That a grant of $10 be made to the Dickson Company towards the cost of extending the drain on London-st. to the raceway.

13. Your committee authorized the Town Engineer to accept the amended tender of the Hamilton Bridge Works Company for the bridges over the creek on Dalhousie and Sherbrooke streets, at the price of $1,075, for the two.

14. Your committee also authorized

CONFIRMATION AT ST. LUKE'S

THIRTY-TWO CANDIDATES CONFIRMED BY THE BISHOP OF TORONTO.

An Impressive Service—The Candidates Congratulated by Rev. J. C. Davidson and Addressed by Rev. H. Symonds.

The Bishop of Toronto brought a very successful and encouraging visit to the churches of Peterborough to a conclusion last night when thirty-two candidates, nineteen females and thirteen males, were confirmed in St. Luke's church.

The church was crowded with a reverent and attractive congregation, and the service was, as is usually the case with confirmation services, deeply impressive. The Bishop addressed the candidates upon the subject of the temptations of the world, which spring out of the pleasures, and business and sorrows of life.

Appropriate hymns were sung by the choir and congregation and after the offertory Mrs. Potter sang Gounod's "The King of Love My Shepherd Is."

After the service the candidates returned to the schoolhouse, where the Bishop shook hands with them. Rev. J. C. Davidson then congratulated the candidates, expressing his good wishes for their welfare. Mr. Symonds then reminded them that they were now full members of the church, and exhorted them to be loyal to it. A large number of the congregation was present, and all the confirmees then joined some one or other organization of the church, the Women's Auxiliary, the Young Women's Chapter of the Guild and the Young Man's Chapter.

His Lordship returned to Toronto this morning.

Concreted the Pens.

The cattle pens on the market square have been laid with a concrete floor and it is expected that the old nuisance will be no longer felt. At the Council meeting last night the payment of the cost of the work was authorized.

OPENING OF THE COUNTY COURT.

HIS HONOR JUDGE WELLER REFERS TO THE G.T.R. STRIKE.

An Expression of Sympathy Might Assist the Men—The Government will likely Have to Interfere—A Light Docket, Only Two Charges of Theft in the Criminal Department.

The spring sessions of the County Court opened this afternoon at one o'clock before Judge Weller. The cases are not of great interest. There was a good attendance. Among the outside lawyers present was Mr. E. A. De Vernet, Toronto. The Grand Jury was empanelled as follows:

D. D. Henderson, Otonabee, foreman; P. Bullock, Smith; Thos. Curtis, Havelock; Robt. Darling, Smith; Robert Duff, Smith; Rich. Girvin, Dummer; A. Gillespie, Peterborough; Jos. Gosselin, Peterborough; John Halpin, Peterborough; Thos Perdue, Ennismore; W. W. Smith, Anstruther; Wm. Dickson, Douro; Wm. Davidson, Peterborough.

Judge Weller in addressing the Grand Jury stated that there was only one person confined in gaol on whom they would be required to report. This was Thos. Maguire, charged with theft. There was also one person out on bail charged with the same offence and they would be required to examine the particulars in this case also. The Judge explained the law of theft.

Judge Weller then touched upon various matters, one of interest being that of the G.T.R. trackmen's strike. This has excited great interest among the public. While it is impossible to determine any remedy until all facts are known, yet the fact seems to have struck the public that the sum paid the trackmen for their services are too small. The Grand Jury was at liberty to offer sympathy to the men. It is satisfactory to know that the strikers have conducted themselves so well. An expression of sympathy might strengthen the hands of the men. The probable result of the whole difficulty will be that the Government will have to take action in some shape or form. Public opinion will compel this.

The Grand Jury then retired to prepare their presentment and regular business was taken up.

WEDDING BELLS.

A Couple of June Weddings Celebrated at St. Peter's Cathedral.

The sun shone brightly this morning for the wedding of Mr. Thos. L. Gosselin and Miss Cathleen Cadigan, daughter of Mr. John Cadigan, which took place at St. Peter's Cathedral at seven o'clock. Both young people are of town and have many friends here. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Scanlon.

The bridesmaid was Miss Lizzie Cadigan, sister of the bride, while Mr. A. A. Picard assisted the groom. The ladies were charmingly dressed.

O'KEEFE—CONDON.

At eight o'clock Ven. Archdeacon Casey united in the bonds of matrimony Mr. Patrick O'Keefe and Miss Margaret Condon, Parry-st. Miss Matilda Condon, the bride's sister, was bridesmaid, while Mr. Wm. O'Keefe acted as best man. A large number of the freinds of the contracting parties witnessed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Keefe left on the 4.45 C.P.R. express this afternoon for a wedding trip to Toronto. On returning they will take up their residence in Peterborough.

The bride received a large number of handsome gifts. The groom was also remembered by his friends, a number of his fellow employees in the porcelain works waiting upon him last evening and presenting him with a handsome clock and address of esteem.

A JUNE WEDDING.

Nuptials of Miss Fanny Grundy and Capt. Augustus, of Kingston.

A quiet nuptial event but one of considerable interest and of a pleasing nature took place this morning at ten o'clock at the residence of the bride's mother, 519 Water-st., when Miss F. Grundy, youngest daughter of the late Henry Grundy, was united in the bonds of matrimony to Capt. Webster Augustus, of Kingston. A number of friends witnessed the ceremony which was performed in the parlor by Rev. J. C. Davidson, rector of St. John's.

The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Richard Spencer Grundy, of Toronto. Miss Nellie Grundy, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid. The groom was unattended. The bride wore a handsome travelling gown of grey and blue.

The bride was the recipient of a large number of handsome gifts from friends.

Capt. and Mrs. Augustus left at noon via G.T.R. for the east. They will reside for the summer at Prescott.

Rev. W. B. Smith Married.

Rev. W. B. Smith, who made many friend in Peterborough while supplying the Charlotte-st. pulpit during the absence of Rev. Mr. Crossley some time ago, was wedded at the Avenue road Methodist church, Toronto, on Wednesday last, to Maud Carras Haney, daughter of Dr. and Mrs R. A. Haney, of Cobourg. Chancellor Burwash, D. D., officiated. Peterborough friends will extend congratulations.

Idyl Wyld Summer ....Resort

RICE LAKE, ONTARIO.

THIS Beauty and Beautiful Island Summer Resort will re-open for the season of 1899 on June 12th, under entirely new and up-to-date management. Important new additions to the building and hotel equipment have been effected. Twenty new Bed Rooms, Sitting Rooms and Waiting Rooms have been added, and entirely refurnished in modern style. Broad balconies extend around each of the two new stories erected, affording picturesque views of the surrounding scenery.

The cuisine will be a special feature—fresh meat, fresh fish, fresh eggs, milk and butter, as well as wholesome vegetables and fruit in abundance, necessitated by a robust appetite, sharpened by the ozone and continual breeze of this idylic spot.

Good bass and maskinonge fishing are along the shore and lake. No charge for Americans fishing—no, permits required. Boats and competent guides furnished. The island steam launch "Outlet Queen," can be engaged for cruising and sailing parties. The Park is open for excursion parties, whether public or private. Tables and Seats for picnic parties are all over the ground in shady groves. Come and spend your summer vacation at Idyl Wyld, and for your life don't miss it.

Daily boat and mail to and from Harwood, Peterborough and Hastings. Parties can be met at either point when requested.

Special rates for families and for the season. Rooms may be secured in advance by letter, telephone or telegram addressed to B. S. MacDONALD, Manager, Harwood P. O., Ont.

TOKEN OF ESTEEM.

Miss Edwards, of Warsaw, Remembered on the Eve of Her Wedding.

At the Baptist church, Warsaw, on last Thursday evening a pleasing event took place, when Miss Mabel Edwards, one of the most popular young ladies of the village, was presented with an address of esteem and a handsome silver card receiver. Mr. Walter Kidd read the address and Mr. Herb Kidd made the presentation. Miss Edwards has been connected with the choir for some time. She leaves on Friday for Lethbridge, Alberta, where she is to marry Mr. John Nicol, formerly of Norwood.

The address was as follows:

Warsaw, June 8th, 1899.

Dear Miss Edwards,—We, the friends of the Warsaw Baptist church have met upon this occasion of your departure from us, in order in some small degree to reveal our appreciation of you, and to express our sincere regret at your departure. We are conscious of the fact that our loss will be serious.

We shall miss you in our social fellowship. Your beaming countenance, tender spirit, and winsome ways have ever made us happy, and have bound us to you by ties which now gives us pain to sever. As a church we have ever been blessed by your presence, for your Christian life, although possessing becoming modesty, yet as the semi-hidden rose has cast its fragrance on all about it, making us feel happier and better because of your being with us.

The service you have rendered in our choir has been invaluable and it is with much reluctance that we part with you.

Yet as we do so, we wish you the choicest blessing God can bestow, and pray that your future shall be as radiant with brightness; that you shall find in your new home and circle of friends the fullest happiness.

And now our dear sister, as we part with you we ask that you will please accept this small gift, not for its intrinsic value but as a little memento of our affection for you.

Signed on behalf of the church,

EMMA KIDD,
FLORENCE KIDD,
GRACE KIDD,

CHAPTER XXV.

"BEFORE HER STOOD THE HUSBAND SHE BELIEVED TO BE DEAD."

They stepped out of the long, open French windows into the quiet lawn, where the tall trees looked like giants in the gray, golden gloaming. They passed through the quaint old gate that led to the gardens.

"You shall not go any further, Sybil," said Sir Rupert; "we will say good-night here. Think, darling, before the sun sets again you will be my wife!—mine to shield from care, to surround with love!"

Long afterward he remembered the expression of her face as she raised it to his—the love and tenderness. They were standing in the prettiest spot in the garden, in a tangled wilderness of laburnum and lilac-trees; the golden blossoms drooped over them; the tall-plumed lilacs bent their fragrant heads proudly; round the trunks of the trees clung all the flowers Nature loves—the purple violets, mignonette, climbing roses and carnations. It was a very paradise of sweets.

"The flowers have seen their queen," he said, laughingly; "and I must see that her majesty catches no cold. We will say good-night, sweet Sybil. Mind you wake to-morrow fair and blooming as the roses will. By the way, what has become of the presentiment?"

"It has gone away," she replied. "But while I live, Rupert, I shall never forget that terrible dream!"

"Sybil," said Sir Rupert, seriously, "you must promise me one thing. From to-night you must banish all gloomy thoughts—say farewell forever to all sad memories; live for me and my love! See, darling, we have a long life before us. A man's most beautiful dream could not imagine a fairer one. Lay your hand in mine, dear one; promise me that from this time forward you will bury the past."

She clung to him, laying her bright head on his breast.

"I promise," she said. "All my life shall prove to you my love!"

He clasped her in his arms, and even as he did so he started, for the figure of a man crossed the lawn, and went toward the hall door.

He made no remark, thinking it was some one on business for the morrow. The very thought of the day warmed his heart.

"I shall hardly know The Hilde," he said, "with a mistress to rule it. King Francis was right—a house without ladies is like a garden without flowers. I shall love my home so dearly Sybil, when you are in it."

He had talked of saying "Good-night;" he did not wish to keep her out, lest she should take cold; but when did lovers ever learn the word "Farewell?" The golden gloaming had given place to the dull, gray night; the last bird had gone to rest when Sir Rupert managed to say the word.

As he passed along the lawn she saw one of the servants from the castle go up to him hurriedly. They stood for some minutes talking earnestly. As Sir Rupert had done before her, she thought it was some business of the glorious morrow.

She walked back slowly to the drawing-room window. It seemed to her that a strange, deep hush had fallen over everything; the summer air was listening; the leaves had ceased to rustle in the wind—a hush, such as comes at times before a storm.

His kisses were warm upon her lips, the clasp of his hand still clung to her, as she opened the window and passed from the still spring night into the room she had left so lately.

Irene stood there, and the gathering darkness hid from Sybil the awful pallor on her sister's face.

"Where is papa?" she cried, her clear, happy voice ringing on the quiet air. "I left him here."

"He is in the library," replied Irene, and Sybil wondered why she spoke in such a quiet whisper.

"I will go to him," she said. "I did not half thank him for those superb diamonds this morning; I will thank him now."

"Not now," said Irene; "he—he is busy. Come to your room with me, darling; I want you."

"How strangely your voice sounds here, in the dark!" said Sybil. "Oh, Irene! on this, the last night in my old home, I ought to go down on my knees to ask your pardon for all my faults. Will you be as good and kind to me when I am Lady Dacre as you are now?"

"For Heaven's sake, hush!" said Irene, hoarsely. "Come to your room, Sybil; I want you there."

She wondered at her sister's words, and still more at the way in which she hurried her through the hall and up the grand staircase. She wondered at the hush which had fallen over the house; and once—but it must have been fancy—she thought she heard a shrill, stifled cry from her maid's room.

Then, in the brilliant light of her own apartment, her eyes fell on Irene's face—so awful in its pallor. She turned to her eagerly.

"You look so cold and ill, sister; let me nurse you to-night."

Then her glance wandered again to the pretty toilet, lying all ready. Like a child she sprung forward and kissed the beautiful dress.

"My wedding-dress!" she said. "Irene, I shall keep it as long as I live; but I shall never wear it again. I shall keep it to be buried in."

With a desperate grasp Irene took it from her hands.

"For mercy's sake—hush!" she cried again.

Then the wondering eyes turned on her with pained, anxious inquiry.

"Forgive me, my darling," said her sister; "I believe I am mad."

And she wept in such passionate agony that Sybil grew pale as death as she listened.

"Irene," she said, slowly, "there is something the matter. What is it?"

But she only clasped the girlish figure more tightly in her arms, and wept over it, as though her heart would break.

"What is the matter?" she repeated. "Why do you cry so? Tell me, Irene, is my dream coming true."

"My darling, my darling!" moaned the elder—"if we only lay dead together!"

"You torture me," she cried. "What is it?"

Irene's agony had mastered her. She could speak no words.

"I will go to papa," said Sybil, "if there is anything wrong, he will tell me."

She opened the door, but her sister sprung after her, with a desperate cry.

"Not there, Sybil! You must not go there—it will kill you!"

"Better that than this," cried Sybil.

With rapid steps, deaf to Irene's cry, she went down the broad staircase and through the hall. The same dead silence seemed to have fallen everywhere. Her sister followed, with wild, agonizing fear in her every look.

She placed her hand on Sybil's as she turned the handle of the door.

"Come back!" she cried, hoarsely. "It will kill you!"

But Sybil flung off her grasp, and opened the door.

There was a cry of dismay. Ah, me! that the sight did not kill her where she stood. The squire sat as one paralyzed with dismay, and before him, a mocking smile on his face, stood the husband she had believed dead—Lyster Ayrton.

She uttered no cry or scream—the life-blood seemed to rush back in her heart, and then ebb away, leaving her white, cold and all but senseless. He went up to her with outstretched hand.

"Sybil," he cried, "this is a poor welcome home. I know you believed me dead, but I did not die. Have I fallen so low—and I so utterly vile that even my wife has no word for me?"

She placed her hands before her eyes, with a low cry they who heard it never forgot. She could not have touched his hand with her own if she would, for the squire stood between them.

"Do not lay a finger upon her," he said, sternly, to Lyster Ayrton. "She shall never more be wife of yours!"

"And why not?" he asked, insolently. "She is mine—I claim her—the law will give her to me."

"The law shall not!" cried the old man.

"I have never done one single thing which can justify a separation between us," he interrupted. "Ask her if I have."

The squire turned round to her. She still stood motionless.

"My darling," he said, "you will not return to him. I am rich, and I will give the whole of my substance to save you. I will expend it all to free you."

"I will aid you," said a stern voice, and turning round, the squire beheld Sir Rupert. "Neither Heaven nor earth could sanction such a deed as the yielding up of your daughter to a man like that."

"Gently, Sir Rupert," said the mocking voice; "we know where the shoe pinches. Even if I don't have her, you can't. With all due respect, let me remark that your interference is out of place."

Out of place!—and she, whom he had loved so long, and believed to be free, was to have been his wife on the morrow! No need to remind him that she was lost to him. Men have died on the rack, yet suffered less than Sir Rupert Dacre in that hour.

"She is my wife, and I claim her," said Lyster Ayrton. "Who shall take her from me? I appeal to you, Sybil. Have I ever done anything which would justify the law in parting us?"

She, the spoiled, indulged, petted child, rose then into sublime majesty.

"Those whom God hath joined," she said, "let no man put asunder." Father, I married Lyster Ayrton years ago of my own free will. I gave up all the world for him. He claims me—his claims are just. I must go with him!"

"It is madness!" cried the squire.

"It is right," she said. "If my heart breaks in the doing of it; it must be done. Remember always, I brought my own fate on myself."

They looked on her in astonishment. She who had been so delicate, so fragile, so tender of heart, stood erect and brave, no faltering in her voice, no quivering on her lips. She unclasped Irene's clinging hands, and went over to Lyster Ayrton's side, while a smile of triumph brightened his face, and the squire muttered an oath.

"It is right," she said, firmly. "No man has power to break my chain, or set me free. Until death, I am Lyster Ayrton's wife."

They were too much bewildered to speak. They had anticipated tears, cries—anything but this sublime bravery.

"Perhaps," said Irene, in a cold voice, "Captain Ayrton, before taking advantage of my sister's high-wrought feelings, will explain to us how he comes to be alive, when we—"

"Hoped he was dead," interrupted Captain Ayrton, with a smile and a bow. "I shall be happy to oblige Miss Jocelyn."

CHAPTER XXVI.

"A WOMAN MAGNIFICENT IN HER DESPAIR."

"The fact is," continued Lyster Ayrton, "I ought not to be alive. It is rather a disgrace to me under the circumstances; everything possible was done to kill me, and I really ought to have died.

"I was stabbed by a native chief and thrown aside as dead. I remember all the incidents of our expedition—the fight in the Golden Valley, the murderous blows and my own share of them. But I do not know how long I lay, left by friends and foes, as one dead. It was an Englishman who found me; a clever man; soon after he saved my life. He carried me across his shoulders through the valley and over the hills to his own clearing. For two long months I lay in his little tent, senseless and near to death.

"He might have saved a better life. He saved mine. But it was nearly a year before I was able to leave him and find my way home to Victoria. People there were all frightened at me. My old friend persisted in believing he had left me dead in the Golden Valley, and considered that my ghost was trying to impose upon him.

"I found pretty much the same kind of welcome there as I found here. My wife, considering herself a widow, had gone home, and I was left alone.

"I could not follow her, because I had no money. There seemed no need for writing; she would know that I was alive soon enough. I worked hard for some months, and here I am."

There was a minute's dead silence; then the squire said, solemnly: "You have chosen between us, Sybil—choose again. Do not be led away by a false notion of honor. Stay with me—your home is here."

"Thy home shall be my home, thy people my people, used to be the old reading of the marriage vow," said Lyster Ayrton, lightly.

The squire turned from the mocking voice with unutterable disdain.

"Choose, my darling," he said. "Think of the poverty, the misery, lying before you. I shall keep my vow. No farthing of my money shall go to that man's support."

Lyster Ayrton's face fell considerably.

"Come," he said, "let there be peace between us. I do not want any ill-will."

"Hush!" said the squire, sternly, "there is nothing in common between you and me. I have not a word to address to you."

During all this time Sir Rupert's eyes lingered with despair on the pale, brave face he loved so well. He said no word to influence her; but now he stepped forward.

"Sybil," he said, "as your father's friend, let me speak. I do not think duty calls you to go with this man."

"I am his wife," she said, slowly. "What can part us but death?"

Looking at her, they thought the parting would soon come.

Once more the old squire interfered appealingly, his voice broken and his chest heaving in agonizing emotion.

"Stay with us, Sybil—stay with us," he cried.

"Let me end this scene," she said. "My husband claims me. I go with him. I shall be as one dead to you, father—to you, Irene—to you—"

She hesitated as her eyes fell upon Sir Rupert. She could not look at him remembering how they had parted one short hour ago. A bitter cry rose to her lips.

"Let me go," she said; "I can bear it no longer."

They crowded round her—the gray-headed father, the weeping sister, and the brave man whose wife she was to have been on the morrow. They prayed to her to remain in words that would have turned a heart of stone; but she never faltered or wavered in her resolution. In that hour she rose supreme—a woman magnificent in her despair.

"There need be no hurry about it," said Lyster Ayrton.

"I can not hope," he continued, looking wistfully at the squire—"I can not hope that the hospitality of Glynn will be extended to me; but there is no need for my wife to leave her home at this hour of night."

"I go with you now," she said, steadily. "I would suffer anything rather than remain another night under my father's roof. Irene," she continued, turning to her sister, "let what is mine be sent after me. Comfort my father after I am gone."

"A mad, foolish proceeding," said Lyster Ayrton. "A long walk to the station and a journey to London are not the most fitting things for you to-night, Sybil."

Maryland Lotteries.

A gentleman in Baltimore interested in antiquarian research has made a collection of old lottery tickets which gives interesting testimony as to the development of public morals. Most of his tickets were given out by Maryland lotteries, but quite as large a collection could undoubtedly be made in other states. Four of the tickets he holds are in the Washington monument lottery, which was authorized by the legislature and was not given up until 1824.

As early as 1753 a lottery was advertised to build a wharf. The drawing took place April 30, 1764. Ten years later one was undertaken to build a market house in "Baltimore Town," and for "buying two fire engines and a parcel of leather buckets." In 1789 a yearly lottery was authorized to aid the city expenses. Other objects for which money was raised in this way were parsonages, church bells, circulating libraries and gristmills.—Youth's Companion.

Prominent Citizenship.

"I suppose you are one of the prominent citizens of the place?" said the stranger.

"No; to tell the truth I am not," answered the prosperous looking man. "I am just about half a one. I sit on the platform occasionally at a public meeting, and I subscribe to some of the funds and occasionally can be found among the guarantors of an opera season. But I am not a full fledged prominent citizen yet. Sometimes I skip one or two of these features and in other ways show that I haven't the welfare of the city entirely at heart. And, besides that, I once consented, at the earnest solicitation of my neighbors, to run for an office in which there was neither special honor nor profit, and you know very well that no prominent citizen would ever do that."—Chicago Post.

THIN GIRLS GET PLUMP

while using Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food.

There comes a critical time in the life of every woman when the bud of girlhood is unfolding into the full blown flower of womanhood. Mothers at this time should carefully guard their daughters' health, for this is a time when many a girl falls victim to insidious diseases which make life a misery.

Loss of flesh, headaches, pains in back and side, nervousness, irritability, dull eyes and a pale, sallow complexion, these are the symptoms that warn you to use Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food.

The blood is impoverished and the nerves require nutrition. Nature must have assistance and there is no better way to help nature than by using Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food. It is a food for blood and nerves, and creates rich, red blood, solid flesh and new nerve tissue. The color will return to the cheek, the brightness to the eye, and increase in weight will tell of solid advance in health.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food, 50c. a box. At all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

The Express Killed Him.

Strathroy, June 12.—Mr. Tristram Rowe, an old resident of the township of Adelaide, was instantly killed by No. 8 express yesterday afternoon. The old man was hard of hearing. He was struck with great force and thrown quite a distance, and his body frightfully mangled. Coroner Lindsay will hold an inquest.

THE MARKETS.

Wheat Markets Wobbled—Early Advance at Chicago Was Followed by Decline—The Latest Prices.

Liverpool, June 13.—Wheat futures yesterday advanced and closed 1½d to 1¾d per cental above Saturday's final figures.

Chicago, June 13.—Wheat futures were active yesterday, opening strong and selling up 1½c per bushel above Saturday's final quotations. The rise brought out a lot of selling orders and prices fell off. The big increase in the visible helped the decline and prices closed ½c to ¾c below Saturday's last quotations.

VISIBLE AND AFLOAT.

As compared with a week ago, the visible supply of wheat in Canada and the United States has increased 1,483,000 bushels; that of corn has decreased 91,000 bushels, and that of oats has decreased 68,000 bushels. The visible supply of wheat in Canada and the United States, together with that afloat to Europe, is 68,177,000 bushels, against 66,893,000 bushels a week ago, and 66,049,000 bushels a year ago.

THE ODORLESS CREMATORY CLOSETS.

I have been appointed Sole Agent for the Odorless Crematory Closet manufactured by the Crematry Closet and General Heating Co., of Hamilton.

This Closet has found a place in many of the best homes in the province, and all who have used it cannot speak too highly of its merits. Medical men speak of it from a sanitary point of view, claiming that, if health is any consideration, no home should be without one. Here are some of the

TESTIMONIALS

Alliston, March 1st, 1899.

I have had one of your "Crematory Closets" in use now for several weeks and am glad to be able to say that I have found it entirely satisfactory in every respect. I have not been able to detect the slightest odor from it at any time and would not be without it. I am sure it must prove a great convenience to people in the country and in towns where water is not obtainable.

Yours respectfully, JAMES CONWAY.

Shaftsbury, February 20th, 1899.

I have used it for some time and find it perfectly odorless. It is a long felt want and I believe it will become very popular especially in rural districts, towns and villages where wells are so frequently contaminated by the ordinary closets. I am, yours, etc.,

MAJOR HOWARD DEAD.

Ex-Postmaster of the Town, Stenographer of the Assembly at Hastings.

Major John A. Howard, of Hastings, died suddenly in his office in that village yesterday. The Major had been unwell for some little time, but was able to go to his office and attend to his duties. Yesterday while seated at his desk he was suddenly stricken and death followed.

The deceased was an old and respected resident of Hastings and was well known throughout the district. He was the publisher of the Hastings Star for some years, and had a long and honorable connection with the Canadian militia, having served in '66. He was paymaster of the 57th Battalion until a few years ago, when he resigned. A wife and three sons are left to mourn his sudden demise.

THE LATE W. F. CHAPMAN.

Further Particulars of the Death of the Former Y. M. C. A. Secretary.

The Montreal Star of the 12th, referring to the death of Mr. W. F. Chapman, says:—The many friends of Mr. Chapman, for some years past assistant secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, of this city, will learn with regret of his death, which took place at half-past three o'clock this morning, at the Royal Victoria Hospital. His death was not unexpected, as Mr. Chapman had been confined to the hospital for upwards of a couple of months suffering from a complication of diseases induced by tuberculosis of the lungs. During the past few weeks his sufferings have been acute, and it has been feared by his physicians that he would not be long as he did. Yesterday morning, shortly after the attack, he became delirious, and in this condition he remained until the hour of his decease. The funeral will take place on Wednesday afternoon, at half past three o'clock, from the association building. Deputations will be held on Saturday evening next in the same place. The late Mr. Chapman was born near Greenwhich in 1851, and was consequently in the 48th year of his age of his decease.

RALLY OF THE ENDEAVORERS

SUCCESSFUL C. E. MEETING AT ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

Election of Officers of 4th Local Union—Splendid Addresses and Essay from the Different Branches—Notes on the Movement.

Last night the South Christian Endeavor Societies held a rally in the Sunday school room of St. Paul's church. The room was crowded and the meeting throughout was most enthusiastic. The programme was so arranged that important Christian Endeavor principles and advance movements, together with the history of the organization, were fully presented. Mr T H Martin, the retiring president of the Local Union, presided, and the following prominent C E workers took part in the programme as shown: "The History of the Movement," by Mr M W Shoebotham, of Hunter-st. Society; "History of the Local Union," by Mr B Anderson, of St. Andrew's Society; "Why Sign the Pledge," by Mr D Symons, of George-st. Society; "An Ideal C E Prayer Meeting," by Mr W J Stubbs, of George-st. Society; "The 10th Legion," by Mr J McGowan, of St. Paul's Society; "The Quiet Hour," by Rev O C Elliott, of Park-st. Society; "How to Arrange a Programme for a C E Meeting," by Mr Williamson, of the Y M C A; "A Bird's-Eye view of the International Convention to be held in Detroit," by Mr A J Johnston.

At the close of the meeting Mr Tovey, of Charlotte-st. Society, the president-elect of the Union, was presented. He thanked those present for the honor they had conferred upon him and asked for a hearty co-operation to make the work a success.

A quartette rendered by Messrs Crane, Main, Dawson and E Stetham, members of St. Paul's choir, was most acceptable.

NOTES.

The Endeavorers seem to have taken a spurt. The old-time Christian Endeavor spirit prevailed at this meeting.

Mr Williamson declared that one should expect to a C E meeting prepared to have their say restricted by notes. Mr W had a slip something less than a yard long full of notes to give a two minute speech.

Mr Matchett started the pace with the old-time fun that always characterized his talks.

The Presbyterian Hymnal was used and the verses were changed considering that accounted for slowness at times in the singing.

Mr Tovey, the president-elect, declared that a younger man should fill the position of president.

Mr Elliott's talk was most timely. The success of the movement depends upon the individual member taking time to be alone with God. The quiet hour does not mean a whole hour, but a fraction of an hour set aside to be alone daily with the Master.

All eyes are on Detroit. Many would like to go after hearing of the many good things that will take place from Mr Johnston.

The next rally will be held some time in September, when reports of the District Convention will be given by delegates.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—

President—Mr. G. F. Tovey.
Vice-President—Miss B. Mask.
Secretary—Mr. Jos. McGowan.
Treasurer—Mr. J. Reid.

The Presidents of all the societies compose the executive.

Baseball.

Mr. Lem Fletcher writes to the Toronto papers as follows: The hotelkeepers of Peterborough are particularly desirous of arranging two games of baseball, one in Peterborough, return game in Toronto, against the Toronto hotelmen. Consideration: Two barrels of flour for House of Providence.

Lem. Fletcher.

On short notice arrangements have been closed for the appearance of the Bowmanville baseball team here on Thursday, the day after to-morrow. The match will commence at 4.30. Bowmanville is perhaps the strongest club in Central Ontario and the match should be an exciting one.

TORTURING IN SIAM.

THE HORRIBLE CODE OF JUSTICE IN THAT QUEER LAND.

Criminals Are Sometimes Buried Alive In Plaster Molds—Executions by the Headsman Are Fantastic and Brutal in the Extreme.

The traveler in that strange country, Siam, will still find many relics of barbarism. Among the most curious practices still in vogue are those for the punishment of criminals.

Men are often subjected to severe punishments for very trivial offenses. It is not an uncommon thing for the king to sentence two men to be chained together, who are then compelled to go about yoked in this manner perhaps for years, as no one dare release them without the king's permission, and the king often forgets to give it. An instance of this kind was brought out recently when one of the prisoners died and the other unfortunate wretch was seen dragging the body of his late companion about beside him, unable to escape from his horrible yoke. The European consuls endeavored to obtain his release, but during the delay occasioned by the absence of the king the poor victim became insane and soon afterward died.

Executions are of frequent occurrence, and the method of execution is interesting, although revolting in detail. The locality mostly used for this purpose is situated in a valley a short distance from Bangkok. Morning is the time generally selected, when crowds of natives may be seen moving toward the spot, arrayed in their gayest colors, and one would imagine that some pleasant and enjoyable fete was about to be held. The assembled thousands, arrived at the scene of action, chaff merrily and bet among themselves as to whether the executioner will cut his man's head off at one blow.

The executioner is dressed in red rags and armed with a large "dah," or sword. The condemned man is then led up by an escort drawn by lot from his own station, who have charge of the entire affair and who are directly responsible to the king for the successful carrying out of his orders. After a procession through the streets of the city, in which the unfortunate victim is compelled to carry the weapon which is to take his life, the cavalcade moves to the execution ground.

The headsman then proceeds to shackle the prisoner's ankles together, bind his hands behind his back, stuff his ears with clay and bandage his eyes. The spectators meanwhile take advantage of this cessation to indulge in the most animated speculation on a variety of subjects, oftentimes wagering their entire possessions as to the exact moment when the victim will be killed or whether he will retain his composure. The prisoner is led forward and placed on an elevated dais of earth in a kneeling position, and a mark is drawn upon his neck with colored earth to indicate the exact spot to strike.

The headsman retires to a distance of about 50 yards and commences to leap and caper about, uttering cries and brandishing his "dah," all the time advancing toward his victim until within striking distance, when he raises his [illegible] to give the fatal blow, but does [illegible]. Again he returns to the [illegible] as before and goes through a similar performance, which he repeats for the third time, when, rushing suddenly forward, with one sweep of his weapon, he severs the head from the body, amid the applause of the assembled multitude or the gloomy silence of those unfortunate bettors who have wagered against his successful performance of the feat.

Sometimes it happens that the executioner, through lack of skill in dealing the final blow, misses his aim and gashes his man in a frightful manner. Should this happen he is immediately seized by an assistant executioner and condemned to death, another taking his place, who proceeds to go all through the performance anew, while the unfortunate wretch is writhing in agony and slowly bleeding to death. As soon as the condemned is successfully beheaded the official who has had charge of the affair chops off the heels of the victim and slips the irons over the feet. These are conveyed to the king as testimony of his having faithfully performed the duty intrusted to him.

This is, however, but one of many customs in which undesirable subjects may be disposed of. Such minor transgressions as theft, wife stealing and combating of official authority visit upon the head of the offender punishment ranging in scale according to the enormity of the offense. Thus a man may consider himself fortunate if for his [illegible] he is subjected to no greater physical inconvenience than having the nails of his fingers and toes torn out by the roots, suffering the loss of an eye, tongue, nose or, in more aggravated instances, probably his hands and feet. A punishment which is reserved for extraordinary cases is the building up of the victim in plaster of paris, one of the most diabolical and inhuman tortures that the mind can conceive.

A large hole is dug in the ground of sufficient length and depth to hold the body of the intended victim, and into this hole he is placed, with his hands and feet securely tied. Liquid plaster of paris is poured in over the body, inclosing it in a mold. On settling it hardens and contracts, gradually squeezing the victim to death in an adamantine mold and causing the most excruciating torture. The body is allowed to remain in this state for weeks and months after death as a warning to other offenders.

Similar aboriginal methods are likewise observed in the trial of those accused of crime. This is more true outside of Bangkok, for in the latter city civilization has had some appreciable influence in lessening these abuses. In Siam in general, however, the practice of trial by ordeal is still common. The commonest method is to give the accused a handful of rice to chew, and when the rice is masticated it is placed upon a small sheet of cloth. If traces of blood are found, the guilt of the accused is assured, and he is immediately punished. Should there be no trace he is given his freedom.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

What does it do?

It causes the oil glands in the skin to become more active, making the hair soft and glossy, precisely as nature intended.

It cleanses the scalp from dandruff and thus removes one of the great causes of baldness.

It makes a better circulation in the scalp and stops the hair from coming out.

It Prevents and It Cures Baldness

Ayer's Hair Vigor will surely make hair grow on bald heads, provided only there is any life remaining in the hair bulbs.

It restores color to gray or white hair. It does not do this in a moment, as will a hair dye; but in a short time the gray color of age gradually disappears and the darker color of youth takes its place.

Would you like a copy of our book on the Hair and Scalp? It is free.

If you do not obtain all the benefits you expected from the use of the Vigor write the Doctor about it.

Address, DR. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

NEWSPAPER REPORTING LAW.

Ottawa Reporter Committed for Contempt of Court.

Ottawa, June 14.—A Journal reporter, W. E. Ashwith, was nominally committed to jail by the Police Magistrate yesterday for contempt of court. The Journal, to prove allegations that the License Commissioners were not doing their duty, published a list of saloons in which a reporter had obtained liquor on Sunday. The police were notified and found out who he was and subpoenaed him to give Police Court evidence. Accordingly, under The Journal's advice, the reporter refused to answer, the newspaper claiming that its object was to show the laxity of the authorities, and not to pick on a few saloonkeepers out of many who broke the law. The magistrate committed the reporter for contempt. The Journal has applied for a writ of habeas corpus, on the ground that the Ontario general law of evidence exempts a witness from incriminating himself. The License Act, on the other hand, says a witness must answer. Pending the appeal the magistrate has allowed Mr. Ashwith to be a prisoner at large.

A POINCARE CABINET.

President Loubet Said to Be Anxious to End the French Cabinet Crisis Quickly.

Paris, June 14.—President Loubet conferred with the president of the Senate, M. Fallieres, and with the president of the Chamber of Deputies, M. Deschanel, yesterday morning, and impressed them with the necessity of quickly ending the Cabinet crisis. It is believed that M. Poincare will be asked to form a Cabinet. It is understood he is ready to accept the task, and it is even said he has already selected a Cabinet to be composed as follows:

M. Poincare, Premier and Minister of Public Instruction.
M. Delcasse, Minister of the Interior.
M. Bourgeois, Minister of Foreign Affairs.
M. Krantz, Minister of War.
M. Rouvier, or M. Delombre, Minister of Finance.
M. Waldeck-Rousseau, or M. Monis, Minister of Justice.
M. Lapeyrere, Minister of Commerce.
M. Barrion, Minister of Public Works.
Senator Jean Dupuy, Minister of Agriculture.
M. Guillain, Minister of the Colonies.

GEN. LUNA ASSASSINATED.

The Warrior and His Aide Slain by Aguinaldo's Guard.

Hard Fighting Still Going on in the Philippines—Filipinos Resist Desperately and Aggressively—The American Gunboats Take a Hand in Monday's Action—Insurgents Threatened to Attack Manila—American Loss Heavy.

Manila, June 14.—Information, believed to be reliable, has reached here of the assassination of General Luna and his aide-de-camp, Lieut. Pasco Hamon, on June 5, by Aguinaldo's guard at the headquarters of Aguinaldo. Luna and Hamon, it appears, went to the Filipino headquarters to confer with Aguinaldo, got into an altercation with the captain of the guards, and one of them drew a revolver. The guards then killed Luna and Hamon with their bayonets.

General Luna had just previous to his assassination been promoted to the rank of Major-General by Aguinaldo. It is said Luna had become importunate in his demands on Aguinaldo for power and increased authority that the Filipino leader decided that Luna's death was necessary for his personal safety and the Filipino cause. The Major-General's commission was merely a bait to throw Luna off his guard, and render his assassination a comparatively easy matter.

GUNBOATS IN ACTION.

The American Navy at the Philippines Silences the Rebel Gun at Cavite Viejo.

Manila, June 14.—At daylight yesterday the rebels at Cavite Viejo dropped two shells from a big, smooth-bore gun, mounted in front of the church, into the navy yard. The only damage done was splintering the top of the huge shears on the mole. The gunboats Callao, Manila and Mariquito then proceeded to dismount the gun.

After breakfast the rebels opened fire along the beach to Bakoor.

After silencing the big gun at Cavite Viejo, the gunboats ran close along the shore, bombarding the rebel position. The rebels replied with rifle fire and with the fire of some small pieces of artillery. So vigorous was the enemy's fire that at 9.30 a.m. the gunboat Helena joined the small gunboats mentioned, and the Princeton, Monterey and Monadnock, from their anchorages, dropped occasional big shells among the rebels. This apparently only served to incite the rebels, as they kept up an incessant fire of musketry and artillery near the mouth of the Zapote (not Sampote) River, two miles north of Bakoor. The fire of all seven warships was concentrated on this port shortly after noon, when the upper bay presented the appearance of being the scene of a great naval battle. The rebels were eventually forced to abandon their guns, after holding out for about four hours, only to be confronted by General Lawton's force on the land side in their rear.

Gen. Lawton's Hot Fight.

The fighting at Las Pinas continued hotly all day long. General Lawton called out the whole force of 8,000 men, and at 5 o'clock he was only able to push the insurgents back 500 yards to the Zapote River, where they are entrenched. The insurgents resisted desperately and aggressively. They attempted to turn the left flank of the American troops. The American loss is conservatively estimated at 60. The battle continues.

Gen. Otis' Account.

Washington, June 14.—The following cablegram has been received from Otis: Manila, June 13. — Adjutant-General, Washington: Lawton's troops had severe engagement to-day with enemy in entrenchments at crossing Zapote River near Bakoor, Cavite Province; has driven enemy, with heavy loss; our casualties some 30. Insurgents in this southern section not molested until threatened attack in strong force on Manila; now scattered and in retreat; doubtful if they make further stand. (Signed) Otis."

It Must Be Serious.

Buffalo, June 14.—A special despatch from Washington to The Evening Times says: "A great deal of mystery is maintained at the War Department concerning the real situation of affairs at Manila. The fact that immediately after the receipt of a cablegram from Gen. Otis yesterday morning the Department ordered two battalions each of the 24th and 25th colored troops, now stationed at the Presidio, and at Fort Logan, to proceed at once to the Philippines, indicates that the situation is regarded as somewhat serious.

"It is generally understood in War Department circles that the 6th Infantry now in Cuba, and possibly the 15th, also on that island, will be forwarded to Manila immediately, and the chances are that the 10th will proceed to reinforce Gen. Otis."

Toronto Conference Over.

Owen Sound, June 14.—Toronto Methodist Conference concluded its business last evening. In every respect the gathering has been most successful, and profuse have been the praises of Owen Sound's co-operation and liberality.

It was resolved that the next meeting of conference be held in Toronto next June.

THE DRUMMOND DEAL GOES

So Far as the Dominion House of Commons is Concerned.

A Straight Party Vote, Giving the Government a Majority of 51, Approves the Measure—The Grand Trunk Lease Also Approved on the Same Vote—Mr. Fielding's Iron and Steel Bounties Resolution Brought Up.

Ottawa, June 14.—A good day's work and an early adjournment was the record yesterday. The Drummond County and Grand Trunk bills were both read a third time, and passed, after a division, which showed a Government majority of 51, and the iron and steel bounties resolution, introduced by Mr. Fielding, was considered in committee and debated at some length.

Mr. Foster's Ironical Thanks.

Hon. Mr. Blair laid on the table the figures with respect to the Drummond County and Grand Trunk, which he had promised Mr. Foster, and was ironically thanked by that gentleman for information which he could not possibly use when given him only a few minutes before he expected to speak.

New Bills Introduced.

Mr. Sifton introduced bills to amend the acts respecting the Department of the Interior and the geological survey.

Mr. Sifton also introduced an act to amend the Dominion Lands Act. The bill re-arranges the terms of sale of Dominion lands, amongst other things providing that payment may be made in ten annual installments, instead of five, as at present. It also authorizes the issue of scrip to half-breeds in the Athabasca districts and elsewhere in the Northwest.

Mr. Sifton introduced a bill to amend the Land Titles Act, which provides that territories laid out in the west district of Assiboia may be dealt with as ordinary lands.

Drummond County Deal.

Hon. Mr. Foster, on the third reading of the Drummond County bill being moved, objected that a long and elaborate criticism of the Drummond County deal, comparing the first bargain made by the Government, and which was rejected by the Senate on the ground that it was an improvident bargain, with the second bargain, now before the House, contending that although the second bargain was $494,192 better than the first, so far as the purchase of the Drummond County road was concerned, and $65,795 less on betterment, or a total saving to the country of $559,987, it was still far from being a good bargain. He argued at great length to show that the value of the Drummond road was little, if anything, over $1,000,000, and that, in the matter of the lease of part of the Grand Trunk, that bargain had been entered into on altogether insufficient information, and the terms of the lease were entirely too favorable to the Grand Trunk.

Blair Also Talked Much.

Mr. Blair followed in a long and exhaustive defence of both bargains, contending that the Drummond County road was worth all that the Government proposed paying for it, and that Mr. Foster was altogether astray in his estimate of the excessive terms paid the Grand Trunk.

Mr. Blair spoke for an hour after recess and was followed by Mr. Borden of Halifax, in opposition to the bill, and Mr. McMullen in support of it.

At 10.15 the members were called in and the House divided on the third reading of the Drummond County purchase bill, which was carried, 91 for to 40 against.

The Grand Trunk Lease.

On the third reading of the bill for the lease of a portion of the Grand Trunk Mr. Foster moved an amendment to the effect that should any change be proposed in the track arrangement under section 40 of the lease the same should have no effect until it had been approved by Parliament.

The amendment was declared lost on division, and the third reading was carried on the same division as the Drummond County bill. The vote was a straight party one, with the exception

The Daily Review.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 14, 1899.

THE supplementary estimates pile the public expenditure still higher.

THE educator who advocated that constant occupation for the children as one way of making easy the handling of difficult cases would not be popular with the average small boy.

No one will doubt now that the Government had an organized gang of outside heelers doing duty in the different bye-elections. The South Ontario and West Huron election trials show that the same Government agents were at work in both bye-elections.

THE Liberals promised to reduce the public expenditure, but with the supplementary estimates all records are being distanced. We are to have a vaster expenditure than has been. Why old Liberals must be staggered by the ability of the present Ottawa Government to spend the people's money.

THE London Free Press gives its local Liberal contemporary a sound and well deserved lecture on its record. Once blind to Canada's prosperity; now loud in its jubilation at our prosperity and bold in its claims of Liberal achievement. Once anything but the workingman's friend; now eager to claim friendship with the working class. The Free Press did well to expose the Advertiser's record, and the Advertiser is only one of many Liberal newspapers that have changed front and are appearing in new clothes which are very much misfits when their records are remembered.

THE evidence in the West Huron election trial which disclosed the presence of some of the same outsiders at the bye-election there as operated in South Ontario, simply goes to prove that "Honest" John Dryden did the "party managers" in South Ontario an injustice when he demanded that they set their faces against corruption. It goes to show that John should demand; parity at headquarters. These corruptors and heelers came from headquarters and had Government money supplied from outside, and local party managers might conduct a clean campaign, but the outside Government agents would do the "crooked" work.

AN exchange tells of a discussion which recently followed a paper presented by a well-known educator upon the subject of "Responsibilities of Parents." In this paper the statement was made and generally endorsed by those present, that occupation was the safeguard of the parent for the control of the difficult child. As a protector to others and in answer to an inquiry by some one for ways to keep the children constantly occupied one mother rose and told her experience. "I am so worried," she said, "of my little store of possible occupations as if they were precious gems. I actually borrow books from friends for the purpose of affording errands for my boys, who return them. I keep notes written to friends—notes that are often on most trivial matters, and occasionally to intimate merely statements of the fact that the note is sent to get the bearer out of some impending mischief. I have learned how to detect the signs of a growing disturbance among my four boys, and I have often, at those times, gone into the room in the most hurried and important way, singled out the ringleader and sent him off in impressive haste to deliver one of my commercial messages. I keep an interesting book in reserve to hand out at a critical moment, or delay the delivery of a periodical for a few hours, perhaps, until I see the moment when it will do the most good. I never let the youngsters suspect my reason for these different errands and employments, and in consequence the end I seek is usually accomplished." These idle hands are to be kept busy and out of temptation.

SAN JOSE COMMISSIONERS.

Ontario Cabinet Names Prof. Mills and Inspector Dearness.

Toronto, June 14.—The Ontario Cabinet met yesterday afternoon and heard arguments from Hon. John Dryden urging the appointment of a commission to look into the devastation caused by and to suggest remedies for the San Jose scale.

The idea met with the approbation of the Ministers and two of the proposed commission were named. They are Prof. Mills of O.A.C. and Inspector Dearness of Guelph. Others will be named later.

Illegal to Fish Salmon.

Toronto, June 14.—Recent regulations issued by the Fisheries Department at the Parliament Buildings provide that no one shall take fish, save by angling, without a license; that no one shall take any fish for sale between Sept. 1 and April 15 without a license; that bass less than ten inches and speckled trout less than six inches shall not be taken, but, if caught, shall be returned to the water. One day's catch of speckled trout is limited to 15 pounds.

Candidate for South Brandon.

Winnipeg, June 14.—At a Conservative convention held at Nesbitt yesterday, William Henderson, implement dealer, of Wawanesa, was unanimously nominated as the candidate for South Brandon.

DANGER IN SODA.

Serious Results Sometimes Follow Its Excessive Use.

Common soda is all right in its place and indispensable in the kitchen and for cooking and washing purposes, but it was never intended as a medicine, and people who use it as such will some day regret it.

We refer to the common use of soda to relieve heartburn or sour stomach, a habit which thousands of people practice and one which is fraught with danger; moreover the soda only gives temporary relief and in the end the stomach trouble gets worse and worse.

The soda acts as a mechanical irritant to the walls of the stomach and bowels and cases are on record where it has accumulated in the intestines, causing death by inflammation or peritonitis.

Dr. Harlandson recommends as the safest and surest cure for sour stomach (acid dyspepsia) an excellent preparation sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. These tablets are large 10-grain lozenges, very pleasant to taste and contain the natural acids, pepsinum and digestive elements essential to good digestion, and when taken after meals they digest the food perfectly and promptly before it has time to ferment, sour and poison the blood and nervous system.

Dr. Wooth states that he invariably uses Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in all cases of stomach derangements and finds them a certain cure not only for sour stomach, but by promptly digesting the food they create flesh and strengthen the action of the heart and liver. They are not a cathartic, but act solely for stomach diseases and weakness and will be found reliable in all stomach troubles except cancer of the stomach. All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at 50 cents per package.

Iron and Steel Bounties.

Mr. Fielding moved the House into committee on the following resolution on the bounties on iron and steel:

That it is expedient to provide that the bounties on steel ingots, puddled iron bars and pig iron made in Canada, authorized by chapter 6 of the Acts of 1897, shall, on the termination of the period therein mentioned be gradually reduced during a limited term until they are extinguished, and that the bounties to be paid for the additional term shall be as follows:

From April 23, 1902, to June 30, 1903, both inclusive, the bounties shall be 90 per centum of the amount fixed by the said act.

From July 1, 1903, to June 30, 1904, both inclusive, the bounties shall be 75 per centum of the amount fixed by the said act.

From July 1, 1904, to June 30, 1905, both inclusive, the bounties shall be 50 per centum of the amount fixed by the said act.

From July 1, 1905, to June 30, 1906, both inclusive, the bounties shall be 25 per centum of the amount fixed by the said act.

From July 1, 1906, to June 30, 1907, both inclusive, the bounties shall be 10 per centum of the amount fixed by the said act.

Provided, however, that if any steel ingots be made from puddled iron bars manufactured in Canada no bounty shall be paid on such steel ingots.

The said bounties shall cease and determine on June 30, 1907.

The resolution was debated at some length and adopted.

Sir Charles Tupper expressed the hope that the Government would extend to Newfoundland the benefits of the iron bounties.

Mr. Fielding said it might cause a little strain to do so, but the Government would consider the matter.

House adjourned at 12.30.

Young McMillan Pardoned.

Ottawa, June 14.—William M. McMillan, the East Toronto boy convicted by Judge McDougall for arson in 1896, and at present undergoing a 10-year sentence in Kingston Penitentiary, has been pardoned. The Minister of Justice, it is learned here, has just signed an order for his release.

Arrested for Arson.

Port Hope, June 14.—David Ryan is in custody here, having been arrested on suspicion of setting fire to a straw stack, from which fire was communicated to the McCallum homestead, near Dale Church, which, along with barn and driving shed, was destroyed.

VERY SAD ARE THE SCENES.

Estimated That the Dead at New Richmond Number 175.

Of 300 Buildings in the Wisconsin Town 200 Have Been Swept Away—Nearly Every Family Suffered — Fifty-Four Bodies Have Been Recovered From the Debris—Another Tornado Horror at Herman, Wash. Co.

New Richmond, Wis., June 14.—One hundred and seventy-five killed and 400 wounded in Monday night's tornado, is the estimate of casualties reached at 11 o'clock yesterday by General Manager Scott of the Omaha road. The storm struck the Omaha at Beardman and followed the track to New Richmond. It blazed through New Richmond from south to north and levelled the center of the city. People were penned in and scores buried alive. On the street from the depot, starting with Henry Beal & Company's store through to the Hotel Nicolet, on both sides of the street, every building is gone and only the most incomplete information as to the killed and wounded was obtainable in the morning.

Very Sad Are the Scenes.

Indescribably sad are the scenes of desolation wrought by Monday night's tornado, that has practically swept out of existence the prosperous little city of New Richmond. Out of 300 houses and store buildings, comprising the town, fully 200 were wrecked by the storm or destroyed by fire. Almost every family has one or more members among the dead, injured or missing, and little groups are seen everywhere searching, by the light of lanterns or torches, for loved ones who may be buried in the piles of debris on every hand.

Fifty-Four Bodies Found.

With frantic energy the search has been conducted all day, and up to 9 o'clock last night 54 bodies had been found, although the number of dead certainly will reach 100 or more. These have for the most part been taken to the Catholic and Congregational Churches, which, although in the very edge of the storm's path, miraculously escaped its fury. In these temporary morgues the sights are such as to touch the hardest heart, as the grief-stricken living recognize in bodies, horribly mangled and often dismembered, the remains of missing dear ones. The wounded found temporary asylums in the uninjured dwellings on either side of the path of the storm, where doctors and nurses from nearby cities and towns are doing heroic work without sleep or rest. As many as possible of the injured, whose chances for recovery are considered good are being sent to St. Paul and Minneapolis, where they will have better care.

ANOTHER HORROR.

Twelve Dead Bodies Counted in a Herman Street.

Omaha, Neb., June 14.—A tornado struck the town of Herman, Washington County, last night and wrought fearful destruction. A conductor on an evening train from Sioux City, Iowa, says not a building is left standing in the town and that he counted 12 dead bodies in the streets. The fatalities will probably number 50 or more. The entire eastern portion of Nebraska was being swept by a terrific rain, wind and electric storm last night. The streets of Omaha were flooded and the play of lightning was fearful.

A Ten-Year Lighting Contract.

Hamilton, June 14.—At a joint meeting of the special electric lighting committee and the Board of Works last night, the offer of the Ontario Power Company to light the city for a term of years at the expiration of the present contract was considered. The company's offer was: 995 a lamp per year up to 425 lamps; from that number to 500, $93.50 a lamp. It was figured out that at those rates a saving of $9,000 a year would be effected. The present contract rate is $91 a lamp per year. After discussion it was resolved to enter into a ten-year contract on the agreement that, if at the end of five years the contract price was considered high, the contract could be terminated by giving a year's notice. Manager [illegible] when asked to put in 400 lights at $85 each yearly.

Important Railway Rumors.

Winnipeg, June 14.—A rumor that recurs with considerable persistence is that the Provincial Government will grant concessions to neither McKenzie & Mann nor the N.P., but will build west from the Portage itself, and give running powers to the company that offers the best terms.

William McKenzie of Toronto had an interview with the local Cabinet Ministers yesterday, when arrangements were completed for the construction of the branch railway from Dauphin to Gilbert Plains.

Nearly Burned to Death.

Barrie, June 14.—Lottie Fraser, the 11-year-old daughter of R. J. Fraser, was nearly burned to death last night. She set fire to some paper in the stove, and then, to make it burn more quickly, poured on kerosene. Her clothing caught fire, and before it was extinguished the child had been badly burned from the knees to the shoulders. The child's mother had her hands terribly burned in putting out the flames. The same little girl on Saturday last was nearly drowned by falling into a vat in the tannery.

Did Preston and Smith Do It?

Toronto, June 14.—In the particulars of the West Elgin election case, W. T. R. Preston and Alexander Smith are said to have promised money to two men. One Donovan Bale is charged with keeping a gambling booth in an Ontario hamlet. [illegible] Bowers is accused of subornation.

The particulars conclude with the request that a long list of persons be disqualified from voting.

Davis Is Very Low.

Toronto, June 14.—William Davis, the resident of Niagara-on-the-Lake who attempted to take his own life there yesterday morning by shooting himself, now lies in the Toronto General Hospital in a very low condition, with very little hopes of recovery.

More Galicians for Canada.

London, June 14.—The steamship Brazilian left Hamburg yesterday with 300 Galicians en route for Canada.

MILNER AND KRUGER.

Mr. Chamberlain Says That They May Confer Again.

London, June 14.—Special importance is attached to the Cabinet Council which took place yesterday morning. It lasted a couple of hours and it is believed the Ministers finally determined upon the policy to be adopted towards the Transvaal.

The Secretary of State for the Colonies, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, answering a question in the House of Commons yesterday, said the Government would wait full reports of the recent conference at Bloemfontein, between President Kruger and the British high commissioner, Sir Alfred Milner, before sending the latter further instructions. Mr. Chamberlain points out a policy that would remove all pretext for intervention and suggests a conference between Sir Alfred Milner and President Kruger, in which he leaves Milner a free hand, laying stress upon the matter of franchise in the Transvaal, and instructing the British representative that if his suggestions in this regard are not fairly received he need not urge any further attempt at discussion.

The Pacific Cable.

In answer to a question in the House of Commons yesterday, the Secretary of State for the Colonies, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, said the discussion between the Imperial and Colonial Governments with regard to the proposed Pacific cable continued. He added that he was not yet in a position to indicate the terms of the Government's amended offer.

Canadian Vocalists Will Sing.

London, June 14.—The following Canadian artists will appear at the reception to be given to Princess Hall, Piccadilly, by Lady Strathcona, on the eve of Dominion Day: Mme. Albani, Mlle. Beatrice La Palme, Miss Maud Cousins, Miss Jardine Thomson, R. De Lafrelz.

Four Years for Christiani.

Paris, June 14.—Baron Christiani, who assaulted President Loubet with a cane at the Auteuil races, June 4, was sentenced yesterday to four years imprisonment, and also to pay the costs of the trial. Christiani listened unmoved to his sentence.

Ex-Treasurer Vanluven's Defalcations.

Kingston, Ont., June 14.—Frontenac County Council is looking into the defalcations of ex-Treasurer T. F. Vanluven, who got away with $21,000 and settled for about $12,000. It is said the Ontario Government will be asked to appoint a commission to probe the affair to the bottom.

Lieut.-Col. Stone, the new commanding officer of Canadian artillery, reached camp yesterday, to remain for the balance of the week to inspect the force.

Owen Sound Boy Drowned.

Owen Sound, June 14.—As the tug Hecla was proceeding with dredge No. 2 to Byng Inlet yesterday Thomas Young, a lad about 19 years of age, fell overboard about 14 miles down Owen Sound Bay and was drowned. The body was not recovered. Young's parents are residents of this town.

A man just in the act of lifting a barrel of flour felt a hand laid on his shoulder.

"Stop!" said the stranger.

"You can't lift that." "How do you know I can't?" said the man. "Because I am a physician, and know it's impossible."

"That may be," said the man, "but I know I can," and he stooped and lifted the barrel to his shoulder. "What made you do such a thing as you could do it?" asked the astonished physician.

"Because I've been doing it every day for years," said the man.

There are physicians who say in good faith to those whose lungs are worn by disease "It is impossible to help you." And yet thousands of these impossibles have been helped and healed by Dr. R. V. Pierce whose "Golden Medical Discovery" has cured them, when the hollow cheek, the rasping cough, the burning flush, and night-sweats have all pointed to consumption.

Ninety-eight out of every hundred such impossible cases can be cured says Dr. Pierce. What makes him so sure? Because he has been curing just such cases for more than thirty years. "Golden Medical Discovery" is strength to the stomach, life to the lungs, nourishment to the nerves. It makes new blood and the new blood builds a new body—a fit temple of health.

There is nothing just as good as "Golden Medical Discovery," so let no one deceive you into accepting a substitute.

"I beg to state that I have used three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery since my [illegible] you and find great benefit in my case," writes Mr. A. F. Norcross, of New York, N. Y., Box 1497. "I feel that I am in need of no more medicine and hope. When I started to take your medicine I had a regular consumptive cough, of which I was awfully tired, every body condemned and warned me concerning it. I was losing weight rapidly, was very pale and had no appetite whatever. Now my condition is changed entirely. I do not cough at all, have gained eight pounds in weight, have received my healthy color, and my appetite is marvelous. I can recommend your medicine, as it is a sure cure, no humbug, as are most other patent medicines."

THE STRIKE SITUATION.

Grand Trunk Trackmen Still Holding Out —A Trackman Makes Grave Charges —Executive Goes to Ottawa.

Toronto, June 14.—Yesterday brought no change in the local situation of the Grand Trunk Railway trackmen's strike. The men say they are all out and intend to remain out until the company agrees on a settlement. The officials had not heard of any new developments, and it was one of the quietest days since the strike commenced.

Can This Be True?

A letter was received yesterday from a point on the main line of the G.T.R. west of Toronto, written by a trackman, who makes grave charges against the company. The letter is as follows: "You know, I suppose, that the Government officials are going over the road to-day. Well, I will tell you what they are doing. They have got Foreman Scarth and two or three men working between Acton and Rockwood. Some of the men are from Brenton and Morrisburg, and another gang working up from Georgetown. You see, their idea is to pick these gangs up, as soon as the officials pass them, on the first train, and put them off the first place they get ahead of the Government official's car, so as to make out, you understand, that he will say quite a few more men are on than those reported by the strikers. Report to committee, nor it is just as I say. Yours truly, one of your best friends. Section Man."

Jim Sutherland at Work.

Montreal, June 14.—All of the members of the trackmen's executive have been called to Ottawa, where a meeting will take place to-day. Mr. Sutherland is now playing his part of the comedy.

Mead Sent for Trial.

Gananoque, June 14.—Yesterday morning a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Heaslip was given to William Mead, who was charged with being the leader of the riot at the Thousand Island Junction on Friday night. Magistrate Heaslip committed Mead for trial at Brockville at the next Assizes.

SHOOTING AT BUFFALO.

Freight Handlers Open Fire on Iron Ore Handlers With Fatal Effect.

Buffalo, June 14.—A gang of between 30 and 40 men, stevedores and freight handlers, last night about 7.30 o'clock attacked aboard the whaleback Samuel Mather, which was lying at the Minnesota iron ore docks, and opened fire on a gang of about 50 iron ore handlers, who were working in the hold of the vessel. Between 150 and 200 shots were fired. John Mayleck, 30 years old, was shot in the back and is not expected to recover; Joseph Marcek was shot in the shoulder, and Mike Smith received a bullet in the right shoulder. The injuries of the two latter men are not s[illegible] of the attacking party were arrested. The trouble was caused by the ore handlers referring to the freight handlers as "scabs."

The strike on the docks has extended to the coal heavers at the Delaware & Lackawanna chutes. One hundred of these men quit work yesterday. The boatsmen employed by the Anchor Line also quit work.

WEST HURON ELECTION TRIAL.

Bribery Charges Proved, But Agency Yet Unestablished.

Goderich, June 14.—A lot of testimony, mostly on the Wingham charges, was taken yesterday in the West Huron election trial here. Nearly all the charges were proved as regards bribery, but the question of agency has to be proved. Mr. Garrow repudiates all knowledge of the doings of his agents. Walter Vanstone and T. Linklater, alleged agents of Mr. Garrow, did not answer their subpoenas, and the former is said to be far away in the Western States. The latter has not been located, though he was subpoenaed, and calls were hourly made for him.

A VILLAGE DESTROYED.

The Bay of Islands Settlement Wiped Out by Forest Fires.

St. John's, Nfld., June 14.—The village of Bay of Islands, a settlement on the western coast of Newfoundland, forming part of what is called the French shore, was destroyed by forest fires yesterday. Sixty-nine houses were burned to the ground, and 57 families rendered homeless. The French and British warships on the coast are affording assistance to the destitute people until other steps can be taken to relieve them.

Election Scandal Evidence.

Ottawa, June 14.—In the public accounts committee yesterday Colin Campbell, Q.C., of Winnipeg, was examined in the Manitoba election scandal. His evidence denied the assertions that he approached Howell to effect a saw-off of the election protests and the trial scandals. It was Howell who approached him.

Mr. Gerald, Assistant Commissioner of Inland Revenue, then deposited the papers in the Costigan case, and the committee adjourned.

Burglars at Wiarton.

Wiarton, Ont., June 14.—Yesterday between 3 and 4 o'clock a.m., W. G. Ames & Co.'s banking office was attacked by burglars. The combination of the vault was destroyed, a hole drilled through the door, and nitroglycerine introduced. The explosion, however, did not destroy the lock, and when the vault was opened last evening by an expert from Goldie & McCullough of Galt the cash and securities were found intact. The Union Bank of Canada here kindly supplied [illegible] for the day's business.

Fire at Petrolea.

Petrolea, Ont., June 14.—Yesterday afternoon fire in M. Callihan's livery stable totally destroyed the building. A few autoes stored in the building were also lost.

MILLINERY NOTES.

Colors and Styles of Warm Weather Hats.

Fine Milan straws are again in style. The braid is used alone or combined with fancy braids of other kinds, lace braids and chips. There are very open braids, through the intervision of which are run bands of straw of a different color. Piece goods of woven straw and chip are also to be obtained, very soft and flexible, which are used for draped toques. When these goods are of an open character, they are lined with mousseline de sole of the same color as the trimming of the toque.

Tulle and mousseline hats are a feature of the new styles and are very pretty as well as being light and comfortable to wear. The great fault of many hats is their weight, which is bad for the head and the hair. A comparatively large list of tulle or chiffon, even although covered with ruchings and puffings, is so light as to be no burden unless it is loaded down with other trimming.

Bright colors are characteristic of the prevailing millinery. Not only are the trimmings gay, but the foundation upon which the destruction is built up is often of a lively coloring, whether it be straw, crepe de chine, tulle or mousseline. Red, deep rose, green, [illegible] bright blue are favorite shades, and there are also golden browns, [illegible] which are extremely attractive. Fawn with gold trimmings and gray with silver trimmings are two of the fashionable combinations in delicate effects.

The hat shown in the picture is of pinkish lilac straw. It has a waved brim, under which is a ruche of tulle to match. The left side is lifted by a cluster of small pink roses with foliage, and around the brim is a drapery of mauve taffeta with groups of tucks, passing through a gold buckle at the back. At the left side is a high trimming of plaited tulle.

BODICES.

Big Bouquets Are Worn Upon the Front of the Gown.

Light bodices are to be worn this summer. They will be made of taffeta, mousseline de sole and foulard and will be worn with separate skirts of lightweight goods like etamine, crepe de chine and mousseline de laine. Among the materials brought out for warm weather are very attractive wool and mohair grenadines in both plain and fancy weaves. They require a silk lining, as they are transparent and will compose cool and attractive gowns, especially in the light and bright colors. All the new shades are represented—a dull reddish pink, the whole gamut of blue tints and the violet range, also a rather light but subdued greenish blue, which is particularly pleasing. Pearl gray or light beige grenadine over a highly colored lining has a changeable effect which is often satisfactory.

Immense bunches of violets are now worn upon the trunk of the bodice in the street, and the clusters are sometimes eight or nine inches across, suggesting great purple cabbages rather than the modest and positively retiring violet. The latest novelty is to tie a violet silk cord with knotted ends around the stems of the flowers.

High collars continue to be ornamented with points, tabs and wings, bordered with [illegible] and [illegible]. The illustration given [illegible] shows a [illegible] of black [illegible]. A ruche of black [illegible] is [illegible] with black satin and headed by a vine of black embroidery designs a [illegible] outline upon the skirt, until the embroidery meets up the sides of the front. The yoke is tucked, and from it depend pointed pelerine sleeves embroidered with black and terminating in triple ruffles of black mousseline bordered with satin bands. In front are revers of black satin bordered with a ruche of mousseline de sole, and the velvet collar is trimmed in the same way.

HOW DO YOU DO?

A Real Harm Hidden in the Old Form of Address to be Remedied. Oh, So Simple.

"How do you do?"
"Comment ca va?"
"Wie geht es dene?"

One might have a different phonetic set of phrases for the tongue of each man present at the time of the confusion of tongues, and yet would the sense be the same; the cordial inherited query as to the state of being of the person met and greeted. It is the law of courtesy that holds good in every race of people on the earth that their first expressed anxiety on meeting a friend shall be as to his health.

The question is usually met by the same words from the person addressed, and then there is some sort of odd tacit understanding by which one or the other makes answer, and it is of these answers that complaint is unjustly made; if fault there lie in the matter it lies at the door of the questioner.

"Oh, how people bore me telling me of their woes."

"I fairly hate that Mrs. H——. She is always growling about her ailments."

"The first thing Mr. T—— ever says when I meet him is this climate will kill him. I wish it would."

"Why will people go on pelting their unfortunate friends with a history of their ills?"

These are just a few samples of the expressions we give to our growing resentment at receiving a deluge of complaints whenever we stop to speak to a friend. The fault lies all on the other side, we think, and yet if we analyze the situation, we will find that we have brought the whole trouble upon ourselves. In the full flush of the meeting we deliberately, following a custom that is almost as sure a law in the social body as is circulation of the blood in the physical, asked our friend, "How do you do?"

What are they to do? If some one is ill, if they have a new grief or a new pain is it not only natural on their part that they should tell us of it? They may have a lot of blessings, but a present toothache makes one forget that stocks went up a point or two the day before, or doing all the cooking at home, because the girl has left is just cause for overlooking the fact that one is in luck to have things to cook.

No, the fault is in the question. We ought to address people differently if we only intend to laugh with those who laugh, and it is easily managed. Why not go up to your friend and say:

"I'm delighted to see you," or "This is a pleasure," or any one of a hundred possible forms of greeting that you could find instead of the old hackneyed and really injurious phrase: "How do you do?"

It is not exaggerating the state of affairs at all to say that this primary question as to the state of every one's health or feelings is injurious. It hurts both parties alike; it spoils the brightness of the day, and it is positively hurtful, so, at least, say our most advanced doctors. There is nothing so bad in this world for anybody as to brood or continually speak of their sorrows or their aches, and we all know that if in a day we meet three or four people, each one of them tells us he has a sore throat, that we are inclined to think it is epidemic and discover a scratch in our own throat before bed time.

There are people who have thought over this matter and decided to get round the bush in this way:

"Oh! I always say, 'I'm very well, thanks!' if any one asks me, even if I'm ready to drop!' says one woman, and another remarks that she answers the query with the same question: "How do you do?" In the first instance the scheme is bad. If you say you are very well when you are ill all sorts of funny or annoying complications are sure to arise; some other unfortunate of your family is asked after the state of the house later on perhaps, and, selecting you and your lie for discussion, is met by the amazed exclamation: "Why, I met E—— this morning and she said she was very well."

"Oh, was she?" your brother may answer: "Then why can't she do her own errands?"

No, it won't do to make a rule to lie when some one says "How do you do?" the whole thing is about as sensible as when two serious-minded roosters take to remarking to each other: "Cock-a-doodle-do." There is no escape. If people will ask each other this sort of heedless question they must take the consequences, and they are bad.

Farmers Visit the Model Farm.

Toronto, June 13.—Three farmers' excursions were carried to the Guelph Agricultural Fair yesterday by the Grand Trunk. From Centre Simcoe 600 took in the trip, and a big crowd also went from Lambton County. To-day the Farmers' Institutes of East and West Victoria will go from Omemee and other points. The C.P.R. will convey 600 from West York on Friday, the excursion being from points between Kleinburg and Cookstown.

THE PRESENTMENT

Grand Jury of the High Court Refers to a Number of Topics.

At this afternoon's session of the County Court the presentment of the Grand Jury was brought in as follows:

To His Honor Judge Weller, presiding at the General Sessions of the Peace for the County of Peterborough:—

Your Grand Jurors beg to present that they have pleasure in concurring with Your Honor in congratulating the County of Peterborough upon the lightness of the criminal calendar at this and other courts, showing as it does a freedom of crime in the county, which must be a source of great satisfaction to all.

With regard to the strike upon the Grand Trunk railway among the trackmen, our sympathy is with the strikers but we must trust that good sense will govern their actions in the future as in the past and that life and property may not suffer from violence. We trust also that the offer of mediation made on behalf of the Premier, may lead to a speedy settlement of the trouble between the man and the company.

We have examined the gaol and premises, and find everything clean and neat and well kept and are satisfied that the prisoners are properly cared for.

We would urge, as many Grand Juries have before, that the Town and County Councils proceed at once with the erection and maintainence of a House of Refuge for the aged and infirm instead of having them confined in the common gaol.

As the other public institutions have been lately visited by the Grand Jury of the High Court of Justice, we did not deem it necessary to visit them but have every confidence in their management.

All of which is humbly presented,
D. D. HENDERSON, Foreman.

June 14th, 1899.

Judge Weller received the presentment with a few remarks.

A DEMONSTRATION.

A Gathering of the Friends of the Strikers Meets the Patrol Train.

When the "scab train" of the Grand Trunk pulled in at the station last evening after six o'clock those on board received a warm welcome at the hands of about two hundred assembled sympathizers of the strikers. It was a small mob. They surged around the car and the armed constables in charge came out on the steps. It looked for a time as if a riot might take place. Words were freely used but no harm was done. There was only one man to be put off at Peterborough, Clarke, one of the old section men, but it was not thought safe to turn him over to the crowd and the train pulled out and took him up to his home, though he was pursued to there by a large number of men on bicycles. One young man who was standing near the train at the station states that a G.T.R. constable popped a pair of revolvers and about half a foot of his face and warned him to keep back. Constable Bob Harrison this morning visited the house of a young man who has been somewhat prominent among the local sympathisers and threatened him with arrest.

A WEDDING EVENT.

Celebration of the Marriage of Mr J H Garbutt and Miss Jennie Gillespie.

A pretty June wedding of an interesting nature was celebrated this morning at the residence of Mr. John Gillespie, 231 George-st., when his eldest daughter, Miss Jennie, was united to Mr. John H. Garbutt, a well known and popular young farmer of Smith. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Torrance, of St. Paul's church, at ten o'clock, in the presence of a number of the friends of the bride and groom.

The bride was given away by her father. She wore a charming dress of white organdie and carried a bouquet of cream roses. Miss Annie Gillespie, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. She was nicely attired in pink muslin and carried pink roses. Little Miss Jennie Gillespie, of Ashburnham, was maid of honor. The groom was assisted by Mr. Harry C. Mann, of Bridgenorth. The parlor was beautifully decorated with flowers and the marriage was performed under a beautiful floral arch.

After the ceremony the guests enjoyed a pleasing wedding luncheon, Mr. John Watt, caterer, Mr. and Mrs. Garbutt left at noon for a honeymoon trip to Rochester and New York. They will return in a week or ten days and take up residence at their home, "Hazelwood Farm," Smith.

Bride and groom were remembered by their friends in many beautiful presents. The bride has been an employee of Messrs. R. Fair & Co., and Mr. Fair's esteem was shown by a handsome cheque, while many of the regular customers of the Golden Lion also sent gifts expressive of their regard for the bride. The dry goods department also presented the bride with a beautiful oak hall rack.

BIBLE CONFERENCE.

A Series of Interesting Meetings in Progress at the Y M C A.

The Bible Conference in connection with the Y.M.C.A. conducted by a deputation from the staff of the Toronto Bible Training School, opened in the Y.M.C.A. hall yesterday at 3 o'clock. Rev. J. G. Potter presided and the attendance was good, notwithstanding the very warm weather.

Rev. Wm. Stewart, D.D., principal of the school, gave the first Bible Reading on the "Names of God in the Old Testament." It was highly instructive and intensely practical in its application.

Mr. H. W. Frost gave a clear and earnest exposition of Ephesians 6:10-17, on the subject "Christian's Conflict, Equipment and Victory."

In the evening Rev. Dr. Torrance presided and conducted the opening devotional exercises. The first speaker was Mr. H. W. Frost who through indisposition was unable to finish his address. His subject was "Christ our High Priest," as set forth in the book of Hebrews.

Dr. Stewart followed with an address on "How to Study the Bible," pointing out the necessary qualifications and methods of successful study. The addresses were much appreciated by the goodly number of Bible students who attended yesterday's session.

This afternoon Rev. Dr. Harris will conduct a study in "The Epistle to the Hebrews." He will also speak to-night. All Bible students should avail themselves of the excellent conference Bible study.

THE COUNTY COURT.

A Verdict for $30 in the Case of Watley vs Angiesea.

The case of Watley vs. Angiesea occupied the attention of the County Court yesterday afternoon. This was an action in which the plaintiff is a laborer residing in the township of Dummer and the defendant is a farmer, of Smith. The plaintiff sued for $200 damages and costs. He alleges that he was falsely and maliciously charged by the defendant before a Justice of the Peace in January last with having stolen the sum of $1 and was imprisoned on January 13th. He was admitted to bail and was discharged on January 25th. He claims that he was injured in character and put to great expense and sued as aforesaid. Defendant claimed that he overpaid the defendant's wages to the amount of $1 and that the latter refused to refund this. He stated that he acted without malice and believed he was pursuing his proper remedy. The judge gave the jury several questions to answer in arriving at their verdict. The jury put in a sealed verdict last night, which this morning was opened. They found for the plaintiff and placed the damages at $30. The other questions put and answered were:—Q.—Did Angiesea swear to the information before the magistrate upon which the warrant to arrest Watley was issued? A.—Yes. Was Watley arrested at the instance of Angiesia? A.—Yes. Q.—Did Angelsia believe that Watley had robbed him of $1 or had stolen $1 from him. A.—No. Q.—Did he state to the magistrate before the warrant was issued all the circumstances of the case fully and truly? A.—No. E. B. Stone for plaintiff; D. O'Connell for defendant.

The Grand Jury this afternoon reported true bills in the cases of Thos. Maguire and Ed. Allen, charged with theft.

The case of Kennedy vs. Ironsides is occupying the Court this afternoon.

THE FIRST MOONLIGHT.

A Successful Affair Conducted by the Sons of England Band.

The first moonlight excursion of the season was held down the river last evening under the auspices of the Sons of England band. The event was a great success, being largely patronized and everybody enjoying themselves. The steamer Eclipse and barge were used. They left the wharf shortly after eight o'clock and returned about 11.30. The Sons of England band paraded down to the wharf and furnished music during the evening. The weather was warm but the evening was pleasant on the water. Dancing was the chief amusement and was heartily enjoyed by the young folks.

The Ontario Cabinet.

To the Editor of The Review:

Sir,—The election trial unseating Hon. John Dryden of South Ontario showed a furious state of affairs. It is said that seeing what's coming some of the Ministers are preparing to get out. In this event it is likely that Mr. Stratton's ambition will be satisfied if an appointment made in the hour of desertion and disintegration can be thought to flatter any man's aspirations. We shall see what we shall see.

Yours, etc.,
ELECTOR.

FOUND MANGLED ON THE TRACK

A TRAMP MEETS AN AWFUL DEATH ON THE C. P. R. RAILS.

Shoulders and Arm Crushed and Head Almost Severed from the Body—Little Can be Learned of Him Other Than That he was Known as "Liverpool Short."

Lying crushed and mangled on the Canadian Pacific Railway track about twenty-five yards east of the railway diamond in the southeastern corner of Ashburnham the body of a man was found this morning. He was one of those of whom no eulogy can be written even after death, one of that class whose lives are not found narrated in the biographical section of encyclopedias. He was a tramp. He met a sudden death in the night and was found on the rails at daybreak.

When the 4.42 west bound express pulled into the C.P.R. station this morning the engineer got off the train and told the night staff, the operator and baggage man, that he had noticed something lying on the track just east of the diamond in Ashburnham, and he believed it to be the body of a man. When the train had gone on its way the men at the station went over and discovered a corpse at the spot mentioned. It was horribly mangled. The man lay across the track with his feet just inside the north rail and the shoulders and neck rested on the south rail. In this position he had evidently lain when he was crushed into eternity for the wheels had ground into one shoulder and arm and these with the head and neck were almost severed. The body was horribly mangled for at least two trains had passed over it. The man was of medium size, with a reddish brown moustache and beard, was evidently about forty years old and wore dark clothes and a brown soft felt hat.

Coroner Bell was notified and went down to the spot. But little could be learned at the time and the body was ordered to be removed to Comstock's undertaking establishment, where it lay to-day. There was nothing in the clothes or on the body by which the unfortunate man could be identified. A few buttons and shoe laces and a red bandana handkerchief were all that the pockets revealed.

W. Bowman, son of the proprietor of the Oxford Hotel, was one of the first who viewed the body. He stated that he had seen the man passing on the track near the hotel several times within the last few days. He believed that the man was a tramp and was known among the fraternity as "Liverpool Short." He knew nothing as to his real name. Mr. Bowman had seen him in company with another tramp who

The Re-Appearance of His Son Results in the Release of Thos Crowe.

County Magistrate Edmison yesterday afternoon ordered the release of Thos Crowe, Dummer, who was arrested a week ago last Friday in connection with the disappearance of his son, Herman Crowe. The report of the young man working in Emily was correct and friends went for him and brought him back to town. At the court room yesterday afternoon the boy expressed sorrow for causing so much trouble, stating that when he left he had no expectation of any difficulty arising such as occurred. The father also expressed contrition for his drinking habits as they had led to so much trouble, and expressed a resolution to indulge no more. He blamed no one for what had happened, as he believed the constables and all others who had interested themselves in the matter had simply done their duty. The son stated that the two had a quarrel on the road that night as narrated, and he had them walked to Lemon's and afterwards to Emily. The two left for home later in the day.

THE TRACKMEN AND THE STRIKE

MR. KENDRY'S REFERENCE TO IT IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

West Peterborough's Member Speaks for the Trackmen in Parliament—Hansard's Report of His Speech.

As already noted Mr. James Kendry West Peterborough's popular member, advocated the cause of the striking trackmen on the floor of the House of Commons when the strike was before Parliament last week. Hansard reports his speech, which was short but to the point, as follows:—

Mr. Kendry said:—I deeply regret the strike that has taken place on the Grand Trunk Railway, and I think it has now reached such a point that it is the duty of the Government to take hold of it at once and settle it. I heard the Minister of Railways and Canals say that the track was in goodi order. Well, I know, as a matter of fact, that in the section of country where I live, no one is looking after the track at all, and it is a mere matter of chance, if an accident does not take place. I say, the Government should take hold of this and compel the Grand Trunk Railway to settle the strike. We know that these men are scarcely getting $1 a day, while on the Canadian Pacific Railway, I believe, their trackmen are getting $1.25 a day. Now, why should the Grand Trunk Railway pay only $1 a day, when the Canadian Pacific Railway pay $1.25. I say these men have been deceived by the officers of the Grand Trunk Railway; I say, that Mr. Hays, who is president of that road, has deceived them. Some of these men live in my riding, and I know, as a matter of fact, that they would not have gone to work unless they believed that this thing was settled. I am glad to know that some hon. gentlemen have interceded in behalf of the men, and I think they deserve the thanks of this House for so doing. As to the president of the Grand Trunk Railway, if his word is not as good as his bond, then he is not fit to manage that road. When these men went having the assurance of the manager that he would settle the difficulty, no matter whether he gave that assurance in writing or not, he should have settled that strike I think, however, the man who is chiefly blameable is Mr. Wainwright. We know that he is the lobbying of the Grand Trunk Railway, and I think he has misled the men in this strike. Surely, these men have a right to be paid the same as the trackmen on the Canadain Pacific Railway or any other road in this country, and I say, that 98 cents a day is not enough to keep them alive. We have all heard a great deal about the growing time. Well, if we have growing times, these men are entitled to get $1.25 a day or whatever other roads pay. In this House we are the guardians of the people; the Minister of Railways and Canals has control of the traffic of the railways, and I think it is time that the Prime Minister should compel the Grand Trunk Railway to settle this strike. A storm is going on at this moment, and, when you consider the expansion of the tracks of the road from the heat, and the washouts that may take place from the rains, you can easily understand the increased danger there is of accidents. I have very confidence in the First Minister, that he will exert his influence and his authority to compel a settlement."

PRACTICAL SYMPATHY

Acknowledged by the Striking Railway Trackmen.

The striking trackmen ask the Review to acknowledge the receipt by them of $8.35, the proceeds of a collection handed to them by a member of St. John's church.

The following letter explains itself:—

PETERBOROUGH, June 14th, '99.

Nine of the striking trackmen's wives were greatly surprised this morning on receiving one hundred weight of flour, which later was found to have been very kindly sent by Mr Overend, of the C P R hotel.

We who have profited by his kindness desire to express our thanks to Mr Overend for the warm sympathy he has shown us in our struggle.

Signed on behalf of the G T R trackmen.

Annual Outing.

The public will bear in mind the annual Farmers' excursion and picnic to Jubilee Point, to be held on Thursday, the 15th inst. The steamer City of Peterborough will leave her wharf at 9 o'clock in the morning, and as this will be the opening excursion of the season everything will be done to make it interesting to the general public as well as to farmers. Addresses will be delivered by prominent speakers. A first class orchestra will be in attendance. Return tickets only 50 cents. 24137

Brevities.

—The close season for lunge and bass ends to-morrow.

—There was no session of the local police court this morning.

—Many people assembled at Central park last night to see the soldiers parade and listen to the band.

—Hastings lacrosse club and band will hold a joint celebration on July 1st, and a big time is expected.

—The heat of the past few days has been the cause of considerable suffering at the militia camp at Niagara.

—Mr. R. M. Roy would like all veterans who have not done so to call at his studio and sit for photos for the group picture.

—The anniversary musicale will be held in the Y.M.C.A. hall on Monday evening, June 19. An excellent programme will be presented.

Mr. C. Gordon is down in Hastings having the dredge and other machinery placed in order preparatory to beginning work on the canal in July.

—Moonlight excursions are evidently popular. Fully two hundred people wishing to do so were unable to find room on the Eclipse and barge last evening owing to the crowd.

—The annual picnic of the Roman Catholic parish of Emily was held near Downeyville yesterday and was most successful. There was a very large attendance.

—A tornado passed over the country around the village of Gelert, Victoria county, on Monday afternoon. It uprooted trees and unroofed several houses. It was black and spiral shaped and was accompanied by a dull roar. Considerable damage was done.

—Magistrate Edmison is in a quandary as to how to dispose of a slightly demented girl, subject to epileptic fits, whose case has been brought to his notice. She became violent in the House of Providence and there seems to be no institution suitable for her case.

Idyl Wyld Summer ....Resort

RICE LAKE, ONTARIO.

THIS Breezy and Beautiful Inland Summer Resort will re-open for the season of 1899 on June 15th, under entirely new and up-to-date management. Important new additions to the building and hotel equipment have been effected. Twenty new Bed Rooms, Sitting Rooms and Waiting Rooms have been added, and entirely refurnished in modern style. Broad balconies extend around each of the two new stories erected, affording picturesque views of the surrounding scenery.

The cuisine will be a special feature—fresh meat, fresh fish, fresh eggs, milk and butter, as well as wholesome vegetables and fruit in abundance, necessitated by a robust appetite, sharpened by the ozone and continual breeze of this idyllic spot.

Good bass and maskinonge fishing are along the shore and lake. No charge for Americans fishing—no, permits required. Boats and competent guides furnished. The inland steam launch "Outlet Queen," can be engaged for cruising and sailing parties. The Park is open for excursion parties, whether public or private. Tables and Seats for picnic parties are all over the ground in shady groves. Come and spend your summer vacation at Idyl Wyld, and for your life don't miss it.

Daily boat and mail to and from Harwood, Peterborough and Hastings. Parties can be met at either point when requested.

LINDSAY CHEESE BOARD

First Sale for 1899 Held Friday Morning —1,389 Boxes Boarded and Sold.

There was a good attendance of salesmen and citizens at the opening of the Victoria County Cheese Board, held in the council chamber, Lindsay, Friday morning at 11 o'clock. President Robertson and the other officers were on hand, also Buyers Whitton, (Thos. Watkins, Belleville), Fitzgerald (Hodgson Bros., Montreal), and J. D. Flavelle.

After a few minutes discussion, it was decided to allow the buyers the customary upbeam allowance of half a pound per box.

The following factories boarded the number of boxes placed opposite, the cheese being the last half of May make:

Star	100
Lorneville	25
Cameron	73
Dunsford	70
Mariposa	50
Darryville	—
Cambray	50
Janetville	55
Omemee	150
Fenelon Falls	60
North Verulam	90
Minden	30
Leaskdale	50
Valentia	—
North Ops	44
Pine Grove	45
Reaboro	60
Bobcaygeon	115
Maple Leaf	55
Palestine	27
Ingoldsby	—

Mr. Fitzgerald opened with an offer of 7 1-2c for selections; Mr. Whitton called 7 5-8c, Fitzgerald jumped to 7 3-4; Whitton raised to 7 13-16c; Fitzgerald then made it 7 7-8c, and on Whitton calling 7 15-16c he offered the even 8c. At this figure he selected Star, Mariposa, Bobcaygeon, and North Ops—309 boxes.

Mr. Whitton then offered 7 7-8c for further selections, and was again beaten out by Fitzgerald, who called 7 15-16c and named a number of factories, but all refused holding for 8c.

Mr. Whitton then offered 7 15-16c, and Red Rock, Fenelon Falls, Omemee, North Veralam and Lorneville accepted; total 465 boxes.

President Robertson and Buyer Flavelle advised the salesmen to sell at 7 15-16c, and so clear the board, as the price was very fair for May cheese. They finally concluded to follow the advice, and Messrs. Whitton, and Fitzgerald thus divided the board.

Instructor Ward was requested by President Robertson to describe how he had found things on his first trip. Mr. Ward said he would not enter into a specific description, but would call attention to a few special points affecting the quality of the cheese made in the county. The patrons of some of the factories could assist the cheesemaker very much by paying closer attention to the care of their milk—much of it is not delivered in proper condition, and thousands of dollars are being lost and the reputation of the factories injured in this way. The law is just as severe against the careless handling of milk as it is against watering; the offender is liable to a fine of $50. Another weak spot is in the curing room—some of these are not in proper shape, and it is not the fault of the maker. He had visited several where temperature was 80 deg.—good cheese could not be turned out in such places. The return of the whey was another cause of trouble; no doubt some who were interested would disagree with him, but such was his honest conviction founded on experience. He felt that the Victoria board would never attain its right position until the practise of returning whey in cans was condemned. It was easy to detect the whey odor on the milk of many patrons, and that sort of milk would spoil cheese.

Some discussion followed on the points raised.

The board then adjourned, after deciding to hold the next sale on Monday, June 26th, at 11 a.m.—Post.

A Fatal Wedding

By BERTHA M. CLAY.

Author of "On Her Wedding Morn," "Which Loved Him Best," Story of a Wedding Ring," "Between Two Loves," Etc.

"Let me judge," she replied, and the sound of her voice awed even him.

She remembered afterward how the squire held her in his arms, how Irene clung to her, how Sir Rupert turned away with a shudder of heartfelt despair.

Then she was in the open air, walking through the park with Lyster Ayrton, and he was swearing in a cynical fashion that there never had been, never would be, a woman so utterly foolish as herself.

"If you had only played your cards well," he said, "all would have gone on smoothly. Being true to me, and all that kind of thing, is very well in its way, but I wanted to stay with you, not for you to come with me."

She made him no answer; they heard the sound of her wild weeping die away on the summer night, and in another minute she was out of sight.

No words can paint the despair of those she left behind, with the mockery of the morrow's wedding grandeur all about them—the flowers, the dresses, the numerous preparations. The squire shut himself up in his room, and never left it for many long weeks. The whole burden fell upon Irene. It was she who had to tell the news—how Mrs. Ayrton's husband, whom every one believed dead, had suddenly returned: it was she who bore the brunt of all inquiries, answered all questions, tried to comfort the squire, and saved Sir Rupert from despair.

After a few weeks Sir Rupert went away from The Hilde. No one could have recognized in the haggard, stricken man, the brave and gallant lover whose love had ended so fatally. A gloom, deeper and darker than night, fell upon Glynn, shutting out those who lived there from the light of day.

Two years passed, and no change came. Sybil wrote occasionally, but there was nothing in her letters save love for them. She never spoke of herself, never named Sir Rupert, never said whether she were happy or miserable; they knew nothing of her; and though he loved her so dearly, the squire would rather she had died than have passed so completely out of his life.

CHAPTER XXVII.

"THE WAGES OF SIN ARE DEATH."

Two, long, dreary years passed, and never one gleam of light had come during the course of them to Sybil Ayrton. It was the same sad story all over again—the same drinking, the weary hours of patient waiting, the curses and oaths, and hard work, poor fare, unkind words, and privations of all kinds.

She had bravely steeled her heart not to feel; she had girded herself round with invisible strength. She never allowed herself to think of home—to remember Sir Rupert, and what was to have been. Had she done so, she must have died under the shock.

Two years of hard, stern discipline, and she came out of them magnificently. They perfected her character; they were full of adversity, of which she made a noble use; but the end was drawing near.

Lyster Ayrton had of late taken to immoderate drinking. He drowned all remembrance of what he once was—of his boyish disappointments, and everything else. Sybil tried to remonstrate with him, to cure him by gentle patience, by good advice, by care and caution, but every effort was thrown away.

He had had many narrow escapes of his life, and whenever he was away from home his wife dreaded some awful accident.

One evening—he had been drinking without intermission night and day for the past week, and Sybil lived in a state of fear and trembling—on this evening she sat alone in the little room to which their narrow means had reduced them, busily engaged in finishing some fancy-work for the shops—for she was obliged to support herself; how Lyster lived she did not know. The light of the lamp falling upon her, showed a face that no one could pass unnoticed; the light, girlish beauty had passed away, but there was power and strength in the delicate features—patience that was almost sublime—the look of one who does not belong altogether to this world.

She was sewing busily, when a shadow fell between her and the light. Hastily raising her head, she saw the mistress of the house looking fixedly at her.

"What is it?" asked Sybil, gently, wondering at the woman's strange stare.

"You are wanted, Mrs. Ayrton," was the quick reply. "There is a cab waiting for you at the door—you are wanted at Guy's Hospital."

She rose quickly; her face could grow no paler, but a sharp shudder seized her.

"Tell me at once what it is," she said, in a tone of command.

"Your husband has met with an accident," was the reply, "and has sent for you."

She will never forget the hurried drive through the long streets, the awful dread, the dull wonder, the listless apathy, sharpened at times into pain. She saw the gloomy walls of Guy's rising before her, and as she went in at the gates a wonder came to her as to how much more she would have to suffer.

The only thing she remembers clearly is the face of a kindly doctor, who met her at the entrance of the long ward and asked gravely if she were Mrs. Ayrton.

"Your husband is very ill," he said, gently. "He has met with a terrible accident. You must summon all your courage, for we fear the worst."

He led her down the long ward to the side of a bed standing in a recess, and there, with an awful gray pallor on his face, with crimson bandages wound round his head, with white dry lips and closed eyes, lay he whom the world had once called "Handsome Captain Ayrton."

She bent over him. In that moment all his faults, all his crimes, the long years of neglect and cruelty died away from her; she remembered only the fair-haired soldier who had wooed her under the trees of Glynn.

"Will he never recover?" she asked, in a hushed voice, of the doctor.

"He will not see the sunrise," he replied gravely.

Then she knelt down by his side. The closed eyes did not open, the white lips did not move.

"Will he never know me again?" she asked.

"Yes; he will recover consciousness just before death," was the reply.

And she knelt by his side to wait. Every moment of that long, dull watch is burned in upon her brain. Ten—eleven—twelve struck, and there came no change. One, and two—and the head moved restlessly on the crimson-stained pillow, the eyes opened, and she heard her name called as no human voice ever spoke before.

"Sybil, Sybil!" he cried. "What is it? Where am I?"

She bent over him tenderly.

"You have been injured—run over in the streets," she said.

A gleam of recollection seemed to cross him; for he shuddered at her words. He looked curiously into her face; and at the doctor.

"I am not very ill," he said. "I feel no pain. Why do you look at me so, Sybil? I am not going to die!"

He uttered the last word with a shriek that rung through the ward.

"I have a charmed life, you know," he gasped. "They left me once before for dead, but I did not die."

She whispered soothing words to him—words that came from Divine lips—of mercy and pardon, even at the eleventh hour; and he answered with cries of despair.

Draw a curtain over that death-bed. As he had sown he reaped. The life spent in breaking the laws of God ended in despair. It was a death so terrible that strong men turned away in dismay; only she, whose tender heart he had well-nigh broken, remained with him until his tortured soul went to meet his Judge.

He never saw another sun rise. The awful struggles, the frenzied fear, the unutterable agony were all ended. When the first golden rays of the morning crept into the room, all that remained of Lyster Ayrton—the maimed, distorted body—was covered with a white sheet.

Yet he had had good prospects when he started in life! a moderate fortune, a fair face, the fatal gift of winning hearts, the chances of promotion; and this was the end—a fearful death in a hospital ward. Are those grand old words false which say: "The wages of sin are death?"

They had carried poor Sybil from his bside; horror overpowered her. In the last dread moment when, with a wild, blasphemous cry, his soul went forth to meet its God, she fell senseless by his side.

The same doctor who had met her attended to her; he learned her name and history; he wrote to the squire, and prayed him to come instantly.

When he reached the hospital it was to find his daughter nearly dying and her husband dead.

They buried him with all honor. The white monument in Kensal Green tells his name and age. The flowers had begun to grow near his grave before Sybil knew those around her. They feared for her life, then for her reason.

The horrors of that terrible death-bed never left her. She would cry out in her sleep, and cry when awake, praying God in His mercy to let her die, if she could not forget.

They did not take her back to Glynn Castle when she recovered. They went to a quiet little village in North Wales, and there they tended her until health was once more restored.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

"WE ARE ALL HAPPY."

Six years after the events told in our last chapter there was an unusual stir of festivity at Glynn Castle.

It was the middle of June, and such a June people declared had not for many years showered golden smiles on old England.

On the lawn, under the shade of the stately cedar, whose branches trail in the long grass, sits an old man, whose peaceful countenance wears a happy smile. Time has not changed the squire; the sorrow that once bowed his strong frame, and brought such deep lines to his face, is past and gone. He was watching a group that would have charmed an artist.

Near him sits a lady, no longer young, but in the pride of magnificent womanhood. One can not mistake the rippling, golden hair, the sweet, spiritual face, and clear violet eyes of the squire's darling, Lady Dacre of The Hilde.

She, with the squire, is watching Sir Rupert teaching her lovely little boy to walk. The handsome, stately father, and the smiling, fair-haired child, make a beautiful picture. As she watches them, tears of happiness rise to her eyes.

She turned to Irene, who was near them.

"What time do you expect Violet?" she asked.

"About noon," replied Miss Jocelyn. "I know of nothing lately that has pleased me so much as Violet's marriage."

"A good match," said the squire. "Lord Skelton is a good man, and she will be happy."

"We are all happy," said Sybil, Lady Dacre; and then she gazes on the elder sister, whose life has been sacrificed to her.

"Come here, Irene," cries Sir Rupert. "This boy requires two to play with him always."

Miss Jocelyn hastened across to the laughing child and his happy father. She, in common with every one else, helped to spoil the little heir of The Hilde.

At that moment a footman crossed the lawn, carrying a silver salver, on which lay a white card.

Sybil looked over her father's shoulder as he read the name; and both gazed almost helplessly at each other as they said, "Alan Ryder?"

"Papa!" exclaimed the excited Sybil, "it is Irene's lover! Now, thank Heaven, she will be happy, too!"

"Where is the gentleman?" asked the squire.

"He is in the drawing-room," replied the footman; "waiting there, sir, for you."

"Come with me, Sybil," said the old man. "Say nothing to Irene until we know."

They knew soon. Alan Ryder had returned—older in years, a rich man, but unchanged in heart—returned to find the noble girl he loved so well had been true to him through all time and all changes.

There never was a happier party than that assembled now in Glynn Castle. Lord and Lady Skelton came at noon; and Violet's surprise at hearing of Alan's return can be better imagined than described.

Irene seemed to grow young again. Three weeks after Alan's return they were married, and live now with the squire at Glynn.

The sun shines upon them; upon the squire's white hair; his darling's golden head, never so bright as now; upon the fair little child; and the noble gentleman, Sir Rupert. The long night of sorrow had passed—pure and perfect day had dawned at last.

Years afterward, when blooming daughters grew around Sybil—girls with spirits high and willful as her own had been—with the memory of Lyster Ayrton's grave upon her, she taught them that the grandest lesson in life is, "To do one's duty."

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

We have made a specialty of Castoria and it is an excellent substitute for Castor Oil. Pare-goric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic property. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency, allays Fever-ishness, cures Diarrhoea and Wind Colic. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

Castoria is an infallible remedy for Infants and Children, and we do not know of a single intelligent family where it is not used. No mother can afford to be without it. Few physicians are competent to prescribe it after they are acquainted with its merits.

Castoria is put up in one size bottle only. It is not sold to you by the dozen, hundred or thousand. It is sold only in one size bottle, and the price is within the reach of all. Don't allow any one to sell you anything else on the plea or pretext that it is just as good and that it will answer every purpose. See that you get CASTORIA.

STILL HOPE OF ARBITRATION.

The Attitude of Germany May Yet Be Modified—Important Advance.

London, June 14.—All the special despatches to the London morning papers from The Hague discuss the attitude of Germany, and the correspondents generally agree that it is still possible that the arbitration scheme may be adopted.

An Important Advance.

The Hague, June 14.—The Red Cross sub-committee of the peace conference has reported in favor of applying the Geneva convention to naval warfare. This is regarded as a highly important advance.

Helping China Will Help Themselves.

Tokyo, Japan, June 14.—It is reported that all of the men-of-war captured from the Chinese in the late war between the two countries are to be returned to the Chinese Government. This is part of the policy decided on by Japan to protect her neighbor from the inroads of the powers. It is said that the only requirement to be made is that China invest so many millions in new war vessels to be built under Japanese direction.

Arrested as a Spy.

Paris, June 14.—The Italian general arrested at Nice is General Gillette de St. Joseph. He was examining the fortifications on the frontier, and a number of plans of fortifications were found on him. The General, who owns a villa on the French Riviera, has been suspected and was closely watched of late. He denied having been engaged in espionage, and said the plans were those of a tourist.

Picquart Exonerated.

Paris, June 14.—The Chamber of Indictments yesterday decided that there is no case against Lieut.-Col. Picquart, charged with forgery in the Dreyfus case, or against Maitre Leblois, his counsel, against whom charges were also made in connection with the case. The judgment of the court thus finally exonerates Picquart, who was released from prison, after being nearly a year in confinement.

THE MARKETS.

Wheat Markets Erratic—Chicago Futures Fluctuated Over a Range of Nearly Two Cents—The Prices.

Liverpool, June 14.—Wheat futures declined yesterday, closing about 1d below Monday's final figures.

Chicago, June 14.—Wheat was erratic yesterday, fluctuating within a range of nearly 2c per bushel for July. July closed 5/8c and September 3/8c above the previous closing figures.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Toronto, June 14.—Receipts of live stock at the cattle market yesterday were again large—69 carloads, composed of 1,200 cattle, 450 sheep and lambs, 1,200 hogs and 3 calves. The quality of fat cattle of w[illegible] was for export, was very good. Trade was fairly brisk all round: several dealers from outside points were purchasing butchers' cattle, and space was more plentiful on the boats for exporters. These two facts combined to make the market for fat cattle more active than it has been for the past two weeks. Prices generally remained firm.

Total receipts for last week: Cattle 3,157, sheep 1,038, hogs 4,160 and calves 172.

The Danger of PILES

Too frequently overlooked, Dr. Chase's Ointment a Prompt and Positive Cure.

The suffering caused by the intense itching and burning sensations of piles is only one of the horrors of this disease, for there is always great danger of piles developing into fistula, one of the most disgusting diseases imaginable.

Even the great danger and expense of an operation are preferable to running the risk of contracting this most loathsome of diseases.

But there is no necessity for a surgical operation for piles. Dr. Chase's Ointment is guaranteed to cure any case of piles, no matter of how long standing, or how aggravated the case may be, so long as piles have not become fistula.

It is only by rare chance that internal treatment will cure piles. But it matters not from what cause they arise, Dr. Chase's Ointment will at once stop the itching and burning, and soon effect a perfect cure.

You can use Dr. Chase's Ointment with fullest assurance that what has cured scores of thousands of cases of piles will cure you. For sale by all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

THE ODORLESS CREMATORY CLOSETS.

I have been appointed Sole Agent for the Odorless Crematory Closet manufactured by the Crematry Closet and General Heating Co., of Hamilton.

This Closet has found a place in many of the best homes in the province, and all who have used it cannot speak too highly of its merits. Medical men speak of it from a sanitary point of view, claiming that, if health is any consideration, no home should be without one. Here are some of the

TESTIMONIALS

Alliston, March 1st, 1898.

I have had one of your "Crematory Closets" in use now for several weeks and am glad to be able to say that I have found it entirely satisfactory in every respect. I have not been able to detect the slightest odor from it at any time and would not be without it. I am sure it must prove a great convenience to people in the country and in towns where water is not obtainable.

Yours respectfully, JAMES CONWAY.

Sheddon, February 25th, 1898.

I have used it for some time and find it perfectly odorless. It is a long felt want and I believe it will become very popular especially in rural districts, towns and villages where wells are so frequently contaminated by the ordinary closets. I am, yours, etc., had been around town the last few days and who was making rough table forks. Several other parties told the coroner that they had seen the deceased around town and Ashburnham with other tramps within the last few days.

Exactly how "Liverpool Short" came to meet such an awful death there is nothing to indicate. He may have gone to sleep on the track and been crushed by one of the several freight trains which passed through during the night. He may have fallen off a freight train, on which he was stealing a ride. Some residents of the vicinity in which he was found state that they heard men squabbling in the little lookout house at the disused and "Liverpool" may have first been laid out in a quarrel. What train passed over him first is not known, but it is probable that he was dead before he knew what happened to him.

The coroner and the County Crown Attorney had a conference this afternoon when it was decided not to hold an inquest. The ill-fated unknown will therefore be interred at Ashburnham's expense, and his identity will not, it is not at all likely, ever be known. The other tramps seen around the last day or two are not to be found to-day

ARE YOU BILIOUS?

A sluggish liver fails to filter the bile from the blood, and when the poisonous matter goes through the body in the circulation the whole system is tainted and deranged. This is called biliousness and can be completely cured by Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which act directly on the liver, making it healthy and active. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box. AT LINDSAY.

A Rousing Mass Meeting of Citizens Condemns the G T R — The Running of Trains on Sunday.

In a full report of a big mass meeting at Lindsay on Monday evening the Post says: "In point of attendance, prominence of speakers, and absorbing interest shown, as well as for the quality of the addresses delivered, the mass meeting of citizens called last evening in the old opera house to discuss the strike of the G.T.R. trackmen was perhaps the most notable that has ever been held in Lindsay, and never did speakers have a more sympathetic and attentive audience. The gathering was thoroughly representative, as even the ladies were not missing."

Many speechers expressive of sympathy with the strikers were made and the following resolution was passed:

Moved by J. D. Flavelle, president Lindsay Board of Trade, seconded by Rev. C. H. Marsh,—We, citizens of Lindsay, in mass meeting assembled desire to enter our solemn protest against the running of unnecessary Sunday trains over the Midland division of the Grand Trunk Railway, whereby many men are robbed of their birthright as citizens, and deprived of the rest of the Lord's day; the moral character of our people lowered and the danger to the travelling public much increased. And this meeting desires to express its deprecation of the action of the company in bringing in outside and other incompetent labor to take the place of their old, well tried and faithful workmen.

Among the communications read at the meeting was the one from Mgr. Laurent, of Lindsay, Vicar General of the diocese of Peterborough, expressing his sympathy with the trackmen.

Have You Thought of It?

For four thousand years or more the world groaned, suffered and fumed about its corns, for there was no positive relief—no certain and painless cure until Dr Scott Putnam gave to the world his great corn Extractor. If there is suffering now it is a result of carelessness, for the remedy is at hand? Try Putnam's Corn Extractor. It is sure, painless and prompt. Beware of substitutes. N C Polson & Co., proprietors, Kingston.

THE ORIGINAL.

There is only one remedy known that has a combined action on the kidneys and liver and cures the most complicated ailments of these delicate filtering organs, and that is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pill, the original kidney pill. This world famous kidney and liver cure has an enormous sale in all parts of Canada and the United States.

BATTALION NOTES.

The Strength Growing—Capt Miller Now Becomes Major.

The battalion had a very successful parade at the drill shed last night. There was a turnout of about one hundred men and quite a number of recruits enlisted. The probability of the trip to Rochester is a topic of great interest to the men. If the battalion comes up in numbers within a week as it should and as it probably will, there is every probability that the invitation to the Flower City will be accepted. The band was present last evening and enlivened the drill with a number of marches. Their presence was a pleasant feature. Thursday evening will be a good opportunity for recruits to enlist.

As will be seen in the orders Capt Miller now assumed rank as Major Miller. The promotion is a matter of pleasure to the new Major's many friends and he has received many congratulations. Major Miller has been connected with the battalion since 1866. He became captain of No 5 Company about 1869, and the excellent and unrivalled position which it has since held has been a strong testimony to his ability as a military man. Major Miller has the real and single heartedness in his work which makes it very effective. Lieut Bennet becomes Captain Bennett, and as he is a young officer of zeal and ability, the company should prosper under him.

The orders issued were as follows:—

Headquarters,
Peterborough, 12th, June, A.D. '99.

Orders by Lt.-Col. R. W. Bell, commanding 57th Batt. of Infantry, P.R.

No. 1.—Detail of duty for week ending June 24th: Subaltern for the week, Lieut. Richie. Next for duty, Lieut. Claxton. Bugler for the week, Bugle Sergt. Galley.

No. 2.—The following extract from general orders is promulgated for the information of the Battalion. 57th Battalion, Peterborough Rangers—To be Major, Capt. J. W. Miller, vice F. H. Brennan, retired; to be captain, Lieut. G. W. Bennett, vice J. W. Miller, promoted; Lieut. A. G. T. Le Fefevre is transferred to the reserve of officers; to be lieutenants, Second Lieut. W. H. Clutton, vice A.G.T. Le Fefevre, transferred; R. T. Hounsell, vice G. W. Bennett, promoted; to be second lieutenant provisionally, A. W. McPherson, vice J. Mills, promoted.

No. 3—Capt. Bennett is hereby posted to "H." Co., vice Capt. Miller, promoted; Second Lieutenant McPherson is hereby posted to "F." Co., vice Second Lieut. Walker, transferred to "D." Co.

No. 4.—The commanding officer has been pleased to make the following promotion: A. Co., to be corporal (prov.) Pte. G. E. Cameron.

By order,
H. A. MORROW,
Capt. and Adjt.

OBITUARY.

Death of Mrs John Flaherty, of East Emily.

An Enniscmore correspondent writes: The death of Mrs. John Flaherty took place on June 30 at her home in East Emily where she had been suffering for several months, bearing her illness with fortitude and patience even to the last.

The deceased lady whose maiden name was Joanna Carrol belonged to a family respected and esteemed by a wide circle of friends and acquaintances. When a girl she was a favorite with all classes, being possessed of an amiable and generous disposition. In 1888 she was married to John Flaherty. She leaves a sorrowing husband and two children as well as sisters and brothers to mourn her loss.

The funeral, which took place on June 5th to the Roman Catholic cemetery in Bantismore, was very largely attended.

In her peaceful passing from our midst retaining her senses to the last moment of earthly life, we are reminded of the poet, Longfellow's beautiful picture of death, where he says: "There is no death! What seems so is transition;
This life of mortal breath
Is but a suburb of the life elysian,
Whose portal we call death."

Children Cry for CASTORIA

UP-TO-DATE CLOWNS.

The Forepaugh-Sells Fun-Makers Praised by the New York Sun.

The Adam Forepaugh-Sells Brothers' Circus establishment, which is scheduled to exhibit in this city Saturday, June 24, has a very fetching feature in a coterie of clowns that are said to eclipse all the efforts of all the comic men ever seen in the sawdust arena. The Forepaugh-Sells' clowns were one of the chief hits of the big dual show during the recent phenomenally successfully engagement at Madison Square Garden, New York. They impressed Col. Franklyn Fyles, the erudite critic of the Sun, to the extent that he made these observations in the Sun of April 24:

"Most clowns in circuses are so unoriginal that the Forepaugh-Sells chaps are surprising with their new antics. They suggest that some one expert in pantomime has instructed them. Indeed, it seems odd that several should not find more ambitious acting to do. One in the uniform of a street sweeper comes in with a broom, a spade and the frame and wheel of a barrow. With comic deliberation he surveys the roadway and goes about cleaning it, shoveling earth into the barrow, which will not hold it. His mishaps are of the old fashioned sort, but are accompanied by so much of really comic action that he is closely watched by the multitude. One innings of the clowns is made conspicuous by being the only thing going on in the entire arena. This method is repeated with several of the show's big features, and unquestionably is a relief from trying to see simultaneously three to six specialities.

"The clowns march around the ring as a brass band. Their instruments are as battered as their ragged costumes and their rendering of a march is ludicrously unmelodious. Reaching the central platform, they are grouped about a leader who is made up like Bandmaster Sousa and his mannerisms are caricatured. Solos for cornet and slide trombone, each with a free-for-all accompaniment by the others, conclude this foolery. The soloists are grotesque, and the gestures with which they accompany their playing are art in extravagance. A boxing match and a ball game are other features that employ many clowns at once and are very comic in their ways. Each pantomime gets hearty applause, and that for circus clowns in New York city is a remarkable achievement."

SAVINGS BANK IN SCHOOLS

The Question of Interest in Peterborough Discussed by a Toronto Daily.

(Toronto Mail and Empire.)

The Management Committee of the Public School Board has approved of the plan of savings banks in the Public schools. The idea is to encourage the children to save their pennies, with a view to educating them in thrift. Beyond question the object is a good one. Those who are promoting the scheme say it is to be established on the principles of the Penny Bank in England, and there is already a similar institution in connection with the Victor Mission. Galt has the bank in operation in its Public schools, and Peterborough is just about to inaugurate it. For fourteen years banks of this kind have been tried in schools in the United States. Beginning in Long Island City in 1885, the idea was spread until there are now 2,244 banks in 351 schools, distributed among 89 cities and towns, and scattered over 14 States. The total amount deposited since the introduction of the system has been $649,247.01, and the total amount withdrawn $441,825.83, leaving a balance on deposit at the beginning of this year of $207,421.18. This is an average of about $5 per depositor. These are quite large sums and show that something substantial, as far as money is concerned, can be accomplished. But, despite this showing, and the evident popularity of the idea at present, we believe it is open to grave objections.

These may not be sufficient to cause it to be rejected, but, at least, they should cause the greatest care to be exercised. The scheme may in some cases accomplish all that is hoped for it, but the mere existence of a savings bank in the schools and the fact that children deposit money in it is not necessarily going to train them in the true ideas of economy. It may only, as Chairman Douglas and Mr. Baird contended, teach them miserliness. The only thing that is certain about it is that it will familiarize the children with the idea of depositing money, and with the machinery and methods of savings banks. This is questionably a good thing in itself. But there are other considerations. In the majority of cases there will be no real saving by the children at all. Saving involves the idea of keeping wants below the limit made possible by income. Few school children earn any money and few receive any regular allowance, and all that would be done would be to get money from parents and take it directly to the bank. It would thus be only a means of enabling children to get money, but would not involve saving. It may be said that the child could spend this money instead of depositing it. Where the parents would not look for a strict account this might be so, and, of course, it would be so where children have a regular allowance. But in such cases all the child's legitimate wants are already supplied, and the money, if spent, would be spent only for candy, or some other childish luxury. But the question then arises, Is a savings bank and the element of competition in making deposits, which is sure to be present, the right method of dealing with the tendency to luxury? We think not. There must be an understanding of principles and a moral conviction if the right effect on the child is to be produced. This brings us to the point essential to the best success of the scheme. The savings banks, if adopted, should be supplemented by teaching. And this can be done. But much thought should be devoted to this question before there is an attempt to put the banks in operation.

THE PACIFIC CABLE.

British Colonies Invited to Send Delegates to England.

London, June 15.—The Government of the British colonies interested in the proposed Pacific cable have been invited to appoint delegates to further discuss with the Colonial Secretary, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, and the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, the mode of raising the necessary capital and the manner of construction and control of the cable.

Russia Makes a Grab in Corea.

London, June 15.—Though it has not attracted much attention here, recent news from Odessa is of real importance. It appears that Russia has leased from the Seoul Government three ice-free ports on the coast of Corea, probably including Port Lazareff, a really magnificent harbor, on the eastern side of the peninsula. Though the lease is only for 19 years, those qualified to judge are convinced that Russia never will lose her hold on these harbors, her next step being to connect by railway the foothold thus gained on the Corean littoral with Vladivostock. It is believed that Russia will practically apply to Corea the process which has made Manchuria a Russian province.

Poincare Asked to Form a Cabinet.

Paris, June 15.—President Loubet received M. Poincaire yesterday morning, for the purpose of entrusting him with the task of forming a new Cabinet. M. Poincaire asks delay until to-day in order to consult his friends.

Lightning Struck Tottenham.

Tottenham, Ont., June 15.—Yesterday afternoon a terrific electric storm passed over and centred its violence in this town. Mr. A. J. Mercer's implement warehouse was struck, several holes being made in the wall, the ceiling crushed down, the floor raised and two chimneys wrecked. Mrs. McLean, who was in the building at the time, was considerably stunned. The Town Hall was also visited and the Maple Leaf Hotel got a shock, but no fire started. A dozen trees in the village were also struck.

Miss Hooper's Body Found.

Leamington, Ont., June 15.—The body of one of the Misses Hooper, who was drowned last fall in company with her sister, brother, Charles Barnes and Charles White, while crossing to the island, was washed ashore yesterday.

TRANSVAAL CONCILIATORY.

Arbitration is Not Made a Condition of Concessions.

Text of the Transvaal Blue Book Does Not Contain Threats—Still Time for the Disputants to Arrange a Compromise—Sensational Papers Making More of Declaration for British Intervention Than Case Warrants.

Brussels, June 15.—Dr. Leyds, the representative in Europe of the Transvaal Republic, received yesterday the following conciliatory despatch from Pretoria: "The Government does not make arbitration a condition of concessions. It will continue to make concessions, even as regards the franchise, independently of Great Britain's acceptance or non-acceptance of arbitration."

Blue Book Does Not Contain Threats.

London, June 15.—Though the sensational papers are making much of the blue book on the Transvaal negotiations issued last night, in which the British high commissioner at South Africa, Sir Alfred Milner, practically declared it beyond doubt a case for British intervention in the Transvaal, the reply of the Secretary of State for the Colonies, Mr. Chamberlain, to the petition of the Uitlanders, removes many apprehensions. The text shows it did not contain threats, concerning which many rumors were afloat, and demonstrates that there is, therefore, still time for the disputants to arrange a compromise, of which signs are not wanting.

Remonstrance to Kruger.

London, June 15.—The correspondent of The Daily Telegraph at The Hague says: "The Dutch Government has sent President Kruger a remonstrance respecting the disastrous consequences that are likely to follow persistence in his present policy."

Kruger Will Give No More.

Pretoria, June 15.—The Volksraad has resolved to accept President Kruger's franchise proposals and refer them to the people before putting them into operation. President Kruger, in thanking the Raad, said that in these troublesome times they could not know what was going to happen. England had not made even one little concession, and he could not give more. He reminded the Raad that Germany had always stood by them. War, he asserted, he did not want, but he would not relinquish anything more.

The trial of the alleged former British officers who were arrested at Johannesburg on May 16 last, on the charge of high treason in having attempted to enroll men with a view to a rebellious outbreak, which began here on June 9, terminated yesterday. The prisoners were remanded.

THE PEACE CONFERENCE

May Not Adjourn Until the Middle of July.

The Hague, June 15.—It is now expected the peace conference will not adjourn before the middle of July, as it is thought the labors of the delegates will not be finished before that time, but there is the additional question of the acceptance by the powers of the decisions adopted by the conference.

Great Britain and Brussels Conference.

The refusal of Great Britain to accept the stipulations of the Brussels conference, if they should be made definite, would not prevent the other powers from pledging themselves to action in the matter. There is no doubt that the Brussels conference sub-committee will reach a practical result, but it is possible some of the powers, while reserving the right to apply the new stipulations when necessary, may not consent to bind themselves forthwith.

Dr. Zorn and Arbitration.

London, June 15.—The correspondent of The Daily Chronicle at The Hague reports an interview he has had with Dr. Zorn of the German delegation regarding arbitration. Dr. Zorn said: "Nothing is lost. We shall continue the negotiations in the most friendly spirit. My personal opinion in no way commits Germany, and I share the general hope of finding a favorable solution."

ALASKA BOUNDARY.

Satisfactory Temporary Arrangement of the Question.

London, June 15.—The United States ambassador here, Mr. Joseph H. Choate, has just received from the Foreign Office a communication on the Alaska question which, it is understood, is a satisfactory temporary arrangement of the affair.

The officials of the Foreign Office, while unwilling to discuss the details, assure the Associated Press that the Alaska difficulties are practically smoothed over until the meeting of the high commission in August.

Lightning Killed Him.

Sutton, Ont., June 15.—Walter Fairbairn, son of John Fairbairn of Georgina Township, was killed by lightning yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock on Mr. J. L. Howard's farm, one mile from this place. The deceased and Mr. Howard were putting posts under the barn at the time Fairbairn was killed, and Mr. Howard was knocked down by the shock and stunned.

A LOT OF MINOR MATTERS

Were Taken Up and Discussed in the House of Commons.

Col. Hughes After Mr. McLaughlin—Postmaster-General Reads a Letter From the Latter That He Deems Unfit to Be Made a Precedent—Supplementary Estimates Were Put Through in Good Shape.

Ottawa, June 15.—At the opening of the House yesterday Hon. Mr. Blair said, in reply to Mr. George Taylor, that the Government had not settled any claim of Robertson and other farmers for alleged damage by flooding in reconstructing the Grenville Canal.

Some Information.

Hon. Mr. Tarte, in reply to Mr. Hodgins, said that during the past year 2,960 steel boxes had been purchased from the Ottawa Specialty Company and 784 from the Toronto Office Furniture Company for the Department of Interior and Indian Affairs.

Before the orders of the day were called the Minister of the Interior said that he had inquired into certain charges to which attention had been called by Dr. Roche against a Dominion land officer in Manitoba, but there was no land officer of the name given and never had been.

The Postmaster-General read a letter from R. J. McLaughlin of Lindsay, giving his version of the charges made against him by Col. Hughes of "exacting" money. Mr. McLaughlin ran against Col. Hughes at the last general election, and the charge was that McLaughlin was appointed by the present Government to settle some claims of farmers for flooded lands and had "exacted" 20 per cent. from the farmers.

McLaughlin in his letter asserts that he acted purely as solicitor for the farmers' interested, and denies the charges.

Col. Hughes repeated his charges and considerable discussion followed, in the course of which Mr. Mulock said that Col. Hughes could have a Parliamentary committee to investigate the matter if he wished it.

Another Question Arose.

Out of the discussion a question of order arose. It was as to the right of a member of Parliament to read a letter from a private citizen, reflecting on a debate that had taken place in the House. The Opposition contended that the reading of such a letter on a mere motion that it be laid on the table of the House, as was done in this case, opened the door for a practice that might prove far reaching and serious; if such a precedent were allowed there would be nothing to prevent a flood of letters being read in the House.

Mr. Mulock, who had read the letter, recognised the force of the Opposition argument and said the precedent would not be a proper one to establish.

Mr. Speaker declared after further discussion that the motion was out of order. However, he did not care to give a decision upon the general question raised, without further consideration.

Mr. Bergeron—I suppose, Mr. Speaker, you will then have all this discussion struck out of Hansard?

Mr. Speaker—I have no control over Hansard.

Considering the Estimates.

The House then went into committee of supply on the supplementary estimates brought down night before last, and made excellent progress. There were a number of votes under the head of Civil Government for payments to officials "notwithstanding anything to the contrary in the Civil Service Act," and Mr. McMullen protested vigorously against this practice, saying the act should either be lived up to or amended so that it could be lived up to.

Bills Advanced.

After recess the private bill respecting the Quebec, Montmorency & Charlevoix Railway passed through committee, was reported and stands for third reading.

The act respecting the Canada Accident Assurance Company went through committee, was read a third time and passed, as was also the act to incorporate the Canada Plate Glass Assurance Company.

The House went into committee on the THURSDAY, JUNE 15, 1899.

MINISTERS IMPOSED UPON.

Mr. Garrow did not know that the outside boodlers of the Government were operating in West Huron at his bye-election. In fact Mr Garrow said he wished they had not been sent. Poor Mr Garrow! Poor Mr Dryden! They are objects for sympathy and pity! The party managers at headquarters sends these Government agents into their ridings to win the by-election by boodling and fraud, and never said a word to Mr Garrow or Mr Dryden, who, now that they have made the discovery when it came out in court, are overshadowed with grief and weighed down with sorrow. It is too bad that two members of the Ontario Cabinet should be thus imposed upon and so badly treated by the managers at Grit headquarters. But, of course, Mr Dryden feels better now. He has written a letter to the local party managers in South Ontario telling them they must "set their faces against corruption." That will ease his conscience—but, pshaw, what a joke that letter was anyway.

It is now in order for Mr Garrow to write a letter demanding the local party workers in West Huron "to set their faces against corruption," but he must not make a fatal error and score the Grit Government machine that sent the outside boodlers into West Huron to practice corruption.

No body of strikers ever had public opinion so solidly and so strongly behind them as have the striking G T R trackmen. No acts of violence should be allowed to impair this public sympathy and support. The strikers have conducted themselves well and will, no doubt, continue to do so. But the sympathisers may need to be warned. Any acts that will endanger life or property can only do injury to the trackmen's cause Let order and good conduct prevail.

THE Drummond county deal in its new and revised form has passed the House of Commons and will now be dealt with by the Senators. One satisfaction that will come to the Senators who killed the deal as at first presented is that this revised edition forces the acknowledgement that the first one was entitled to the death sentence passed upon it by the Senate, and that by executing that sentence and preventing the deal going through the Upper Chamber saved the people much money and deprived them of nothing.

THE Methodist Conference have read Mr Tarte's reference to the Methodists of Anticosti and have passed resolutions condemning the attack and demanding an apology. Mr Tarte by private letter and public interview is now trying to make people believe that they cannot understand English when they read it, and that he made no attack on the Methodists. Its strange that these intelligent men should be so unanimous in a false interpretation of Mr Tarte's speech if he made no such attack, and it is equally strange that Mr Tarte should feel it necessary to make so much defence of an attack he never made, according to himself.

IN discussing the REVIEW'S reference to the bribery and corruption exposed in South Ontario, followed by Hon. John Dryden's famous letter, the Examiner wisely avoids the point the REVIEW emphasized. The REVIEW does not defend or excuse the corrupt acts which led to the unseating of any Conservative, but pointed out that in the case of Mr Calder in South Ontario these acts were those of local men, while in Mr Dryden's case the bribery was the work of outsiders, and the evidence in the West Huron case shows that these outsiders were an organized gang working in the Government's interests in the different constituencies where bye-elections were held. This organized gang of Government agents and their boodling and corrupting show a condition of affairs that is indefensible, that is a disgrace to the discredited Grit machine that has managed to hold office by its practices of coercion and corruption. The discredited combination have resorted to desperate means.

act to incorporate the Niagara, St. Catharines & Toronto Railway Company, and the discussion on the bill was not completed when the hour for private bills expired. The House then went again into committee of supply on the supplementaries for the current year and passed a large number of items.

Going to Europe.

Mr. T. Chase Casgrain, M.P., left yesterday en route for Europe. He said laughingly that he hoped to be back before the House rose if the redistribution bill was persisted in.

Chief Justice Sir Henry Strong is expected to leave for England in the course of a few days to attend the meetings of the judicial committee of the Privy Council.

Inspection of Petroleum.

Ottawa, June 15.—In the Senate yesterday afternoon the bill respecting the inspection of petroleum and naphtha was considered in committee, the Secretary of State explaining the bill. An amendment was incorporated to lower the temperature test from 90 to 80 degrees, after which the committee rose and reported progress and asked leave to sit again.

NOTHING YET DECIDED.

Premier Laurier Is Interviewed by the G.T.R. Trackmen's Committee—The Strike Situation Elsewhere.

Ottawa, June 15.—There have been two meetings of the representatives of the striking Grand Trunk trackmen, James Pole, president of the Trackmen's Union; Joseph Harris, secretary; H. F. Keaney, Grand Secretary; James Burk, and A. Hudson, with Sir Wilfrid Laurier and other members of the Government, and with Mr. James Sutherland, the Government whip, but they were strictly private and the delegates seen said they were not at liberty to say more than that nothing had been decided. Mr. Wainwright had an interview with the Premier after the afternoon meeting.

The Road Inspection.

Hamilton, June 15.—The Government inspector passed through here on the G. T. R. yesterday. He was in Superintendent Jones' private car with Mr. Jones.

No Change at Toronto.

Toronto, June 15.—There were no new developments in the trackmen's strike of the Grand Trunk Railway yesterday. Both General Superintendent McGuigan and Grand Organiser Lowe were in the city, and both brought good news to their respective bodies. The men say they are out to win and they will continue the strike.

What Mr. McGuigan Says.

Last night General Superintendent McGuigan said: "We have enough of trackmen on the entire system to properly look after the tracks. Out of the regular summer staff of 1,000 men on the middle division there are now 600 on duty. On the northern we have not regarded that part so important, but there are probably 100 at work. The places of the strikers who still refuse to return to work will be gradually filled, and if any of the old hands apply for jobs after their posts have been filled by others the company will likely assign them to other duties."

All the lines east of Montreal, he said, were well patrolled, and there were only men out on about six sections. Mr. McGuigan is satisfied with the condition of things, and says he is not losing any sleep over the strike. The trouble, he now claims, is about over, the men having been vanquished. Mr. McGuigan will go east to Montreal this morning.

Three Thousand Men Quit.

Denver, Col., June 15.—The 3,000 employes of the trust smelters in Denver, Pueblo and Leadville walked out at noon yesterday, after having extinguished the fires in the big furnaces and put everything in perfect order for a season of idleness. The strike is due to the refusal of the American Smelting & Refining Company to pay the same wages for eight hours as it has paid heretofore for 10 or 12 hours.

BUFFALO'S BIG STRIKE.

Organizer Joyce Advises the Men to Carry Revolvers.

Buffalo, N.Y., June 15.—Fully 3,500 men are on strike or have quit work along the docks for various reasons and outside of the elevating of grain no work is being done. The freight handlers held a big meeting last night and decided to remain out until the demand of the Erie housemen for an increase of one cent an hour in wages is granted.

At the freight handlers' meeting last night Organizer Michael Joyce advised the men to carry revolvers when they return to work. He said it was absolutely necessary for their own protection.

VANLUVEN HELPED PEOPLE.

Loaned Them Public Money and Then They Went Back on Him.

Kingston, Ont., June 15.—The report of the select committee appointed to inquire into the affairs of Vanluven, the late treasurer of the County of Frontenac, is made public. The evidence of a number of witnesses goes to show Vanluven was in the habit of loaning money freely.

R. J. Gowdy, in his evidence, says that in an interview Vanluven stated to him that his (Vanluven's) financial condition was such that he was afraid he would be arrested if he divulged the names of parties owing him, and that he was threatened with arrest if he divulged the names. When he asked for money from his creditors they simply snapped their fingers in his face. He also stated that there were county officials for years back that owed him money.

THE FILIPINOS RETREATED.

They Are Now in the Strongly Fortified Town of Imus.

They Are Ready for Another Fight—Reconnaissance by Gen. Lawton—He Found Many White Flags, Women and Children, But No Soldiers—One Hundred Killed—Fierceness of Tuesday's Battle Shown by the Torn Trees.

Manila, June 15.—The Filipinos retreated several miles southward after yesterday's engagement, to the strongly-fortified town of Imus. The shelling of the American warships drove the rebels from Bacoora, so the Americans control several more miles of coast. Gen. Lawton, with his staff and a troop of the 4th Cavalry, started to ascertain the nature of the insurgents' position. He rode five miles along the coast to Bacoora without discovering the enemy and found the town full of white flags, but there were no soldiers there. The women and children who had fled to the woods during the bombardment were camping in the ruins of their homes. The shells had almost knocked the town to pieces. The big church was wrecked and many buildings were ruined. Even the trees and shrubbery were torn as by a hailstorm. Several hundred women and children came into the American lines for refuge and the road from Bacoora was covered all day long with processions of them on foot and in carts, driving animals and carrying goods on their heads.

The appearance of the battlefield testified to the fierceness of yesterday's fighting. The trees along the river between the lines are almost torn down by bullets. The American officers estimate that 100 were killed and that 300 were wounded during the engagement. The next battle will probably be fought at Imus. The American troops will soon control the coast of Cavite.

CORPSES, MANGLED PEOPLE.

Past Tornado Scenes in the Stricken Town of New Richmond, Wis.

New Richmond, Wis., June 15.—Fully 100 corpses, twice as many mangled people, 40 acres of piles of brick, shivered planks, scattered heaps of household goods, dead horses, through which the wind had driven sharp splinters of board, smouldering fires, where houses stood previous to the cyclone, and in the midst of it all trees as bare of leaves as ever they were in the middle of winter, and for the most part, stripped bare of bark—this is what the funnel of death wrought in the space of three minutes upon the town of New Richmond.

Winona Suffered Heavily.

Winona, Minn., June 15.—A storm broke over this city Tuesday night and did much damage, estimated at more than $200,000.

Nebraska Towns Flooded.

Omaha, Neb., June 15. — Eastern Nebraska and western Iowa were visited Tuesday by an unusually severe storm. The amount of water that fell varied from two to five inches, and many towns were flooded.

Ten Killed at Herman, Neb.

Herman, Neb., June 15.—Ten were killed and about 25 injured in Tuesday night's tornado here. Not a building in the town escaped damage.

THE C.P.R. STAFF.

Some of the More Important Minor Changes Given Out.

Montreal, June 15.—An advance copy of the Canadian Pacific's minor changes is as follows:

Mr. Robert Kerr will leave Winnipeg and come to Montreal to fill the position of passenger traffic manager, vacated by Mr. D. McNicoll, who has become assistant general manager.

Mr. W. R. MacInnes of Chicago is appointed general freight agent west of Lake Superior, with headquarters at Winnipeg.

Mr. W. A. Kittermaster, who has been freight agent at Detroit, will replace Mr. MacInnes in Chicago, and the Detroit office will be filled by Mr. M. H. Brown, who has been chief clerk, with Mr. George M. Bosworth freight traffic manager in this city.

Mr. C. E. Macpherson of Toronto is slated for Winnipeg as general passenger agent for western lines.

Official Stamp on Gold.

Victoria, B.C., June 15.—The Provincial Government have consented to allow the official stamp to be placed upon gold assayed and run into bars by the provincial assayer here, and the Board of Trade is taking steps to advertise to miners that this will make their gold readily negotiable in Victoria at its full value.

The Bishopric of London.

Montreal, June 15.—Rev. Father Quinlivan of St. Patrick's Church, this city, has been offered the bishopric of London, Ont., in succession to Bishop O'Connor. Father Quinlivan is a native of Stratford, Ont.

Albi Not Guilty.

Spokane, Wash., June 15.—The jury in the case of William Albi, charged with the murder of James Halley of Toronto, has just returned a verdict of not guilty. It took the jury nearly 16 hours to reach this verdict.

Cracksmen at Work.

Parkhead, Ont., June 15.—Last night burglars blew open the safe in M. S. Rourke's general store here, securing about $60.

North Hastings Election Trial June 27.

Belleville, Ont., June 15.—North Hastings election trial has been fixed for June 27, before Justices Rose and Osler.

THE PRESBYTERIAN ASSEMBLY.

25th Gathering Has Begun Its Work in Hamilton.

Hamilton, June 15.—The 25th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of Canada has begun its deliberations. Central Church is the scene and in the handsome school house, next door, the various committees are supplied with room. There are also the assembly clerk's office, postoffice and office for registering. About 400 ministers and elders are expected.

The business before the assembly includes the usual reports of the standing committees. The question of raising a century fund will occupy the attention of the assembly. Among the overtures to be presented to the general assembly is one relating to the question of elder moderators. The overture asks the assembly to frame a deliverance regarding the matter. The church is divided as to the propriety of other than a minister occupying the position of moderator of any of the ecclesiastical courts An overture is also to be submitted asking the church to take action for the appointment of an executive to represent the church in any emergency that may arise from year to year.

Evening Sederunt.

The sederunt opened last evening at 7.45 and besides the commissioners there were many persons present. Rev. Dr. Torrance conducted the opening devotional exercises and preached an eloquent sermon.

At the close of the sermon the moderator made a short address, referring to his retirement from the office. He spoke feelingly of the death of the late Rev. Dr. Cochrane, chairman of the home mission committee, and the demise of Rev. Dr. King, late principal of the college at Winnipeg.

Rev. Dr. Campbell Moderator.

The election of moderator took up considerable time. There were three nominations, as follows: Prof. Bryce, Winnipeg; Rev. G. M. Milligan, Toronto, and Rev. Dr. Campbell, Renfrew. On the first ballot the first-named was dropped, and on the second Rev. Dr. Campbell was elected by 182 votes to 93.

The induction of the new moderator was conducted by Principal Grant of Queen's University.

A Young Canadian Victim.

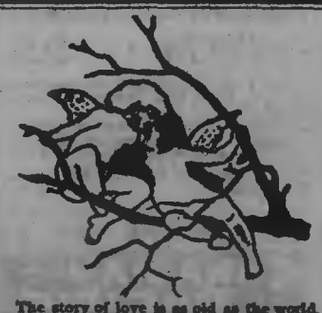
Kingston, Ont., June 15.—Roger Richardson of Napanee has been notified that the remains of his son, J. C. Richardson, aged 24 years, were en route from Manila to be interred at Washington. He was a corporal in D. Co., Virginia Infantry. He was a splendid specimen of manhood, weighing 200 pounds. He was attacked by fever in the Philippines, and succumbed.

INDIANS DOING WELL.

The Northwest Red Men Are Becoming Good Farmers.

Ottawa, June 15.—The annual report of the Northwest Mounted Police Department was laid on the table yesterday afternoon by Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

The report of Col. Herchmer is dated Dec. 20, 1898, and gives some interesting details of the work of the force during the year. With respect to the Indians the commissioner says: "We have had no trouble with the Indians this year. A growing inclination to make money, fostered by the Indian Department, who have given them every opportunity, has kept the able-bodied men of most bands at work and between freighting and hay-making and the gathering of crops most of their time has been fully occupied. They have sold a great deal of hay at good prices and have also, particularly in the north, sold a number of splendid steers, besides supplying their reserves with beef. They pay great attention to their cattle, and their steers are probably as good as those disposed of by the best farmers in the country; and if the department only continues in this wise policy of frequently changing the bulls, only buying the best, they will soon be very rich in good cattle."



The story of love is as old as the world, and as all embracing as the universe. It furnishes the sentiment for all romances—all novels—all plays.

The novelist considers it wholly from the sentimental, intellectual side, but there is another aspect even more important—the physical side. Sentimental love between men and women leads to close physical association—to marriage—to the rearing of children. And so health must be considered. A weak, sickly, head-achey, back-achey woman cannot be a good, helpful wife. She cannot bear healthy, happy children. She cannot give her children the proper care and training.

A sick woman has no right to marry. A sick woman has no right to attempt motherhood.

But no woman need be sick unless afflicted with cancer. There is a sure way for her to regain her health. She need not go to a local doctor and submit to the disagreeable questionings, "examinations" and "local treatments" so invariably insisted upon, and so justly abhorrent to every modest woman.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., has cured more cases of female weakness than any hundred local practitioners. He has proved that diseases distinctly feminine can be cured right in the privacy of home.

Write to him stating your symptoms and an account of your trouble and he will give your case careful, confidential consideration and prescribe for you free of charge.

Mrs. O. N. Fisher, of 484 Lexington Avenue, New York City, writes: "I had been a sufferer from nervousness with all its symptoms and complications. In the spring of 1897 I began to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Now I am not cross and irritable. I have a good color in my face and have gained ten pounds."

Druggist

Didn't Have Them!

Now and then you will find a druggist (or a grocer) who doesn't sell those English Home Dyes of highest quality — Maypole Soap Dyes, but such cases are rare. Articles of highest quality usually pay the person who sells them to you the smallest profit—do you see the point?

Maypole Soap washes and dyes at one operation. It is clean, quick, safe, brilliant—absolutely will not fade, streak or crock. For home dyeing it is ideal — no mess or trouble. All colors in it and it dyes to any shade. 10 cents a cake (15 cents for black) for Maypole Soap Dyes.

If you can't get it or your dealer won't get it for you, send the money to the wholesale depot, 2 Place Royale, Montreal, for any color and a free book on successful Home Dyeing.

RIOTING IN JAMAICA.

Fears That the Outbreak May Affect the Banana Output.

Kingston, Ja., June 15.—Advices from St. Mary report serious agrarian rioting last Saturday and again yesterday on the plantations, in the banana district near Richmond on the north coast of the island. The disturbances are said to have originated in ejectment proceedings brought against tenants. Full particulars are not yet at hand, but it is known that Mr. Melville, an overseer at Llanrumney, and his assistant escaped dangerously wounded, after having fired upon the rioters with fatal results. Fears are entertained that the trouble may spread and affect the banana output.

The Venezuelan Dispute.

Paris, June 15.—A preliminary and informal meeting of counsel engaged in the Venezuelan arbitration took place at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs yesterday morning. The meeting of the Venezuelan commission will be held in the apartment placed at the disposal of the Spanish-American peace commission. The first formal meeting of the commission will take place at 11 o'clock this morning.

A NEW MAGAZINE PISTOL.

The Kaiser's Army Has Been Supplied With the Latest Invention in Automatic Repeating Firearms.

The German army officers are armed with a new magazine automatic revolver, of which wonderful things are expected. It can be used either as a pistol, or fastened to a gun stock treated as a small rifle. It is believed to be one of the most ingenious of the many automatic guns, revolvers, etc., that use the recoil to perform a number of mechanical actions. A charge in the new revolver consists of ten cartridges grouped together, and these can be discharged with greatest rapidity, one after the other, by means of the mechanism.

Each shot sets up this train of events. The movable breech is thrown back and the extractor rejects the empty shell, the carrier brings a fresh cartridge into position, the hammer is thrown up ready for the next shot, and a spring pushes the cartridge into the chamber and with a slight pressure this is fired and the revolver goes on working automatically until the ten shots are fired. The magazine is easily filled, it taking no more time to place the ten cartridges in their case than it takes to insert a single cartridge into the chamber of an ordinary revolver.

The case of the revolver is made in such a way that it can be fastened to the handle as a gun-stock, and turn it into a rifle. The bullet of hardened lead weighs 5½ grammes. The base has a jacket of lead with nickel. The calibre is 7 mm. 63. The muzzle velocity is about 1,400 feet a second. In trial the bullet has gone through a ten-inch pine target 23 feet away; at 500 feet it penetrates four inches of pine; tried on cadavers at 1,000 feet, it has gone through the body, breaking the humerus, and penetrated three inches into a second body. The sight is graduated to 2,000 feet, but the weapon will throw a bullet 4,000 feet.

KENSINGTON PALACE.

Recently Given by Her Majesty as a Public Museum.

Kensington Palace, which Queen Victoria recently presented to the people of the United Kingdom as a public museum, is valuable because of its association with English history. It became a royal residence in 1690, when King William III. bought it from Lord Nottingham. The King paid $150,000 for the stately pile, and the famed architect, Sir Christopher Wren, added another story. "so that," as the historian puts it, "the house seemed somewhat patched." Queen Anne took it up and made additions here and there, which accounts for the remarkably heterogeneous appearance of the building to-day. The first George stuck a cupola upon it, and the second added the west wing. The son of George III. died here, and there were many other deaths in the quaint building, but there was never a birth until that of Victoria. In the northwest corner of the dwelling is a room with three windows looking toward the gardens and the ponds. On one of the walls is a brass plate bearing this inscription, "In this room Queen Victoria was born May 24, 1819." Few public buildings in London are more interesting than old Kensington.

KENSINGTON PALACE.

Poverty of Roman Nobility.

The sons and daughters of the princely families of Rome are said to have a pretty hard lot. They are generally very poor, yet they have to live in enormous houses and keep up a tradition of magnificence. The young men drive in dogcarts which, according to rumor, are owned jointly by a dozen of them. The young women are to be seen driving on the Pincio arrayed in stylish hats and coats, wearing good gloves and carrying pretty parasols. "And yet," says the English correspondent who is responsible for this gossip, "their distrait expression shows that they are uneasy in their minds. The particular form of guilt which burdens their souls is a dread that some one will invite them to descend and stroll about the bandstand, revealing the fact that their coats or waists, and their boots more open to criticism than their gloves."

Bowl Made of Gold Nuggets.

A most unique punch bowl was recently made in San Francisco to be sent to British Columbia as a token of appreciation and good-feeling on the part of the Yukon miners toward Captain Constantine, of the Canadian Mounted Police. It is a massive cut-glass bowl, with a heavy but artistic standard formed of more than 500 nuggets of gold soldered together just as they came from the placer beds of the Yukon region. This unique tribute to the Canadian official is strikingly suggestive of the golden wealth of the Klondike. Owing to the development of gold in the Yukon region Canada now takes high place on the list of the gold-producing countries. Our contribution for 1898 was nearly $14,000,000, and the probabilities point to a largely increasing production in the Yukon mines during 1899.

DOMINION CONVENTION.

Christian Endeavor Convention to be Held in Montreal, October 5-9, 1899.

Three years ago at Ottawa, during the joint convention of Ontario and Quebec Provincial Christian Endeavor Unions, a Canadian Council of Christian Endeavor was formed, and it was arranged that the first National Convention should be held under its auspices, in 1899, in the city of Montreal. The annual provincial conventions of Quebec and Ontario have been withdrawn for this year, from which fact the success of the Montreal meeting may be regarded as already assured, so far as attendance is concerned; while delegates in considerable numbers are expected from all parts of the country. A large contingent from "down by the sea" is looked for, since there is to be but one C.E. convention in the Maritime Provinces, instead of the usual three annual events. A single-fare rate for the round trip has been secured on all railways. As far as possible, the delegates will be billeted in the Christian homes of the city; the price for these billets has been limited by the local committee to 50 cents a day for a room, and 25 cents for each meal. Suitable accommodation will also be secured in hotels and boarding houses, at such rates as the delegates may wish to pay; so that all who would come are promised comfortable homes at a cost within their means.

The Dominion Convention will be held in the magnificent and capacious St. James' Methodist Church, on St. Catherine-st., beginning Thursday, October 5th, and closing Monday, the 9th. The programme and general arrangements are in the hands of the Canadian Council, which is composed of Mr. G. Tower Ferguson, Toronto, President; Rev. S. P. Rose, D.D., Ottawa, Vice-President; Mr. C. J. Atkinson, Toronto, Secretary-Treasurer; together with the Presidents of the eight provincial unions. A committee has charge of the local arrangements.

The programme is now being outlined, and among the prominent speakers already secured, whom all will be eager to hear, are the Rev. Dr. Wilbur Chapman, of Philadelphia, and J. W. Baer, of Boston, Secretary of the United Society. Both gentlemen are eloquent speakers. A social reception to the delegates in Erskine Church, the beautiful Presbyterian edifice on Sherbrooke-st., is proposed for the first night of the Convention, and a grand Junior Endeavor rally with a specially attractive programme is being arranged for Saturday afternoon. Saturday morning, it is expected that provincial rallies will be held.

THE CATERPILLAR PEST.

It Was Introduced on This Continent Less Than Two Decades Ago

The arrival on this continent of the species of caterpillar whi hhas caused such destruction in the vicinity of Peterborough, is a matter of less than two decades, according to the Montreal Star.

The moth from which these caterpillars spring was in 1880, brought to this country by a French savant, residing at Medford, a suburb of Boston, his object being to cross it with a silk worm, and so originate a robust silk-producing hybrid for America. The scheme failed, and the caterpillars liberated by a gale from their netted enclosure, spread slowly over the adjacent country, in nine or ten years they swarmed in irresistible herds, sweeping clean orchards, gardens, groves, and street trees. When the impulse of transformation in July drives them to shelter, they huddle under whatever affords security, and casting their hairy coats they change into pupae or a chrysalis. In August they evolve into moths, which deposit myriads of eggs, to hatch out in the following spring. These egg clutches are not unlike fish spawn coated with shell-lac, and in 1891 at Medford, eight brimming cart loads" were removed by a small official force and destroyed, but the nuisance was not abated.

In 1892 the State of Massachusetts abandoning reliance on individual effort, opened an official contest with the moth, and the State Board of Agriculture tried method after method for extermination. Arsenical spraying failed to take effect, and the only sure remedy for destruction was found in banding the tree trunks some feet from the ground with wide strips of coarse bagging, or "burlaps." The caterpillar is typically nocturnal and prefers at sunrise to crawl from his night forage in the foliage down the tree trunks to sheltered spots a few feet from the ground. A large force of men going back and forth among the trees working along and twining back like a farmer plowing his field, scrutinize these burlaps and destroy their contents. About the middle of July the pupae are hunted for and destroyed, and from September onward the egg bunches on the tree, boughs and twigs are searched for by an exactly ordered system till every square rod of territory within certain limits has been gone over. Where the eggs are not easily reached by hand they are smeared by means of long poles with a "creosotic compound," very destructive, whilst those that can be handpicked are burned with petroleum.

The results, so far, in Massachusetts have more than justified the outlay. Backed by insufficient appropriations and a working force at no time adequate the State Board of Agriculture has held down the pest, so that since the first outbreak it has never required sufficient headway there to seriously affect the region within which these operations kept it penned. Pictorial literature warning against the pest is officially circulated throughout Massachusetts. "Never," we are authoritatively assured, "has extermination looked so promising as it looks to-day." The organized agricultural and horticultural interests of the State are awake to the danger, and non-official searching for eggs and pupae goes on continually with organized efforts."

How to Pronounce Albany.

The common usage of pronouncing the name of our city as though it were spelled Allbany has so long prevailed that it will probably surprise many readers to be told that the first syllable of the name is properly short and should be pronounced like the Al in Alfred and Albert. Edwin Forrest, who was an accurate orthoepist, called this city Al-bany, not All-bany or Awl-bany.

A bucket 743 miles deep and 743 miles from side to side would hold every drop of the ocean. The bucket could rest quite firmly on the British isles. To fill the bucket one would need to work 10,000 steam pumps, each sucking up 1,000 tons of sea.

Mexico has an area of 751,000 square miles or nearly one-fourth that of the United States.

Free Medical Treatment For Weak Men

Who are Willing to Pay When Convinced of Cure.

LOCAL LEGAL.

An Appeal in the Jamie-Armstrong Case Dismissed With Costs.

The Globe in its Osgoode Hall reports refers as follows to a case of local interest:

James v. Armstrong,—R. R. Hall for defendants, W. H. G. Armstrong and wife, moved to set aside verdict and judgment for plaintiff for $200 in an action for libel tried before Robertson J., and a jury at Peterborough, and to dismiss the action on the ground that the alleged libel was privileged, or for a new trial, on the ground of misdirection and nondirection. The plaintiff was a girl of sixteen years, and the alleged libel was contained in a letter written by one or both of the defendants and sent to plaintiff's father and mother, which in effect, charged that the plaintiff was a prostitute. The letter was written in answer to a letter written by the plaintiff's mother to one of the defendants, in which the conduct of the defendant, W. H. G. Armstrong, in regard to the plaintiff's daughter was impugned. The privilege claimed was on account of the letter having been written in answer to the other, and having been written in discharge of a duty owed to the plaintiff's parents. E. B. Stone, Peterborough, for plaintiff, showed cause. Motion dismissed with costs.

OBITUARY.

Death of Mr John Hazlitt, One of Otonabee Boro's Pioneers.

The death occurred Wednesday morning in Otonabee, of Mr. John Hazlitt, aged 83 years, son of the late John Hazlitt, also of Otonabee, and brother of Mr. T. G. Hazlitt, of Peterborough.

The deceased was born in the county Armagh, Ireland, but came to Canada in the forties. After a short sojourn he returned to Ireland, and induced the family to follow his example and take up residence in British North America, which they did in 1847, settling in Otonabee, with the exception of Mr. T. G. Hazlitt, who located in Peterborough. The deceased was highly esteemed. He was a member of St. Paul's church.

Had the subject of this notice lived until next month the golden anniversary of his wedding with Miss Dick, of Kingston, would have been celebrated. A widow and eight children survive, viz., Mrs. Jos. Howson of the Northwest; Mrs. W. Miller, Keene; Mrs. Frank Sanderson, Smith; Mrs. J. Lancashire, Otonabee; Mrs. John Dickson, Otonabee; Mrs. Roland Johnston, Peterborough; Miss Emily Hazlitt, of the homestead; and Thomas Hazlitt of Otonabee.

The funeral takes place from the family residence, lot 17, con. 12, of Otonabee, to-day, Thursday, to the Little Lake cemetery.

THE BIBLE CONFERENCE.

Some Interesting Addresses at the Conference at the Y M C A.

Last night at the Bible Conference held in the Y.M.C.A. the Rev. Dr. Stewart, principal of the Bible Training School of Toronto, gave an address on "The Importance of Bible Study." The address was interesting throughout and some excellent points on Bible study were brought out.

Afterwards Dr. Harris, president of the Toronto Bible Training School, spoke on "The Characteristic Difference of the Four Gospels." The chief characteristic or the key word of Matthew "Christ the King," of Mark "Christ the Servant," of Luke "Christ the Son of Man," and of John "Christ the Son of God." Quite a large number were present and all felt they were amply repaid for coming. Yesterday afternoon Rev. Elmore Harris, D.D., gave an address on the Epistle to the Hebrews.

To-night Dr. Stewart will speak to Sunday school teachers as to the methods of teaching a Sunday school lesson, and he will take up the lesson for next Sunday as an example.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

Port Hope Board of Trade Agitating for a Change of Route.

A public meeting under the auspices of the Board of Trade of Port Hope is called for Friday evening, 16th inst., at 8 o'clock sharp, to hear reports and take further action in reference to the Trent Valley Canal.

Several of Port Hope's leading citizens have been interesting themselves about this national undertaking, says the Guide, "and are strongly convinced that by far the easiest, cheapest, and best route is to bring it by Port Hope, and to this end they will lay before the meeting the results of their investigation."

THE COUNTY COURT.

Kennedy Gets His Full Claim in the Case of Kennedy vs Ironsides.

At the County Court yesterday afternoon the case of Kennedy vs. Ironsides was concluded, the jury giving a verdict for the plaintiff for $134.50, the full amount of his claim. The action arose out of a sheep deal. Mr. H. P. Kennedy, the cattle buyer, had contracted with Mr. A. Ironsides, of Toronto, to sell him two double deck cars of sheep f.o.b. Peterborough in the latter part of September, 1898. About October 1st Kennedy and Ironsides went through a lot of sheep here and passed them to the extent of one load and 39 for the second load, there not being enough in the lot for two loads. They then agreed that the balance of the second load should be made up as soon as possible and shipped to R. Ironsides, Montreal, the party to whom the first load was shipped. After Kennedy had the remainder of the second load he met Ironsides on the Toronto cattle market and it was agreed that Kennedy should inspect the remainder of the second load himself, as Ironsides had to go west to fulfil an engagement there and could not come to Peterborough. Kennedy claimed that he carried out all the conditions but had to ship the sheep on a wet day. On the sheep's arrival in Montreal they were refused by R. Ironsides on the ground that they were not up to contract. However, as Kennedy had not his contract with R. Ironsides but with A. Ironsides he telegraphed the Montreal man to that effect, saying that he would see his brother (A. Ironsides) in Toronto on the following day and if the sheep had not been as represented he would allow what was right. Kennedy claimed $744.12 for the load of sheep, but A. Ironsides declined to pay as he said he had been advised by his brother in Montreal not to do so. Some time afterwards Kennedy received from the Montreal man a cheque for $612.52, which he applied on account, and demanded the balance from the defendant who still declining to pay he sued for $134.50. A. Ironsides claimed that he had not bought the sheep but was simply the agent for his brother in Montreal. Plaintiff replied that at time he made his contract he did not know that A. Ironsides was agent or bought for the Montreal man. The jury gave a verdict for plaintiff for the full amount of the claim, $134.50. J. W. Bennett, and E. B. Stone for plaintiff; E. A. DuVernet, Toronto, for defendant. A stay of proceedings was asked for by the defendants and it is understood an appeal will be made on a point of law.

The hearing of the charge against Thos. Maguire of stealing a number of tools the property of Mr. C. Young, of Young's Point, occupied the Court last evening and this morning. Much evidence was offered. The jury returned a verdict of "Not Guilty." Mr. R. E. Wood, County Crown Attorney, conducted the prosecution, and the accused was defended by Mr. D. O'Connell.

A WOMAN BRAVELY GIVES THE ALARM

AND SEVERAL BURGLARS ARE DISTURBED IN THEIR OPERATIONS.

Riley's Drug Store at Bethany Broken Into—The Booty was Small as the Thieves Made Too Much Noise.

Burglars were operating at Bethany on Friday night last, and while they did not get away with much booty, their visit caused considerable excitement in the village. Mr. Harry Riley's general dry goods store was the scene of operations. A plucky woman was the cause of the thieves being disturbed.

Mrs. Preston, a sister of Mr. Riley, with her eight-year-old daughter and her mother and a dressmaker occupied the building, adjacent to the store. The noise of the store door being forced awakened Mrs. Preston, who awakened the others in the dwelling and then started for Mr. Riley's house to give the alarm. The woman went bravely out into the night without waiting to put on boots or clothing. When she went out she had to pass one of the burglars who was on guard at the front, and on looking back she saw two others, so that it is known that three men at least were in the job.

Mr. Riley being alarmed went, with some others, to the store, but the burglars had evidently ascertained that the alarm was being given and had decamped. Examination showed little had been stolen, except some four dollars worth of change from the till. The burglars had started away with Mr. Riley's fur coat, but found it cumbersome and it was found on the road where it had been carried. The thieves were preparing for a good haul when they were frightened off. They had taken a large roll of cotton from the shelf, spread it on the floor and had piled some of the best goods in the store, including some ordered suits, ready for wrapping up.

There was no clue left as to who the burglars were. Mrs. Preston's bravery in giving the alarm undoubtedly saved Mr. Riley's goods from the pilferers.

At Hastings.

His Lordship Bishop O'Connor visited Hastings parish on Saturday and on Sabbath confirmed 84 persons at the morning service. In the evening Rev. Father O'Sullivan took charge of the service. If increase in membership and improvements of premises is any criterion to successful labors on the part of the pastor, Rev. Father McGuire, P.P., has much to rejoice over. We wish him continued success. The Hastings band taking occasion of his Lordship's visit to Hastings, serenaded him on Saturday evening. His Lordship thanked them for their kindness showed to him and complimented them in the manner in which they acquitted themselves.—Star.

The Ring.

There is about as much difference in the personality of the men who met last Friday night for the championship, as there was between Corbett and Fitzsimmons when they met at Carson City in 1897. "Fitz" and Jeffries are not alike in disposition, although "Fitz" has learned diplomacy to some extent. Corbett was always a good press agent for himself, jolly and easy to interview. He was what the public likes in a champion—a good fellow without being a "lusher." "Fitz" when he frist came out, appeared distrustful, and had little to say. This was difference, more than anything else but he was generally charged with being surly and ugly. The falsity of the charge was shown, as "Fitz" went around and the champion became more acquainted with the ways of the world. Aside from his profound conceit the Australian is now far from being an interesting talker, and has developed a little vein of humor. He has never been accused of more intellect than the law allows and in this respect is inferior to both Corbett and Jeffries.

Jeffries is a very young man indeed, the very youngest pugilist to ever figure in a fight of this importance. But he has been around some and is pleasant and accommodating but quiet and hard to become acquainted with. When interrogated his answers are largely of the monosyllabic order as if he had been told by his manager not to say anything.

LATE WM. STEVENSON.

Death and Obsequies of the Father of Mrs Chas McGill at Guelph.

The Guelph Mercury and Advertiser of the 10th, referring to the demise of Mr. William Stevenson, the respected father of Mrs. C. McGill, of town, says:—

"A marked individuality was removed from our midst, when, full of years and crowned with the laurel of an universal respect, William Stevenson passed away. He may well be esteemed as one of the fathers of this city. In his public life a straightforward consistency characterized his course; his private life found its happy reflex in the tender regard in which he was held by his own. He was one who retained the instincts of youth long after age had come upon him, for he possessed in a pronounced degree that simplicity of heart which is peculiarly a quality of good natures. From his earliest boyhood he was a keen student in the halls of literature; as a boy all his pocket-money was spent in securing the works of the authors who have lived and will continue to live. He had followed out the good old-fashioned plan of committing to memory the longer poems that attracted him, and which he would recite to his own fireside group in a manner that was full of charm and interest. His library was a fine collection, lovingly gathered together as the years slipped by, and his books were not placed on their shelves for show only; in his perusal of them, lay one of his chief delights. His love of art was natural and entirely lacked artificiality, but his most pronounced feature was his deep love for Nature and the things that are hers. He had an Englishman's passion for his flowers, which were lovingly tended by him up to the last years of his long life, and many a fine old piece of timber that still graces this city would have been foolishly sacrificed years ago but for the wise restraining hand of this man who has but just passed to his rest. His beautiful home at Maple-hand was reared by him 40 years ago, and he has resided there ever since. It is one of the few old homes in this city which is held by the family which built it, and is one that reminds us of the man whose genial nature was an inspiration to all who partook of that hospitality, which was perfect in its simplicity and sincerity and unbounded in its manly spontaneity. William Stevenson has passed from our midst, but his life-work is as a benediction in the twilight of the hours. He has left to his own

A heritage, it seems to me,
Worth being born to hold in fee."

In a lengthly reference to the obsequies the Guelph Herald says:

"The remains of the late William Stevenson was conveyed to the tomb on Thursday afternoon. At the residence of the deceased, "Maple Bank," a private service was conducted by Rev. J. G. Scott. The cortege moved from the home shortly after half-past one o'clock, and arrived at Norfolk-st. Methodist church about half an hour later. Here a large congregation of sympathising friends had assembled to join in the service. The pulpit and front portion of the sacred edifcie and the pews occupied by the late Mr. Stevenson and his family, were draped in mourning, and on either side of the sacred desk stood a shower bouquet of white Carnations.

"The casket was borne to the front of the church and placed before the communion rail. The solemn service opened with a hymn by the congregation and prayer by Rev. Jas. Harris. Rev. John Mills led in the Scripture reading and a selection was beautifully rendered by a quartette consisting of Mrs. Moore, Miss Kelly, Mr. W. H. Jones and Mr. Chas. Kelly."

Rev. Dr. Ross, Rev. J. G. Scott and Rev. Jas. Harris made impressive addresses.

The service concluded with a hymn and the invocation of the divine blessing by Rev. J. G. Scott. Mr. Chas. H. Crowe played a solemn march and the congregation passed round the bier and took a last look at the remains of their departed friend.

The cortege then proceeded to the Union cemetery, where the remains were interred, the burial service being performed by Rev. J. G. Scott. In the long concourse was a deputation from the City Council, consisting of Mayor Nelson, Ald. J. Kennedy, G. J. Thorp, C. Peterson, and W. F. Barber. The Board of Education was represented by Chairman H. McMillan, ex-Chairman H. W. Peterson, Jas. Cormack and P. Anderson, and Messrs. C. W. Kelly, Wm. McLaren, D. Broadfoot, R. Howie, and R. L. Torrance."

The pall was bourne by President Mills, of the O.A.C., Judge Jamieson, Dr. Savage, ex-Mayor J. A. Lamprey, Mr. John Hutton and Mr. D. Scroggie.

The casket was laden with floral offerings, among which were a beautiful wreath from Dublin-st. church, and a handsome cross from the deceased's family.

Out of respect to the deceased the flag is flying at half-mast on the city hall building to-day.

—The Farmer's picnic is being held at Jubilee park to-day. Quite a crowd left here on the City of Peterborough this morning.

—Rain again interfered and the Sons of England band were unable to give their concert in Victoria Park last evening.

—An Otonabee woman this morning swore out a warrant for the arrest of her husband on a charge of failure to support his children.

—A charge of disorderly conduct, which also resulted in a charge of assault, was on at the police court this morning, but as one of the principals was not able to appear the charges stand.

—The Hastings Catholic Forester's excursion to Muskoka lakes yesterday was not very well patronized, about 150 being on board. The number was not materially increased at Lindsay. The Post says "Rev. P. McGuire, parish priest of Hastings, wrote to the officers of the Lindsay C.M.B.A. society some days ago asking that an effort be made to gather a party here, and President J. R. Shannon called a meeting to discuss the invitation. In consequence of a widespread feeling that the G.T.R. track is not in proper condition, a resolution setting forth the above was adopted," and a message was wired to Father McGuire regretting that the branch for these reasons could not assist the outing.

Idyl Wyld Summer ....Resort

RICE LAKE, ONTARIO.

THIS Breezy and Beautiful Island Summer Resort will re-open for the season of 1899 on June 15th, under entirely new and up-to-date management. Important new additions to the buildings and hotel equipment have been effected. Twenty new Bed Rooms, Sitting Rooms and Waiting Rooms have been added, and entirely refurnished in modern style. Broad balconies extend around each of the two new stories erected, affording picturesque views of the surrounding scenery.

The cuisine will be a special feature—fresh meat, fresh fish, fresh eggs, milk and butter, as well as wholesome vegetables and fruit in abundance, accentuated by a robust appetite, sharpened by the ozone and continual breeze of this idyllic spot.

Good bass and muskinonge fishing are along the shore and lake. No charge for Americans fishing—no permits required. Boats and competent guides furnished. The island steam launch "Outlet Queen," can be engaged for cruising and sailing parties. The Park is open for excursion parties, whether public or private. Tables and Seats for picnic parties are all over the ground in shady groves. Come and spend your summer vacation at Idyl Wyld, and for your life don't miss it.

ENGLISH RED TAPE.

It Took a Broken Leg to Get the Chair Repaired.

It is stated that one morning recently a young fellow who had just secured a clerkship in a government office was considerably startled by a little scene that he witnessed. An elderly man, one of the senior clerks in the room, suddenly rose from his desk, dragged the comfortable chair on which he had been sitting into the middle of the room, seized a poker and attacking the chair with great vigor succeeded in breaking one of its legs. When it was done, the official gave a sigh of relief and flung the chair into a corner of the room. The budding junior's first thought was that his senior had suddenly taken leave of his senses, and he almost expected that his colleagues would put him under restraint. But to his astonishment the other clerks hardly raised their eyes while the work of destruction was in progress. Before the office work was over the newcomer sought information from one of his fellow clerks.

"Can you tell me," said he, "why Mr. Dash carried on in that extraordinary fashion? I mean, of course, when he broke a perfectly sound leg off the chair in which he had been sitting."

"Oh, that was all right!" replied the other with a meaning laugh. "A caster had come off one of the legs of that chair, and, you know, 'my lords' will not provide us with new casters; they will attend to nothing less than a broken leg. So Dash had to break one of the legs to get his chair put right at the public expense."—London Standard.

Why He Loves Nature.

I love the blithe and eager air,
I love the merry breeze,
I love to roam without a care
Beneath the nodding trees.

I love to play in careless guise
Where meadows stretch along,
I love to feast my weary eyes
And babble forth in song.

Fair nature, ever free and grand,
My love will never fail,
For I'm an active burglar, and
I hate the stuffy jail.

Jack Roach to Be Extradited.

Boston, June 15.—John T. Roach, who was arrested here two weeks ago, charged with aiding in the robbery of the Dominion Bank at Napanee, Ont., in 1897, was brought before United States Commissioner Fiske yesterday and held in $5,000 bonds. He will be taken to Canada when the necessary extradition papers have been passed upon by the Secretary of State.

Christian Church Conference.

Brougham, Ont., June 15.—The 74th annual conference of the Christian Church of Ontario met in this place yesterday afternoon. The following officers were elected: President, Rev. C. H. Hainer, Stouffville; secretary, Rev. W. P. Fletcher, Toronto; treasurer, Mr. W. W. Truell, Orono. Nearly all the churches are represented.

Facts About Insect Habits.

Summarizing the habits of insects, Dr. L. O. Howard finds that the injurious kinds include those of 112 families that feed upon cultivated and useful plants and of one family that are parasitic on warm-blooded animals. Among the beneficial kinds he places those of 79 families that prey on other insects, 32 families that act as scavengers, two families that are useful only as pollenizers, and three families that supply food for fishes. There are 23 families that contain both injurious and beneficial forms, and 46 families of undetermined status.

IS THE POEM GREAT?

CRITICAL ANALYSIS OF "THE MAN WITH THE HOE."

One of Millet's Great Paintings Inspired It—How Fame Came Late to a California School Teacher Who Courted the Muse—An Inarticulate Clamor Into Articulate Form—Edwin Markham.

"THE MAN WITH THE HOE."

Bowed by the weight of centuries he leans
Upon his hoe and gazes on the ground.
The emptiness of ages in his face,
And on his back the burdens of the world.
Who made him dead to rapture and despair,
A thing that grieves not and that never hopes,
Stolid and stunned, a brother to the ox?
Who loosened and let down this brutal jaw?
Whose was the hand that slanted back this brow?
Whose breath blew out the light within this brain?

Is this the Thing the Lord God made and gave
To have dominion over sea and land;
To trace the stars and search the heavens for power;
To feel the passion of Eternity?
Is this the Dream He dreamed who shaped the suns
And pillared the blue firmament with light?
Down all the stretch of Hell to its last gulf
There is no shape more terrible than this—
More tongued with censure of the world's blind greed—
More filled with signs and portents for the soul—
More fraught with menace to the universe.

What gulfs between him and the seraphim!
Slave of the wheel of labor, what to him
Are Plato and the swing of Pleiades?
What the long reaches of the peaks of song,
The rift of dawn, the red reddening of the rose?
Through this dread shape the suffering ages look,
Time's tragedy is that aching stoop;
Through this dread shape humanity betrayed,
Plundered, profaned and disinherited,
Cries protest to the Judges of the World,
A protest that is also prophecy.

O masters, lords and rulers in all lands,
Is this the handiwork you give to God,
This monstrous thing distorted and soul-quenched?
How will you ever straighten up this shape;
Give back the upward looking and the light;
Rebuild in it the music and the dreams;
Touch it again with immortality:
Make right the immemorial infamies,
Perfidious wrongs, immedicable woes?

O masters, lords and rulers in all lands,
How will the Future reckon with this Man?
How answer his brute question in that hour
When whirlwinds of rebellion shake the world?
How will it be with kingdoms and with kings—
With those who shape him to the thing he is—
When this dumb Terror shall reply to God
After the silence of the centuries?

"The Man With the Hoe, and Other Poems," by Edwin Markham, has been thus reviewed by The New York Herald: As a wildly jubilant west is looking forward to this book as the great literary event of the generation, it is well to stop and make a few remarks upon poetry in general and then specify the particular place which "The Man With the Hoe" should occupy in contemporary verse. The poet, then, if he be nothing else than a mere artificer of jewelled phrase, is the prophet of a new dispensation. Social convention is the thin upper crust over a volcano that may at any moment break out into fierce action. Good, honest, easy men go to and from their daily tasks treading on this thin crust, with no fore-knowledge of the possible upheaval that at every moment threatens its integrity. They accept what is as what ought to be. Content with a condition of things that yields comfort to many and affluence to a few, they have no consciousness of the angry undercurrents surging within the breasts of the awful majority to whom affluence is an impossibility and comfort an iridescent improbability.

But the true prophet, the true poet, has an ear sensitively alive to the inarticulate clamors from the deeps. He puts these inarticulate clamors into articulate form. The dumb and soulless majority claim him as their spokesman. Good, honest, easy men of the present may fail to recognize in his audacious utterance the seesin of the past, the alarum of the future. They continue their pathway to and fro upon the crust of present convention. Mayhap they look upon him as a fool, or, worse still, as an anarchist, perversely and wickedly seeking to overturn the established order which brings plum pudding to some and bread to many.

But the folly of one generation becomes the wisdom of the next. The French revolution had its germ in the "Marseillaise" and culminated with the "Ca Ira." The aristocrats who turned a deaf ear to the former and continued their mad dance over the prostrate form of the plebeian woke to see that form resurgent and ended by finding themselves strung up to lanterns to the music of the latter.

Is such a revolution impending in America—a bloodless revolution this time, fought not with bullets, but with ballots? If so, Edwin Markham will prove to be at once its despised prophet and its accepted high priest. He sang his "Marseillaise" in many a hymn in honor of labor, whose sound and fury signified nothing for the moment. Then he caught the mob with the "Ca Ira," now famous as his "Man With the Hoe." All readers will remember its poignant cry for justice and atonement.

It rang through the land and awoke responsive echoes everywhere. Provoked by Millet's famous painting, emphasized by the quotation from the Bible, "God made man in his own image," it was recognized as a protest against the extant order for which not men but man is responsible. Why, it asked, are some men foredoomed to hopeless toil, while others, who profit by their toil, dwell idly in pleasure halls and clothe their unproductive selves in purple and fine linen? Who made the one a slave, the other a master?

Great, stormful power is in the poem, great emotion, but no great originality of thought nor metrical perfection of form in the utterance. Emotion is much, thought is much, but form is much also. It is in the union of the three that really great poetry consists.

"The Man With the Hoe" is not a great poem in the sense that the masterpieces of Tennyson or Browning, or even Kipling, are great poems. One may still hold to the comparison with "The Marseillaise" and the "Ca Ira." But neither "The Marseillaise" nor the "Ca Ira" is a great poem. Both were great rallying cries, as "The Man With the Hoe" may prove to be. They voiced a prevalent and eventually dominant mood. They possessed the stormful energy of passionate protest. All this is true likewise of the newer lyric. But of all three it is true that they have not the majesty or authority of the highest poetry.

Charles Edwin Markham is now more than 50 years of age, and has been contributing to Harper's and Scribner's and The Atlantic for nearly a quarter of a century. But not until the appearance of "The Man With the Hoe" did he wake up to find himself famous.

This fame has not turned his head. He speaks modestly enough of his own performance to the reporters who flock to him for interviews.

"I am a man of the hoe," he said to one of these. "I am a child of the furrow. All my youth was passed on a farm and cattle range, among the hard, severe conditions that go with that life. So when I write of the man with the hoe I write to some extent of my own experience."

Mr. Markham has been for many years the principal of a school in Oakland, Cal. Ten years ago, he tells us, he made a visit to a loan exhibition in San Francisco, and then for the first time saw Millet's painting, "The Man With the Hoe."

"I sat for an hour before the painting, and all the time the tenor and power of the picture was growing upon me. I saw that this creation of the painter was no mere peasant, no chance man of the fields, but he was rather a type, a symbol of the toiler, brutalized through long ages of industrial oppression. I saw in this peasant the slow but awful degradation of man through endless, hopeless and joyless labor. I saw in this peasant betrayed humanity, for, Cain to the contrary, we are all more or less our brother's keeper. This picture stuck in my memory for ten years, until my Christmas vacation, and I wrote out the impression of it that had been springing up through my soul all these years."

But we who now have a chance to read Mr. Markham's verse in its entirety can recognize that in many a prelude to the final utterance he breathed the same spirit of altruistic love for the oppressed and hatred for a system which produces unconscious and unintentional oppressors.

Mr. Markham himself furnishes in the closing poem of his book an estimate of his own work. Here it is:

These Songs Will Perish.

These songs will perish like the shapes of air—
The singer and the songs die out forever;
But star-eyed Truth (greater than song or singer)
Sweeps hurrying on; far off she sees a gleam
Upon a peak. She cried to man of old
To build the enduring, glad Fraternal State—
Cries yet through all the ruins of the world—
Through Karnak, through the stones of Babylon—
Cries for a moment through these fading songs.

On winged feet, a form of fadeless youth,
She goes to meet the coming centuries.
And, hurrying, snatches up some human reed,
Blows through it once her terror-bearing note,
And breaks and throws away. It is enough
If we can be a bugle at her lips,
To scatter her contagion on mankind.

After Hours.

Some time ago, on a day set apart for humiliation and prayer, a manufacturer offered to pay his workmen their wages on condition that they attended church. To this they readily agreed.

Shortly before evening service one of the employees called at his employer's residence and told the servant he wished "to see the maistor."

"Now, Jack, what do you want?"

"Well, sor, me and ma mysis hev been taaking the thing ower, and we'd like to knae if we gan to chorch the nest do we get owertime for't?"—Spare Moments.

Evidently Not.

"They say Nibley saves just half of his income every year."

"How does that happen? Have they no neighbors that Nibley's wife doesn't outshine?"—Chicago News.

CASTLE OF HEIDELBERG.

It Is Now Being Restored by the Grand Duchy of Baden.

Parts of old Heidelberg Castle are being restored by the Government of the Grand Duchy of Baden, and these parts very closely reproduce the original as it appeared in the days when the castle was in its prime. There was a castle here as long ago as the thirteenth century, but the buildings of which the ruins now remain were not begun until the fifteenth century, before Louis V. The principal fortifications were erected between 1508 and 1544. The buildings were put up by Frederick II. (1541-1566), by

CASTLE OF HEIDELBERG.

Heinrich (1556-1559) and by Frederick IV. (1593-1610). The demolition of the castle began with the 30 years' war, and that demolition was completed by the minions of Louis XIV. of France. The restoration now going on concerns Frederick's building, or Frederich's Bau, and the walls are as faithfully redecorated as possible. In the unrestored Otto Heinrich's Bau is a collection of paintings, arms and furniture which relate to the history of the castle. Here one can see that the princes of the castle ate with gold forks, but that their chairs would be considered very uncomfortable stools in these days. The illustration here presented shows what "alt Heildelberg" would look like if fully restored to its ancient glory.

Studying Fishes.

A survey of the Nile for the purpose of examining the fishes inhabiting its waters has been ordered by the Egyptian Government in anticipation of changes that may be made by building the dam at Assuan. A similar survey has been begun on the Congo by the authorities of the Congo Free State.

Historical Exhibition in Toronto.

Toronto, June 15.—The formal opening of the Ontario Historical Society's exhibition took place last night in Victoria College. A letter of regret from Sir Oliver Mowat was read, and the Hon. G. W. Ross, in an admirable address, declared the exhibition opened. Addresses were then made by Mr. Coyne, Mr. Patullo, Father Jones, Chief Josiah Hill (a Nanticoke of the Tuscaroras). Among the other chiefs present were: The blind chief, John Gibson of the Senecas, and his young son, Hardy Gibson; the head chief of the Onondagas, Chief Peter Powlis of the Mohawks, Chief Oyyteka or J. O. Brant-Sero of the Mohawks, Nicodemus Porter of the Oneidas, and the chief of the Delawares.

NOT ONE CHILD LIVING.

Result of the Famine in Kazan District in Russia—The Suffering and Disease Is Awful.

London, June 15.—While famine is now threatening the southern provinces of Russia, the correspondent of The Times at St. Petersburg wires that the condition of the seven provinces of East European Russia is worse than it was during the famine of 1891 and 1892.

"Quite half a population of 11,000,000," he says, "are undergoing terrible sufferings, starvation and disease; and the authorities everywhere appear incapable and unprepared to deal with the calamity. Money is squandered in absurdly high pay to relief agents, and, owing to the high prices which the Government charges for seed corn, no encouragement is given to peasants to till the ground.

"It is unnecessary to quote the harrowing details received from the relief agents. These could add nothing to the stern significance of the statement made by a Russian of authority in one district in the Government of Kazan, that not one child born there this year is now alive."

WEST HURON TRIAL.

Two Dollars Seems to Have Been the Ruling Price of Votes—Adjourned to Toronto.

Goderich, Ont., June 15.—The third day of the West Huron election trial saw the end of the case, as far as Goderich is concerned. A great many witnesses were examined, but nothing new or startling was developed. A large number of the charges in the particulars were either abandoned or dismissed. The result of the trial will no doubt largely depend upon the view which the judges take as to the proof of the agency of Walter Vanstone and John T. Linklater, neither of whom has been examined as a witness.

Yesterday further proof was given of the expenditure of money in Wingham by the "Unknown," supposed to be John Sullivan, under the direction of Vanstone and Linklater, and it would seem that the result of the election may have been affected by the money so laid out.

Two dollars seems to have been the ruling price, as quite a number of voters admitted receiving that sum. Mr. M. G. Cameron of Goderich recognised the portrait of Sullivan, which is on exhibition in the case, and admitted having been in his company, though introduced to him by a prominent Conservative. Mr. Cameron stated that he knew of no wrong-doing on the part of Sullivan. No proof was forthcoming of the payment of money to the Blazes Club, or Sons of Rest, and the charges under that head were dismissed. The trial stands adjourned till Saturday at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, and an order has been issued commanding the attendance of Linklater then and there.

HAVEMEYER ON THE SUGAR TRUST.

President of the American Company Blames It All on the Tariff.

Washington, June 15.—Mr. Henry O. Havemeyer, president of the American Sugar Refining Company, was examined by the industrial commission yesterday in connection with its investigation of trusts. His testimony related almost wholly to the sugar industry, and he opened with a vigorous attack upon the customs tariff, which he declared was the "mother of all trusts," becoming such by providing "an inordinate protection to manufactured articles."

He asserted that a tariff of ten per cent. was as high as any tariff should be. He contended that sugar was discriminated against in the tariff in the interest of the Louisiana cane growers, the beet sugar makers and the sugar growers of the Hawaiian Islands. To these interests, he contended, the United States contributed $94,000,000, which was taken out of the pockets of the people. He thought Congress should have put an internal revenue tax on the American production of sugar. The representations made in Congress concerning the trust, he declared, were untrue, and if it was a fact that the people suffered from trusts they must blame the protective tariff system, of which the trusts were merely the machinery.

THE ODORLESS CREMATORY CLOSETS.

I have been appointed Sole Agent for the Odorless Crematory Closet manufactured by the Crematry Closet and General Heating Co., of Hamilton.

This Closet has found a place in many of the best homes in the province, and all who have used it cannot speak too highly of its merits. Medical men speak of it from a sanitary point of view, claiming that, if health is any consideration, no home should be without one. Here are some of the

TESTIMONIALS

Alliston, March 1st, 1898.

I have had one of your "Crematory Closets" in use now for several weeks and am glad to be able to say that I have found it entirely satisfactory in every respect. I have not been able to detect the slightest odor from it at any time and would not be without it. I am sure it must prove a great convenience to people in the country and in towns where water is not obtainable.

Yours respectfully, JAMES CONWAY.

Sheddon, February 28th, 1898.

I have used it for some time and find it perfectly odorless. It is a long felt want and I believe it will become very popular especially in rural districts, towns and villages where wells are so frequently contaminated by the ordinary closets. I am, yours, etc.,

HAS MANY FRIENDS.

Miss Mabel Edwards, Warsaw, the Recipient of Pleasing Gifts.

On Monday evening a number of friends of Miss Mabel Edwards, who leaves to-morrow for Lethbridge, Alberta, called upon her at her father's residence, Warsaw, and in the course of a pleasant evening presented her with the following address, accompanied by the gift of a dozen silver spoons, initialled, a silver sugar spoon and a silver pickle fork:

Miss Mabel Edwards:—

Dear Friend,—Ere you take your departure from our midst to your future home in the great Northwest a few of your intimate friends and associates desire to express to you their regret at the prospect of losing your useful and always welcome help in all that pertains to the temporal and spiritual welfare of the human family.

Whilst expressing our regret on account of your approaching departure from us, your co-workers and acquaintances, yet we assure you our regret is not altogether sad in its nature as we are acquainted with the circumstance which is the cause of your departure, and which, we believe, will tend to your future welfare. Hence this separation brings to us a source of joy. With all heart we wish you and your intended partner a long, happy and prosperous life.

As a slight token of our respect and our regret at the severance, not of our friendship (but by distance), we desire to present you with a tangible token of our love and esteem, believing in your distant home as oft as your eyes behold and your hands touch the tokens of our love they will remind you of the loving friends you have left behind.

Our earnest prayer that God, our Heavenly Father, will bless you and yours with every good and perfect gift, and when our days are numbered and the battle of life is completed may we all meet again in that bright and happy land where parting shall be unknown.

Signed on behalf of the donors,

BERTHA KIDD,

COMMISSIONERS CHOSEN.

Prof Mills and Mr John Dearness to Look Into San Jose Scale.

The chief matter considered by the Ontario Cabinet at its meeting on Tuesday was the appointment of a comission of three to investigate the pros and cons of the San Jose scale question. The names which Hon. Mr. Dryden presented to the Council as his recommendation were Professor Mills, principal of the Agricultural College, Guelph; Mr. John Dearness, of London, a scientist who has made a special study of parasitic life; and Major James Sheppard, of Queenston, a well-known fruit-grower. Of the three recommendations the first two gentlemen named were selected, but the Cabinet did not adopt the name of Major Sheppard. There was a feeling that perhaps it would be as well not to have a fruit grower, who was likely to have individual interests, on the commission. The vacancy will be filled later.

Have You Thought of It?

For four thousand years or more the world groaned suffered and fumed about its corns, for there was no positive relief—no certain and painless cure until Dr Scott Putnam gave to the world his great corn Extractor. PERIL MADE THEM FRIENDS.

The Wild Beasts Herded Together to Escape a Forest Fire.

An incident of forest fires in the hills of the Descanso neighborhood, in southern California, illustrates the comradeship that common peril brings about among beasts as well as among men. After the flames had completed their work of destruction and spread a pall over the hills a rancher went forth among the charred stumps and smoking brushheaps to look for a number of cattle and colts which he feared had been hemmed in by the fire. He went across gully and ridge in his search, until at last he saw his stock some little distance ahead.

He was more than astonished upon coming up to the group to find not only his cattle and colts, but a deer, three wildcats, a coyote and several rabbits, all alive and apparently in no fear of him. They watched his approach with indifference, the timidity gone from the big eyed deer, no venom in the wildcat's purr and honesty shining in the gray coyote's face. The rabbits sat on their haunches as meek as the pets of children. But the poor coyote was in pain, and as the farmer came close the erstwhile robber of the roost dragged his helpless hind quarters toward the man in mute supplication. The legs of the animal had been frightfully burned.

The rancher was in no mood to make friends of such strange creatures, and at once drove his stock through the smoldering brush, the deer going along with the cattle, the rabbits hopping along at the rancher's heels, the wildcats slouching along behind, and the coyote, unable to follow, whining a pathetic appeal for succor. When the burning field was passed, the deer broke into a run for the distant hills, the rabbits were away like a flash, and the old defiance and snarling leer came back to the wildcats, who scorned to make a show of haste. They walked slowly out of sight.—San Diego Union.

GETTING RID OF BUGS.

Science Comes to the Rescue of the Housewife.

Herr Bernegau has earned the thanks of all housekeepers for his long and exhaustive inquiry in regard to the real value of those substances hitherto upheld as efficacious as destroyers of roaches and other domestic insect pests. The result has been somewhat surprising, inasmuch as it has shown that many of the most popular remedies on the market are practically of little use. Insects were caught and kept in glass tubes, so that the effects could be closely watched.

Fresh insect powder made bugs a little uncomfortable for awhile, but they soon recovered and became as lively as before, apparently none the worse for the experience. When mixed with 10 per cent naphthalin, the powder killed a few of the insects only. Hydrogen hyperoxide was a flat failure. Formalin was quite effective, but it costs too much and has unpleasant effects on the person applying it. Coal oil was deadly, but it has a bad odor and is dangerous where contact with fire is possible.

Herr Bernegau finally decided that the perfect insect destroyer is turpentine oil, either alone or with naphthalin. He recommends that the haunts of the insects should be gone over with turpentine oil and naphthalin, applied with a brush. The penetrating odor of the solution chases the insects out of their hiding places, and a little sprinkling of the oil effectually disposes of them.

Where walls are treated with the mixture they should be freshly painted or calcimined after it has soaked in. When the mixture has been applied to beds or furniture, floors or baseboards, they should be instantly washed with a hot solution of carbolic soap (to 3½ gallons of boiling water add a quart of liquid carbolic soap).

To prepare the turpentine oil and naphthalin a quart of the oil should be put into a half gallon jug with 150 grains of naphthalin. The jug must be set in hot water and shaken vigorously. To prepare carbolic acid soap common yellow potash soap and commercial carbolic acid should be heated together until a clear solution is obtained.

PROTECTION OF FISH.

Speckled Trout to Have Considerable Immunity in This Province.

The Ontario Department of Fisheries has issued some important amendments to the regulations to prevent the undue slaughter of fish during the winter, and to protect small fish. The regulations provide that no one shall take fish save by angling without a license; that no one shall take any fish for sale between the 1st day of September and the 15th of April without a license; that bass less than six inches, and speckled trout less than six inches, shall not be taken, but if caught shall be returned to the water. One day's catch of speckled trout is limited to fifteen pounds.

OLD NEWGATE'S FATE

THE FAMOUS OLD JAIL IMMORTALIZED BY CHARLES DICKENS.

It Is to Disappear Even as a Name of an Existing Place—Students of Literature Will Wonder Where It Used to Stand as They Read—The Historian's Bald Tale.

Word of doom has been passed upon Newgate prison and Old Bailey in London—the famous jail and the famous criminal court. Newgate will go first. The actual building now to be razed is nearly 180 years old, a mere juvenile upstart in comparison with some of the ancient places of the city, but the records show that there was a Newgate gaol in the vicinity of the present one as early as 1218, while so recently, comparatively, as 1457, Newgate, and not the Tower, was the prison for the nobility and great officers of state. Being much damaged by the fire of London, it was repaired and beautified by Sir Christopher Wren in 1672, and it remained until it was taken down with the other city gates, necessitating the building of the present gaol in 1770.

And now Newgate jail is to disappear, even as a name of an existing place, and the students of literature in the generations to come will wonder where it used to stand when they read about Jack Sheppard's escapes from it; when they are conducted by Fielding through the career of Jonathan Wild; when they go with "Lord Tom Noddy," in "Ingoldsby," to witness the execution scenes at it, and when they read of the savage deeds which centered around it at the time of the Gordon riots, as related in "Barnaby Rudge," to say nothing of "English History."

The famous "no popery" riots of 1780 form the most striking incident for this and future generations in the history of Newgate gaol, thanks to Dickens' perpetuation of the story in "Barnaby Rudge."

The mere historian tells the tale in a few cold, formal sentences: "In June, 1780, the riots known by the name of Lord George Gordon's, or the 'no popery' riots, lasted, to the eternal disgrace of the city magistracy of that day, for upward of a week, and the new prison of Newgate was burned by the drunken incendiaries of the day. It was speedily repaired, and became the city and county prison. In 1783 the execution of criminals that had previously taken place at Tyburn was removed by the proper authorities to the present spot in front of this prison. The first execution took place on the 9th of December of that year."

But we can forgive "the city magistracy of that day" for an inefficiency which resulted eventually in the inspiration of Dickens to create some of his most famous characters. Most of us have pictured Barnaby lying in the cells of the grim old pile; have seen Sim Tappertit and the rioters, in order to carry out their designs for his release, marching to that valiant locksmith, Dolly Varden's father; have conjured up Gabriel Varden sturdily refusing to pick Newgate's lock; have seen him rescued from the mob by Joe Willet, whose "arm was took off at the defense of the—Salwanners—in America, where the war is;" have witnessed the rioters burning down the goal door and gaining entrance to the prison; have seen Barnaby and his father released by the mob; have seen Dennis the hangman, that adept in the art of "working people off," visiting the doomed criminals, and remonstrating against their release by Hugh, the former hostler at the Maypole Inn; have watched Hugh and Dennis led out to execution, and have heard Hugh plead for Barnaby; and have heard that poor, weak-witted one, contemplating death, say, "Aha! Hugh! we shall know what makes the stars shine now." And now, as the name of a public institution, Newgate gaol is to go; but when every stone of the gaunt old pile is removed it will yet live in imagination so long as a copy of "Barnaby Rudge" remains available.

Society and Responsibility.

All responsibility rests on a basis of possible punishment, and its nature is this: Every man is bound to act as the sum total of the motives he is conscious of impel a mind of his particular description to act. But, into that sum total of motives society introduces the motive of responsibility. To hold a man responsible for his acts is, therefore, no denial of the necessity under which he lay to act as his motives impelled him. It is only concerned with the due balancing of these motives, and if a man has a wish to murder and no counterbalancing motives of sympathy or duty to prevent him, then society supplies him with a proper makeweight motive.

If a red Indian, both by birth, training and tradition, is impelled to take a white man's scalp, we may allow the necessity under which he moves, but then white men confess that, when they see a friend or neighbor scalped, they are under an equal necessity to put a bullet into the scalper. Hence the red Indian refrains from the intended gratification. Not that he is a free-will agent, but that among his motives there has entered a new and dominant motive.—Alexander Sutherland, in North American Review.

Farm Implements in Portugal.

Portuguese farmers are recognizing more and more the value of improved

Agricultural implements, and the imports are growing every year. It is to be regretted that so little attention is paid to this market by Canadian manufacturers. At present the great bulk comes from England, Germany and France.

The Proper Way of Breathing.

To learn to breathe properly, inflate the lungs and walk for five paces, keeping the mouth shut and breathing through the nose, increasing the five paces to ten, and then to 15 or more. Follow this up by taking several long breaths after getting up in the morning and again before retiring.

DALLEY'S SYRUP of HOREHOUND AND ELECAMPANE is a medicine that never fails to cure colds.

Butter and Cheese.

Montreal, June 14.—The Gazette this morning says:—Receipts of cheese were heavy, 12,905 boxes. The firm tone of the market is unaltered, and while business was not active to-day holders were firm. They were asking 8 1-4c to 8 1-2c for western makes, but we cannot learn that the outside price has actually been realized on spot. Eastern markets range from 8 1-8 to 8 1-4c. West of Toronto buyers, as will be noted by our despatch from Ingersoll are not bidding as high prices as in the East, but factorymen are not accepting the bids made them. The cable was 43s 6d on new, old cheese not quoted.

Receipts of butter were 883. There is no change in the market, but though 17 3-8c to 17 1-2c is named as the range for the finest creamery, it is doubtful if these figures are generally obtainable. For dairy butter, 14 to 15c is the range, according to quality.

New York, June 12.—Cheese—In the home trade the market opens with a fair demand for small sizes at 7 1-4c to 7 3-4c for colored, and 7 1-4c to 7 3-4c for fine white. In export, no business was done on the docks. A few cable orders at hand at 7 1-2c for colored; holders are holding for 7 3-4c, which caused a standstill in the market, and it looks strongly as though the market would be 7 3-4c for both colored and white, large sizes.

MANY WERE KILLED IN AN EXPLOSION

TERRIBLE LOSS OF LIFE IN A CAPE BRETON MINE.

Gas Accumulated in an Old Working, and the Explosion Followed—It is Feared That About Forty Men Have Perished.

Special to the Review.

Halifax, June 16.—An explosion occurred this morning in the Caledonia mine near Glace Bay, C.B., which was accompanied by terrible loss of life.

There were over forty men at work at the time and it is believed that nearly all have perished.

Twelve dead bodies have already been taken out and every effort is being made to get all the others who were in the colliery when the explosion happened.

The disaster was caused by an accumulation of gas in an old working. A number of men belonging to the night shift left the pit only a few minutes before the disaster.

Clarke, One of the Trackmen on the G T R, Meets With an Accident

George Clarke, the one trackman of the local union who refused to go out on strike and who has been working all along under police protection, met with an accident while at work down the junction line on Wednesday, which will render him incapable of work for some time. He was engaged in taking out a rail which had expanded from the heat and formed a slight angle where it met with the next rail. While being removed it flew out suddenly and struck Clarke on the leg, breaking one of the bones.

LUNA'S ADDRESS TO HIS ARMY

Apparently After the Order of the Scottish Wallace.

Many People Still Refuse to Credit That the Filipino General Has Been Assassinated by Order of Aguinaldo—It Is Pointed Out That on His Death the Revolution Would Have Collapsed—Americans Got 30 Spaniards.

Manila, June 16.—Captain Cable of General Wheaton's staff, with three companies of the 21st Regiment, reconnoitered in the direction of Imus yesterday. The rebels, who were apparently expecting an attack, retired, leaving behind them 30 Spanish prisoners, who joined the Americans. The rebels have probably gone to the mountains along the lake. According to native stories, the rebels carried 100 dead and 300 wounded through Bacoor after the recent battle. The natives are now flooding into Bacoor, and it is probable there are many soldiers in plain clothes among them. The whole section is practically without food, and Major-General Otis has ordered the distribution of rice and beef to the inhabitants.

Luna's Assassination.

Many people still refuse to credit the stories of the assassination of General Luna by the guard at Aguinaldo's headquarters, though the reports to that effect are most circumstantial and from good sources. But rumors of assassinations and disasters from the rebel camp are so frequently printed in the local papers that they have come to be regarded with indifference. The latest is that the Governor of Cebu has been killed by natives because of his friendship to Americans. A prominent commercial man with exceptional means of learning of the Filipinos' movements claims to know General Luna is still alive, adding that if he is dead and if his death occurred a month ago people would have expected a collapse of the revolution to follow. The failure of the Filipinos to follow up the peace negotiations strengthens the impression that their overtures were merely to gain time and in order to lure the Americans to show their hands.

Luna's Address to His Army.

The Independencia, a revolutionary organ, of May 20, a copy of which has just been obtained, prints an interview with General Luna showing the arguments he used to keep up the spirits of his followers. He represents the Filipino cause as prospering, "because the Americans have gained only a hundredth part of Luzon by hard fighting," and says the women and children tilling the fields within the American lines give the proceeds of their work to support the Filipino arms. He is said to have further remarked: "More Americans will be killed by ambuscades, surprises and disease than in battles. I detest war, but we cannot accept peace at any price but independence. The Americans suffered for their independence and in their hearts they appreciate why we resist them."

Filipino Loss Over 1,300.

Washington, June 16.—General Otis cabled yesterday the following: Manila, June 15.—Adjutant-General, Washington: Success of Lawton's troops in Cavite Province greater than reported yesterday. Enemy, numbering over 4,000, lost in killed, wounded and captured more than one-third; remainder much scattered; have retreated south to Imus, their arsenal; of five pieces of artillery three captured. Navy aided greatly on shore by landing forces occasionally. Inhabitants in that country rejoice at deliverance, and welcome with enthusiastic demonstrations arrival of our troops. Otis.

THE PEACE CONFERENCE.

Fresh Proposals for Permanent Arbitration in the Air.

London, June 16.—The correspondent of The Times at The Hague, remarking upon the "changed outlook," says: "To-day (Thursday) there is a fresh proposal in the air, which may safely be attributed to Sir Julian Pauncefote.

"This consists in making The Hague the seat of a permanent bureau, composed of the resident ministers of foreign states, with the Dutch Foreign Minister president. It would have the advantage of dispensing with salaried officials, and I venture to predict that the plan will be favorably received on all sides and contribute to the success of arbitration."

M. Poincare Accepts.

Paris, June 16.—M. Poincaire informed President Loubet yesterday morning that he would accept the task of forming a Cabinet. He will take the war portfolio, in addition to the presidency of the Council.

There is still some doubt whether M. Poincaire will succeed in forming a Ministry. He wishes MM. Ribot and Barthou to join him, but the Radicals object to their presence in the Cabinet. It is understood that Delcasse will remain at the Foreign Office.

Dreyfus Agitation Will Not Down.

Paris, June 16.—The Dreyfus agitation is far from having subsided. Quarrels between officers at Brest, where Dreyfus will disembark, have just led to two duels, and numerous mayors have been suspended for refusing to placard the [illegible] of the Court of Cassation.

STRIKE RIOT AT CLEVELAND.

Three Non-Union Men in Hospital From Attacks by Strikers.

Volleys of Stones and Bricks—Some Desperate Fighting Took Place, But No One Was Killed so Far as Known—Buffalo Commerce Hit Hard—Serious Situation in Colorado—The G.T.R. Strike Yet Unsettled.

Cleveland, O., June 16.—While the sixth day of the street railway men's strike started peaceably enough, there was serious rioting before night, and three non-union men were taken to hospitals in consequence. The trouble began shortly after noon yesterday near the Lake View car barns on Euclid avenue. A crowd gathered and attacked a car on which several non-union men were riding without police protection. A volley of stones and bricks was hurled at the car, and the conductor was hauled from the platform, when he fired a revolver into the air and took to his heels. The mob then assaulted some of the other non-union men on the car, injuring them quite severely, but the rioters had disappeared when the police arrived.

Another Car Attacked.

Soon afterward another car was attacked, apparently by the same mob, which had collected at another place. There were several women passengers in the car; but that made no difference to the rioters. Bricks and stones were hurled through the windows. The women screamed and made a rush for the doors, and all escaped injury. A brick struck the conductor in the face, cutting a bad gash, and a stone which hit him on the head rendered him unconscious. The motorman was hit by a shower of bricks and stones, and was so badly hurt that he had to be sent with the conductor to a hospital. The mob had dispersed when the police arrived.

A little later a third car was stopped by a crowd of men which had been concealed in bushes at the side of the street. Fifteen or 20 men boarded the car and a desperate fight ensued between them and E. W. Newman and C. W. King, the conductor and motorman, both of whom came from Buffalo. Both men were chased from the car and were so badly injured that it was necessary to send them to hospitals.

Still Another Attack.

About 5.30 o'clock a car left the Lake View barns for town. At the corner of Annandale and Wade Park avenues it was stopped by a crowd of men, who began to hurl bricks and stones. A motorman left the car and started to run. He was hit with a brick and badly injured, but he managed to escape and has not since been seen. The conductor stuck to the car. He was finally hit in the temple with a brick and dropped to the floor of the car. The crowd then dispersed. The conductor finally succeeded in running the car back to the barns, when he became unconscious, and he is now in a serious condition.

30,000 SMELTERS STRIKE.

Many Mines Closed Down—A Grave Situation in Colorado.

Denver, Col., June 16.—Thirty thousand men in Colorado will be out of work within the next three days unless steps are taken to end the strike of the smelter employes. The Omaha and Grant, and the Globe in Denver, the Bimetallic, and the Arkansas Valley, at Leadville, and the Kiters and the Colorado smelters at Pueblo are closed. The closed works are under guard, but nowhere have the men made any demonstration.

Mines Already Closed.

These mines have already closed: The Commodore, Amethyst, Bachelor, Bachelor No. 2 and Last Chance mines, in the Creede district; the Calliope and Hagerty at Ouray, the Carribean and Montezuma near Ophir; the Iron Mask and Black Iron at Red Cliff; the Smuggler at Aspen.

Railroads Affected.

The Daily Review.

FRIDAY, JUNE 16, 1899.

PECULIAR isn't it, how the winning of a championship punching contest develops the latent dramatic talent in a pugilist. Jeffries is now going to appear on the stage in a play specially written for him. So did Fitzsimmons, so did Corbett, so did John L.

WITH the public expenditure ten or twelve million dollars beyond any Conservative record, the people will readily excuse Mr Tarte if he will not show them what they "can do next year." We'll take his word for what they can do in the way of spending the people's money, and will be pleased to see some attempt at curtailment.

IF it takes a gang of organized Government boodlers with unlimited money to spend to elect a Minister of the Hardy Government in South Ontario and the same gang of organized boodlers and much money to elect another Minister of the same discredited combination in West Huron by small majorities at bye-elections, what will it take to elect a majority for the Hardy Administration at a general election?

THE Liberals have brought the total estimates for the year up to over fifty and a half million dollars. This is about $10 per head for every man, woman and child in the Dominion. When the Conservatives were in power the Liberals denounced an expenditure of thirty-eight millions, twelve million dollars less, as "scandalously excessive." What adjectives will they employ to describe their own record of extravagance?

SIR WILLIAM VAN HORNE has faith in the future of the C. P. R. and shows it by his works, remarks the Ottawa Citizen. He had been interested in a steel concern in Chicago, but, when the hour of combines and trusts came, the great railway man would have nothing to do with them. He said that his stock was for sale, and they bought it for a round half-million dollars. What did he do with the money? He certainly did not invest the handsome sum in Government bonds or foreign securities, but immediately bought 5,000 shares of Canadian Pacific, paying spot cash for the same, and, securing the stock, it is said, for somewhere near 85. As Sir William Van Horne was down for 1,000 shares at the time of the annual meeting, his holdings now amount to 6,000 shares, which, at par, means, of course, $600,000.

SUMMONED BY A TELEGRAM.

Meeting of Manitoba Legislature Postponed Till July 6.

Winnipeg, June 16.—The adjourned session of the Legislature, which was to have been resumed yesterday afternoon, was further adjourned until July 6. This course has been deemed necessary by reason of a telegram received yesterday morning from Ottawa, informing Mr. Greenway that it was of urgent importance that a delegation comprising himself and Mr. McMillan, who recently went to Ottawa on a mission regarding the school lands, should visit the Capital again at once. The telegram did not give any particulars as to why they should go, merely stating that it was important. The Ministers at once held a conference and decided that it might be to the advantage of the province to delay the session a little longer and allow a delegation to proceed to Ottawa. Accordingly an adjournment until July 6 was agreed upon. While in Ottawa the Premier and Provincial Treasurer will probably renew their efforts to procure from the Dominion Parliament the necessary powers to enable the Provincial Legislature to enact prohibitory liquor legislation. It will be recalled that the Premier intimated to the temperance delegation which recently waited upon the Government that this was essential before intra vires legislation could be passed.

Railway Matters.

It is understood that railway matters are receiving the attention of the Government and will in due course of time be given to the public. Mr. Greenway will visit his home, Crystal City, this week and will leave for Ottawa in company with Mr. McMillan next Monday.

Masonic Officers.

At the session of the Masonic Grand Lodge, John Leslie of Winnipeg was elected Grand Master and Dr. Thornton of Deloraine was elected Deputy.

Spain's Greatest Need.

Mr. R. P. Olivia, of Barcelona, Spain, spends his winters at Aiken, S.C. Weak nerves had caused severe pains in the back of his head. On using Electric Bitters, America's greatest Blood and Nerve Remedy, all pain soon left him. He says this grand medicine is what his country needs. All America knows that it cures liver and kidney trouble, purifies the blood, tones up the stomach, strengthen the nerves, puts vim vigor and new life into every muscle, nerve and organ of the body. If weak, tired or ailing you need it. Every bottle guaranteed, only 50 cents. For sale by James Lynch, Druggist, Hunter-st., Peterborough.

work. From all parts of the state come reports that mines are reducing forces. At Leadville 900 men have been discharged. Should the mines close all over the State 5,000 railroad men will be thrown out of employment. Four mines of the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company, three near Canon City, and one in Pitkin County have been shut down on account of wage differences.

G.T.R. STRIKE AT A STANDSTILL.

The Terms in the Proposed Settlement Stated From Ottawa.

Ottawa, June 16.—Regarding the Grand Trunk strike matters stand just where they did, and will do so for a day or two. Mr. Hays, general manager of the Grand Trunk Railway, being away until to-day, prevents any further communication with him until his return.

The men also have asked till to-day to discuss the point of non-agreement and submit it to the men.

It is stated that the terms of the proposed settle in the G.T.R. strike are that the men shall receive 15 cents per rise all round, making the wage $1.15, and that all men shall be taken back except those who have been guilty of some overt or criminal act, and that their cases will be adjudicated upon by the Minister of Railways. Mr. H. A. Powell, M.P., is to be associated with Mr. Sutherland in the settlement before the Minister of Railways.

Buffalo Commerce Hit Hard.

Buffalo, June 16.—The strike of the freight handlers is having a serious affect on the commerce of Buffalo, and vesselmen are much disturbed. A large number of freight boats are idle. But little work is being done along the docks. There are about 25 men at work on the Lehigh Valley docks. The Erie has a number of non-union men at work. Nothing is being done at the Great Northern dock, and but a few men are working for the Anchor Line.

Probably Charles White's Body.

Leamington, Ont., June 16.—Another body of a man came ashore west of Point Pelee, a short distance farther up than the one found on Wednesday. This one is thought to be the body of Charles White, who was drowned with the Pelee Island and Kingsville party last October. This leaves the body of the man found at Oxley on Wednesday unknown, as all the men of the Pelee Island drowning have been recovered.

DANGER IN SODA.

Serious Results Sometimes Follow Its Excessive Use.

Common soda is all right in its place and indispensable in the kitchen and for cooking and washing purposes, but it was never intended as a medicine, and people who use it as such will some day regret it.

We refer to the common use of soda to relieve heartburn or sour stomach, a habit which thousands of people practice and one which is fraught with danger; moreover the soda only gives temporary relief and in the end the stomach trouble gets worse and worse.

The soda acts as a mechanical irritant to the walls of the stomach and bowels and cases are on record where it has accumulated in the intestines, causing death by inflammation or peritonitis.

Dr. Harlandson recommends as the safest and surest cure for sour stomach (acid dyspepsia) an excellent preparation sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. These tablets are large 2½-grain lozenges, very pleasant to taste and contain the natural acids, peptones and digestive elements essential to good digestion, and when taken after meals they digest the food perfectly and promptly before it has time to ferment, sour and poison the blood and nervous system.

Dr. Wuerth states that he invariably uses Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in all cases of stomach derangements and finds them a certain cure not only for sour stomach, but by promptly digesting the food they create fresh and wholesome the action of the heart and liver. They are not a cathartic, but intended only for stomach diseases and weakness and will be found reliable in all stomach troubles except cancer of the stomach. All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at 50 cents per package.

A little book describing all forms of stomach weakness and their cure mailed free by addressing the F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

United States Senator Fairbanks and party sailed for Alaska on Thursday on the revenue cutter McCulloch.

The Grand Lodge of Prentice Boys has appointed Bro. R. H. Ketcheson of Belleville to the position of Grand Organizer.

The trial of the four Lyndenites for burglary of Fair's cigar store at Brantford has been fixed for Friday, June 23, before the judge alone.

The farmers' excursion from Stratford and points north to the Agricultural College, Guelph, by the Grand Trunk on the 13th inst., was participated in by 2,000 people.

D. J. Walker, clerk of the County of Frontenac for many years, was dismissed by the County Council at Thursday morning's session. The excuse given was that he had outlived his usefulness.

During the violent thunderstorm on Wednesday night the barn of Martin Myers, five miles northeast of Teeswater, was struck by lightning, and with its contents was burned to the ground. Four calves were cremated.

At the Niagara camp on Thursday night there was a staff dinner to Lord Minto, the Governor-General, and Hon. Dr. Borden, Minister of Militia, followed by a levee by His Excellency, during which the officers in camp were presented to him. A military tattoo was then played by all the bands in camp, the fireworks man doing the honors during the march past.

Edward Gray, a negro, who was released at New Orleans on Wednesday night from jail, after a year's confinement, because the authorities could find no evidence against him, was lynched by a party of men on Thursday morning early. He was sick and so weak that he could not walk. Judge Rest has given instructions to make every effort to bring the guilty parties to justice.

DID NOT DO MUCH BUSINESS

The House Spent the Day in Committee of Supply.

Hon. Mr. Mulock Brings Down a Bill to Amend the Postal Act in Several Important Particulars—The Traverse Lighthouse Vote Took Up Much Time in Debate, But Was Finally Passed—Lighting the Buildings.

Ottawa, June 16.—Very nearly the whole of both sessions yesterday was spent in committee of supply, but the progress made has not been as good as it was on Wednesday. The vote of $90,000 for the Traverse lighthouse provoked a very long debate, so that it was about 10 o'clock before that item was passed. After that better progress was made.

A Postal Act Amendment.

On the opening of the House Hon. Mr. Mulock introduced a bill to amend the Postoffice Act, and in doing so explained that one of the changes was that "sample" copies of newspapers for non-subscribers, which now pay 1c per pound, will pay the same rate as is charged on papers mailed to subscribers, and may contain circulars and accounts, such as may now be sent to subscribers. Another change is that railway mail superintendents may be appointed from clerks who have served in the railway mail service for ten years, "either on the road or in the office," instead of "on the road," as at present. Provision is made for charging a small fee for despatching letters after the regular hour for closing the mail, and for issuing registered letters up to $25 value at a rate which will be just sufficient to protect the department from loss. The bill was read a first time.

Questions and Answers.

Solicitor-General Fitzpatrick said, in reply to Mr. Taylor, that Hon. P. A. Choquette was assigned as Superior Court Judge to the District of Quebec.

In answer to a question put for Mr. Chagnain, Hon. Mr. Blair said that while A. A. Macdonald, late assistant manager of the Intercolonial, was under suspension Charles Belleau, chief train despatcher, acted in his place and received $49 a month in addition to his regular salary of $82.

Grain Inspection.

Sir Henri Joly withdrew his bill to amend the General Inspection Act and introduced the new bill agreed on by the grain growers' and buyers' deputations, the provisions of which have already been given. He explained that No. 1 hard would contain 75 per cent. of red fife, instead of two-thirds, as at present, and that the bill provided for inspection east of Manitoba when necessary.

The House in Supply.

The House then went into committee of supply, taking up the item of $90,000 for a lighthouse to replace the lightship at present in use at the Upper Traverse, St. Lawrence River. A long debate ensued, which lasted all the afternoon and part of the evening, after which the item passed.

A vote for $11,000 for public buildings, Ottawa, provoked a discussion on the question of lighting the buildings with electricity, the Opposition contending that the price paid by the Government, $3 per light per year, was excessive.

The item was passed, and, after a few more votes had been agreed to, the House adjourned at 12.20.

VENEZUELAN ARBITRATION.

First Meeting of the Commission at the French Foreign Office.

Paris, June 16.—The first formal meeting of the Venezuelan arbitration commission opened yesterday morning. The arbitrators, counsel and others were received by the Minister of Foreign Affairs, M. Delcasse, in the apartment in which the tribunal will sit. These are the rooms used at the meeting of the Spanish-American peace conference and during the Behring Sea arbitration. Altogether there were about 40 persons connected with the tribunal present.

Delcasse Welcomed Them.

The proceedings opened at 11.20, when M. Delcasse briefly welcomed the tribunal in French.

Prof. de Martens replied, thanking the French Foreign Minister for his welcome and for the hospitality extended to the arbitrators. Referring to the work being done at The Hague in the matter of arbitration, he said the peace conference sought not merely to arrange a settlement of conflicts but the avoidance of conflicts, and expressed the hope that the present tribunal would have the result of promoting the welfare and prosperity of the two countries interested.

The arbitrators will meet four days a week, and the days off will be Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays.

Sir Richard Webster announced that counsel had arranged he should speak first, then two Venezuelan counsel, next Great Britain, with possibly two counsel; then Venezuela, and next Great Britain. The final speech was to be made by Venezuela.

The British Case.

Sir Richard then opened the British case and spoke until 1.15 p.m., when the commission adjourned for luncheon.

Sir Richard occupied the remainder of the day in an explanation, with the aid of the map on the wall, of the geographical difficulties of the dispute, and concluded the opening stage of his speech shortly before 4 o'clock, when the tribunal adjourned, Prof. de Martens saying he hoped to be able to hold the next meeting on the coming Wednesday.

THE SENATE.

Ottawa, June 16.—In the Senate yesterday afternoon Hon. David Mills introduced a bill to amend the act relating to penitentiaries. The bill, he explained, provides that in cases where penitentiaries in another province are more convenient to incarcerate a convict than the penitentiary of the district in which he was convicted, the convict may be incarcerated in such penitentiary. The bill gives the Governor-General-in-Council power, where an officer who has been promoted from a position where he would have been entitled, under the Civil Service Act, to receive a gratuity, to a position where he was entitled to a retiring allowance, to give him both. It also provides for the removal of insane persons. There were numerous persons who had been committed to asylums after having been adjudged irresponsible in criminal trials, for whom he did not think the Federal Government was responsible, though the Dominion was responsible for all prisoners who went insane after conviction.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell asked for some information, but the Minister of Justice suggested that it would be better to discuss the bill when it was printed. The bill was read a first time.

Loan Companies Bill.

Hon. David Mills, in moving the second reading of the bill respecting loan companies, said that objection had been taken in some quarters to the Federal Parliament dealing with this question at all. It seemed to him rather late in the day to urge this objection, when the Federal Parliament had been doing so for so long. He saw in some newspapers the statement that he had given up his old views of the constitution, and his old espousal of provincial rights. He was not aware of any change in his views, for he had never held that all power was bound up in lieutenant-governors or provincial legislatures. There was nothing in this bill which subverted any provincial right.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell complimented the Minister on his speech. He had been glad to hear it, for he had told the Minister privately that his fear was that when he accepted the portfolio of Justice, that he was so much a provincial rights man that he would lean against the Dominion.

The bill was read a second time.

The San Jose Scale Commission.

Toronto, June 16.—The commission appointed to examine into the workings of the San Jose Scale Act will hold its first sitting in the Niagara fruit district at Niagara-on-the-Lake on Tuesday, the 20th inst., at 1 p.m. The commissioners are Dr. Mills, president of the Guelph Agricultural College; Prof. John Dearness, the well-known Middlesex entomologist, and for several years president of the Ontario Entomological Society, and W. H. Bunting, the well-known fruit grower of St. Catharines. The enquiry will be as thorough as possible, and if it is thought necessary other places throughout the district may be visited. The commission will afterwards visit Essex County.

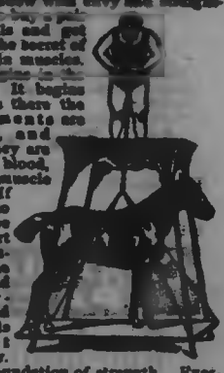
India and Countervailing Duties.

London, June 16.—The House of Commons last evening, by a vote of 207 against 183, rejected a motion proposed by the Right Hon. Sir Henry Hartley Fowler, Liberal member for East Wolverhampton and former Secretary of State for India, praying the Queen to disallow the proposal of the Indian Government to impose countervailing duties upon sugar.

Is This Report True?

London, June 16.—An irresponsible news sheet publishes an alleged despatch from Saratowa, Russia, asserting that the Niagara, an American-built steamer, was wrecked in the River Volga during a storm yesterday, with a loss of 120 lives. There is no confirmation of the statement, however, from any other source.

We all covet strength and admire it. We look at the marvellous muscular development of a Sandow with envy and straightway resolve to buy a pair of dumb bells and get strong, as if the secret of strength lay in muscles.



Strength comes from the stomach. It begins there because there the strength elements are manufactured, and from there they are distributed to blood, bone, brain, muscle and nerve. If you want to begin to be strong, start with the stomach. Put the digestion and nutritive organs and blood making glands in perfect working order.

That is the foundation of strength. Exercise puts on the superstructure of development.

To establish the stomach and the digestive and nutritive functions in perfect health, there is no medicine so sure and so satisfactory as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It strengthens the stomach, enriches the blood, nourishes the nerves, and regulates the functions of every vital organ of the body.

"About twelve years ago I was suddenly taken with a pain in the pit of the stomach which was so violent I could not walk straight," writes O. S. Copenhaver, Esq., of Mount Union, Huntingdon Co., Pa., (Box 208). "It would grow more severe until it caused waterbrash and vomiting of a slimy yellow water. I consulted a physician and he told me I had a form of dyspepsia and treated me for about six months with but little benefit. I still kept getting so weak I could scarcely walk. I then tried another physician and he told me my liver was out of order and that I had indigestion. He gave me a treatment and I got some better but only for a short time. I then took to using several widely advertised patent medicines, but received no more than temporary relief while using. I then tried Dr. Pierce's medicines, using his 'Golden Medical Discovery,' 'Favorite Prescription' and the 'Pleasant Pellets,' and in two months' time I was feeling better than I had for years before. I can truthfully say Dr. Pierce's medicines did me more good than any I had ever taken."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008 pages, illustrated, is sent free for 21 one-cent stamps (cost of customs and mailing only) for paper edition, or 50 stamps for edition bound in cloth. Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

ANNUAL OUTING AT JUBILEE

Point was reached, where they had dinner. Many brought baskets, but others satisfied themselves at the hotel where a bountiful dinner was served. A few minutes after the City arrived from town the Eclipse and barge with a load of over a hundred passengers from Harwood and Keene arrived at the wharf. By this time the day had cleared up and the sun had come out, making a beautiful afternoon and affording a delightful view from the Point. Next came the Beaver from Rosseath and various other points on the lake and when the passengers of all the steamers, together with the large number who came in canoes and in row boats, had assembled there was a gathering of over four hundred people.

After the noon hour the people amused themselves in various ways. The chief centre of attraction was the dancing pavilion, where Messrs. E. Cawthorne and W. Metheral dispensed music and Mr. W. Brooks acted as master of ceremonies. The young people crowded the floor all afternoon and kept up a merry time. A programme of sports was also run off, though this was somewhat disorganized, and a scratch game of football was played. The wheel of fortune men and others were present in numbers, although they did not seem to make much money.

About five o'clock in the evening, after a pleasant afternoon, the boats blew their whistles and prepared to push off. First went the Eclipse and scow, and then the Beaver. Next the City of Peterborough left and she was followed by the fleet of canoes conveying people to the homes on the shores of the lake and adjoining river. The passage up on the City was uneventful. No snow was brought, which was a grave mistake, and dancing was carried on on the boat. The passage up was somewhat cold. The steamer reached the wharf about 9.30 o'clock.

There were no speeches at Jubilee Point, none of the local politicians improving the opportunity. On the way down the City struck the railway bridge above the locks and knocked a hole in the paddle wheel casing. The City's engines were running by coal. It was her first trip of the season and she made very creditable time.

Dr. Willis, one of the Americans who made an annual camp on the Otonabee, has built a new cottage and greatly improved his location, about four miles above Jubilee Point. It makes a very creditable appearance.

Nineteenth Century Folly.

The greatest piece of folly of the nineteenth century is to suffer the tortures of rheumatism when a permanent cure can be obtained by using Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure. Mr. C. W. Trotter, Cashendall, Ont., suffered with Muscular Rheumatism for three years. One bottle of Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure completely cured him. He has not had a pain or ache since. This preparation is used internally. One bottle contains ten days' treatment, price 50 cents. For sale at all drug stores.

CANADA AT BUFFALO.

Arrangements Will Be Made for the Pan-American Exposition.

Ottawa, June 16. — Hon. Sidney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture for Canada, and who is at present looking after the interests of the Dominion at Paris, in connection with the exposition, received a very interesting pamphlet illustrating the Pan-American Exposition, which will be held in Buffalo from May 1st to November 1st, 1901. In reply he states that as soon as arrangements are completed at Paris he will immediately take steps to have Canada well represented at Buffalo, and show the Americans what Canadians can do.

Children Cry for CASTORIA

THE FORBIDDEN GATE.

A Peculiar Fight in Berlin—Royal Police Think Its Restoration Would Glorify Revolution.

A peculiar dispute has been going on for several months between the Berlin municipal authorities and the royal police with regard to the improvement the former wish to make at the graveyard where the men who fell in the stirring days of 1848 are buried.

The graveyard is at present in a deplorable state of neglect, and the corporation intended to surround it with an iron railing and provide a proper entrance.

The corporation, like every private person, can't erect no structure the plans for which have not first been approved by the royal police.

The plans for the improvement were sent in last May, and only in February of this year they were returned with the remark that permission to carry them out was refused because with the building which it is proposed to erect it is intended to honor those who fell in March, 1848, which constitutes a political demonstration to the glorification of revolution.

The corporation has now taken the matter before the law, with the object of finding out whether the police have a right to refuse to sanction what is wished by the representatives of the city.

The police argued that the style of the proposed gateway and the massive nature of the materials with which it is proposed to be constructed leave no doubt in their minds that more is intended than an entrance gate. This, of course, the city representatives deny.

The president of the court advised the parties to come to some amicable agreement and try to draw out plans satisfactory to both.

This the city will hardly be likely to do. With this question is bound up the refusal of the Home Office to confirm the election of Dr. Kirschner as Chief Burgomaster of Berlin, and the whole matter is likely to result in a struggle for the few liberties left to the city. The sketch herewith, taken from The Tageblatt, shows the gateway which the Berlin police think will glorify revolution.

The Smallest Elephant.

Berlin has the smallest elephant in the world. It is only 29 inches high and weighs about 170 pounds.

She Stumped Gladstone.

The story is told that at Hawarden one morning little Dorothy Drew refused to get up. When all other means had failed to coax her out of bed, Mr. Gladstone was called.

"Why won't you get up, my child?" he asked.

"Why, grandfather, didn't you tell me to do what the Bible says?" asked Dorothy.

"Yes, certainly."

"Well, it disapproves of early rising; says it's a waste of time."

Mr. Gladstone knew his Bible better than most men, but he was not equal to Dorothy. For once in his life he was nonplused.

"You listen, then," went on Dorothy, in reply to his exclamation of astonishment, and, turning up her Bible, she read the second verse of the one hundred and twenty-seventh psalm, laying great emphasis on the first words, "It is vain for you to rise up early."

A RETURNED CALL.

It Probably Taught the Well Meaning Woman a Lesson.

The following is an actual incident of New York life:

She hoped that she was doing lots of good. She would visit the poor in their own homes and, as she believed, cheer them up. One time she called on a poor woman in Hester street, and, as was her wont, she immediately began to ask a stereotyped set of questions which she hurled at the woman.

"How old are you? How many children have you? Can you read? Does your husband drink?" etc.

The woman did her best to stop this interrogative avalanche and mumbled some answers. After about half an hour's talk the philanthropic woman went away and was driven to her home in Fifth avenue, leaving her card with her address at the poor woman's home. A clergyman who did charitable work in that section called on the Hester street woman a few days after the rich woman's visit. After some talk with her she said to him:

"I t'inks dat I makes one call."

"Well, my good woman, on whom do you intend to call?"

She named the would be benefactress.

"But," said the clergyman, "do you know how to behave when you call upon such a person?"

"Oh, yes!" she said. "I knows how they behaves, and I behaves myself just like 'em."

She did call and was ushered into the drawing room. A few moments later the wealthy woman entered the apartment. As soon as she crossed the threshold her visitor began:

"How old are you? How many children have you? Can you read? Does your husband drink? How often does he beat you?"

Then she turned sharply about, and, holding up her ragged skirt, she strode out of the house and down the avenue.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

CLINGING COSTUMES.

The Fashionable Skirt in Different Lengths and Styles.

The only way to attain the extreme of the clinging effect now fashionable is to discard all fullness of underwear, wearing but one petticoat, which, while profusely trimmed below the knee, is tight as an umbrella case above. Combination suits of underwear are sometimes worn to decrease bulk to the utmost.

Double skirts, redingote skirts and skirts with a circular flounce have not succeeded in driving out the plain skirt, which is still used for simple toilets and occasionally for ceremonious ones. All, however, are plain at the top, flaring at the foot and long all around, trailing at the back more or less, except in the case of the regulation walking skirt. No stiffening is used in the edge, the hem or facing, with the inside frill, being quite enough support except in the case of very soft, thin goods. With such goods a facing of stiff muslin may be put between the outside and the lining or silk facing, the muslin being cut to follow the curve of the edge. The lining of a skirt is usually sewed in one with it, but for such goods as foulard and crepe de chine the lining hangs separate.

The gown illustrated is of pearl gray bengaline, the foot of the skirt being cut in scallops over an edge of rose red silk. The scallops are embroidered with silver. The bolero, scalloped and embroidered to match, is cut away in front to show a blouse of white lace. Cut silver buttons close the bolero, and the plain sleeves are embroidered at the wrists. The collar and belt are of rose red silk. The silver gray straw toque is trimmed with white feathers and red roses. JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE BICYCLE.

What to Wear For a Riding Costume This Year.

Many women ride a diamond frame wheel, although they do not make as much noise about it as they used to do. Of course for the diamond frame trousers or a divided skirt is required, and if the latter is chosen it is better not to have it gathered in at the knee, although such gathering certainly prevents it from flying up during riding. It is better to wear tight trousers of the same material beneath it, however, to get around this difficulty, than to look as absurd on foot as a woman does who wears the gathered in divided skirt. It appears well when she is mounted, but as she is not a bicycle centaur she must alight occasionally, and when a little breeze is blowing the inflation of the skirt is something ludicrous in the extreme.

For the drop frame an ordinary skirt costume will do perfectly well. It is usually cut rather short, and when it descends no nearer the ground than eight or nine inches it is much safer, as with a long skirt there is always great danger that it will catch in the wheel or be blown behind the chain guard, not to speak of the inevitable flapping it makes in the wind, which looks awkward and retards progress.

The bicycle suit illustrated is of fawn cloth, the short skirt being trimmed with white galloon. The short jacket is cut away over a rounded plastron of the fawn cloth and has a collar of white cloth embroidered with fawn and white. There is a bordering of white galloon upon jacket, plastron and sleeves, and two large buttons close the front. A white shirt waist is worn, with a golden brown cravat and a white straw trimmed with brown.

Kurds Murdered Monks.

Constantinople, June 16.—It is reported from Koomkapu that a body of Kurdish cavalry, on the pretence of searching for an agitator, recently raided several villages in that district, burned the houses and killed many of the inhabitants. It appears that they also murdered the Superior of the Pirnaschen Monastery and two monks. The Turkish Government is trying to hush up the affair.

Ben Parrett Is Sane.

Hamilton, June 16.—Word has been received from Ottawa to the effect that the medical experts who examined Ben Parrott, the matricide, who is condemned to be hanged next Friday, have reported to the Minister of Justice that he is perfectly sane, although it would appear that some one had been coaching him how to act insane. It was discovered by the experts that there was no hereditary insanity in the family. A brother of Parrott had become insane through disease. The hanging, which is to take place on June 23, may be postponed for a few days, as Radcliffe may not be able to get here in time. He is at present in British Columbia.

Five Members for Toronto.

Ottawa, June 16.—An important amendment affecting Toronto, it is understood, has been made to the redistribution bill. Instead of four members it is proposed that the city shall have five. To adjust the representation for the province one member will be taken from the County of Kent. Kent to-day has one member, but the redistribution bill, according to its original construction, wiped out Bothwell and gave the county two additional members. The amended bill relieves Kent of one member in order to give something more like justice to the city of Toronto.

Mrs. Sternaman Gets Her Money.

Buffalo, June 16.—Mrs. Olive A. Sternaman, the Buffalo woman who was twice tried at Cayuga, Ont., on the charge of murdering her husband, has at last got the insurance money that the International Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners at first refused to give her because of the alleged uncertainty of the manner of Sternaman's death. Mrs. Sternaman receives the amount of insurance, $200 and interest, making a total of $208.

Anti-Trust Bill Passed.

Lansing, Mich., June 16.—The House last night passed the Byers Anti-Trust bill, which was passed in the Senate several weeks ago. If constitutional, the act will very effectually shut out of the State all trusts and combinations.

A Spanish ransom enters from the familiar Welsh sort chiefly in the use of an onion. Mrs. Lincoln's recipe calls for a large Spanish onion, to be pared, sliced, scalded for five minutes and drained. Then into a chafing dish are put a tablespoonful of butter and the sliced onion, browned for ten minutes over the flame, before a half cup of milk and a cup of crumbled mild cheese are stirred in. Season well with salt and pepper. Just before serving add a beaten egg into which two tablespoonfuls of cream have been stirred.—New York Post.

Entertainment at All Saints'.

At the school room of All Saints' church last evening a play and entertainment were held under the auspices of the Boys' Brigade. The first part of the programme was musical, the numbers being all well rendered. An amusing one-act play, "The Plot of Potsentamsend," was then produced by the Boys' Brigade. It was excellently staged and all the parts were taken in fine style. Ten boys took part. The costumes were representative of the time of Louis XIV and were well gotten up. The boys deserve credit for the manner in which their entertainment was made a success. The piano used during the evening was a new Whaley-Royce, kindly loaned by Mr G W Mulligan.

Choir of St. Paul's Church Spends a Day at Stony Lake.

The members of St. Paul's choir yesterday threw away all care and took a pleasant outing to Stony lake. The party, numbering about thirty-five, drove to Lakefield in the morning and boarded the steamer Majestic. Dinner was had at the Victoria hotel at McCracken's landing, and in the afternoon a sail to Burleigh and the head of the lake was enjoyed. The afternoon was a very pleasant one. On the return, tea was had at the pavilion at Juniper island. The water in the lake is still very high, but the green verdure that covers the land makes the scenery very beautiful.

THE EAST RIDING FARMERS' INSTITUTE

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE EAST PETERBOROUGH INSTITUTE.

The Annual Reports Presented—Officers Elected—Regular Meetings to be Held at Westwood and Warsaw and Supplementaries at Norwood, Keene and Havelock.

The annual meeting of the East Peterborough Farmers Institute was held in the Town hall, Norwood, on Monday, June 5th. The meeting was well attended by farmers who are taking a deeper interest in farmers' meetings.

Mr. F. Birdsall was appointed chairman, and Mr. Chas. O'Reilly, secretary.

President Birdsall gave an interesting report of some length bearing on the work of the Institute during the past year.

The secretary read the report of the executive committee, and submitted the auditors' financial report, both of which were adopted.

Mr. Kelly moved, seconded by Mr. English, that this meeting suggest that the regular meetings of the Institute this year be held at Warsaw and Westwood, and supplementaries at Keene and Norwood.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Nelson and English that the officers be elected by open vote.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Patterson and Knox that the following be directors for the ensuing year, viz., Messrs. F. Birdsall, E. Hawthorne, Robt. Burgess, John Lancaster, J. A. Sexsmith, J. Johnston, Dennis Molony, David Forsythe, D. Kelly, W. G. Patterson, Chas. Nicoll, Wm. R. Howson, Thos. Blizzard, M.P.P., Hugh Nelson, Andrew Connor, Jas. Miller, A. R. Kidd, Wm. Oakman, John Knox, Jas. Moor, George English, W. R. Elmhurst, Jas. Andrews, Chas. McNulty, Wm. Matheson and Thomas Webster.—Carried.

The annual meeting then adjourned.

Immediately after the new directors met. Present were Messrs. F. Birdsall, Robt. Burgess, Hugh Nelson, W. G. Patterson, Chas. Nicoll, David Kelly, John Knox, Geo. English, Wm. Oakman, W. R. Elmhurst, Thos. Webster, J. A. Sexsmith, Jos. Johnston, Wm. Matheson and Wm. R. Howson.

ANNUAL OUTING AT JUBILEE

THE FARMERS' PICNIC AT THE POINT BUT FAIRLY ATTENDED.

Boats Run from Town and Various Points on the River and Lake and a Fair Number Assembled at Jubilee Point for a Day's Enjoyment.

At Jubilee Point, Rice lake, was held yesterday the annual farmers' picnic. This year it does not seem to have received the benefit of the patronage and assistance of the usual auspices and in point of attendance it was not up to the average. However, there was a goodly number of people assembled at the pleasant spot at the head of Rice lake and an enjoyable day was spent by the majority.

The farmers' excursion has always been a big event. It has been the record breaker for big crowds at Jubilee park for some years past. Yesterday, however, it fell somewhat behind. But the point was a pleasant palce to spend the afternoon and no one there regretted his or her visti.

The City of Peterborough took down the crowd from town, making her first trip of the season. The steamer left the wharf about eight o'clock with a crowd of about one hundred and fifty on board. Shortly after starting the rain began to fall and the people were kept busy dodging the storm in the windings of the river. The farmers on board beguiled the time by discussing the ravages of the caterpillars, the drowning of the crops and such topics. The rain came down with more or less weight until the steamer was almost at Jubilee, where she arrived shortly after eleven o'clock.

The most noticeable thing on the trip down was the large area of land which is this year submerged. All along the route the water was noticed to be remarkably high for the middle of June. It might be mistaken for the middle of April or the beginning of May. Many of the low stretches of land along the banks have been converted into islands and are useless even for pasture. Many low fields in which grain has been sowed are completely drowned out. The heavy rains while thus causing considerable loss and destruction along the route have, however, made the fields most beautiful in their green verdure and never could a trip down the river be found more enjoyable than at the present time. The water covers all the unsightly places and the fields and banks present a beautifully green aspect.

The City arrived at the wharf shortly after eleven o'clock. A few of her passengers had taken dinner on the boat but the majority of them waited till

TO HELP THE STRIKERS

The length of time that the G.T.R. trackmen have been idle in consequence of their strike has made severe inroads into any little savings that the men may have been able to make, and as a result some of the strikers are in need of assistance. It does not require any mathematical calculation to convince any one that on a trackman's wages a man with a wife and family was not likely to have a large savings bank account, and therefore could not be in the best of positions to bear a prolonged idleness. However, the men are ready to suffer privations in their fight for a fair day's pay for a fair day's work, but their lot could be made easier by assistance extended by those who can afford to give a little to help them in the stand they have taken.

The expressions of sympathy have been strong and general, and many have also expressed the desire to put their sympathy in the practical shape of dollars and cents, if the opportunity was offered.

The Review will, therefore, at request, receive any contributions towards the strikers' fund, and these contributions will be daily acknowledged. Subscriptions may be sent in to the Review office and they will be acknowledged and handed over to the proper men.

GEORGE AND SIMCOE-STS.

THEY DISCUSSED THE DIVISION

OF THE DIOCESE AND FAVORED THE PROPOSAL

If Satisfactory Arrangements Could be Made—Rev J C Davidson and Rev H Symonds on the Proposition—A Resolution.

A meeting of the congregations of St. John's St. Luke's and All Saints' churches was held in St. John's church last night to consider the proposed division of the diocese by the formation of a new diocese out of the eastern part of the present diocese of Toronto. Only a small number were present but as they represented the three congregations it was thought well to proceed with the meeting.

Rev. J. C. Davidson was appointed chairman. In his opening remarks he emphasized the fact that in the early days of the church a Bishop was in almost every town or city and the number of the Sees was quite large and they were small rather than few and large. He said that in the middle ages the church had misunderstood the matter in having large Bishoprics and we should endeavor to have the same method as in the early centuries of the church. However, the Bishop of Toronto does not complain about the large territory but it is principally the clergy who think the Bishop does not visit enough. He should visit the diocese not only at times of confirmation but he should make tours through the district, and especially the mission stations where he would strengthen and weld the church together. Such is being done in the diocese of Ottawa, Quebec, and Niagara, but cannot be done here on account of the size of the diocese. Against the division of the diocese the principal reason advanced was the lack of money. It has been said that they would be unable to support such a large mission field as the new diocese would have. But by a resolution passed by the Toronto diocese the mission field would in any case continue to be supported from Toronto for a period of at least five years; so for that period the calls for missions would not be more than they are at present. Other reasons against the division were that we would have to raise money for a new See and as Peterborough would most likely be the Cathedral town, the Episcopal churches in the town would have to build a palace. This would take a large sum of money.

Rev. Mr. Symonds, who as secretary of the Archdeanery in Peterborough had always been associated with the movement for the proposed division, spoke next. He was strongly in favor of division, and he did not think the difficulties were very formidable. He stated that the formation of this diocese as well as that of several others had been suggested as early as 1869 by Bishop Strong and many others. All the other divisions suggested had been formed with the exception of the one now proposed. The state of matters, both in England and the United States, were cited, showing the provision made in both countries for the Episcopal expansion of the Church. So far Canada has been behind in this. We are not opposed to Toronto by any means but the clergy of Toronto are the most active and strongly in favor of the division and they have asked their opinion on the matter. The population and the wealth of this district have increased greatly during the last few years. In 1892 a suggestion was brought forward headed by the Bishop of Huron that the Episcopate be increased. And almost every one lays stress on the increase of the Episcopate. The Bishop of Toronto is opposed to the division. He thinks the work is not too heavy. But, Mr. Symonds said, his whole time is taken up with confirmations. He has had fifty this year already and cannot do other work efficiently. In 1896 enquiries were sent out to the Deaneries re the proposed division and the replies endorsed the Synod resolution of 1873 to divide the diocese. It would take an endowment of $40,000 for finances if the new diocese be formed. This scheme was suggested in 1894 for raising it: First of all that $10,000 be raised by subscription. Then that the parishes be assessed so as to raise another $10,000, payable in five years with interest at 5 per cent., in the meantime lie until the five years are up. Then we might ask for $10,000 from the societies in England, to be taken from funds for the extension work. Then we could ask for a $5,000 from Toronto, and the remaining $5,000 could be obtained by a canvass in England. At that time it was not proceeded with on account of the canvass for mission funds. In 1897 there was raised for mission purposes in this district $6,800. We raised of this $3,546.25. We should have been short, if we had to pay it all, the sum of $3,253.75. In 1898 we raised $4,056.52 for mission purposes. We should have been short if we had to pay, the $6,800, the sum of $2,743.48. But in 1898 Toronto had a surplus of $7,500 in their territory. If we were divided and working with a Bishop among us we would be greatly strengthened and a great blessing would surely come. The population of the new diocese would be about 40,000, with about 46 clergy.

Mr. A. P. Pousette, Q.C., thought that $40,000 was inadequate for an endowment fund. He thought it should be about $60,000 at least.

Dr. Boucher said that instead of aiming at $10,000 at first we should aim at $20,000 at least and secure it before anything else be done.

The meeting closed by a motion put by Mr. E. A. Peck and seconded by Dr. Boucher that this meeting is strongly in favor of dividing the present diocese of Toronto into another Eastern Diocese, provided that satisfactory arrangements be made. The motion was unanimously carried.

The new diocese would contain Northumberland, Durham, Peterborough, Victoria, Haliburton and possibly Ontario.

Idyl Wyld Summer ....Resort

RICE LAKE, ONTARIO.

THIS Breezy and Beautiful Island Summer Resort will re-open for the season of 1899 on June 12th, under entirely new and up-to-date management. Important new additions to the building and hotel equipment have been effected. Twenty new Bed Rooms, Sitting Rooms and Waiting Rooms have been added, and entirely refurnished in modern style. Broad balconies extend around each of the two new stories erected, affording picturesque views of the surrounding scenery.

The cuisine will be a special feature—fresh meat, fresh fish, fresh eggs, milk and butter, as well as wholesome vegetables and fruit in abundance, necessitated by a robust appetite, sharpened by the ozone and continual breeze of this idyllic spot.

Good bass and muskinonge fishing are along the shore and lake. No charge for Americans fishing—no permits required. Boats and competent guides furnished. The island steam launch "Outlet Queen," can be engaged for cruising and sailing parties. The Park is open for excursion parties, whether public or private. Tables and Seats for picnic parties are all over the ground in shady groves. Come and spend your summer vacation at Idyl Wyld, and for your life don't miss it.

Daily boat and mail to and from Harwood, Peterborough and Hastings. Parties can be met at either point when requested.

Special rates for families and for the season. Rooms may be secured in advance by letter, telephone or telegram addressed to B. R. MacDONALD, Manager, Harwood P. O., Ont.

GRUDE, BUT IN THEIR EXPERT HANDS DEADLY IN EFFECT.

Wearing Apparel and Instruments of War Used by the Natives of the Philippine Islands—Novel Collection Sent to a Friend by U. S. Consul-General Wildman at Hongkong.

Mr. Rounsevelle Wildman, U. S. consul-general at Hongkong, has sent to a friend in New York a genuine collection of wearing apparel and weapons of war used by the Filipinos against the troops of the republic in that country. It contains about 20 different articles, which were all gathered in the Philippines by NATIVE JAVELINS AND SHIELD.

Mr. Wildman himself. With the collection he sent a letter giving various timely details in regard to the articles and the uses to which they are put. He says: "The best arms and implements for use in battle are made in Mindanao, but the Tagalos and other tribes are good imitators, and they are very successful in copying the handicraft of the Mindanaons.

"Of course," he continues, "there are large numbers of Filipinos who knew how to handle modern rifles and small arms, and many natives in Luzon, Mindanao and some other localities in the archipelago are supplied with them. The pick of Aguinaldo's fighters have been trained in the use of Mausers, and not a few of them are expert sharpshooters. The great mass of the natives, however, are not equipped with modern rifles, but rely upon spears, bows and arrows, bolos, battle-axes, and huge and ugly-looking swords, mostly of home manufacture. The Negritos are splendid marksmen with the bow and arrow. The latter have poisoned tips and are shot through space with marvellous velocity and deadly effect if the enemy is within range."

During the first days of fierce fighting around Manila Aguinaldo's front ranks were crowded with Tagalos and Negritos, armed with javelins or long spears. In this collection there are several of these weapons, many of different patterns, and all crude and unwieldy—at least, such is the impression they would assuredly make upon a civilized up-to-date fighting man.

At close quarters, however, and in the hands of an expert or muscular savage the javelin is a dangerous weapon. Two of the javelins shown are alike in the fact that both have wooden handles, but differ in the fact that one has a metal head, while the other is provided with a head made of fishbone. The latter is a specially dangerous weapon and likely to do effective work in combat for the reason that, when hurled at an opponent and driven into his body, it makes a frightful wound. To extract the cruel sharp point from the lacerated flesh is a most difficult task—quite as difficult, in fact, as it would be to extract a score or so of big fishhooks.

The shield shown in the same picture with the javelin is made of inlaid wood and bamboo, and is of rather elaborate workmanship. Both the Tagalos and the Negritos hold it dexterously, and by their skill in its use ward off many a deadly blow. The name by which it is generally known among the natives is Rodela pa Larga.

In another picture is shown a complete uniform, such as is worn by many of Aguinaldo's warriors. It consists of a hat and clothes, and the entire outfit is made of cocoanut fiber, even to the pouches in which the doughty fighting man carries his rations, as well as his cartridges, if he has the good fortune to be provided with such ammunition. A bizarre and rather grotesque uniform it is, and yet one quite in harmony with the wild, untutored Malays who wear it. For centuries it has been the distinctive dress of the Filipino soldiers, and they are quite proud of it.

The sword shown in the next picture is called "Serpent Kriss," thus distinguishing it from the much longer sword on the right, which is known as the "Straight Kriss." A fitting companion to these keen-edged implements is the broad-bladed battle-ax in the center of the picture. Armed with this weapon, which is made of fish bone, the Filipino warrior is for a time irresistible. If he knows his business—and most of them do know it—he can create havoc as far as his strong arm can reach by raining down blows upon his opponents and hacking them to pieces.

The peculiar-looking knife above the battle-ax is called a bolo, a name with which newspaper readers are now quite familiar. Many of the Filipino troops were armed with bolos, and the graphic descriptions of these combats which have appeared in the papers show how effectively this weapon can be used. The little steel dagger is a favorite small arm with the Negritos. They handle it with singular dexterity and find it quite as serviceable for their purposes as ever in old days Italian desperadoes found stilettos.

The big round shield, reproduced in picture No. 4, is called Rodela pa Laiga. In former times the crack sportsmen among the Tagalos and Negritos went into battle carrying shields of this pattern. In making some of them as many as 20 different kinds of wood and fiber were used. Moreover, many of the designs were remarkable for their originality and beauty. Shields of this description are now rarely seen. Headsmen still carry similarly-shaped shields in battle, but most of the shields, fashioned of different woods and beautifully designed, are owned by collectors of curiosities.

The big sword on the left of the picture is known as the "Campilan" and is the most effective as well as the most picturesque sword used by the Filipinos. The blade has a double point and attached to the handle is a tuft of coarse hair. The weapon at the right of the shield is another kind of bolo. There are many varieties of these weapons, some being broad of blade, others narrow, some short, others long and slender. The bolo shown in picture No. 4 is a formidable weapon and many Filipinos are as expert in the use of it as the Cuban soldiers are with the machete.

The ugliest-looking weapon in the collection is an execution knife—also shown in picture No. 4—which has an iron handle and is wonderfully keen of edge. "This knife or ax," writes Consul-General Wildman, "is used in chopping off heads. One sturdy blow and the bloody work is done. Then the executioner jabs the narrow point into the victim's skull and heaves the head aside or carries it aloft in triumph, as the case may be." It is this execution knife which Aguinaldo brings into play when he has to deal with a subordinate who disobeys orders.

It pays to advertise in the Review.

CHAPTER I.

A little party of tourists might be seen one lovely day in January, on the hill back of the city of Valetta, on that gem of Mediterranean islands, Great Britain's Malta.

The air is as clear as a bell, and the scene is certainly one to charm the senses, with the blue Mediterranean dotted with sails, a hazy line far, far away that may be the coast of Africa, the double harbor below, one known as Quarantine, where general trade is done, the other, Great harbor, being devoted to government vessels.

Quaint indeed is the appearance of the Maltese city that rests mostly upon the side of the hill under the fortifications, a second Quebec, as it were.

The streets are, some of them very steep, the houses built of limestone, generally three storeys in height, with a flat roof that answers the same purpose as the Spanish or Mexican azotea.

Valetta has three city gates, one the Porta Reale, through which our little tourist group came to reach their present position, leads to the country; the Porta Marsamuscetto to the general harbor, where lie craft of all nations, while the government harbor is reached by means of the Marina gate.

Thus they hold to many of the ways of Moorish and Mohammedan countries.

The fortifications of limestone are massive—England has a second Gibraltar here.

In general, the Maltese speak a language not unlike the Arabic, though English and Italian are used in trade.

They are a swarthy, robust, fearless people, strong in their loves and hates, and the vendetta has been known to exist here just as fiercely as in its native home of Corsica.

Many dress in the costume of the Franks, but the native garb is still worn by the lower classes, and is a picturesque sight, such as we see upon the stage.

It constists of a long bag made of wool, and dyed various colors, making a cap such as is worn by the sailors in stage scenes like the "Pirates of Penzance."

The top part of this is used for a purse, or forms a receptacle for any small articles the wearer desires to carry.

A short, loose pantaloon to the knee which leaves the lower leg bare, is confined at the waist by a girdle or sash of colored cotton or silk. Then there is worn a cotton shirt, with a short, loose vest or waistcoat, as they were formerly known, covering the same; the latter often ornamented with rows of silver buttons, quarter dollars, or English shillings.

As to the ladies of Malta, their costume is very odd, and reminds one somewhat of Spain. In part, it consists of a black petticoat, bound round the waist, over a body of some other kind of silk or print which is called the half onuella. The upper part, the onuella, of the same material, is drawn into neat gathers for the length of a foot about the center of one of the outer seams. In the seam of one of the remaining divisions is enclosed a piece of whalebone, which is drawn over the head, and forms a perfect arch, leaving the head and neck bare.

As may be expected, it requires much practice to wear such a dress gracefully. Many of the best ladies of Valetta now get their fashions direct from Paris—so the world moves.

The little party of tourists have ascended the hill for the purpose of obtaining the glorious view referred to, and at the same time whiling away a few hours of time, for their stay at the Island of Malta has not been of their choosing, a peculiar accident causing the steamer on which they were taking passage to put in here for some necessary repairs.

The tourists are five in number, and a very brief description will give the reader an idea as to their identity, leaving individual peculiarities to be developed as our story progresses.

Probably the one that would attract the attention of a stranger first would be the young lady with the peach-bloom complexion and sunny blue eyes, whose figure is so stylish, and whose rather haughty manner bespeaks proud English blood.

There is another female, whom the young lady calls Aunt Gwen, and as a specimen of a man female she certainly takes the premium, being tall, angular, yet muscular, and with a face that is rather Napoleonic in its cast. A born diplomat, and never so happy as when engaged in a broil or a scene of some sort, they have given this Yankee aunt of Lady Ruth the name of Gwendolin Makepeace. And as she has an appendage somewhere, known as a husband, her final appellation is Sharpe, which somehow suits her best of all.

Aunt Gwen is a character to be watched, and bound to bob up serenely, with the most amazing assurance, at unexpected times.

Then, there is Sharpe, her worse half, a small gentleman over whom she towers, and of whom she is secretly fond of in her way, though she tyrannizes him dreadfully.

Near him may be seen a young American, whom they have somehow dubbed "Doctor Chicago," because he is a medical student hailing from that city, by name John Alexander Craig. Among his friends he is simply Alec. His manner is buoyant, and he looks like an overgrown boy, but his record thus far proves his brain to contain that which will some day cause him to forge ahead.

No one knows why Craig is abroad. That he has some mission besides a tour for health and sight-seeing, several little things have proved.

There is another member of the group, a gentleman of sturdy build, with a handsome face, whose ruddy tint suggests the English officer, even without the flowing whiskers.

Colonel Lionel Blunt has seen much service in India and around Cape Colony. He gained an enviable reputation for deeds of valor, and is disposed to look upon our friend from Chicago as an amiable boy, though after seeing how they rush things out in that western metropolis he may have occasional qualms of fear lest this young doctor finally reach the goal for which both are aiming. That goal, any one can see, is the favor of the bright English girl whom fate has thrown in their way. Perhaps it is not all fate, since Colonel Lionel has recently crossed the States coming from India, and seems to pursue Lady Ruth with singular pertinacity.

Others are present, one a Maltese gentleman, the proprietor of a select club-house, where the garrison officers fence and engage in gymnastics, but Signor Giovani is not of our party.

There are several commissionaires or guides, at five francs a day, for one cannot move at Malta without being attended, and it is wise to engage one cicerone to keep the rest of his tribe at bay.

Thus on the hill, above the singular Maltese city of Valetta, our story opens.

Aunt Gwen is sweeping a field-glass around, and emphasizing her admiration of the picturesque scene with various phrases that would immediately give her away as a Western Yankee.

Lady Ruth, with an admirer on each side, looks a trifle tired, or, it may be, bored.

She may be planning some innocent little scheme, such as girls are wont to indulge in when they have a superfluity of beaus, in order to extract some amusement from the situation, even if it come under the head of "cruelty to animals."

Philander Sharpe, with his hands under the tails of his long coat, and his glasses pushed up on his forehead, is a study for a painter.

He was once a professor in a western college, and with his smooth face, hair brushed up from his high forehead, standing collar and general dignified air, is no mean-looking figure, though dwarfed into insignificance by the side of his spouse, the wonderful Aunt Gwen.

The conversation runs upon what lies there before them, and an animated discussion arises as to the possibility of a foreign enemy ever being able to successfully assault this second Gibraltar of the Mediterranean.

The Presbyterian Assembly.

Hamilton, June 16.—Considerable time was occupied at the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church yesterday morning in the receiving of reports.

The receiving of applications of Presbyteries for the reception of ministers was referred to a committee.

Rev. Dr. Warden presented the report of the committee on Sabbath school publications. It showed that all these publications, including The Teachers' Monthly, Home Study Quarterly, Primary Quarterly, Home Study Leaflet and Primary Leaflet, were now on a self-sustaining basis.

Nominations in the afternoon was taken up in connection with the report of the committee on the century fund presented by Rev. Dr. Warden. He said that if each member contributed $5 for two years the amount would be raised. The report was referred to a committee, which was instructed to report next Tuesday.

Home Missions.

At the evening session the report of the eastern section of the home mission committee was presented by Rev. Mr. McMillan of Halifax. It stated that there are 305 fields of work, in which the same number of missionaries are laboring. There was an increase of three fields during the year. The number of settled congregations is 198, vacant 18, ordained missionaries in charge 88. For this year's work he said $32,000 is required.

Rev. Dr. Warden presented the report of the western section of the home mission committee. There are 122 mission fields, including 307 preaching stations. This year $27,000 will be needed.

Famine in German East Africa.

London, June 16.—Advices received here from East Africa show famine is prevailing in the German possessions, owing to the drought, which also prevails alarmingly in the British Protectorate. Hundreds of women and children are dying of starvation, and the resident whites are wholly unable to cope with the distress.

Nerves...

Wasted and Shattered by Worry or Overwork are Revitalized by Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food

"Nerves"—what a world of meaning this word has to scores of thousands of women who, through the strains of social life and the worry of home cares, are fast approaching the grave.

Nervous headaches, dyspepsia, irritability by day, restlessness and sleeplessness by night. Pains and aches in the back, derangements of the organs peculiarly feminine, loss of energy and ambition, despondency and despair.

These are some of the symptoms known to the woman of exhausted nerves. These are symptoms which speedily disappear when Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food is used.

By creating new, rich blood and nerve tissue this great food cure of Dr. A. W. Chase restores and revitalizes the wasted nerve cells, puts new vigor and vitality into the system and frees woman of many ills which are due to exhausted nerves.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food cures by the building-up process, which makes the body round and plump, and restores the glow of health to the pale, sallow cheek.

THE ODORLESS CREMATORY CLOSETS.

I have been appointed Sole Agent for the Odorless Crematory Closet manufactured by the Crematry Closet and General Heating Co., of Hamilton.

This Closet has found a place in many of the best homes in the province, and all who have used it cannot speak too highly of its merits. Medical men speak of it from a sanitary point of view, claiming that, if health is any consideration, no home should be without one. Here are some of the

TESTIMONIALS

Alliston, March 1st, 1899.

I have had one of your "Crematory Closets" in use now for several weeks and am glad to be able to say that I have found it entirely satisfactory in every respect. I have not been able to detect the slightest odor from it at any time and would not be without it. I am sure it must prove a great convenience to people in the country and in towns where water is not obtainable.

Yours respectfully. JAMES CONWAY.

Sheddon, February 20th, 1899.

I have used it for some time and find it perfectly odorless. It is a long felt want and I believe it will become very popular especially in rural districts, towns and villages where wells are so frequently contaminated by the ordinary closets. I am, yours, etc.,

DIRECT FROM SURPASSINGLY SPLENDID TRIUMPHS AT MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK

SPECIAL NOTICE—These are the same great shows, the same gigantic organization, the same colossal combination that is electrifying the metropolis of the country by its overwhelming magnificence, its comprehensive completeness, and its complete avalanche of novelties and floodtide of transcendent wonders as presented in June of this season at the Madison Square Garden, New York City. The performance throughout was criticised by the unanimous and unqualified praises of the press and plaudits of the people, and patronage only limited by the capacity of the largest temples of amusement in the world.

SPECIAL NOTICE—EXTRA!!!—It is hereby promised without reserve, and the promise will be faithfully kept, that the programme of the shows to be presented in this city will be absolutely and literally the same, man for man, horse for horse, animal for animal, feature for feature and detail for detail as the exhibition that so completely conquered the mighty metropolis.

EXTRA SPECIAL NOTICE—EXTRA!!!—The prices for the great consolidation in New York were as high as $2 per seat. Here only the usual prices charged by merely ordinary shows will be asked. No advance over usual prices in spite of the double shows.

Cuticura SOAP

For Sanative Uses.

Its remarkable, emollient, cleansing, and purifying properties, derived from CUTICURA, the great skin cure, warrant the use of CUTICURA SOAP, in the form of baths for annoying irritations, inflammations, and chafings, for too free or offensive perspiration, and also in the form of internal washes and solutions for ulcerative weaknesses, and for many sanative, antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women, and especially to mothers. The use of CUTICURA Ointment with CUTICURA SOAP will suggest itself in the severer cases.

Sold throughout the world. Potter D. and C. Corp., Props., Boston. CUTICURA SOAP Book, free to Women.

BOWMANVILLES WERE BEATEN

THE LOCAL BASEBALL NINE ARE PLAYING BALL.

The Bowmanville Team Defeated in a Good Game by 11 to 6—"Dan" McCabe's Home Run was One of the Features.

The Bowmanville baseball nine were taken in and entertained by the local nine on the P A A A grounds yesterday afternoon and the result was a victory for the home team by a score of 11 to 6.

The attendance was not large, but the crowd that witnessed the game was enthusiastic. The Peterboroughs are playing great ball these days and it is too bad that they do not receive greater encouragement. The organization cannot live without some gate receipts, and the games have been losing investments financially so far this season. Yesterday's game should give baseball a lift, however, for the "fans" were greatly tickled with the work the home boys did. Bowmanville has a good team. Peterborough led after the first innings up to the last, although many of them were "fanning the air" and being retired on strikes by Wilcox, who had the knack of fooling the boys. Bowmanville started with 2 runs in the first innings, but they were blanked thereafter until the eighth, when they made two more and added another two in the ninth. The Peterboroughs were doing excellent work all through. McCabe and Graham worked together in fine style, while Sheridan and Parnell put up wonderfully clean work at third and short. Peterborough was blanked in first, but in the second and third scored five runs, which gave them the lead they never lost. "Dan" McCabe was the hero of the game again. In the eighth innings, with two men on bases, he sent the ball over the fence for a home run. This sent the crowd wild, and the enthusiasm poured forth in a practical shape into a hat and "Dan" received a free-will offering o $3.50 for his great stickwork. It was a money-making "hit," that one of Danny's. For Bowmanville the battery did good work, while McGarry and Stapleton were the leaders at bat.

The story of the game is best told by the complete score, which follows:—

ARMY AND NAVY VETS.

An Explanation Regarding the Coming Visitors to Peterborough.

The following communication has been received by Mr. Lem Fletcher:

Toronto, June 12th 1899.

Lem. Fletcher, Esq.,

Dear Sir,—I write to say that everything promises well for our outing to Peterborough on the 28th. Several veterans from other places have signified their intention to join us at Peterborough, and as the tickets are going nicely here a good crowd may be looked for. In order that no mistake may be made as to the make up of this society I beg to state that "Her Majesty's Army and Navy Veterans' Society" is composed of officers, non-commissioned officers and men who have served in the British army or navy and who have been honorably discharged therefrom. Officers, non-commissioned officers and men of the Auxiliary forces are accepted as honorary members on payment of $1 per annum, and any loyal British subject can become an honorary patron on payment of any sum of not less than $1. Should any one desire to join this society on the occasion of our visit to Peterborough on the above terms I shall be pleased to place their application before this society, and they may be initiated on that occasion. The society has a benefit branch and an honorary branch. This society was organized with a view of giving every old servant of the Empire an opportunity to have an honorable burial. H.R.H. Prince of Wales, H.R.H. Duke of Connaught, H.R.H. Duke of Saxe Cobourg-Gotha, H.R.H. Duke of York, Duke of Wellington, Duke of Fife, Duke of Somerset, Duke of Devonshire, Duke of Norfolk, Duke of Westminster, Marquis of Lorne, Lord Wolsely, Lord Roberts, V.C., Lord Minto, and many other British noblemen, generals and officers are life members of this society. In the ranks of this society are men who have taken part in almost every campaign for over sixty years past. Capt. Tom Newton, R.N., 87 years of age, is the oldest, wears the medals for Navarino and the Crimea. Next is Sergt.-Major Cantlin, 62nd Regt., medals for the Sutley campaign and Crimea, Indian Mutiny, China and Abyssinia, Ashantee, Afghan, Zulu, Egypt, the Soudan and Chitral. One member, George Richardson, 34th Regt., has the honour to wear that greatest of all honours, the Victoria Cross. I cannot state definitely what programme will be arranged until next week. I will let you know soon as possible.

Yours faithfully,
JOHN R. GRAY,
27 Sonaurew Ave. Secretary.

HALLELUJAH WEDDING.

A Union of Hearts Solemnized Under Peculiar Circumstances.

The love that makes the world go round was the cause of an event at the Salvation Army barracks last night which though common in nature was unique in manner. It was the grand hallelujah wedding that has been advertised for weeks and invitations to which have been sold, for the small sum of one dime, ten cents, each. The event was like a bargain day sale and the barracks was crowded. It had been prettily decorated with flags, bunting and evergreens and the scene was an interesting one.

Brigadier Hargrave officiated, and prior to the solemnization of the marriage, which took place about 8.30 o'clock, the Brigadier said that as he had heard that the right of the Salvation Army to perform a legal marriage had been questioned, he would state that he and other S.A. officers of his rank were in possession of that right by special act of Parliament. The principals of the ceremony were Capt. Wm. R. Carter, of Campbellford, and Capt. Gertrude Hickey, of Port Hope. Singing, praying and Scripture reading first took place, and then the young couple, attired in Salvation Army uniforms, stepped to the front of the platform, joined hands and the Army flag was raised above them. Brigadeir Hargrave then asked them if they would in no way interfere with their duty to God, with the Salvation Army, or with their love to their comrades, and if they would each do their utmost to be faithful soldiers of Jesus Christ and never allow the Army to be injured in any way if at all in their power to prevent it. Receiving an affirmative reply the Bridagier had them then state that they knew of no legal reason why they should not be joined in the bonds of holy matrimony. Then the groom said that in the presence of those assembled he took Gertrude Hickey to be his lawful wedded wife, after which the bride declared that she took Richard Carter to be her lawful husband. "In the name of God and the Salvation Army," said Bragadier Hargrave, "I pronounce you man and wife."

The ceremony was immediately followed by prayer, and God's blessing was invoked upon the newly-wedded couple.

Brigadier Hargrave stated that this was the second wedding which he had performed this week and he still had three more to perform within a few days.

COURT CONCLUDES.

The Wind-Up of the Business at the County Court

The session of the County Court yesterday afternoon was occupied with the suit of David Evans and Wm. McNearn against Silas Valentine. They asked $110 damages for alleged breach of contract in a cattle deal. The case was, however, non-suited, Judge Weller finding that proper notice as to when the cattle were to be delivered was not given by Evans. Stratton and Hall for plaintiffs, Hugh O'Leary, Lindsay, for defendant.

Court resumed this morning before Judge Weller. The case of Edward Allen, charged with theft, was heard. Evidence was taken and the case fell to the ground and Allen was discharged. County Crown nAttorney Wood acted for the Crown and E. B. Stone for the prisoner.

The appeal of Samuel Willison against a conviction made by Magistrate Dumble of an infraction of the by-law regarding junk shops was heard and Willison won his case, the Judge quashing the by-law on the ground that Willison's place of business was not a junk shop and that the by-law under which he was convicted was bad. R. R. Hall, of Stratton & Hall, acted for appellant, and E. B. Edwards appeared for the town. This was the last case, Court adjourning at noon. The case of Walsh vs. Reynolds will be heard by the Master in Chambers at a date to be agreed upon.

FIELD OF GENERAL SPORT

Golf.

In the semi-finals of the ladies' golf handicap tournament, Miss L. Hall, scratch, beat Miss Boucher, scratch; and in the finals Miss J. Fairweather, 18, beat Miss Hall, scratch, the president's prizes thereby going to Miss Fairweather and Miss Hall, the former winning a beautiful caddy bag and the latter a putter. Miss Fairweather deserves great credit, being a beginner this year, for the splendid game she put up throughout.

Lacrosse.

The Peterborough Juniors will play their first home lacrosse match of the season this evening at the P.A.A.A. grounds, when they engage the Lindsay team. The juniors won handily in Lindsay on May 24th, but their opponents have improved since by practice and being heavier players they stand a good chance to win. Peterborough's juniors are a promising lot of players this year and their game this evening should draw a big crowd. The match will be a spirited one. The game is called to commence at 6.30 o'clock. Ladies will be admitted free.

Wheeling.

E. Smith and W. Bradburn will run a matched bicycle race, five miles, unpaced, on the Nicholls park track this evening at 7 o'clock.

CAPE BRETON MINE HORROR.

Eleven or More Men Killed at the Caledonia Mines.

First Catastrophe at the Dominion Coal Company's Collieries—Two Explosions of Fire Damp—One Hundred Brave Volunteers, Led by Chief Officials, Went Down to Fight Fire and Rescue Bodies of Dead Comrades.

Halifax, N.S., June 17. — The first catastrophe in connection with the Dominion Coal Company's collieries, of which H. M. Whitney is the head, occurred yesterday morning at the Caledonia mines, in the principal colliery, by an explosion of fire damp. About 60 miners were imprisoned. Of this number, it is supposed about half escaped by running along another passage. Of the remainder, it is believed all perished.

At 10 o'clock 10 dead bodies had been recovered. The names of those recovered are: Thomas Johnston, brother of John Johnston, assistant manager of the Dominion Coal Company; Neil McDonald of Pictou, John Doyle, sr., and John Doyle, jr., father and son; Stephen McCormick of Sydney mines, Alex. McDonald of Cape North, William Simpson, Malcolm McAuley, two Gillies, men, father and son. Donald Martin's body had not been recovered, and there are others missing.

The scenes at the mouth of the pit where the bodies are being brought up are heartrending in the extreme. One hundred volunteers went down into the mine to fight the fire raging and to rescue the bodies of their companions. The brave men were led by the chief officials of the collieries.

There Were Two Explosions.

It appears that a slight explosion occurred about 3.30 yesterday morning. Manager Brown and Underground Manager Thomas Johnston went down to investigate, and about an hour later a terrific explosion followed. Johnston was among the killed, and Brown was brought up unconscious, but will likely recover.

The first explosion took place at 3.55. This was followed by another at 5 o'clock. Every effort is being made to extinguish the fire, but without success up to the present. The volunteers who were in the pit all had to come to the surface, being unable to get near the fire for smoke and gas.

Caledonia is a part of Glace Bay. It is the principal colliery in the Dominion and averages 2,500 tons per day.

Senator McKeen formerly owned this mine, and sold it to the Dominion Coal Company. It is equipped with the most modern machinery made. The air compressor is the largest in Canada. Five hundred and fifty men and boys are employed on the day shift, and 150 at night.

Men have returned to the mine, and are now pumping in water.

AMERICANS ON DEFENSIVE.

5,000 Filipinos Stole Upon Them at San Fernando.

They Met a Very Warm Reception, Losing 75 Killed, 30 Prisoners and Many Wounded—Americans Lost 14 Men by Slight Wounds—A Spanish Officer Captured by Americans Brings Details of Luna's Assassination.

Manila, June 17.—After cutting the railroad and telegraph at Apalit, seven miles south, for the purpose of severing connection, the rebels attacked General McArthur's lines at San Fernando at 4.30 yesterday morning. They met with an unexpectedly warm reception and were repulsed with alloss of 75 killed, 30 prisoners and many wounded.

The rebel force, estimated to have numbered 5,000 men, advanced stealthily from the jungle north of the city and then divided, with the evident purpose of surrounding the Americans. The outposts of the Iowa Regiment discovered the enemy and retired to their lines, where the entire division waited in an entrenched position.

Iowans and Kansans First.

The Iowa Regiment and the Kansas Regiment received the first shock of the attack. Reserving their fire until the enemy was within 600 yards, the first volley of the Americans hit the rebels, who returned the fire wildly, the rest of their line failing to advance. The Americans, who thoroughly enjoyed the novelty of the situation of awaiting an attack, sallied forth, and the insurgents thereupon turned and fled. The American losses were 14 men wounded, and the majority of them are only slightly hurt. General Funston's Brigade of Kansas and Montanas, and General Hale's Brigade, the 17th Regiment and the Iowa Regiment, constituted the force engaged.

Aguinaldo is reported to have personally conducted the attack, and preparations were made for several days to bring forward troops from Candaba, and others from Dagupan were transported by rail. Along the front of the Kansas Regiment 89 rebel dead were counted.

The first news of the Filipino advance was reported by a telegraph operator, who was sent to the bridge at Apalit to ascertain the cause of a break in one of the wires. He was compelled to beat a hasty retreat under fire.

The Assassination of Luna.

A Spanish officer, who has been a prisoner in the hands of the rebels, and who was released by Aguinaldo, has come through the lines to Manila. He claims to have been a witness to the assassination of General Luna. According to his story, the relations between the two Filipino leaders have been strained to the breaking point because of Luna's attempt to assume control of affairs, and the final rupture was forced by Aguinaldo issuing secret orders to the Provincial Governments. Luna thereupon sent to Aguinaldo, demanding copies of the documents, and Aguinaldo replied curtly that Luna was a general of the army and that the civil government did not concern him. Luna, on opening the reply at his headquarters, in the presence of his officers, exclaimed hotly: "He will be dead tomorrow."

Aguinaldo Was Warned.

One officer, who was friendly to Aguinaldo, hastened to warn him, and Aguinaldo called together 20 trusted soldiers, fellow-townsmen of his, and stationed them around his house, with instructions to kill anyone attempting to enter, regardless of rank. Luna appeared the next day and saw Aguinaldo at the window. A member of the guard said: "Aguinaldo has gone to inspect the troops."

Luna then exclaimed, "You are a liar," drew his revolver, struck the guard and tried to force an entrance into the house. Before he could use his revolver one of the guards bayonetted him, another shot him in the back and others stabbed him. In all he had 20 wounds. Luna's aide-de-camp was killed in the same way.

SETTLED BY A COMPROMISE.

The Life Insurance Bill Passes the Banking and Commerce Committee.

Ottawa, June 17.—When the banking and commerce committee met yesterday morning to continue deliberation on the Government life insurance bill all the excitement of the last two days had vanished, and there was an air of expectancy.

Hon. W. S. Fielding, in a brief speech, proposed the following compromise: That the present 4½ per cent. basis should be extended to 1910, instead of 1907; that then the first reduction to 4 per cent. be brought into force, and that the time for the final reduction from 4 per cent. to 3½ per cent. be extended from 1912 to 1915. This would give the companies a little longer time to collect funds to meet the requirements.

Hon. George E. Foster simply said that he accepted the proposition. If they could agree by each giving up a little, it made the basis very much stronger. It seemed to him that if the compromise was accepted, the difficulties were not insurmountable.

Mr. Britton, on behalf of policyholders, accepted the compromise.

Mr. Wood did likewise.

Mr. Macauley, president of the Sun Life, had at one time made up his mind to fight this matter in the Senate. Now he would accept it only because the Finance Minister would do nothing better. He was not satisfied, but would withdraw opposition.

The preamble of the bill was then adopted.

Mr. Fielding said they had now disposed of the principle of the bill, and he

FOR A MAJORITY IN ONTARIO

That Is the Intention of Mulock's Gerrymander Bill.

Liberals Have Found That Their Legislation Has Been so Unpopular in the Other Sections of the Dominion Affected by It That They Must Have a Majority in This Province to Win Next Election.

Ottawa, June 17.—In the House yesterday afternoon Mr. Mulock, in moving the second reading of the bill respecting representation in the House of Commons, said it had not been the custom in the Canadian Parliament to make changes in the constituencies except in the session immediately after each decennial census, but every such redistribution since Confederation had taken place while the political opponents of the present Government were in office, and on each occasion, especially in 1882, the redistribution had been made in such a manner as to be unfair to the Liberal party in Ontario and to stifle a fair representation of public opinion in that province. He, therefore, thought the Liberal party was justified in undoing to a great extent the evil that had been done. The chief abuse of the power vested in Parliament to redistribute, and to which the present bill directed itself, arose under the act of 1882. This redistribution act of 1882, while professing to be for the double purpose of equalizing the representation and providing for six new seats in Ontario, four of which the province was entitled to under the census, and two caused by four small ridings being united—Cornwall with Stormont, and Lincoln with Niagara—was really framed in such a manner as to "hive" the Liberal vote in certain constituencies and strengthen the Conservatives in others, so that a fair representation of the two parties in the Province of Ontario had been rendered impossible in the Federal Parliament. The bill of 1882 did not even accomplish an equal representation by population, as, while the unit of population was 20,904, a number of constituencies were left considerably below that unit, while Liberal constituencies which had twice, and in some cases three times, as large a population as the unit, were left with only one representative, where they should have had two and sometimes three.

County Boundaries the Fair Rule.

The only fair representation was an party had not meant an equalization of the population of each constituency some time past, they meant that each province should have an equal representation in the Dominion Parliament, based on its population as a province. Taking the Redistribution Act of 1882 as a basis, as well as the act of 1892, representation by population had never been an important factor in redistribution acts. In 1882 out of 92 constituencies, 30 of them were below 19,000 population, and 34 were above 22,000. The unit was 20,904, and he thought that 19,000 as a minimum and 22,000 as a maximum was a fair estimate. On this basis 54 out of the 92 constituencies were unfairly represented, either by having too large or too small a population. He then challenged contradiction to his statement that "you will not find in any province or in the territories that in any period of time from Confederation to this moment any due regard has been paid to the principle which it was pretended governed the Redistribution Act of 1882, namely, that the ridings were to be equalized in population."

Former Acts.

He then devoted some time to proving by figures, the accuracy of which could not be challenged, that the Redistribution Act of 1882 produced a representation of parties in Parliament that a fair redistribution bill would not have produced; that the continuance of that act during the elections of 1887 and 1892, and up to the last general election of 1896, produced the same unjust results. From 1882 down to the present time the Liberal party had been unjustly treated as the result of the Redistribution Act, and that if the redistribution bill of 1882 had been upon fair lines, many gentlemen who have occupied seats since then, and many of those in the House, would never have been elected. Had it not been for the gerrymander act of 1882 and the subsequent one of 1892, there were several members in the House who would never have been returned.

Complete Justice Not Proposed.

The bill now before Parliament did not propose to do complete justice to the people, but it proposed to do away with the most glaring injustices of previous redistribution acts. The present measure would not affect the ridings east of the County of Ontario. The bill affected some 43 constituencies in Ontario. It affects the following constituencies in certain respects, in doing away with the "hives" and in abolishing constituencies which do not correspond to counties (Bothwell and Cardwell) and bringing the constitu-

The Daily Review.

SATURDAY, JUNE 17, 1899.

MR. GREENWAY is now approaching a general election in Manitoba, and he is consequently making promises to the prohibitionists. Surely these ante-election promises will not be swallowed by the prohibitionists again. They should be as objectionable a decoction to them by this time as a whiskey cocktail.

THE Grits are getting ready to vote the Galacians who are in Manitoba already by marking their names on to the voters' list. Mr Sifton proposes to prove the old saying "that it is an ill wind that blows nobody good" by getting some of these Galacians ready to kill the votes of intelligent Canadians in the prairie province.

THE new Major-General in command of Canada's militia has evidently made the volunteers in camp at Niagara work, thus giving them a very realistic idea of what soldier's life means. No one will find fault with this, except, perhaps, some of the soldiers themselves. With the volunteers doing real work in camp Canada will be in a position to get the best returns for the money expended on the militia should trouble arise with a foreign foe.

MR. Fielding has been declaring in Parliament his belief that if all the early Confederationists in Nova Scotia were not scalawags, all the scalawags were Confederationists, says the Montreal Gazette. Under Liberalism we are getting accustomed to a good many unseemly things at Ottawa. Anything more unseemly than this sneer at the men who helped to make Confederation possible, by a man who holds the portfolio of a Minister under Confederation, has not yet been put in evidence. It suggests that some scalawags were, and are, anti-Confederationists.

KRUPP GUNS.

Canada Nickel Will Go to Make Them for the Next Five Years—The Legislators' Tear.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., June 17.—Mr. F. H. Clergue, the American capitalist who is father of the huge local wood pulp and other industries, said last night his company will at once erect here an extensive sulphite pulp mill. When the new plant is completed the shipments of pulp to paper mills in all parts of the world will cease and the complete manufactured article will be turned out on the spot. The present works employ 1,000 hands.

Mr. Clergue made the still more important statement that he had just completed a contract, under which his company would supply Krupp, the German gunmaker, with nickel steel for a period of five years. By a new process he had turned out here in Sault Ste. Marie nickel steel of the best armor plate quality at a cost of $15 per ton, though the United States navy paid $400 per ton for a similar article.

The occasion of these announcements was a public meeting in honor of the legislators who are touring Algoma. Both Mr. Clergue and Mr. Conmee, M. P.P., asserted that for the further development of Algoma Government aid for a railway to connect the main line of the C.P.R. near Missanabie with the Soo was needed, in order to facilitate the bringing of nickel ore and spruce to this centre.

Hon. E. J. Davis admitted the importance of the construction of the line, but made no definite promise.

Mr. Marter, M.P.P., on behalf of the Opposition, said he would do all he could to help the enterprise.

The town is en fete in honor of the visitors.

Harkness Made a Break.

Windsor, June 17.—The police of Toledo, O., have Albert Harkness in custody, on the charge of embezzlement. He is from Windsor, and is held by the Singer Manufacturing Company. Harkness decided he would return to Canada with the officials and was started off to the Detroit boat. At the docks he was met by an attorney and advised not to go without the necessary extradition papers. Suddenly Harkness broke away. He was captured after a hard chase, and is now in jail awaiting the necessary papers.

If weak, tired or ailing you need it. Every bottle guaranteed, only 50 cents. For sale by James Lynch, Druggist, Hunter-st., Peterborough.

AN OPERATION EVADED

MR. R. A. SIZE, OF INGERSOLL, ONT., TELLS HOW IT WAS DONE.

Symptoms of Appendicitis—The Way They Were Relieved—The Sufferer Now Well and Working Every Day.

From the Chronicle, Ingersoll, Ont.

In February, 1898, Mr. R. A. Size was taken very seriously ill, and was confined to his room for several weeks. We heard that he was to go to the hospital to have an operation performed, but the operation never took place, and as he has started to work again and in apparently good health, we investigated the case and found that he has been using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Mr. Size is a highly respected citizen of Ingersoll, having resided here for over thirty years, and has been a faithful employee at Messrs. Partlo & Son's flouring mills for over nineteen years. When asked by a Chronicle reporter whether he would give an interview for publication, telling the nature of his disease and his cure, he readily consented. Mr. Size gave the details of his illness and cure as follows:—

"In February I caught a heavy cold which seemed to settle in my left side. The doctor thought it was neuralgia of the nerves. It remained there for some time and then moved to my right side, in the region of the appendix. We applied everything, and had fly-blisters on for 48 hours. They never even caused a blister and did the pain no good. The doctors came to the conclusion that the appendix was diseased and would have to be removed. The pain was very great at times, and there was such a stiffness in my ankles, also in my hands, and pain all over my body. The day and date was set for operation, and I was reconciled to it. About a week before I was to go to the hospital my wife was reading the Chronicle. She read an account of a man who had been cured by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The symptoms of the disease were so much like mine that she became interested and wanted me to give the pills a trial. I had little faith in the pills but as my wife seemed to be anxious that I should take them, I consented. The day for the operation had now arrived and I told the doctors that I did not think I would go to the hospital for a while as I was feeling better. I continued the pills, and was greatly surprised and pleased with the result. I continued to improve, and have long since given up all idea of an operation. When I started to use the pills, I was unable to walk, and suffered something awful with the pain in my side. It was just five weeks from the time that I started the use of the pills, until I was able to walk again and I had been doctoring three months before that, and I have been working ever since. Altogether I have taken sixteen boxes of the pills, and they have done me more good than all the doctors' medicine I ever took in my life. I have now every confidence in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and think that they are the best medicine in the world to-day. Certainly had it not been for them, I would have had to go through the ordeal of an operation and perhaps would not have been living now. I hope that by making this public it will be of benefit to others, as it was through one of these articles that I first learned of the unequalled qualities of the pills."

The public is cautioned against numerous pink colored imitations of these famous pills. The genuine are sold only in boxes, the wrapper around which bears the name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." If your dealer does not have them they will be sent postpaid at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville.

"A Life Lived for Others."

At the men's meeting at the Y M C A on Sunday at 4.15 p m reference will be made to the late W F Chapman, formerly a secretary of the Association. The subject will be lessons from "A Life Lived for Others." The speakers will be Mr J W Bennet, who was president of the Association during Mr Chapman's term of office, and Mr Sheriff Hall, who was a member of the Board.

Constituencies Affected.

The bill affects the following constituencies, namely: Bothwell, North Brant, South Brant, North Bruce, East Bruce, West Elgin, South Grey, East Grey, North Grey, Haldimand, West Huron, East Huron, South Huron, Kent, West Lambton, East Lambton, Lincoln, East Middlesex, West Middlesex, North Middlesex, South Middlesex—Monk is abolished, but his figures embraced the time when it was a constituency—Muskoka and Parry Sound, North Ontario, South Ontario, West Ontario, North Oxford, South Oxford, Peel, East Simcoe, Welland, North Wellington, Centre Wellington, North Wentworth, South Wentworth, South York, East York. West York was not affected by the gerrymander of 1882. It is the same constituency which it was prior to that [illegible] tion.

Mr. Wallace—The legislation the hon. gentleman proposes now tumbles West York upside down.

Mr. Mulock—It takes that portion that belongs to the city of Toronto and puts it into the city.

Mr. Wallace—It takes half the district away.

Mr. Mulock—It leaves enough for the hon. gentleman to handle.

Mr. Bennett—To be elected in.

Mr. Mulock—Well, he will have his opportunity. Now, I take these ridings and I present them to the House.

Mr. Mulock, in answer to a question by Mr. McNeill as to how the bill affected North Bruce, said it will leave it with the judges.

Mr. McNeill—The Minister is satisfied to leave that to the judges?

Mr. Mulock—Perfectly satisfied.

Mr. McNeill—But he wishes to prejudice the case. (Opposition applause.)

Mr. Foster—Tell us who the judges are to be.

Mr. Mulock—The hon. gentleman need not be at all concerned on that account. The judges will be fit, proper and honorable men.

Mr. Foster—For your work.

Mr. Mulock—The Premier authorizes me to say that there will be no objection to naming the judges before this bill becomes law. (Government cheers.)

The 46 Constituencies.

Mr. Mulock then took up the 46 constituencies, the names of which he had read, and dealt with the results in them at the general elections of 1892, 1897, 1891 and 1896, and said that, by adding together the majorities obtained by Liberals and Conservatives in all these elections, it showed that the general election of 1882 the 46 constituencies gave a Liberal majority at the polls of 8,574. The election returns gave for these 46 seats 15 Conservatives and 31 Liberals. If the distribution had been a fair one the Conservatives would have 10 and the Liberals 36. In the general election of 1887 there was a Conservative majority of 5,647, and a Liberal majority of 10,257, but the Conservative party had 22 seats and the Liberals 24, whereas, on a proper representation, the Conservatives would only have had 16 seats and the Liberals 30. In the general election of 1891 in the same constituencies Conservative majorities aggregating 3,661 carried 15 seats, while Liberal majorities aggregating 13,515 had 31 seats. By a proper redistribution act the Conservatives should only have had 10 seats and the Liberals 36. In the election of 1896 he omitted three constituencies, North Simcoe, Monck and North Wentworth and Brant, which had been united into one constituency. In 46 constituencies there were Conservative majorities of 3,184 and Liberal majorities of 12,413. The election returns gave 17 Conservatives and 26 Liberals, but a fair proportion, based on the majorities given at the polls, would have been 10 Conservative seats to 33 Liberal, or a rightful Liberal majority in Parliament of nine. In other words, the gerrymander caused a loss to the Liberal party of 14 votes on a division in Parliament.

Mr. Mulock then went on to deal with the Ontario constituencies affected in detail, amid a running fire of questions, causing him to lose his temper.

Mr. Mulock next referred to the Province of Quebec, merely saying that the bill proposed to return to certain counties in that province a number of municipalities that had been detached from them from time to time, and was passing on to the Province of Prince Edward Island, when Mr. McNeill said that he would like to ask whether the judges are to take into consideration the increase of population since the last census, or whether the increase or change of population during the last eight years was to be left out of consideration altogether.

Based on the Census of 1891.

Mr. Mulock—The bill contains the matters that are referred to the judges. The census deals with the subject of population. This is a measure proposed to be passed in the year 1899. It ought to have been passed in the year 1892. The judges will sit as if they were sitting in 1892, having before them the census of 1891, the map of the provinces, the history of the country, and such other circumstances as they may deem a proper guide to aid them in arriving at a fair judgment. The letters patent appointing the commissioners shall direct them in making the divisions to consider the distribution of population according to last census of Canada, the public convenience and such divisions as appear to them best calculated to do substantial justice.

As to Prince Edward Island.

Continuing, Mr. Mulock said: The bill restores the county lines to the Province of Prince Edward Island. That island is entitled to five members, and the counties have until very lately been represented each by two. A change was made. Portions of one county were detached and given to another, and the number of members reduced from six to five. It is now proposed to restore to each county those portions of the county necessarily belonging to it, and to give representation accordingly, one to King's, which has the smallest population, and two each to the other counties, whose population greatly exceeds that of King's. He then moved the second reading of the bill.

Sir Charles Tupper.

Sir Charles Tupper said that the Postmaster-General had exhibited greater frankness than the First Minister, who, with great plausibility, endeavored to make it appear that the measure was a very innocuous one, while the Postmaster-General had quite freely admitted that it was really a measure for destroying the Conservative party in Ontario, if that could possibly be done. After referring to the redistribution bill of Sir Oliver Mowat, he advised the Government to abandon the pretext of following county boundaries, and to acknowledge that the only principle underlying this measure is the great cardinal principle, the only principle which they knew anything about, the principle of obtaining power by means fair or unfair, and by taking such advantage as will enable them to strangle certain constituencies when an appeal has again to be made to the electorate. That was the only "principle" there was in this bill. The bill was so gross in its unfairness that the hon. gentleman and his colleagues have been obliged to change it already. In reply to Mr. Mulock's remarks about the 1882 redistribution bill, Sir Charles said that if the Conservative party owed the power under which they governed the country from 1882 down to three years ago to the gerrymander act, no person ought to be so thankful as the hon. gentlemen opposite had come into power, where would Canada be to-day? The National Policy, which is the life-blood of the country, and which these hon. gentlemen now admit is the great source of life and vitality for this country, would have been swept away. Where would preferential trade have been? There would have been no preferential trade. Where would the Canadian Pacific Railway have been? It would have been wiped out by the hon. gentlemen opposite, who, by a resolution only two years before 1882, declared that the work ought to stop at the foot of the Rocky Mountains.

A Great Humiliation.

It was a humiliating position for a Liberal Government that they were driven to the humiliating confession that nothing remained for them to do but introduce this gerrymander bill, the one great effort of a Liberal Government to signalize the last year of the century. Was it not a confession in favor of the redistribution bill of 1882?

When he had criticized Sir Wilfrid's remarks in introducing the bill he had challenged the constitutionality of the measure, and had pointed out that Sir Wilfrid closed his speech without any reference to the authority upon which he was introducing a redistribution bill in 1899, based on the census of 1891. The British North America Act expressly stated that the Federal representation of the several provinces was to be readjusted "after each decennial census." The Conservatives had always accepted the constitutional view of the matter. The redistributions of 1887 and of 1893 were to correct mistakes merely, and Mr. Laurier's comments on the latter bill showed it was thus understood and accepted by both sides of the House.

Constitutional Violation.

Resuming after recess, Sir Charles Tupper claimed that only dire necessity could explain the constitutional violation, the absurd anomaly, of introducing within a year or so of the decennial census a redistribution bill based on the census of 1891, despite the great changes throughout the country. It was merely for party gain. The fact was, the Government had so dogged its supporters through the mire of unpopular legislation that many of them were afraid to go back to their old constituencies, and demanded the assistance of this gerrymander. There was the iniquitous Yukon deal, as to which The Winnipeg Tribune of a recent date said that many Liberals in the Commons were secretly rejoiced at the Senate's action in throwing it out, and thus saving a hang-on to it. So, in view of this, the Government was determined to pack the jury before going to trial. He believed this redistribution bill would not become law. We had a second chamber in this country to guard against hasty, ill-advised, unconstitutional legislation. Moreover, in 1882, the leader of the Liberal party in the Senate, Mr. Scott, moved the six months' hoist to the redistribution bill, and every Liberal in the Senate voted for that motion. Could the Liberals to-day plead in face of that that the Senate had no right to interfere with a redistribution bill. He did not believe that such a gross violation of the constitution in the interests of party could become law.

Mr. Paterson Replies.

Mr. Paterson, Minister of Customs, in his reply, characterized Sir Charles Tupper's remarks regarding the Upper House as a shameless speech, addressed to the Senate gallery, but he did not believe the Senate could be influenced in that way.

At the close of his speech, it being 10 minutes to 12, Mr. N. Clarke Wallace moved the adjournment of the debate. Lost by 23 to 18.

After further remarks about adjournment and obstruction, Col. Prior moved the adjournment of the debate and the House adjourned at 12.38 a.m.

Eleven Workmen Burned to Death.

St. Petersburg, June 16. — Eleven workmen were burned to death yesterday in a fire that destroyed a dwelling house near Rybinsk, in the Government of Yaroslav, European Russia.

When you dream that somebody is pushing you over a precipice it's time you looked after your stomach and liver. You may not believe in dreams but that particular sort of dream is likely to come pretty near true if you don't take prompt measures to prevent it. If you neglect the warning you may find that you are actually pushing yourself over the precipice of disease into the abyss of death.

Don't forget that your heart and lungs and brain and nerves are supplied with blood and nutriment through your stomach, liver and bowels. If they do not do their work properly — if the blood is full of poisonous matter your whole body will soon be full of impurity and disease, and it is small wonder you dream of disaster.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery purifies and enriches the blood. It cleanses the whole digestive system and is an antidote for poison in the blood. It is a blood-maker and flesh-builder and is good for the nerves. It brings restful sleep and a clear head. It contains no alcohol, whisky, sugar, syrup, or dangerous opiates.

"I used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets' and have had no trouble with indigestion since," writes Mr. W. T. Thompson, of Townsend, Broadwater Co., Montana. "Words fail to tell how thankful I am for the relief, as I had suffered so much that it seemed that the doctors could do me no good. I got down in weight to 125 pounds, and was not able to work. Now I weigh nearly 180 and can

MEN OF MARK.

President McKinley always wears the Grand Army button.

Senator Cockrell of Missouri is the only senator who uses snuff.

Senator Jones of Nevada is said to be still one of the best rough riders in the state.

Ira T. O'Brien of Rome, Ga., a black smith, is one of the few men who can translate English into Latin as fast as he can write.

Colonel Funton, the colonel of the Twentieth Kansas, is a very brave man, but not a big one. With all his clothes on he weighs 98 pounds.

Bishop Watson (Episcopal) of eastern Carolina is said to bear so striking a likeness to Lincoln as to be popularly known as the former president's double.

General Arthur MacArthur was one of the boy heroes of the civil war, was decorated with a medal at 18 and a year later was in command of a fighting regiment.

It is rumored in Washington that Senator Hanna intends to buy a lot on Dupont circle, tear down the present building and erect a handsome dwelling place thereon.

Senator Elect N. B. Scott of West Virginia has offered to the University of West Virginia of Morgantown a cash prize of $100 each year, to be given to the young woman excelling in oratory.

John Timpson, the engineer who ran the special train bearing W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and his bride from New York, also ran that which took the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough on their wedding trip.

Like John Sherman, James G. Blaine, Lord Brougham and Garibaldi all had opportunities to read their own obituaries in the newspapers. Blaine had only one such chance, but Brougham had two and the Italian revolutionist fully a dozen.

Jerry Simpson's ranch, near Medicine Lodge, Kan., consists of 1,460 acres and is stocked with 500 head of cattle. He is rated at $35,000, and doesn't owe a dollar. His house is comfortably furnished and contains hot and cold water and a bath.

A. Rabinoff, a native of Russia and a lawyer in Chicago, owns a copy of the terrible "Code of Alexis," promulgated by the early Romanoffs over 200 years ago. This is said to be the only genuine copy extant outside of Russia, where it is very rare.

Vice Admiral Sir John Fisher, K. C. B., now in command of the British north Atlantic squadron, will take command of the Mediterranean fleet in July. His successor will be Vice Admiral Sir Frederick Bedford, K. C. B., who for many years has been first naval lord of the admiralty.

Laurent Perosi, the young Italian priest who is counted among the musical prodigies of that country, is but 25 years old, and is the musical director of St. Mark's in Venice. He has already composed three oratorios, to which form of composition he confines himself, "The Passion," "The Transfiguration" and "The Resurrection."

An Ignoble Use.

Washington Irving, in "Crayon Papers," says: "I was once at an evening entertainment given by the Duke of Wellington at Apsley House to William IV. The duke had manifested his admiration of his great adversary, Napoleon, by having portraits of him in different parts of the house. At the bottom of the grand staircase stood the colossal statue of the emperor by Canova. It was of marble, in the antique style, with one arm partly extended, holding a figure of Victory. Over this arm the ladies, in tripping up stairs to the ball, had thrown their shawls. It was a singular office for the statue of Napoleon to perform in the mansion of the Duke of Wellington!

A TRIP TO THE ETERNAL CITY

all glorious within, her raiment of wrought gold."

I lingered for hours, spell-bound, studying the antique frescoes of patriarchs, prophets, kings, apostles, martyrs, angels, and dragons, forms beautiful and terrible, the whole story of the Old and New Testament, the life and miracles of Christ, and the final glories and terrors of the Apocalypse; and listening the while to the chanting of the priests and the solemn cadence of the organ and choir. On the high altar are reliefs of the eleventh century, containing nearly 300 figures; and alabaster columns, according to tradition, from the temple of Solomon, through which the light of a taper shines; and underneath are the so-called tomb and relics of St. Mark. I stood in the ancient pulpit, descended into the dim, weird crypts, and climbed to the corridor that goes around the building within and without, and felt to the full the spell of this old historic church."

The marvellous beauty of St. Mark's church must be our excuse for devoting to it so much space.

The far-famed Palace of the Doges adjoins the church on the south side and faces the Piazetta and the Lagune. The exterior lined with small slabs of coloured marble, and with two pointed arcades of 107 columns is remarkably rich. The capitals of the short columns below, (which have no bases), are richly decorated with foliage, figures of men, and animals. Ascending in the magnificent court the richly ornamented Scala dei Giganti, on the highest landing of which the doges were crowned, and where the venerable Faliero in his eightieth year was executed and down which rolled his gory head, we reach the richly decorated Scala d'Oro, which only those whose names were entered as "Nobili" in the Golden Book, could tread. Then we enter the great galleries filled with paintings of the triumphs of Venice, her splendour, pomp, and pride. In the assembly hall of the Great Council may be seen the largest oil-painting in the world, with a bewildering multitude of figures, the "Paradise" of Tintoretto. The stately banquet chambers and council halls are filled with the finest paintings, historic frescoes, and antique furniture. The great galleries with their memories of glory and tyranny exert a strange fascination over the mind.

We pass from the Doges' Palace over the Bridge of Sighs, which spans a narrow canal, into the Carceri or prisons of the doges, haunted with the ghosts of their murdered victims. A staircase descends to the Pozzi, a series of gloomy dungeons, with a torture chamber, and place of execution for political criminals. Being below the level of the canal, the waves could be heard by the prisoner, lapping against the walls of his cell.

During this hot weather those who have been in Venice must envy the Venetians in that they have the opportunity of sea-bathing from their own threshholds. In the summer months all the canals are populated by the amphibious boys who swim about, or leap from the tops of the bridges to fish up the coin thrown in by the tourists of the red-back guide-books, or show their fine, statuesque figures, bronzed by the boiling sun, against the facades of empty palaces, where they hover among the marble sculptures.

Fathers of families, like so many plump drakes, lead forth their aquatic broods, teaching the little ones to swim by the aid of various floats and delighting in the gambols of the larger ducklings. On my way from the station to the Hotel Metropole, I saw several women sitting on their doorsteps with two or three strings in their hands, at the ends of which were their olive branches disporting themselves in the none too savoury looking waters of the smaller canals. In the Grand Canal, when the tide comes in, fresh and strong from the sea, the water must be pure and refreshing, and at these times it must be a unique pleasure to leap from one's doorstep into the current, and spend a half-hour, informally, among one's neighbors there. This form of social assembly, with all its disadvantages was a novel and vivacious spectacle.

So far as Jack and I were concerned, inasmuch as we had not our bathing costumes with us, we took a ferry to the Lido and had a glorious swim in the blue waters of the Adriatic, where there are fine bathing houses, and an amusing and motley host to watch.

Our guide one day took us out to the arsenal, an interesting relic of the golden prime of Venice. At the zenith of the Republic 16,000 men were employed and Dante compares the Stygian smoke of the Inferno to that from its seething caldrons of tar. In front of it rise four famous antique lions brought from the seaport of Athens in 1687.

In its magazine are the remains of the Bucentaur. This was the nuptial ship in which the Doge, on Ascension Day, went to wed the sea. The golden galley with three hundred rowers conveyed the Doge, arrayed in more than oriental pomp, to the Adriatic Sea. The stern of the vessel was turned to the sea and then the Doge amid the thunders of the artillery of the fort, took a ring blessed by the Patriarch,—who now emptied a cup of holy water into the sea,—and, advancing into a little gallery behind his throne, threw the ring into the river, pronouncing the words, "Desponsamus te, mare, in signum veri perpetuique dominii"—"We wed thee O Sea, in token of our true and perpetual sovereignty."

This took place annually on Ascension Day, which celebrated the dominion of Venice over the Adriatic and was one of the grandest Venetian holidays.

The French when they took possession of Venice, dismantled the Bucentaur for the gold that was upon it and then burned the magnificent ship. Since then Byron says:—

"The spouseless Adriatic mourns her lord
And, annual marriage now no more renewed,
The Bucentaur lies rotting unrestored,
Neglected garment of her widowhood."

In the arsenal there is an interesting collection of models of ships of all periods. There may also be seen the swords of the Foscari, the armor of the doges, the iron helmet of Attila, the "oriflammes that fluttered in the hot breath of battle in the days of the crusades," and other relics of the past.

One day when strolling along the Riva, we took a snap shot of a funeral procession. Death is hushed up as much as possible in modern Venice. The corpse is hurried from the house of mourning to the parish church, where the friends after the funeral service, take leave of it. Then it is placed in a gondola and carried to the island of San Michele, where it is quickly interred. The procession I speak of was of the gondola only, and the pall-bearers were four pleasant ruffians in scarlet robes, hooded, and girdled at the waist. They were accompanied by a priest of a bread and jolly countenance. The gondola was draped in black and huge waxen candles were lighted in the prow. The scene was so weird that we had no inclination to hire a gondola and see the funeral obsequies. How dreary must their funerals be—the sable bark like that which bore Elaine, "the lily maid of Astolat," gliding with muffled oars across the sullen waves!

We were struck by the good looks of the Venetians. They have never, perhaps that high beauty of sensitive expression which is found among Englishmen, but we saw very few that were brutally ugly. The man of low rank and mean vocation has often a beauty of as fine sort as the man of education and refinement. The beauty of the pictures and the statues; the ideal types of loveliness are realized in Italy; the saints and heroes, the madonnas and nymphs, come true to the stranger at every encounter with living faces.

The women of Venice have very regular features and fine classic profiles, a circumstance which may be attributed to the large infusion of Greek blood arising from the intimate relations for centuries of the Republic with Greece and the Levant. They wear a graceful mantilla over their heads, in quite an oriental manner; and a dark bodice, scarlet kerchief, and frequently a yellow skirt and blue apron—a bright symphony of colour that would delight an artist's eye.

We visited the mosaic factory on the Grand Canal, one of the most interesting industries of Venice. The mosaic is made of small glass cubes of which it is said 10,000 different shades are employed to imitate the paintings to be copied. One has to look closely at times to distinguish a painting from a mosaic. The Venetians are also noted for their glass works and spin flowers, portraits and other designs of almost incomprehensible ingenuity and skill.

There are of course no wells in Venice, except an Artesian boring; but in each parish is a stone cistern, which is filled every night by a water-boat from the mainland. The iron cover over this is unlocked every morning by the priest of the neighboring church; and a very picturesque sight it is to see the girls and women tripping to the wells, with two brass vessels supported by a yoke upon their shoulders, for the daily supply of water.

From the balcony of our room in the Hotel Metropole we enjoyed many a pleasing street concert given on the pavement below. Bands of minstrels go singing through the moonlit streets and the Grand Canal re-echoes the music of the parties of young girls as they drift along in the scarcely moving gondolas, and sing the glories of the lagoon and the loves of fishermen and gondoliers.

Everywhere you hear music and it is hard to get beyond the tinkling of guitars and the scraping of fiddles. You hear the airs of opera sung as commonly upon the streets of Venice as "We'll roll the old chariot along," upon the streets of our own town; and the street-boy when he sings has an in-born sense of music and a power of execution which put to shame the cultivated tenuity of sound that issues from the northern mouth—

"That frozen, passive, palsied breathing-hole."

One afternoon we took a ferry over to the Lido on the sea shore. The island is long and narrow and stretches between the lagoons and the sea. There are some poor little trees there, and grass, and what was a novel sight after staying in Venice, real live horses. Here it was Lord Byron's habit to gallop up and down in search of that conspicuous solitude of which the sincere bard was fond. Here one may take a delicious bath in the blue waters of the Adriatic, where the light surf breaks with a pensive cadence on the soft sand, all strewn with brilliant shells.

There is nothing more delicious after dinner than to light a fragrant Havana and take a sunset row upon the Grand Canal. It is a memory-haunted water way, whose beauties are portrayed in almost every gallery.

"Onward I glided silently—
"By many a dome
Mosque-like and many a stately portico,
The statues ranged along an azure sky;
By many a pile of more than Eastern pride,
Of old the residence of merchant kings,
The fronts of some, though Time had shattered them
Still glowing with the richest hues of art,
As though the wealth within them had run o'er."

Some are of a faded splendour wan, and seem, Narcissus-like, to brood over their reflection in the wave. Here are the old historic palaces, once the abodes of kings and doges and nobles. Here swept the bannered mediæval pageants as the Doges sailed in gilded galley to the annual marriage of the Adriatic. There is the house, says tradition, of the hapless Desdemona and near by the house of Othello the Moor. Now we glide beneath the Rialto, with its memories of Shylock the Jew and the Merchant of Venice. And

"Now a Jessica
Sings to her lute, her signal as she sits
At her half-open lattice."

I directed the gondolier to stop at Gli Scalzi, a sumptuous church of the barefooted friars, and attended the singing of the Angelus. The scene was very impressive. The sweet-voiced organ filled the shadowy vaults with music. The tapers gleamed on the high altar, reflected by the porphyry and marble columns. A throng of worshippers knelt upon the floor and softly chanted the responses to the choir. And at that sunset hour the fishermen on the lagunes, the sailor on the sea, the peasant on the shore, the maiden at her book, the mother by her babe, pause as they list the vesper-bell and whisper the angel's salutation to be blessed among women."

It was with reluctance that we left the Magic Queen of the Adriatic. Its memories will never be forgotten. "There can be no farewell to scenes like these."

SOUTH PERTH ELECTION.

Particulars Filed in the Protest—Cross-Petition Is Also Entered.

Toronto, June 17..—Particulars in the South Perth election protest were filed yesterday at Osgoode Hall. The return of Nelson Monteith, Conservative, M.P.P., is challenged, on the usual grounds. There are 69 charges; 106 votes are objected to. John Broderick, as deputy-returning officer at Mitchell, is charged with having refused a voter a ballot for one spoiled, and with having counted the spoiled ballot. In the bribery charges it is alleged that sums of from $2 to $10 were paid.

Counter Charges.

The Conservatives reply with particulars of alleged wrongful acts of agents of the Liberal candidate. Valentine Stock. Eighteen votes are objected to. Personation and intimidation are alleged. There are 24 counter charges. Alexander Smith of Toronto, James Vance of Ingersoll, Frederick Dutton of Mitchell, John Kisler of Logan Township, and William McDougall of Edmonton figure in connection with the bribery charges. The trial takes place at Stratford, June 29.

POINCARE FAILS.

Senator Waldeck-Rousseau Will Now Try His Hand at Cabinet Making.

Paris, June 17.—M. Poincaire has informed President Loubet that he declines to form a Cabinet. The reason for his declination is understood to be due to the objection of the Radicals to the presence of MM. Ribot and Barthou in the Cabinet, while M. Poincaire wished them to join him in the Ministry.

Senator Pierre Waldeck-Rousseau has accepted the task of constructing a Cabinet, M. Delcasse having declined.

PRINCESS STREET KINGSTON — PETERBOROUGH — KENT STREET LINDSAY

THE JUNIORS DEFEAT LINDSAY

AN EASY VICTORY IN LACROSSE AT THE P A A A GROUNDS.

A Fair Crowd Present for an Evening Game—The Field of General Sport.

The experiment made last evening of a game of lacrosse in the evening was considerable of a success as a good sized crowd gathered at the P A A A grounds to witness the contest between the Peterborough juniors and Lindsay. The game was started shortly before seven o'clock and was concluded shortly after eight. Peterborough won by a score of 6 goals to 1 without any difficulty.

The match was a fair exhibition considering that junior players were engaged. However, the home team found the visitors easy game at all times and the match was never exciting. The Lindsay boys came down two or three men short and were assisted by a couple of local players. They will doubtless learn to play the game with practice and study, but if they are ever going to make Lindsay great as a lacrosse town they need not be sparing of these. As yet they play a wild and hasty game, indulging in long throws and reckless swipes at the ball. The juniors put up a good game, their home doing nearly all the work, the defence never being very hard driven by the Lindsay players. On the home Whitcroft, Morgan and Overend did the scoring.

The first game was taken for the juniors by Morgan by a good shot; then Overend carried the ball in and the second was scored from a scrimmage. A minute after play was resumed another went through Lindsay's flags. Morgan scored the fourth on a pass from Ayers; the fifth was taken by Whitcroft; number six went to Lindsay, and shortly before the match closed Overend scored the seventh of the match and the sixth for the home team.

The match was entirely free from roughness. Jack McCabe refereed.

Elliott, one of the Lindsay players, had only one hand and his work was watched with interest by the spectators.

The Lindsay players were:—Primeau Burke, Gillogly, McKay, Dusty, Bunting, Staunton, Bell and Elliott, and Brown, field captain.

The home team was composed of the following:—Ed Dillon, T Dineen, G Meis, J Comstock, Harry Morgad, Watley, H Overend, F Whitcroft, H Ayers, W Mowry and Terrot Glover, field captain.

MANUFACTURE OF PEAT FUEL

PEAT DEPOSITS NEAR KIRKFIELD BEING BUSILY WORKED

What a Visit to the Works of the Trent Valley Peat Fuel Company's Works Shows—A Growing Industry.

Mayor Davis this week paid a visit to the works of the Trent Valley Peat Fuel Company on the Balsam lake division of the Trent Canal, about two miles from Kirkfield, in company with the manager, Mr. W. J. Sims. This morning the Mayor was interviewed by a Review reporter, to whom he gave an interesting account of his visit.

He found in operation quite a large plant which will enable the company to manufacture extensively this season. He found erected a large storehouse 100 ft. by 40 ft., a power house 24 by 30 feet, a compressing building of two stories, 30 by 40 feet, an office 18 by 24 feet, and a storehouse 30 by 50 feet. The buildings are all very substantial, the power house and compressing building being roofed and sheeted with metal.

The dredge was at work in the peat, taking out 1,300 yards a day, which when dried will reduce to 300 tons. The company's plant includes three compressing machines with a capacity of 108 tons a day. It is expected that the plant will be in full operation at the beginning of July and that the fuel will be for sale during that month.

About 30 men are employed at present and it is expected that the number will be doubled when things are running in full swing. The process by which the wet and rough peat is turned out as fuel is interesting. It is taken out of the marsh by the dredge and thrown up on the banks to dry. Afterwards it is moved on scows to the drying ground adjacent to the buildings, where it is allowed to dry still further. It is next moved to the store house and the crude peat is conveyed from there to the picking machine by carriers. It is then taken by the hoppers to the compressing machines and is turned out a clean hard dry fuel.

In reply to a question as to the burning qualities of peat Mayor Davis stated that at a recent test made of the fuel by the Gurney company of Toronto it was proved that it is in every respect equal to hard coal and as a fuel for cooking stoves is much superior. Questioned about the price he stated that he expected that it would be offered to the public at about $4 a ton.

THE WATERWORKS INTAKE.

A Description of the Arrangement at the Intake Where the Water is Taken From the River for the Water Supply.

Considerable attention has been attracted to Peterborough's water supply this spring, and as indicated by a letter in another column the town water is still subject of live interest. A Review representative when making inquiries regarding the water supply yesterday took a trip to the pumping station for the purpose of seeing exactly how the water from the river was taken into the mains, believing that a description would be of interest to the public. It is safe to say that very few of those who use town water, or of those who do not, for that matter, have a clear idea of how the intake of the water system is arranged or what precautions are taken to prevent all manner of things being drawn into the pipes and sent into the mains. The Review was allowed to make a complete inspection of the intake and the intake house.

The ordinary idea may be that the intake pipe runs out into the river and that the water is drawn into it and thence sent out into the system, after possibly passing through a screen. But the arrangement of the intake is not so simple as this. The intake pipe extends from the pumping station to a the intake house which stands probably over two hundred feet to the north. In the intake house is the well from which the water is taken. The water surrounding this house is called the pond, and is deep with a stiff current running through it. The intake house is almost square, but stands in the water, cornerways to the current. This was done in order to meet the lay of the intake pipe, but it also serves a good purpose in not allowing the current to strike the building square on any side. The reason this is an advantage appears when the further description is read. On three sides of the cribwork of the intake house are openings or inlets allowing the water to pass inside to a well which is situated in the centre of the structure. These inlets are on the north, west and east sides, and are grated with slats, probably about an inch and a half or two inches apart. Thus any object of any size coming down the river meets its first resistance if it is desirous of getting into the water mains at these slats or gratings on the outside. The advantage of having the house in the water at an angle to the current is now seen, as the water not striking the gratings squarely carries away anything the slats may prevent entering. Passing inside the water reaches a well which is not large in size, but is about fifteen feet deep. A second well adjoins this first one. This second one is separated from the first at the top by a plank partition and by screens at the bottom. There is a screen that is dropped down on each side of the wooden partition, and through these screens the water passes into the well, where the intake pipe enters to carry the water to the pumping station where it is forced into the mains over the town. The screens through which the water passes are of small mesh, what is known as one-eighth screens. These screens are cleaned every morning. One is raised and cleaned and lowered again. Then the second is raised and cleaned and lowered. One screen is always in place, and with the exception of about five minutes employed in cleaning and changing, the water is passing through

Closing Meeting of Saturday Club.

A union open meeting of the members of the Y W C A and the Saturday Evening Club will be held in the parlors this evening at eight o'clock. A short address on Y W C A work abroad, very choice vocal and instrumental music, together with the reading of the reports, giving a summary of the work done during the last three months, forms a programme of exceptional interest and enjoyment. As this is the closing meeting of the club for the summer months, every member should make a special effort to be present. All interested in the work of the Association are most cordially invited. A silver collection will be taken at the door. Mothers' meeting on Sunday afternoon at 4.15. All mothers are made very welcome.

TO HELP THE STRIKERS

The length of time that the G.T.R. trackmen have been idle in consequence of their strike has made severe inroads into any little savings that the men may have been able to make, and as a result some of the strikers are in need of assistance. It does not require any mathematical calculation to convince any one that on a trackman's wages a man with a wife and family was not likely to have a large savings bank account, and therefore could not be in the best of positions to bear a prolonged idleness. However, the men are ready to suffer privations in their fight for a fair day's pay for a fair day's work, but their lot could be made easier by assistance extended by those who can afford to give a little to help them in the stand they have taken.

The expressions of sympathy have been strong and general, and many have also expressed the desire to put their sympathy in the practical shape of dollars and cents, if the opportunity was offered.

The Review will, therefore, at request, receive any contributions towards the strikers' fund, and these contributions will be daily acknowledged. Subscriptions may be sent in to the Review office and they will be acknowledged and handed over to the proper men.

In response to this appeal made last evening The Review has received the contributions as below, which we thankfully acknowledge. The receipts will be turned over to Mr. C. Noyes, chairman of the local trackmen for distributions.

Further contributions received will be promptly acknowledged. Small sums are welcome.

HELD THEIR ANNUAL MEETING

THE FARMERS' INSTITUTE OF WEST BETERBOROUGH.

Election of Directors for the Different Townships—President Elliott Re-Elected and Mr R Q Dench Made Vice-President—The Meetings.

The annual meeting of the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute was held in the Council Chamber this afternoon at one o'clock. President E. M. Elliott occupied the chair. There was a fair attendance.

President Elliott, referring to the recent excursion to the Ontario Agricultural College, expressed regret that the feeling of uncertainty resulting from the trackmen's strike had interfered with the attendance. It had, however, been a success financially and otherwise and the visit had been of great benefit.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and adopted.

The secretary, Mr. Wm. Collins, then read the annual report of the Executive, covering a review of the year's work and containing a great deal of information. It was adopted on motion.

The report of the auditors was next read and adopted.

The question as to where the Institute meetings for the year will be held was next discussed. It was thought advisable to hold a meeting at Buckhorn instead of Lakehurst and to also hold a meeting at Ennismore in addition to the usual meetings at North Monaghan, Peterborough and Lakefield. The Executive Board makes the arrangements for these meetings and the above suggestions were recommended.

The election of directors to the Board resulted as follows:—

North Monoghan—Messrs. T. Rightmeyer, T. M. Hunter, Thos. Brown, and G. W. Bennett.

Otonabee—Messrs. Dawson, Kennedy, R. Hambridge, S. Matchett.

Smith.—G. W. Fitzgerald, Geo. Elliott, G. W. Mann, Jas. Davidson, J. Stothart, H. C. Garbutt, E. M. Elliott.

Lakefield.—R. H. Braden, G. J. Galvin, R. Q. Dench.

Peterborough.—Messrs. E. B. Edwards, R. H. Leary and T. E. Bradburn.

Harvey.—Robt. Shaw, Andrew Shearer.

Ennismore.—Messrs. John Telford, P. Costello.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The Board of Directors then assembled and Pres. E. M. Elliott was re-elected for the third time. He thanked those present for the honors

On motion of Mr. Fitzgerald, seconded by Mr. Garbutt, Mr. R. Q. Dench was elected Vice-President.

THE MEETINGS.

It was decided to hold the regular meetings at Peterborough in the afternoon and North Monaghan in the evening of the first day and at Lakefield on the afternoon and evening of the second day.

The supplementary meetings will be held at Ennismore in the afternoon, Bridgenorth in the evening, and Hall's Bridge afternoon and evening.

The meeting then adjourned.

The Strikers' Fund.

To the Editor of The Review:—

Dear Sir,—I was pleased to see by this evening's Review that you had kindly offered to receive contributions in aid of the strikers' fund. Now let me respectfully submit that you do not publish the names of the contributors as you propose. If we recognize the brotherhood of man as we profess to do, then I claim our offertory should be given as a token of our good wishes, and not as a charity which a publication of the names would indicate. Of course a list of contributions should be kept open to the inspection of any of the contributors or strikers for obvious reasons, but not otherwise. The men are deserving of our highest admiration and respect for the noble stand they have taken against such a domineering institution at such a terrible cost to themselves and let us see to it that we do nothing not in entire keeping with their susceptibilities under such a trying ordeal.

Yours, etc.,

A SYMPATHIZER.

ITCHING PILES.

False modesty causes many people to endure in silence the greatest misery imaginable from itching piles. One application of Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment will soothe and ease the itching, one box will completely cure the worst case of blind, itching, bleeding or protruding piles. You have no risk to run, for Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment is guaranteed to cure piles.

Have You Thought of It?

For four thousand years or more the world groaned, suffered and fumed about its corns, for there was no positive relief—no certain and painless cure until Dr Scott Putnam gave to the world his great corn Extractor. If there is suffering now it is a result of carelessness, for the remedy is at hand? Try Putnam's Corn Extractor. It is sure, painless and prompt. Beware of substitutes. J. J. Turner & Sons, Peterborough, Can:

Gentlemen,—I shall not require the camping outfit I bought from you this spring as I am going to Europe, and I would ask you to kindly dispose of it on my account. It is my intention to spend considerable time at your back lakes, and anything I may want or any of my friends it will be purchased from your firm, as you have been very highly recommended to me. I remain, yours truly,

Groceries and liquors. — The Spot Cash. 6d

—There was a fair market this morning.

—Havelock is to have a celebration on July 1st.

—The Chief of Police wants an owner for a door key picked up this morning.

—Over sixty men are employed at Havelock by the C.P.R. constructing new sidings.

Do you require a stimulant? if so, patronize "The Spot Cash." 3d

—The regular meeting of the W.C.T.U. will be held on Monday, June 19th, at 3.30 p.m., at Mrs. Paton's, 292 Brock-st.

—A Sunday school excursion was run yesterday from Bridgenorth to Lindsay per steamer Crandella. About two hundred passengers were on board.

—Though the evening was decidedly cool the band concert in Victoria park last evening was very largely attended and the excellent programme was heard with much enjoyment.

—Although some of the merchants of Lindsay were in favor of celebrating Dominion Day on Monday, it was finally decided to observe the day on Saturday.

—The annual picnic of the Park-st. Baptist Church Sunday School will be held on Dominion Day at Jubilee Point, per steamer City of Peterborough.

—It was thought by our farmers that the cold weather had exterminated the potato bug, but local dealers say the demand for Paris green shows no diminution.

—An offcial C.P.R. car, No. 99, en route from Montreal to Toronto was in town for an hour this morning. Messrs. Drinkwater and Brode, of Smith's Falls, were on board.

—Complaints have been made about the large number of tramps with which Burnham's Point is infested again this year. They are a great annoyance to the people in the vicinity and to the steamboat men.

—John Williams was arrested last evening for being drunk and disorderly. He had no longing for the cells but was locked up with a little difficulty, and was allowed to go this morning on payment of a fine of $2.

—A demented girl was found wandering around the streets and the park last night. She had religious hallucinations and among other things offered to intercede for the bandmaster. She was arrested and was this this morning remanded for a week.

—In the opinion of Solicitor W. B. McMurrich, of the Toronto Board of Education, the establishment of savings banks in the public schools is illegal. He finds an amendment forbidding the teachers to take up any collection or subscriptions from the scholars.

—Several changes have been made in the Grand Trunk time table and go into effect immediately. Those which affect Peterborough are as follows—Express for Belleville leaves at 11.55 a.m. instead of 12.05 p.m.; the Lakefield train leaves at 12.10 p.m. instead of 1.30, arriving back at town at 5 instead of 4.40; the evening train for Lakefield leaves at 6.30, arriving back at 7.55.

—A complaint was entered at the police station to-day about the lady golfers riding on the railway bridge crossing to Auburn and on the walk from there up towards the mills. These sidewalks are in town and the by-law will have to be enforced with regard to them, especially as they are very narrow. The ladies are, therefore, warned.

COOL SUITS FOR MEN

We are showing many distinctly novel things in lightweights and light colours in cool summer suitings. They make up in gentlemanly style and are worn with great comfort.

The clothes we make always lay close to the collar, with lapels of new design, foreign from ready clothing. We avoid the two extremes—the very high and very cheap. In fact, it's clothes to suit or money back dealing with us.

Idyl Wyld Summer ....Resort

RICE LAKE, ONTARIO.

THIS Breezy and Beautiful Island Summer Resort will re-open for the season of 1899 on June 12th, under entirely new and up-to-date management. Important new additions to the building and hotel equipment have been effected. Twenty new Bed Rooms, Sitting Rooms and Waiting Rooms have been added, and entirely refurnished in modern style. Broad balconies extend around each of the two new stories erected, affording picturesque views of the surrounding scenery.

The cuisine will be a special feature—fresh meat, fresh fish, fresh eggs, milk and butter, as well as wholesome vegetables and fruit in abundance, necessitated by a robust appetite, sharpened by the ozone and continual breeze of this idylic spot.

Good bass and maskinonge fishing are along the shore and lake. No charge for Americans fishing—no permits required. Boats and competent guides furnished. The island steam launch "Outlet Queen," can be engaged for cruising and sailing parties. The Park is open for excursion parties, whether public or private. Tables and Seats for picnic parties are all over the ground in shady groves. Come and spend your summer vacation at Idyl Wyld, and for your life don't miss it.

HAVELOCK FIRE.

A General Store, a Residence and Some Lodge Rooms Destroyed.

About three o'clock Thursday morning fire broke out in the rear of the store occupied by Wilson & Copp, Havelock, and, in a few minutes the building was a roaring furnace. The flames quickly spread to the residence of Mr. Ed. Fennell, immediately adjoining, and it too was burned to the ground. Mr. John Turriff, who ran a tinshop some time ago in part of the store, still had his tools stored there, and they too were destroyed, involving a loss of $300. The furniture and regalia of the A.O.U.W., the C.O.F., and the L.O.L. societies, which were situated over the store, were also destroyed, loss unknown. Mr. Wm. Barlow's bicycle, which was left in the store, had its last scorch. The residences of Mr. Alex. Rose, Mr. R. J. Graham and Mr. E. Fitzsimmons were only saved after a hard struggle. The contents of Mr. Fennell's house were fortunately saved, as that gentleman had no insurance placed on them. The two frame buildings destroyed were owned by Mr. Wm. Mathison, and are insured in the Royal for $1,200. Wilson & Copp's stock, which was totally destroyed, is insured in the Commercial Union and the Royal for $2,500. The origin of the fire is a mystery, but everthing points to incendiarism.

Three tramps were arrested about 8 o'clock on a charge of vagrancy, but who were supposed to know something about the blaze. They were afterwards discharged.

TO DEVELOP POWER AT FENELON FALLS

CONTRACT FOR ELECTRIC PLANT GIVEN TO THE CANADIAN GENERAL ELECTRIC CO.

Contracts That are Keeping Peterborough's Big Works Busy—Electrical Machinery for all Parts of Canada.

The following "sparks" are gleaned from the June number of the Electrical News:—

The Canadian General Electric Company are installing a 100-light plant for the Beaver Portland Cement Company, of Montreal.

The London Electric Company are still engaged in the work of remodelling their power house, and have placed an order with the Canadian General Electric Company for a complete marble panel switchboard, consisting of sixteen panels.

The Canadian General Electric Company have just received an order from Mr. E. Keefe, of Halifax, for one of their standard 25 kilowatt direct driven units for the lighting of the new elevators which he is erecting for the Intercolonial Railway.

The Canadian General Electric Company are in receipt of an order from the Canadian Pacific Railway Company for two of their standard 40 kilowatt direct connected generators, with Ideal engines. These are to be used for the lighting of their new passenger depot at Vancouver, B.C.

The Canada Tool Company, of Dundas, Ont., are in receipt of a large order from the Dominion Bridge Company, of Montreal, for special machinery. The large punches are to be operated electrically by motors directly attached to the machines, and for this purpose an order has been placed with the Canadian General Electric Company for four of their latest enclosed slow speed C.E. motors.

The Trenton Electric Company, of Trenton, Ont., expect to have their transmission lines at Belleville, Ont., completed very shortly, when they will be in a position to furnish power to the various manufacturers of that place. Mr. R. J. Graham is one of the first to avail himself of this power, and has already contracted for about 50 h.p. He has also placed an order with the Canadian General Electric Company for one 30 h.p. and one 10 h.p., three phase induction motors for operating refrigerating machinery, hoists and fans in his cold storage establishments.

The Canadian General Electric Company are introducing a series alternating arc lighting system to their patrons, which permits of the operation of arc lamps in series from an alternating current generator of any standard periodicity. This will undoubtedly fill a long felt want and will tend to revolutionize the systems now in use for street lighting. Appreciating the advantages to be obtained, the Sherbrooke Gas & Water Company, of Sherbrooke, Que., have placed an order with the Canadian General Electric Company for a complete equipment of one hundred of these lamps, with transformers.

For some months past it has been reported that the Water power at Fenelon Falls, Ont., will be developed for the purpose of transmitting electric power to Lindsay, Ont., a distance of fourteen miles. We are informed that the undertaking has been definitely decided upon by the Light, Heat & Power Company, of Lindsay, who expect to have the new plant in operation by the 1st of October. They have placed an order with the Canadian General Electric Company for one 400 k.w. generator, together with switchboards, step up and step down transformers, and all the apparatus required to complete the electrical installation. We expect to give a detailed account of this enterprise in our next issue.

A CARD.

We, the undersigned, do hereby agree to refund the money on a twenty-five cent bottle of Dr. Wills' English Pills, if, after using three-fourths of contents of bottle, they do not relieve Constipation and Headache. We also warrant that four bottles will permanently cure the most obstinate case of constipation. Satisfaction or no pay when Wills' English Pills are used.

AT AUBURN MISSION.

Conclusion of a Week's Successful Evangelistic Meetings.

Last night there was brought to a close the series of successful meetings which have been held at Auburn mission hall during the week. A splendid concert and entertainment was given last night and was largely attended, as have been the meetings each night. The musical programme was as follows:—Duet, "Flash Out the Search Light"; duet, "Fairest Canada Shall yet be Free"; duet, "Mollie and the Baby"; quartette, "Rock of Ages"; duet, "Drink, Drink"; solo, "The Saints and the Snakes," a humorous Irish song; duet, "Call Some Other Day"; duet, "For God and Home and Native Land." The above was rendered solely by Rines Bros, the well-known singing evangelists, with the exception of the quartette, in which they were joined by Messrs Mulligan and Walden.

Lime light views of Canadian scenery were presented. They occupied about an hour and were followed by the presentation of a number of English scenes. They were all very interesting.

MISS CAPRICE.

BY ST. GEORGE RATHBONE

Author of "Doctor Jack," "Doctor Jack's Wife," "Captain Tom," "Miss Pauline of New York," Etc.

Of course, the young American is enthusiastic, and his unbounded faith in the new White Squadron to accomplish anything, while, on the other hand, the British officer, like most of his class believes that John Bull is invincible on land or wave. Of course, the young man from Chicago disputes the point, and energetically contends that no nation is superior to the Republic, or that any flag can be more desperately defended than "Old Glory."

And right in the midst of the heated discussion Lady Ruth smiles, as though she has suddenly hit upon an idea at last—an idea that offers a solution to the problem that has been perplexing her of late, concerning the courage of these rival admirers.

She turns to the American and smiles sweetly.

"Doctor, you speak of your countrymen being brave; will you prove it?" is what she says.

The young man turns a trifle red.

"I beg your pardon, in speaking of Americans, I did not intend to sound my own praise. Personally, I never claimed more than the average amount of boldness, though I don't know that I was ever called a coward."

His manner is modest, but the young girl with English ideas chooses to look upon his words with suspicion.

"Doctor Chicago must not take water. I have surely understood him to be a regular fire-eater—that all Chicago has rung with his escapades," says the colonel of Royal Engineers, sneeringly.

"Nonsense! But, Lady Ruth, you spoke of my proving something—what can I do for you?"

"Look!"

She extends a shapely arm. Her finger points to a white flower growing out upon the face of the precipice beside them.

"Do you see that flower?" she asks.

"I do," he replies calmly.

"I would like to possess it."

The young man looks down. A fall means instant death, and it would be impossible for even an experienced Alpine traveller to pass along the face of the rock in safety.

"I see no means of reaching the flower, or I assure you I would gladly secure it for you."

"Ah! but a bold man would climb out there."

"Pardon—he would be a fool—his life would pay the penalty for a pretty girl's whim. Unfortunately, perhaps, my life is too precious to some one other than myself, to admit of the sacrifice. I am willing to do much for Lady Ruth, but I decline to be made a fool of."

"Well spoken," begins the professor.

"Philander!" exclaims his spouse, and the little man draws in his head very much after the style of a tortoise.

"Coward!"

The English girl is sorry as soon as the low word leaves her lips. No one hears it but the young doctor, for the attention of all the others is at the time directed elsewhere.

This time the object of her scorn does not flush, but turns very white, as he looks her steadily in the eyes.

I am sorry you have such a poor opinion of me, Lady Ruth. I make no apologies, save the one that my life is too valuable—to others, to myself—to throw it away at the mere caprice of a girl."

"There is a gentleman who finds a way to accomplish what he wants. Take a lesson from him, Doctor Chicago," she says.

Colonel Lionel has noticed a long pole near by, in the end of which is a cleft. This he has secured, and, by crawling as far as is safe along the face of the rock, he is enabled to just reach the flower.

After a number of ineffectual lunges, he succeeds in clutching the coveted article in the cleft of the pole, and draws it toward him.

A moment later he presents the flower to Lady Ruth, with a smile and a bow.

"No English lady ever expressed a wish that a British officer did not feel bound in honor to grant," he says.

The girl thanks him and then says:

"After all, the flower was prettier at a distance than when in my hands."

Colonel Lionel hardly knows whether he has made such a huge advance over his rival after all.

The afternoon sun was waning.

"We must go down," declares Aunt Gwen.

"One more look around and I am ready," says Lady Ruth.

Already she is sorry for her cruel words. Like the best of women, she can wound at one moment and be contrite the next. She finds an opportunity a minute later, when the colonel lingers to get the shawl she—perhaps purposely—left behind, to say in a low tone:

"I was cruel, forgive me—forget that foolish word," and while what she utters gives him a pleasurable feeling, and brings the color into his set face, he only smiles as he answers:

"Willingly, Lady Ruth. I did not believe you could mean it."

Then, as the colonel bustles up, the subject is tabooed, and the party of tourists proceed down the steep street leading to the Hotel Imperial.

CHAPTER II.

The scene, so peaceful, so picturesque, is rudely broken in upon by a clamor so strange and awful that the blood is chilled in the listeners' veins. Cries are heard down the steep street; cries that indicate alarm, even terror; cries that proceed from children, women, ay, and strong men, too.

Our party comes to a halt midway between the brow of the hill and the base. On either side tall houses, the declivity ending only at the water. It is a bustling street at all hours, with loungers, business men, women going to and returning from market, and children playing as children do the world over, in the dirt.

"What can it mean?" says Lady Ruth, as she looks breathlessly down the street.

No one in their party can explain the cause of the excitement. They see people running madly this way and that as if panic-stricken.

"By Jove! it must be a fire!" suggests the colonel, twirling his whiskers.

"Nonsense! we should see the smoke," declares sensible Aunt Gwen.

"You are right; it is something more than a fire. The people are almost crazed. I've seen such a sight in Chicago, when a wild Texan steer got loose and tossed things right and left," asserts the medical student.

"That's what's the matter. See! they point at something as they run! Look out for the bull!" cries Philander.

Thus, in watching for a bulky frame to appear, they fail to notice the actual cause of the disturbance.

The street is almost deserted, save where people begin to reappear below as though the danger were past, to reappear and shout afresh, as they wave their hands.

Some one is shouting close to them now. They turn their heads and behold the crowd of commissionaires dashing headlong for the shelter of adjacent buildings, and acting like crazy men.

It is Signor Giovani who shouts, first in Arabic, then in Italian and finally in English. They hear him now, and no wonder the blood runs cold in their veins—it is a cry to alarm the boldest warrior on earth.

"Mad dog! Run, signors!—save the ladies! To the houses or you are lost!"

That is what the old fencing master of Malta shouts while he retreats. It causes them to turn their heads, and what do they see? Advancing up the middle of the inclined street, turning aside for neither king nor peasant, comes a great gaunt beast, his square head wagging from side to side, his eyes blood-shot, and the foam dropping from his open jaws.

Heavens! What a spectacle to rivet one with horror to the spot. Fortunately there are some people of action present.

Aunt Gwen clutches her infant by the shoulder, and drags him along in the direction of the nearest house.

"Run, Philander, or you're a goner! It's worse than snake poison, the bite of a mad dog is. Haven't I seen a bitten man so furious that it required six to hold him down? Faster, professor! on your life!"

With that iron grip on his shoulder, poor Philander's feet barely touched the ground as he whirled through space, and the dog, mad or not, that overtakes Aunt Gwen and her infant must be a rapid traveller, indeed. Thus they reach a house, and in another minute reappear upon a balcony, to witness a scene they will never forget.

Lady Ruth, though naturally quivering with excitement, has plenty of cavaliers to hurry her to a place of safety. Besides, after that one first shock, she shows more grit than might have been expected of her.

She allows herself to be hurried along. A strong hand grasps each arm; and if every one in the path of the mad brute were as well attended, there would be little cause for anxiety or alarm.

Now they have reached a house, and safety is assured, for the hospitable door stands open to welcome them.

Already a number have preceded them, for they seem to be the last in the vicinity.

Just as they arrive, the colonel, who appears intensely excited, is saying hoarsely:

"Enter quickly, I beg, Lady Ruth."

She turns her head in curiosity for one last look, impelled by an unknown power—turns, and is at once petrified by what she sees.

They notice the look of horror on her lovely face, and instinctively guessing, also cast a glance in the direction where last the savage brute was seen.

He has continued to advance in the interim, and is now quite close, though not moving out of the straight line in the center of the street—a repulsive looking object, truly, and enough to horrify the bravest.

Colonel Lionel gives a gasp. He is trembling all over, for it chances that this brave soldier, who has just led forlorn hopes in the Zulu war, and performed prodigies of valor on Egyptian battle-fields, has a peculiar dread of dogs, inherited from one of his parents.

It is not the animal that has fixed Lady Ruth's attention. Just in front and directly in line of the dog's advance is a small native child that has been playing in the street.

He cannot be over three years of age, and with his curly black head and half-naked body presents a picture of robust health.

Apparently engrossed in his play, he sees and hears nothing of the clamor around until, chancing to look up, he sees the dog, and fearlessly extends his chubby arms toward it.

The picture is one never to be forgotten.

It thrills every one who looks on.

No one seems to have a gun or weapon of any kind. A peculiar paralysis affects them, a feeling of dumb horror.

A shriek sounds from a window is seen the form of a native woman, who wrings her hands in terrible anguish.

TO SPY OUT THE LAND.

New Ontario Excursion Leaves Collingwood for Sault Ste. Marie.

Collingwood, June 16.—The members of the Algoma excursion party reached Collingwood shortly after noon. The majority of the party left Toronto at 8.40 a.m., in charge of Mr. James Conmee, M.P.P., two special parlor cars being attached to the regular train for their convenience. There are in all about 80 in the party, including Hon. George W. Ross and Hon. E. J. Davis, representing the Cabinet. These gentlemen are accompanied by Mrs. Ross and Mrs. Davis. The others present include the following members of the Legislature: Messrs. B. E. Aylsworth, Dr. J. Barr, Walter Beatty, Thomas Blezard, John Brown, D. Burt, E. C. Carpenter, E. A. Colquhoun, R. A. Campbell, James Conmee, W. R. Dempsey, John Dickenson, Henry Eilber, S. J. Fox, O. Guibord, W. J. Hull, J. W. Holmes, W. H. Hoyle, Dr. E. Jessop, R. L. Joynt, George M. Kidd, E. A. Little, H. Monteith, Andrew Pattullo, W. H. Reid, John Richardson, R. E. Truax, James Tucker, G. F. Marter, J. McLaughlin. Mr. Howard Annes is the official press agent.

Messrs. Farwell, Loughrin, Barber and Graham, M.P.P.'s, as well as Hon. J. M. Gibson, are expected to be in the party later on.

Collingwood's Receptions.

At Collingwood station the train was met by Mayor Chamberlain and the council of the town and several hundred citizens. They were escorted, headed by the Collingwood Band, to the Grand Central Hotel, where an official luncheon was tendered, and this was followed by short speeches by members of the council and several of the leading members of the Legislature.

After the luncheon the party left by the steamer City of Collingwood, on the stormy waters of Georgian Bay, for Sault Ste. Marie, which place will be reached by noon to-day.

SITUATION UNCHANGED.

The Grand Trunk Trackmen Are Still Out—Strikes Elsewhere.

Toronto, June 17.—The striking Grand Trunk Railway trackmen in Toronto, although they passed another day without any settlement being arrived at, are just as confident of victory as the day on which they laid down their tools and refused to work.

On the other hand, the officials say that they are experiencing no trouble whatever and have a sufficient number of men on duty to properly patrol the system. It was given out yesterday that several more of the trackmen had returned to work and were engaged at the old scale.

More Rioting in Cleveland.

Cleveland, O., June 17.—At the noon hour, when the big factories let out their men, trouble was experienced all over the city. At the corner of Wood and St. Clair streets several hundred factory girls bombarded passing cars with stones. Only two arrests were made. Shortly after noon two large stones thrown from a roof crushed down through a Wade Park car on Perkins avenue, narrowly missing the motorman. Two strikers, John Murphy and J. J. Crax, were arrested. The first attempt to open the South Side line failed, the rioters being too strong, and no adequate police force being available. Three thousand people were concerned in the melees.

Strike at Smelting Works.

Hamilton, June 17.—About 40 workmen at the Smelting Works struck yesterday morning, being dissatisfied with a new boss who was appointed over them—Peter Peterson of Tonawanda. There was no trouble about wages. It is said a number of other hands will quit to-day.

Strike in Rossland Camp.

Rossland, B.C., June 17.—About 50 men employed in the Stemwinder and Brooklyn mines in Deadwood Camp, owned by D. D. Mann and other eastern capitalists, have quit work, because of the eight-hour law reducing the day's receipts.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

Thursday night burglars broke into the Chesley postoffice and blew open the vault. They only got a few coppers for their labor.

Mrs. Henry Hull, London, Ont., committed suicide on Friday morning at her home by cutting her throat while temporarily insane.

The Second Divisional Camp closed on Friday at Niagara. A mile of soldiers marched past His Excellency. The closing review was very fine.

The cruiser Olympia, with Admiral Dewey on board, sailed from Singapore at daylight on Friday morning. The next stop will be made at Colombo, Ceylon.

An inquest was held on Friday night on the body of Miss Sarah Holt, dining-room girl, who was found unconscious and died at 4 a.m. on that day in her room at the Commercial Hotel at Leamington, under circumstances that pointed to poisoning.

Thomas Woods, G.T.R. passenger conductor between Kingston and Montreal, met with a painful accident at Kingston Junction on Friday morning. While attempting to board a moving train he missed his hold on the rail and fell, both feet going under the wheels. While they were badly crushed, the surgeons have hopes of saving them.

McGill Gets Another Boost.

Montreal, June 17.—McGill University has received another handsome donation of $100,000 from Lord Strathcona and Lady Strathcona for the use of the medical faculty.

Blackguards.

The term "blackguard" is said to be derived from a number of dirty and tattered boys who attend the Horse guards parade in St. James' park to black the boots and shoes of the soldiers or to do any other dirty offices. These boys, from their constant attendance about the time of guard mounting, were nicknamed "the Black guards."

Triumphs over the Worst Forms of

KIDNEY... DISEASE

The wonderful success of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills adds to the fame of the great doctor whose name is familiar in almost every home as the author of the world famous Recipe Book.

Scores and thousands of grateful men and women have been rescued from the miseries and dangers of kidney disease by this greatest of all kidney cures.

Mr. D. C. Simmons, Mabee, Ont., writes: "My kidneys and back were so bad I was unable to work or sleep. My urine had sediment like brick dust, I was compelled to get up four or five times during the night. I saw Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills advertised and concluded to give them a trial. I have only used one box and am completely cured. I was a great sufferer for 18 years, but my kidneys do not bother me now. I enjoy good rest and sleep and consider Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills a boon to suffering humanity."

A PRIZE

FOR EVERY CORRECT ANSWER

We ask not one cent of your money. In the accompanying illustration is represented in outline the picture of Napoleon. Find the picture, mark it, and return to us, and to each of our patrons who interprets this puzzle correctly, we will give a beautiful Heavily Plated Heart Bangle NETHERSOLE BRACELET, as illustrated.

In making this marvellous offer we have no desire to pose as public benefactors. It is purely a business transaction in order to put sample packages of Phosphated Lime Fruit Powder into the hands of the public. This powder is put up in 10 cent packages, with sufficient in each to make ten glasses of lime fruit cordial—a most delicious, refreshing and delightfully pleasant drink, and all who are awarded one of our Bracelets we require to distribute for us, among friends, 25 sample packages. In order that our goods may not fall into the hands of unappreciative people, we require you to collect from each person you leave a sample with, 5 cents, half the selling price of same. After distributing the 25 packages you return us the money. We will then give you for this service, absolutely free, and in addition to the Bracelet, which was awarded you in the first place, a Solid Gold Shell Ring, beautifully engraved, and to all who return this puzzle within three days from when seen first, we will send with the Ring, also free, a splendid Simulating Ruby, Emerald or Sapphire Genuine Tiffany Style Stick Pin. To many this offer may seem impracticable. To all such we say it is certainly worth investigating; the risk is nothing, as we ask none of your money. We have been in business in Toronto for ten years, and have never failed to fulfil every promise religiously. Our business is a legitimate paying enterprise, carried on upon the broadest principles of co-operation, and conducted by men of experience and business ability. We are far-seeing enough to know that the greater inducement we offer the quicker our goods will become popular, and we are liberal enough in our views to offer inducements to stimulate our industries which have never been attempted or approached by any similar company. Our business is conducted throughout on the highest scale of honor. Regarding our responsibility, we refer you to any mercantile agency. We simply ask you to interpret our Picture Puzzle and send us your address. We will award you the Bracelet and send you, postage paid, the 25 sample packages of Lime Fruit Powder. Distribute them according to instructions and we will give you also the Solid Gold Shell Ring and Stick Pin. Could any proposition be more fair? Avail yourself of this great offer while you have the opportunity, or someone else will cut out the Picture Puzzle, and it will not likely appear again. Mention this paper.

THE ODORLESS CREMATORY CLOSETS.

I have been appointed Sole Agent for the Odorless Crematory Closet manufactured by the Crematry Closet and General Heating Co., of Hamilton.

This Closet has found a place in many of the best homes in the province, and all who have used it cannot speak too highly of its merits. Medical men speak of it from a sanitary point of view, claiming that, if health is any consideration, no home should be without one. Here are some of the

TESTIMONIALS

Alliston, March 1st, 1898.

I have had one of your "Crematory Closets" in use now for several weeks and am glad to be able to say that I have found it entirely satisfactory in every respect. I have not been able to detect the slightest odor from it at any time and would not be without it. I am sure it must prove a great convenience to people in the country and in towns where water is not obtainable.

Yours respectfully, JAMES CONWAY.

Sheddon, February 28th, 1898.

I have used it for some time and find it perfectly odorless. It is a long felt want and I believe it will become very popular especially in rural districts, towns and villages where wells are so frequently contaminated by the ordinary closets. I am, yours, etc.,

THE WATER SUPPLY.

A Complaint About the Water and the Directors' Statement of What They Are Doing.

To the Editor Review:—

Dear Sir,—Some weeks ago there was quite an agitation (and a very justifiable one), respecting the filth of the water supplied to our citizens. Now is that matter dead? As an agitation it is certainly not dead in the water we are receiving.

In this age when articles on the diffusion of knowledge fill the columns of our newspapers, don't you think that a deputation of scientists might be invited to visit our city and add to the ideal an object lesson in the real by viewing the "diajecta membra," which are daily in evidence through the water taps in our homes and offices. There is hardly a day passes that I do not see pieces of worms, and, on another occasion, some in full length, delivered to us, not free of cost, either. I have not as yet seen a cat or dog or baby, but I have come across suspicious fragments that might pass for fractions of any those mentioned. When I want sandwiches I prefer making them myself. Yours, etc.,

EBLANA.

When the above complaint was received The Review interviewed officers of the Water Company regarding the matter and found that, some similar complaints having been made to them, the Board of Directors had the matter under consideration. Yesterday the directors held a meeting, when these complaints were considered. After the meeting The Review saw some of the directors, and they stated that they were as anxious as any other individuals in the town to remove the slightest possible ground there might be for such complaints if they knew how to go about it. The system they had here was the same as that used in Ottawa and several other places, and the precautions taken made it difficult to understand how any objectionable substances could gain access to the pipes. However, they had decided to take further precautions if possible, and would send away and procure finer screens for use in the wells at the intake. A proper filtration system means, they are told, an expenditure of $30,000, and then this system must be of the most improved and the best or there would be greater danger of serious pollution of the water than there is at present. Even with the most improved filtration system it is claimed there is danger. The water furnished Peterborough consumers, according to the last analysis, made some time ago, stood fourth among the other towns and cities examined. They do not feel justified, they state, in undertaking an expenditure of $30,000, when in so few years the town could step in and purchase their system, and they could get no return of interest on their investment. This year, they pointed out, was the first in which trouble had arisen regarding the water supply and they feel satisfied that high water and the canal operations on the river have played an important part in their troubles. However, as stated, they propose to take steps at once to further guard the intake with a view to purifying the water of the presence of anything such as complained of by our correspondent. The results of their efforts they hope will be successful, and the water consumer will cherish similar hopes while awaiting the action which has been decided upon.

As regards the purity of the water, one director said they had sent several samples to Toronto and were not afraid of the results of an analysis. They desire to give the people as pure water as possible, and the fact that they had got improved appliances and good men in their employ showed that they wanted to do what was right. They would fight any impurities, if such were found, to a finish regardless of cost.

A TRIP TO THE ETERNAL CITY

(Written for the "Review.")

LETTER NO. TEN.

VENICE CONTINUED.

The Piazza of St. Mark is the grand focus of attraction all Venice, and from this beats her life in every direction, through an intricate system of streets and canals that, bring it back again to the same centre.

Of all the open spaces in the city, that before the church of St. Mark alone bears the name of Piazza, and the rest are merely called campi or fields. But if the company of the noblest architecture can give honor, the Piazza San Marco merits its distinction, not in Venice only, but in the whole world. On three sides it is enclosed by imposing buildings, which appear to form one vast marble palace, blackened by age and the elements. Its lateral sides are formed of palace called the New Procuratie on the left; and the old Procuratie on the left; its westward length is terminated by the Imperial Palace. The church of St. Mark fills up almost its whole width on the east. The place then opens southward with the name of Piazetta between the eastern facade of the Palace of the Doges and the classic front of the Libreria Vecchia and expands and ends at last on the molo, where stand the pillars of St. Mark and St. Theodore brought from Syria in 1120. One of them bears the winged lion of St. Mark, the emblem of the tutelary saint of Venice. The other is surmounted by St. Theodore standing on the crocodile. This used to be the place of execution and is now the headquarters of the gondoliers. For seven hundred years these pillars have kept watch and ward over the City of the Sea. Beneath them have been enacted many grim and bloody tragedies. Here many a knightly head fell beneath the axes. Here many a victim of conspiracy and injustice made his appeal from the injustice of men to the eternal justice of God.

Looking northward up the Piazetta from the Molo, the vision traverses the eastern breadth of the Piazza and rests upon the Clock Tower, gleaming with blue and gold, on which the bronze Giants beat the hour; or it climbs the great mass of the Campanile San Marco standing apart from the church at the corner of the New Procuratie, and rising 400 feet towards the sky, affording a magnificent view of the city, the lagunes, the winding shore of the Adriatic, and the distant snow-clad Alps. The scene is thus described:—"The burning sunset turns all the sky to opal, all the churches to pearl, all the sea to crimson and gold. The distant mountains glow like lines of lapis-lazuli washed with gold; the islands are bowers of greenery, springing from the bosom of the purple waves. Great painted barges and orisons sails come out from the distance, looking in the sunlight like some gigantic tropical bird; flowers and glittering ornaments hang at the masthead; everywhere you hear music and song, the splash of swift oars, the hum of human voices; everywhere you drink in the charm, the subtle intoxication, and the glory of this beloved queen among the nations. The grey old tower which Galileo used to climb has looked down for four centuries or more upon the square, the scene of so many stately pageants. It has witnessed the doges borne in their chairs of state, and borne upon their biers; triumphant fetes and funeral processions; the madness of the masquerade and carnival; and the tragedy of the scaffold and headsman's axe."

A large flock of pigeons enlivens the Piazza. At two o'clock every day a bell is rung, and instantly the whirr of wings is heard, and hundreds of snowy pigeons are seen flocking from all directions to an opening near the roof of the municipal palace, where they are fed. This beautiful custom, showing the permanence of European institutions and customs, has been observed during all stormy and changeful centuries. According to tradition the old Doge Dandolo, in the 13th century, sent the tidings of the conquest of Candia by carrier pigeons to Venice, and by a decree of the Republic their descendants were ordered to be forever maintained at the expense of the state. At the fall of the Republic they were neglected and some of them starved. They now flourish on a bequest left by a pious lady for their maintenance, and on the largess of grain and polenta constantly bestowed by strangers. Those whose ambition leans in that direction may have themselves photographed with the pigeons clustering around them.

Whatever could please, the Venetian seems to have brought and made part of his Piazza that it might forever remain the city's supreme grace; and so though there are public gardens and several pleasant walks in the city the great resort by day and by night is the Piazza San Marco. Its ground level under the Procuratie is belted with a glittering line of shops and caffe, the most tasteful and brilliant in the world. The absence of dust and noisy hoofs and wheels tempts social life out of doors in Venice more than in any other Italian city. People come hither and at Florians, the Delmonico of Venice, drink coffee and eat ices in the summer evenings, and then what with the promenades in the arcades and in the Piazza, the music of the military bands, the sound of feet, and the hum of voices, unbroken by the louder uproar of wheels, the effect the Piazza is like a vast drawingroom.

The glory of this stately square, however, is the grand historic church of St. Mark. All words of description must be tame and commonplace after Ruskin's glowing pen-picture of this glorious pile:—

"A multitude of pillars and white domes, clustered into a long, low pyramid of coloured light; a treasure heap it seems, partly of gold, and partly of opal and mother of pearl, hollowed beneath into five great vaulted porches ceiled with fair mosaic, and beset with sculptures of alabaster, clear as amber and delicate as ivory. And round the walls of the porches there are set pillars of variegated stones, jasper and porphyry and deep-green serpentine, spotted with flakes of snow, and marbles that half refuse and half yield to the sunshine, Cleopatra-like, their bluest veins to kiss—the shadow, as it steals back from them, revealing line after line of azure undulation, as a receding tide leaves the waved sand; their capitals, rich with interwoven tracery, rooted knots of herbage, and drifting leaves of acanthus and vine, and mystical signs all beginning and ending in the Cross; and above them in the broad archivolts a continuous chain of language and life-angels and the signs of heaven, and the labors of men, each in its appointed season upon the earth; and above these another range of glittering pinnacles, mixed with white arches edged with scarlet flowers—a confusion of delight amid which the breasts of the Greek horses are seen blazing in their breadth of golden strength, and the St. Mark's Lion lifted on a blue field covered with stars; until at last as if in ecstasy, the crests of the arches break into a marble foam, and toss themselves far into the blue sky, in flashes and wreaths of sculptured spray, as if the breakers on the Lido shore had been frost-bound before they fell, and the sea-nymphs had inlaid them with coral and amethyst."

Over the principal portal are four horses in gilded bronze, which are among the finest of ancient bronzes and the sole existing specimen of an ancient quadriga. They have had quite a history. They probably once adorned the triumphal arch of Nero, and afterwards that of Trajan. Constantine sent them to Constantinople whence in 1204 they were brought by one of the Doges to Venice. In 1797 they were carried by Napoleon to Paris where they graced the triumphal arch in the Place du Carrousel and in 1815 they were restored to their former position in Venice.

"They strike the ground resounding with their feet"
And from their nostrils breathe ethereal flame."

Byron says:

"Before St. Mark still glow his steeds of brass,
Their gilded collars glittering in the sun."

The three red slabs of porphyry in the pavement of the entrance hall commemorate the reconciliation between Emperor Frederick Barbarossa and Pope Alexander III. in 1177. The Emperor knelt upon one of the slabs and received upon his neck the foot of the Pope, who chanted the while the versicle: Thou shalt tread upon the lion and the adder, the young lion and the dragon shalt thou trample under foot." "Non tibi sed Petro," said the Emperor, stung with humiliation. "Et mihi et Petro," replied the haughty Pontiff, pressing his foot once more upon his vassal's neck. In the same porch the Doge Dandolo, "near his hundredth year and blind—his eyes put out—stood with his armor on," ere with five hundred gallant ships he sailed away, in his hand the gonfalon of Venice, which was soon to float in victory over the mosques and minarets of proud Byzantium. Here

"In an after time, beside the doge,
Sat one yet greater, one whose verse shall live
When the wave rolls over Venice—
The tuneful Petrarch crowned with laurel."

The Church of St. Mark, standing so solidly, with a thousand years under the feet of its innumerable pillars is most beautiful within. The mosaic pavement heaves and falls in marble waves upon the floor owing, I suppose, to some of the piles having heaved. Mr. Ruskin lays great stress on the colouring, reminding the reader "That the school of incrusted architecture is the only one in which perfect and permanent chromatic decoration is possible," and again "The effects of St. Mark's depend not only on the most delicate sculpture in every part, but, as we have just stated, eminently on its colour also, and that the most subtle, variable, inexpressible colour in the world—the colour of glass, of transparent alabaster, of polished marble, and lustrous gold." Speaking of the interior another writer says:—The roof sheeted with gold, and the polished wall covered with alabaster reflect the light of the altar lamps and the glories around the heads of the saints flash upon us as we pass them and sink into the gloom. The austere mosaics, some dating back to the tenth century, made the old church during long ages a great illuminated Bible—its burden the abiding truth. 'Christ is risen! Christ shall come!'" Not in wantonness of wealth," writes Ruskin, "were those marbles hewn into transparent strength, and those arches arrayed in the colors of the iris. There is a message written in the dyes of them that once was written in blood; and a sound in the echoes of their vaults that one day shall fill the vault of heaven—'He shall return to do judgment and justice.'" The old church was to the unlettered people a visible "image of the Bride, the two. These, it would seem, would effectually stop anthing in the shape of solids, such as pieces of shells, which have been found in the water at taps. How pieces of shells can find ingress through the screens into the pipes is a mystery to the waterworks people. Of course one reading this description will see at a glance that the jokes about dead dogs or cats getting into the water mains is ridiculous and only a joke. Any substance that goes through with the water must be in a state of solution or very small in particles. The Review man assisted in raising the first screen in the well, and found it free of any adhesions, with the exception of that fine rather slimy vegetable composition which would naturally be expected and which corresponds with some of the sediment that is found in water sometimes.

The Water Company directors now propose, as they state elsewhere, to place additional screens in this well, so that when these are procured and placed in position the water will have to pass through a still finer meshed screen before entering the intake pipe. Some extra precautions may also be taken with the outside inlets, by screening them over the slats, but this cannot well be done as at times it might interfere with the securing of sufficient water supply in the well inside. With these precautions taken the limit of precautions will have been taken until a system of filtration is undertaken. It is obvious that any number of screens might be added but it may be said that each additional screen will interfere with the flow of water to the pumps. In fact screens might be put on of very fine mesh, but they would almost entirely cut off the supply. Then again there is the winter weather and the ever to be dreaded anchor ice, which will, and does, close up and seal in its frosty clutches any system of screens or grating of fine bars and so cut off the supply. Once the intake is closed a few strokes of the huge pumps will empty the suction main.

A diagram of the intake house is given in order to give a better idea of the arrangement that exists at the source of our water supply.

The Only Correct Union Jack.

MONTREAL, Que., June 15, 1899.

Messrs Turner & Sons, Flag Makers, Peterborough:

SIRS,—I received the flag all right and flew it on Sunday. It looks well and I am proud of it as it is the only correct Union Jack I have seen. Thanking you for your promptness in sending it, I remain, yours truly.

LAKE AND RIVER.

Movements of the Steamers on the Otonabee and Rice Lake.

The steamer Eclipse arrived in town about ten o'clock this morning with about thirty-five passengers from Rice lake points. On Monday she brings up a scow load of wheat from Harwood, and on Tuesday lumber from Hale's bridge. On Thursday she has an excursion from Harwood, the annual Watson trip. The Eclipse this year is burning coal, which is found to be an improvement as there are no sparks and consequently no danger of fire.

The City of Peterborough goes down to Hastings on Tuesday to bring up the excursion of the Hastings Church of England to town on Wednesday. On Thursday she has an excursion from Keene to Idyl Wyld.

The Beaver brought up a good number of passengers to-day from Gore's landing and Bewdley. Yesterday she had a union public school excursion from Rice lake points to Lee's Point. On Wednesday she had a Sunday school excursion from Webb's landing to Jubilee. On next Tuesday the Beaver will run the annual Wilson excursion from Hastings to Idyl Wyld.

The North Star brought up a good excursion to-day from Centreton, boarding at Hale's bridge.

The Beaver will be equipped next week with a new screw wheel.

—At a public meeting at Fenelon Falls to discuss the G.T.R. strike the following resolution was passed:—Resolved, that we express our sympathies with the men who are asking for their honest living, and nothing more, believing that the strike is the only means by which they can obtain recognition of their just claims; and we believe that the Grand Trunk management can amply afford to, and should immediately come to fair terms of settlement with their men; and that this meeting strong censures the company for risking life and property by continuing to run trains after proper supervision of the tracks has ceased, and hopes that the government will, in the interests of the public, immediately interfere."

Destiny Changed.

The "Slater Shoe" is closely watched during the process of manufacture. Every shoe undergoes a careful examination after leaving the hands of each operator.

The slightest flaw in the leather or workmanship—a stitch missed—a slip of the knife, only discernible to an expert condemns the shoe that started toward the "Slater" goal to the ordinary, nameless, unwarranted army of footwear sold to whoever will buy them.

The "Slater Shoe" is made in twelve shapes, all leathers, colors, widths, sizes and styles. Every pair Goodyear Welted, name and price stamped on the soles.

$3.50 AND $5.00.

CHARGED WITH SMUGGLING.

Samuel Gallagher of Toronto Caught by a U. S. Customs Officer.

Lockport, N.Y., June 19.—The customs officials at Lewiston, on Niagara River, think they have made a great capture, the result of which will be to break up a gang of medicinal smugglers who have caused the officers on the river front much annoyance of late. Saturday morning Customs Officer Brasser saw a man named Samuel Gallagher (brother of J. Albert Gallagher, druggist, Toronto,) with a valise land from a rowboat at Lewiston from Queenston, and placed him under arrest. The satchel was found to contain 200 ounces of phenacetine, 108 ounces of sulphinal and 50 ounces of antipyrine. The goods cost about $78 in Canada, but are worth much more here. Gallagher's home is in Toronto. He claims to be a dental college student, 20 years old, and had taken this way to get money for another year in college. He was brought to Lockport by Officer Brasser, arraigned before United States Commissioner Pound on the charge of smuggling drugs into the country, and pleaded not guilty. He was held in $1,000 bail and remanded to jail.

Fierce Demonstration at St. John's, Nfld.

St. John's, Nfld., June 19.—It is understood that the coming visit of Admiral Bedford with the British warships Crescent, Presse, Pine and Quail to this port, where he will meet Commodore Gifford's squadron, composed of the Comus, Alert, Buzzard and Columbian, is intended as a demonstration in force against the French squadron, consisting of the Isly, Tronde and Fulton, in view of the determination of the British Government to bring the fishery dispute to an issue this season.

THE LEGISLATORS' TOUR.

The Party Reached Port Arthur on Sunday—The Immediate Program.

Port Arthur, Ont., June 19.—The provincial legislators who are touring northwest Ontario, concluded their inspection of Sault Ste. Marie Friday afternoon and, leaving on the City of Collingwood, reached here about 2 p.m. yesterday (Sunday). A joint deputation, representing Port Arthur and Fort William came out aboard a tug and escorted the steamer across Thunder Bay to the landing place.

To-day and to-morrow they will visit the silver mines on the Port Arthur & Western Railway, Kakabeka Falls, C. P. R. elevator at Fort William and one of construction carriers on the new Ontario & Rainy River Railway.

THE TRANSVAAL SITUATION.

Sir Alfred Milner Has Now Spoken Out Plainly.

The Actual Truth About Boer Outrages Placed Before the British Colonial Office—Three Ways for Settlement Possible—Either the Recall of Milner, Admission of Uitlanders to the Franchise, or War.

London, June 19.—Mr. Henry Norman, the London correspondent of The New York Times, in his cabled letter yesterday dwells at great length upon the Transvaal situation. In part, he says: "The unexpected publication on Thursday of Sir Alfred Milner's long despatch of May 4, every word cabled as of extreme urgency, added enormously to the gravity of the situation in the Transvaal. Hitherto the high commissioner has maintained a scrupulously cautious attitude, and has even subjected himself to hostile criticism by throwing cold water on the acts of the Uitlander population in the Transvaal. Now he puts the whole case logically, convincingly and even passionately. The situation is worse, it appears, than the country had supposed.

The Shooting of Edgar.

"For example, we all believed the shooting of Edgar was an incident of a drunken brawl. Now we learn from Secretary Chamberlain's reply to High Commissioner Milner that the Boer police broke into the house of Edgar, a respectable British workman, in the middle of the night to arrest him without a warrant for an alleged offense committed some time previously. When he resisted this illegal arrest, they shot him dead, and a Boer judge and jury approved their action.

A Woman Was Murdered.

"Another example of the Boer methods is the murder of Mrs. Appelbe, the wife of a Wesleyan missionary, who had attacked the illicit drink traffic. No police action followed this outrage.

"Again Field Colonel Lombard entered the houses of a number of colored British subjects at night without a warrant, dragged them from their beds, had the men beaten and kicked, and treated the women with such cruelty that one was prematurely confined and a child died of fright. As a consequence of the pressure brought to bear, Lombard was suspended, but subsequently was reinstated.

An Overwhelming Case.

"The case for intervention, Sir Alfred Milner says, is overwhelming. He adds: 'The spectacle of thousands of British subjects kept permanently in the position of helots, constantly chafing for redress, does steadily undermine the influence and reputation of Great Britain and the respect for the British Government within the Queen's dominions.'

"The seriousness of the crisis is shown by the fact of the British Government publishing such a despatch as this, which, from another point of view, is also unprecedented. Sir Alfred Milner, as high commissioner for South Africa, is an independent official, responsible only to the British Government, but as the Governor of Cape Colony he is supposed by the constitutional theory to act upon the advice of his Government, which at the present moment is Afrikander, or English-speaking Dutch. Yet, in this despatch, he states that 'language is frequently used which seems to imply that the Dutch have some superior right, even in this colony, to their fellow-citizens of English birth. Thousands of men, peaceably disposed, and, if let alone, perfectly satisfied with their position as British subjects, are being drawn into the disaffection and there is a corresponding exasperation on the side of the British.'

Cape Ministers Protesting.

"Already members of the Cape Ministry are protesting against the implication of disloyalty, and it is quite possible that official notice will be taken of Sir Alfred Milner's word.

"It is impossible to exaggerate the seriousness of such an incident in a British colony. Were Sir Alfred an excitable or inexperienced man, his recall would be inevitable. He is, however, the exact

THE MANITOBA LISTS.

UP in Manitoba they are preparing the voters' lists for the coming provincial elections, and incidentally, in all probability, for the Federal elections; and the province is filled with a storm of protest over the manner in which Mr Greenway's officials are performing their task. Manitoba is one of the provinces whose method of list-making challenged especial criticism when the Liberal franchise bill was before Parliament last session, and it will be remembered that the Government pledged itself to use its best offices to get a better system adopted in order to persuade the Senate to let the bill pass. Whatever steps the Federal Government may have taken to fulfil this promise, the fact is patent to all that the old iniquitous system is still in full operation, and the Greenway officials seem to treat the lists about as they please.

A "specimen brick" or two will illustrate the present situation. An article in the Winnipeg Telegram opens in this way:

> Writing concerning the shamefully stuffed Dauphin voters' list, a correspondent says: "Although there are only eight Galicians in the county fit subjects for naturalization, the clerk has a dozen of them scattered through the list." That Mr Sifton's proteges would be used for stuffing the lists in Mr Sifton's brother-in-law's constituency is not at all surprising.

These are, of course, the lists upon which Mr Sifton and his Government will come up for judgment, too; so that it is hardly fair to put down all the zeal of the party workers to a desire to assist no one nearer to the Minister of the Interior than his brother-in-law. By the way, it is marvellous how the ramifications of this Napoleonic family seem to touch public life and the public salary list at a multitude of points. We easterners are beginning to get the idea that all adults in the Northwest capable of holding public office are in some way related to the Friend of the Galicians and the Lord of the "Light Fantastic."

Another article in the same issue of the Winnipeg Telegram starts off in this way:

> The complaint against the stuffed Mountain voters' lists is not only that 103 names were improperly added after the official closing of the list, in the Grit interest, but also that the names of a large number of Conservatives who made application to be placed on the list are omitted from the list as printed. The following is a list of Conservatives in support of whose application sworn statements of qualification were filed with the Registration Clerk, but who have been surreptitiously struck off the list:—

Then follow a long list of names, dividing into "polls" and otherwise indicated so that they can be easily identified. The Telegram tells us that these names "were doubtless struck off by the registration clerk upon his being told by the Grit Party Organizer, in reply to a telegram sent the Attorney General, that he could refuse names even when accompanied with an affidavit of qualification."

It is no wonder that Parliament is invited to look to its own safety in this matter. Under the stupid Liberal system now in operation, its members must be elected upon these lists, which are prepared under the authority of the Provincial Legislatures, and over which it can exercise no kind of control. In Manitoba, as we have seen, they may be "stuffed" with Galicians, and legitimate voters may be left off by the score for party reasons, and yet Parliament must, as the law now stands, see its elections held upon these very lists, conscious that the result may be a woeful misrepresentation of public opinion. Certainly if the preparation of the provincial lists in some cases is to be a perpetual public scandal, even the Liberal majority in Parliament must feel that common decency demands that they permit Dominion control of these lists, at least when they come to be used for Dominion purposes. In some of the provinces a revision before a Federal judge is a guarantee of fair play, and there seems to be no good reason why this measure of security, at all events, should not be extended to them all.

Meantime the people in eastern Canada will not take very much pleasure in contemplating the open "loading of the dice" in Manitoba against Mr Hugh John Macdonald, to say nothing of the deliberate preparations to "side-track" the popular verdict when it comes.—Montreal Star.

TEN OF THE CREW DROWNED.

British and German Steamers Collided—Latter Was Sunk.

Bremen, June 19.—In a collision off Friedrichshaven, between the German steamer Artushof and the British steamer Mautitius yesterday, the former was sunk, ten of her crew being drowned.

Another Collision.

Rosario, June 19.—The British steamer Castillian Prince, Capt. Coull, from London, and the Amphitheatre, Captain Maloney, for Sunderland, from Buenos Ayres, have been in collision. The Castillian Prince arrived here in a badly damaged condition. The damage to the Amphitheatre is unknown.

Fifteen Were Drowned.

Stettin, June 19.—The steamer Goelitz collided with the passenger steamer Bluecher in the River Oder, off Zuelchow, three miles north of Stettin, yesterday. The Bluecher sank in three minutes, and 15 persons are known to have been drowned. Among the passengers were a number of school children, not all of whom have been accounted for.

contrary, and commands profound and universal respect and confidence. Therefore, The Saturday Review is well advised when it says that the Transvaal question can now be settled only in one of three ways: First, by the sacrifice of Sir Alfred Milner; second, by the immediate admission of a large number of Uitlanders to the franchise; or, third, by the armed intervention of Great Britain. The first is inconceivable, the second is improbable, and the third, in the absence of the other two, is certain.

"The London papers have warned their war correspondents to be ready to start for the Cape, and at Lloyd's great insurance centre, 12½ per cent. insurance against war within three months has been paid by members of the Stock Exchange, and two per cent. on the insurance of buildings in Johannesburg for three months.

War Not in Sight.

"Nevertheless, I repeat what I said last week, that war is not in sight. Already President Kruger has begun to move. He now denies that the arbitration of a foreign power was made a condition precedent to the extension of the franchise, which it certainly was. He also offers to increase the number of reports from the gold field districts, and adds that participation in the Jameson raid be no bar to enfranchisement—all this in spite of the fact that on his return he said that there may be war. But I will give no more. The pressure by the British Government will continue. Possibly before long this may take the shape of a movement of troops to South Africa. Already the more thoughtful of the Boers are beginning to say that they have had enough of the agitation. It must be remembered, too, that the whole question may at any moment take a great step forward by the acquisition of Delagoa Bay by this country. Only certain combined personal and pecuniary considerations in Portugal, about which it would be indiscreet to say more, block the way."

British Warships in Delagoa Bay.

London, June 19.—According to a despatch to a news agency here from Pretoria a squadron of seven British warships has arrived at the entrance of Delagoa Bay. There is no confirmation of the report, and in semi-official circles it is looked upon as being untrue.

Burghers Back Kruger.

Johannesburg, June 19.—A meeting of 4,000 burghers at Pardo Kraal on Saturday endorsed President Kruger's attitude regarding the franchises and the deprecated war. There were no disturbances.

EARL OF MINTO'S SYMPATHY

Governor-General Wires a Message to the Caledonia Mine.

Mr. Chamberlain's Solicitude Also Expressed Through the Same Channel to the Manager of the Mines—Conditions at the Mine a Little More Favorable on Sunday—Water Had Reached Flames—Ten Victims Buried.

Ottawa, June 19.—The Earl of Minto has wired the following messages to Mr. Donkin, manager of the coal mines at Glace Bay, C.B.:

"His Excellency the Governor-General is deeply grieved to learn this morning of the terrible accident a t the Caledonia mines. Please convey His Excellency's heartfelt sympathy to families of those who lost their lives in this disastrous calamity, and His Excellency would be grateful to hear further particulars at your convenience.

"(Signed) Major Drummond,
"Governor-General's Secretary."

WATER HAS REACHED FLAMES

And Conditions Are Better—Many Messages of Sympathy.

Halifax, June 19.—The conditions at Caledonia colliery, which was set on fire by Friday's explosion, were reported to be more favorable yesterday. Water has been pumped into the pit almost continuously, and steam is now issuing from the shaft, showing that the water has reached the flames.

The ten bodies of the victims of the disaster were buried yesterday. The entire population of the town and surrounding country turned out to attend the funeral, which made a sad and impressive spectacle, weeping women and children and sorrowing men congregating about the graves, where touching references to the tragedy were made by the officiating clergy.

Numerous telegrams of condolence have been received, among them being messages from Her Majesty the Queen, Colonial Secretary Chamberlain, Hon. W. S. Fielding (Minister of Finance) and Sir Charles Tupper, in whose county the disaster occurred.

TRACKMEN'S STRIKE OFF.

An Arrangement Has Been Arrived at Between the G.T.R. and the Men—Terms of the Settlement.

Montreal, June 19.—The Grand Trunk trackmen's strike has been called off. This is the result of the negotiations carried on here between Mr. Hays and Mr. James Sutherland, M.P., who represented Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the matter.

"All of the men are to be taken back," is Mr. Sutherland's statement. As for terms a statement is promised a little later.

How the Executive Puts It.

The trackmen's executive issued the following yesterday:

"An amicable arrangement has been made between the Grand Trunk Railway Company and the trackmen. All the men are to resume work to-morrow morning. Certain details which are not formally closed will be adjusted in 30 days between the G.T.R. management and a committee of the trackmen."

The G.T.R. Statement.

The following is the official statement of the Grand Trunk re the strike:

"The company are to restore to their former positions in the railway company's service all the foremen and trackmen who have not been guilty of acts of violence during the period the men have been on strike, applications for positions to be made in the usual form. If a man is refused employment, he shall have an appeal to the general superintendent and general manager and decisions in appeal to be rendered within 15 days after the return of the men to work.

"We will also within 30 days, and not exceeding 40 days, meet a committee of five of our employes representing the trackmen to discuss the questions of increased compensation and other matters which they may desire to take up at that time."

He Has His Own Way.

General Manager Hays was also seen, and in so many words repeated what was contained in the company's official statement. He said all the men would have to make application, as they had left the company's employ. The general manager believed, however, that the strike was now definitely terminated.

Buffalo's Labor War.

Buffalo, June 19.—A secret meeting of representatives from the Coal Heavers' Union, the ore handlers, elevator men, marine firemen, freight handlers and grain shovellers, was held on Saturday night, and a proposition was drawn up, demanding an increase in wages. This proposition will be submitted to the Erie Company by a committee to-day. Should the company again refuse to grant the increase, the committee is to report back to the different unions and a general strike of all men employed along the docks will at once be ordered.

Quiet Sunday in Cleveland.

Cleveland, June 19.—There were no new developments in the strike of street railway men yesterday, principally for the reason that the company made no attempt to operate cars, except on the Euclid avenue line.

No Stay for Parrott.

Hamilton, June 19.—The Minister of Justice has notified Sheriff Middleton that the execution of Ben Parrott, the matricide, must take place next Friday, and that he will have to find another hangman, as Radcliffe, the Government executioner, is at the Pacific Coast and cannot be here. The Governor-General has signed the death warrant.

Frank Deslauriers Drowned.

Wallaceburg, Ont., June 19.—Frank, the 16-year-old son of J. D. Deslauriers, was drowned here on Saturday evening while bathing in the river. He could not swim, and, getting into deep water, was drowned before assistance could reach him. The body has been recovered.

WILL GIVE MORE AID.

Imperial Government Willing to Consider Pacific Cable Claims.

London, June 19.—The Imperial Government has intimated its willingness to consider whether more assistance might not be given to the Pacific cable scheme. It is hoped here that the conference now being arranged between the representatives of the colonies and the Imperial Government will result in a satisfactory settlement of the question.

To Guard Their Women.

London, June 19.—A meeting to be held in London June 21 will be the first organized attempt of the sovereigns of Europe to act as guardians of their unprotected female subjects. Emperor William is sending his Chamberlain, the Swedish Home Minister and Chief Justice are coming, and the French, Russian and other Governments will be represented. A hundred delegates are expected to attend. The Duke of Westminster will preside.

Fighting on the Turkish Frontier.

Belgrade, June 19.—Serious conflicts are reported to have occurred on the Turkish frontier. According to the advices received by The Servian Post at Propachist on Saturday a town has been plundered and burned and several strategic positions are occupied by the Turkish troops and Albanians. Great excitement prevails here.

THE GERMAN TARIFF.

Proceedings in German Reichstag Interest Canadians Just Now.

Berlin, June 19.—Baron Heyl Zu Hernsheim, National Liberal, has given notice of his intention to introduce the following amendment to the Anglo-German commercial treaty bill:

"The most favored nation treatment shall apply only to those parts of the British Empire which grant to the subjects and products of Germany the same advantages as are granted to the subjects and products of the most favored nation."

The Reichstag discussed the proposed modification of the tariff of 1879, by which ad valorem duties will be levied upon imports from countries where German goods pay ad valorem instead of tariff duties. The modification also provides that dutiable goods from countries where Germany does not receive the most favored nation treatment shall be subjected to an additional duty up to 90 per cents., and goods on the free list up to 40 per cent.

DREYFUS ON THE WAY.

It Is Expected He Will Reach France Before Saturday.

Paris, June 19.—A despatch from the Cape Verde Islands announces that the French second-class cruiser Sfax, carrying Capt. Dreyfus, has passed en route for Brest, where she is expected before Saturday next. It is understood that Capt. Dreyfus will be landed by night, and that a special train will be in waiting to take him to Rennes, where the court-martial is to be held.

Dreyfus Trial on July 17.

Paris, June 19.—The Echo de Paris announced on Saturday that the court-martial which will re-try Dreyfus will be convened on July 17.

"I have long thought it my duty to write you a few lines to let you know what Dr.

Pierce's Favorite Prescription has done for me," writes Mrs. Euphemia Falconer, of Trent, Muskegon Co., Mich. "I am twenty-seven years old; have been married ten years. I am the mother of four children. My first two babies were still-born, and I suffered everything but death. My friends all thought I could never recover. I was reduced to 100 pounds. When I was three months along for my third child, I was taken with hemorrhage or flooding and came near having a miscarriage from female weakness. For two months I was under the care of our doctor, but was getting weaker all the time until one day I sent and got three bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one bottle of 'Pellets.' I improved so fast, I continued to take your medicine until baby was born, and he is healthy and all right. He is four years old. My baby girl is two years old. My health has been good ever since. I now weigh 165 pounds and when I begin to feel badly I take 'Favorite Prescription' which always helps me. I always tell my neighbors what helps me and a good many have taken your 'Favorite Prescription' with good results."

The "Favorite Prescription" has cured more women than all other medicines for women combined. It is the only preparation of its sort devised by a regularly graduated physician—a skilled and experienced specialist in the diseases of women.

Other medicines are sometimes sold on the plea that they are "just as good as the 'Favorite Prescription.'" Don't believe it. Don't be imposed upon. Counterfeits are never as good as the genuine.

Over 250,000 women have endorsed "Favorite Prescription." They say there is nothing "just as good" and they know. Would you rather have the say-so of one dealer who makes an extra profit on the substitute, than the provable words of 250,000 women whose only object in recommending the "Favorite Prescription" is their desire to help their suffering sisters?

THE FORESTERS ATTEND SERVICE

men engaged in this struggle rather than to the institution. To regard the welfare of men in preference to those of institutions seems to be a good principle. But if an organization should treat its employees in such a manner as to secure hearty loyalty at all times are not then its own best interests guaranteed? The moment that men feel from the proper treatment a true interest in that for which they work this feeling must bring a big return to the employer. The interests are really mutual.

In church work also it is easy to see how there may be many members and yet one body. The body of Christian life may be built up the world over strongly and symmetrically by mutual assistance. There ought to be and not antagonism among churches and church institutions generally. Yet at the same time, perhaps, the great body of Christian life can be better promoted by variety than by uniformity. There may be many members with different thoughts. As the necessities of our life are to-day we could not all be adequately served by any church in the world to-day. The speaker did not believe that any church could set forth all phases of the truth.

Rev. Mr. Shorey pointed out that institutions such as the one present are really the result of a desire on the part of men to realize the great of the brotherhood of man. When men understand that it is well to combine for the welfare of their families and of each other they then find themselves walking by the principles of God. Members of such institutions as the Foresters have understood that men are but members of a great body and have banded themselves together for mutual helpfulness and that the strong may bear the infirmities of the weak. The I.O.F. in the last three years has distributed in benefits $2,700,000. An organization that has stood beside the distressed to this extent in three years has proved the practical truth of Paul's words.

As all the members of any order are entitled to all the benefits of that order, so every member of the of the "brotherhood of man" is entitled to all its benefits. This was the point the speaker desired to impress. He is entitled to all the assistance we can give him as a man. This ideal has not yet been reached but the existence of fraternal and benefit societies indicates a growth towards it. Perhaps as yet it is better for each nation to look after its own interests and treat all other nations fairly and justly. In this way the world may some day become one. We are not to confine our sympathies within our family or home or order. The speaker took the case of the Samaritan told of in the Scriptures to illustrate the workings of true brotherhood. The priest and the Levite passed the unfortunate man by as not belonging to them. But the Samaritan assisted him although the distressed one was as much a stranger to him as he was to the other two. The world needs the sympathy of all for all. Sympathy is especially needed by those who are in trouble, by those who are cast down or despairing and have begun to doubt that they are members of the brotherhood of man.

Manhood is the great principle that underlies all things. A good Forester or a good Methodist or a good anything else cannot be made out of a mean man. But with manhood will be found strength and hope and help. All sharing this true brotherhood shall be gathered home at last in peace and triumph by the great Father.

The music of the evening was pleasing. The choir rendered the anthem "Holy Father Great Creator" (Lambillotte) in excellent style, and during the offertory Mr. G. W. Mulligan gave a solo "Life's Memories."

AT LAKEFIELD.

In the morning over twenty members of Court Chemong drove out to Lakefield and joined Court Lakefield, when about fifty members of the Independent Order of Foresters marched from the S.O.E. hall to the English church, where Rev. G. Warren preached a powerful sermon. He touched on the broad, imperial nature of the order and gave the figures, the membership being about 150,000, the surplus about $4,000,000 and the benefits paid out about $6,000,000.

THE DREYFUS CASE.

DEVIL'S ISLAND PRISONER TO BE GIVEN A NEW TRIAL.

The Salient Points of the Great French Cause Celebre of the End of the 19th Century—Contents of the Celebrated Bordereau in the Dreyfus Case—The French Terms Used.

In September, 1894, when Casimir-Perier was the President of the Republic, Dupuy Prime Minister, and General Mercier in charge of the War Office, there came to light the famous bordereau, whose discovery caused the crash of riot, the murder of several men, the resignation of the President, the fall of a number of Ministers and judges, and brought France to the verge of revolution.

The bordereau of the Dreyfus case was brought to the French War Office by a servant of Colonel von Schwartzkoppen, the military attache of the German embassy at Paris. This servant was a spy in the employ of France. The memorandum was in fragments and had been picked up by the spy. It was delivered to Colonel Sandherr, then in charge of the intelligence office of the War Department.

CAPTAIN ALFRED DREYFUS.

[From a photograph taken by the French police authorities immediately after the ceremony of degradation. This portrait is forbidden in France.]

This officer pieced the fragments together, and the text, as the restoration disclosed, was as follows:

In the absence of any news indicating your desire to see me, I, nevertheless, send you, sir, certain information of interest.

1. A note on the hydraulic brake of 120 (method of operating this piece).

2. A note on the outpost troops. (A few modifications will be made by the new plan.)

3. A note of modification of artillery formation.

4. A note relating to Madagascar.

5. The scheme relative to the manual of field firing (March 14, 1894).

This last paper is extremely difficult to procure, and I can have it at my disposal only for a few days. The Ministry has issued a definite number to the corps, and these corps are responsible for them; each officer is obliged to return his copy after the manoeuvres. I, therefore, you wish me to take from it whatever may interest you, and hold it afterward at my disposal, I will take it, unless you want me to make a copy in extenso and address it to you.

I am just leaving for the manoeuvres.

It at once occurred to Colonel Sandherr that some officer of the general staff was selling secrets of the French army to the German Government.

He began his investigation by securing specimens of the handwriting of the officers of the staff and comparing them with the writing in the bordereau. At this stage of the case Colonel Du Paty de Clam and the Marquis de Mores, two general staff officers, suggested that the writing resembled that of Alfred Dreyfus, a captain of artillery, who had been a member of the general staff about a year. Now these two officers were fierce and notorious Jew-baiters, and Dreyfus is a Jew.

The suspected officer was derived from a prominent family of Alsace, and went to Paris in 1894. Entering the military school he soon rose rapidly in the army. The Jewish officers had been long hated by the French officers and their friends outside the army. To Du Paty de Clam was assigned the work of the preliminary investigation. The Colonel's first step was to submit the bordereau to an expert in handwriting, who promptly reported that if the note were not a careful forgery it was certainly the work of the person whose handwriting accompanied it for comparison—a letter in Dreyfus' hand.

Having thus fortified himself, Du Paty de Clam on Oct. 14 sent for Captain Dreyfus, and that officer was placed under arrest the same day. It was Commandant Henry who took charge of the accused, and Dreyfus was driven to the Cherche Midi prison, locked in a solitary cell and charged with treason. The formal accusation, trial, conviction and punishment of Dreyfus followed rapidly. This trial was secret and irregular to the last degree of extravagance. The only evidence against the alleged traitor was the bordereau, and as the experts who testified as to the writing disagreed, an acquittal seemed certain and had been rendered had it not been for the perfidy of General Mercier, who resorted to an infamous expedient to condemn Dreyfus and to save the "honor" of the French army.

It so happened that the secret service had intercepted letters between Colonel Schwartskoppen and Colonel Panizzardi, the Italian military attache. These letters were photographed, resealed and sent by post to the addressed. In one of them was a reference to "D." "D." was the husband of a certain Frenchwoman who was intriguing with the two foreign diplomats. One sentence read: "This rascal of a D— cannot be too much despised."

General Mercier, when he saw that the bordereau alone would never convict Dreyfus, informed the court that he had other evidence, and then read the sentence quoted, holding back the context. But instead of showing the script to the advocates he repeated the sentence orally and used the word "Dreyfus" in full, instead of the bare initial in the letter. That reading left no doubt in the minds of the members of the court, and Dreyfus was declared guilty of the crime charged.

Dreyfus, the convicted traitor, was given the severest punishment under death. In fact, what he has suffered has been worse than death. On Jan. 5, 1895, he was marched through the streets of Paris and his insignia of office was publicly torn from his uniform. This was only the preliminary punishment. The remainder of his sentence condemned him to spend his life in a cage on the Isle du Diable—a bare rock off the coast of French Guiana. There, caged up like a wild animal, under the burning sun of the tropics, never seeing the face of a human being but his guard, the once brilliant officer has lived a life suggestive of that hell for whose master the prison isle was well named.

Seven miles out in the ocean, 27 miles northwest of Cayenne, lie the three Salvation Islands, side by side, and separated only by two narrow channels. The Isle Royale, almost a mile long, contains a little colony of convicts. The Isle Saint Joseph contains some stores and a small station. Between them lies the Isle du Diable, inhabited by only Dreyfus and his guards. It is a sun-blistered little island, bare of trees except for one small grove. Down on its lowest, barest shore, far from the grove of trees, there is a wooden tower. Upon its top there is a Hotchkiss gun. Beside the wooden tower there is a wooden house, surrounded by a high, broad porch. This is the habitation of the guards. Then there is seen beside it a high palisade, as high as the first story of a house. Within the palisade there is a hut. It is within the palisade that Dreyfus lives. The hut is his prison, and the ground within the palisade his prison yard. He sees only the sky.

Ever since the unfortunate prisoner was condemned and sent to exile a few friends, firmly believing in his innocence, worked incessantly to secure a rehearing of the case. Among these the most persistent was Mme. Dreyfus, the wife of the exile. Young and beautiful, it may be supposed that her efforts were not without result. She was persistently active.

While the Dreyfus case discloses the fact that there are numerous Jew-haters among the eminent men of France—men who could stoop to any crime, not excepting murder—it is to be remembered that Dreyfus has had many good advocates who have fought for justice to their own ruin.

Among these may be noted, first, Lieutenant-Colonel Georges Picquart, who ran the gamut of the general staff to establish Dreyfus' innocence, and is now in prison. Then there is Emile Zola, who is an exile because of his noble stand for truth and right. Godefroy Cavaignac, Minister of War, stood by Colonel Picquart, and when he discovered the perfidy of the army resigned. Ballot de Beaupre, vice-president of the civil section of the supreme court—a natural anti-Dreyfusite—swallowed his prejudices in order that justice be done. MM. Demange and Labori, counsel respectively for Mme. Dreyfus and Zola, both fought grandly for the right.

Then, as a whole, the judges of the Court of Cassation, which has just granted Dreyfus a new trial, have ever tried to give Dreyfus his deserts, so much so that Quesnay de Beaurepaire resigned his judicial office on the plea that the court was prejudiced in Dreyfus' favor. As a result of the court's decision, the exiled Captain is now on the seas on the way home. Before leaving the scene of his misery, he telegraphed his wife: "Await with joy the moment when I kiss you."

In the general reports of the Dreyfus case are used certain French terms which are not always intelligible to the average Canadian reader. Thus the "Court of Cassation" is the supreme tribunal of appeal. "Isle du Diable" is Devil's Island, a barren rock off the coast of French Guiana in the Atlantic. The "bordereau" is a list of things to be noted—memorandum. "Canaille de D——" refers to the husband of a French woman who was flirting with the Italian and German military attaches. The phrase means "rascal of a D——." "Petit bleu" is a small blue postal card, and is not to be confused with the Parisian daily newspaper of the same name. The "secret dossier" is the bundle of papers relating to the Dreyfus case. It was into this bundle that the clumsy forgeries of Colonel Henry were injected.

Not a Faith Cure.

Faith never worked a miracle in the case of Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure. It is the wonderful curative properties of the remedy that does the work. Mr. S. O. Taylor, Charlecote, Ont., suffered with rheumatism in the back (Lumbago) for four years. Five bottles of Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure completely cured him. He has been free from pain since. This preparation is used internally. One bottle contains ten days' treatment, 50 cents a bottle. For sale at all drug stores.

The Sword Useful.

It is chiefly on the use of the sword as a fighting weapon that an infantry officer ought to be instructed. Let him learn foil play as soon and as well as he likes as a recreation, and as a help, but foil play alone and foil play taught for a fortnight are absolutely idle for practical purposes. We happen to know at first hand authority that those who came out of the charge of the Twenty-first lancers at Omdurman were almost unanimous in saying that were the thing to be done again they would sling their lances and trust to the sword. This seems to show that the sword is by no means obsolete, in spite of long range fire, as a weapon in warfare.

An infantry officer who had been through the thick of the fight both at Atbara and Omdurman found that he had to trust to the sword to pull him through—his revolver giving out. And in the use of this sword he had no instruction beyond the fortnight in the fencing school. Happily for him he had considerable store of natural resource.—Saturday Review.

No Right to Ugliness.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, eyes, smooth, velvety skin, rich complexion. It will make a good-looking, charming woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50 cents. For sale by James Lynch, druggist, Hunter-st., Peterborough.

Prussian Railroad Laws.

According to Prussian law, the railways are liable for damages where their gates are not "dog tight." The owner of a valuable dog recently recovered from the system of state lines because the dog ran under the gates and was killed by an express train.

A Mountain Railroad.

The two cars running on the trolley line up Mount Tom, Mass., are connected by a cable running over a return sheave, so that the descending car's weight balances that of the one ascending and makes less demand on the electric motor.

NEW LAW FIRM.

Pousette & McWilliams are Now Doing Business in Town.

A new law firm is now doing business in Peterborough as a result of the partnership entered into by Messrs. A. P. Pousette, Q. C., and R. F. McWilliams, B.A., L.L.B. The firm will be known as Pousette & McWilliams. Although the firm is a new one, the two gentlemen forming it hardly need any extended introduction. Mr Pousette is one of Peterborough's oldest practioners, and has established a large and successful practice. Mr McWilliams is a son of Ald. McWilliams and is entering upon the practice of law after a successful course at University and Osgoode. At University in taking his B. A. he secured first class honors in history and political science. While at University he also took up the work of the faculty of law, and when at Osgoode continued this work, taking his L.L.B. final with his final in law at Osgoode Hall. He was successful in securing his L.L.B. and also took first class honors in his law exams. Mr McWilliams is a young man who will bring a great deal of energy and ability to the practice of his profession.

A peculiar coincidence is noted in connection with this partnership, being the fact that Mr Pousette began his professional career with the late Mr Fairbairn and now Mr McWilliams, who was named after the late Mr Fairbairn, Roland Fairbairn, enters upon the active practice of his profession in the same offices and with Mr Pousette.

THE G. T. R. STRIKE.

The Local Men Receive no Official Instructions to Resume Work.

Though despatches from Toronto and Montreal state that the trackmen's strike on the G.T.R. has been called off and that the men have resumed work, the local strikers received no notification of any settlement from their executive, and did not return, to work. They state that they received telegrams that the strike was settled but that it was from Grand Trunk sources and they refused to be guided by it. They wired Mr. Lowe for instructions but had receved no answer early this afternoon. They state that the only gangs that went to work this morning on the Midland division were one at Gelert and one at Garden Hill. Travellers who came along the main line of the Grand Trunk this morning state that the trackmen had resumed work at all or almost all points.

A PECULIAR ACCIDENT.

Mrs. Thos. Rehill Struck by a Falling Chisel.

This morning shortly after eleven o'clock Mr. Thos. Rehill, who resides on George-st. below the C.P.R. station, sustained an accident, which, while not serious, was somewhat peculiar. She was passing the post office and walked on the pavement below the scaffold on which the stone masons were at work at a height of about forty-five feet. One of them laid a chisel down on the scaffold and it rolled off striking Mrs. Rehill on the head as it fell. It inflicted quite a cut and Mrs. Rehill was somewhat stunned. The chisel cut through the straw hat and the flat side struck the lady's head. Had it fallen edge downward she might have been killed. She was taken into Madill's drug store where the wound was dressed and was then sent home in a cab. People should be careful to walk outside the ropes which have been placed on the pavement, while the workmen cannot be too careful when working above the pavement.

ST. JOHN'S.

Rev. J. C. Davidson is giving a reception this evening for the confirmation candidates at his house. All who were confirmed at St. John's or All Saint's are invited.

In giving notice of the lawn fete on Thursday under the joint auspices of the ladies of St. John's and the 57th Battalion band, the Rector took occasion to make a few remarks on the matter of church sociala. If they were regarded merely as means for getting in money he felt that the real cause of religion was humiliated thereby. But this may not be the case, and he was glad to know that the ladies of the congregation took a different view. It was well that they should unite socially as well as religiously, but their endeavor should be especially bent on giving innocent and refreshing pleasure to all and making it a happy social reunion. It was for the members of the congregation to see to it that all those who attended on Thursday evening enjoyed themselves. Financial results were quite a secondary matter. The Rector went on to pay a compliment to the 57th Battalion band with which he said it was a pleasure, to be associated. It was one of the progressive institutions of the town, having made substantial advance in the past six months. It was now taking a place as one of our creditable organizations and was esteemed with pride by our citizens.

Special prayers were said in St. John's yesterday for fair weather, and also in commemoration of the coronation of Queen Victoria from the service of the 22nd of June.

ALL SAINTS.

At the evening service at All Saints' church yesterday the choir rendered the anthem “Abide With Me,” in pleasing effect. The solo was sung by Mr. Geo. Ames with good effect.

ST. LUKE'S.

“C” squadron of the Prince of Wales' Canadian Dragoons will attend dvine service at St. Luke's church next Sunday evening. Rev. H. Symonds, chaplain to the regiment, will preach.

St. Luke's Y.W.G. will give a garden party on Mr. Strickland's grounds on Tuesday, June 27th. The 57th Batt. band will attend and supply music. Admission 10c. Refreshments on the grounds.

CHARLOTTE-ST.

At Charlotte-st. church yesterday Rev. Mr. Crossley preached acceptable sermons. The choir rendered the anthem “I will praise Him,” with obligato solo by Mr. A. L. Davis, and duet by Miss Hall and Mr. Squires at the morning service. The evening anthem was “The Lord is My Light” (Benbow) with baritone solo by Mr. A. L. Davis. It was a very pleasing number. “Lord Remeber Me” was sung as an offertory hymn.

ST. PAUL'S.

Miss Wightman sang “O Rest in the Lord” from the “Elijah” at St. Paul's church yesterday morning with good taste and expression.

The choir sang Gounod's “Glory to Thee My God This Night,” as an anthem in the evening.

Rev. Dr. Torrance preached at both services.

THE FORESTERS ATTEND SERVICE

AN INSPIRING DISCOURSE ON THE BROTHERHOOD OF MAN

Delivered to the Members of Court Chemong, I O F, by Rev Mr Shorey at George st. Church—Sympathy in its Widest Sweep.

The members of Court Chemong, No. 530, Independent Order of Foresters, held their annual church parade last evening to mark the twenty-fifth anniversary of the order. The brethern assembled in the C.O.F. hall, Simcoe-st., and accompanied by a number of visiting brethren marched to George-st. church where they listened to an excellent sermon by Rev. Mr. Shorey, the key note of which was the “Brotherhood of man.”

Rev. Mr. Shorey took his text from the epistle of Paul to the Romans XII., 4 and 5, “For as we have many members in one body, and all members have not the same office, so we, being many, are one body in Christ and every one members one of another.” He pointed out that Paul here as elsewhere in the Scripture used the figure of the human body to illustrate the relations that exist between individuals, communities and nations. He undertakes to make men realize that they are all members one of another and that our highest interests are not secured when the indivdiual thinks only of himself but that each must regard the interests

OF OTHER INDIVIDUALS.

Selfishness defeats itself. We, being many, are one in our interest in the principles that make for universal well being and if one member suffers all must suffer. Obligations come to men first, perhaps, as individuals but in time each man discovers that he is one of a great body the interests of whom are identical. Then he looks to the welfare of the community and even of the nation.

But we are finding out, continued the speaker, that we have to consider as well as our own. The relations of trade and commerce have helped to teach us this. We see that we should treat each other nation with fairness and neighborliness that we may receive the same from them. The Peace Conference now going on is an indication of the trend in this direction and shows that men have begun to realize that the nations are part of the common brotherhood of man and that our best interests will be advanced by universal friendship and concord.

We are in the midst of a strike which has awakened our interest, the contest between the Grand Trunk railway and some of its employees and, looking on, it seems

PERMANENT WALKS.

Extending the Granolithic Walks on the Principal Streets.

The work of extending the granolithic walks will be proceeded with without delay. Tenders are now called for the work of laying a permanent walk on both sides of Water-st. from Simcoe-st. to Dublin-st., and on both sides of Simcoe and Hunter-sts. between Water and George-sts, and on the north side of Brock and Murray-sts. This is to be let in one contract. Tenders are to be in by the 24th.

Tenders will be asked at once also for laying the granolithic walk on George-st., both sides, from Brock-st. to Smith-st. This will be one contract.

Other contracts will also be let as soon as the necessary steps can be taken.

The Douro Picnic will be held on Thursday, June 22nd.

DRAGOONS AND ARTILLERY

RETURN FROM THE CAMPS AT NIAGARA AND KINGSTON.

The Men All Look Hale and Hearty and Express Themselves Well Pleased With the Outing—The Review of the Troops at Niagara.

The town presented quite a military appearance on Saturday evening when C. squadron of the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons arrived in town from the big camp at Niagara. Lt.-Col. H. C. Rogers, commanding officer of the regiment, also arrived home with the local troop. They detrained at the G.T.R. station and paraded up town before dispersing. The men all looked well after their twelve days drill and sat on their horses like veterans. All were tanned as brown as Dervishes from their work in the sun, but they all expressed themselves as feeling in fine trim and greatly pleased with their trip.

The camp commenced on June 6th. C. squadron took train to Port Hope, where they met B. squadron, which had ridden from Millbrook, and the two boarded the Cambria. After a fair passage across the lake they arrived at the ground at Niagara-on-the-Lake at 9.30 at night. The next morning was spent in preparation for the drill and then the earnest work began. The camping ground is a splendid one, admirably adapted for the purpose, and was specially interesting because of its historical associations. In the camp there were eleven battalions of infantry and the cavalry included the Governor General's Body Guards, Toronto, the 2nd and 3rd Dragoons and the Royal Canadian dragoons, and during the last three days the Horse Artillery were joined to the force.

Two drills each day with the usual variations of camp life, made a little more varied by the heat that prevailed for some days, brought the outing up to Friday, when the grand review was held. Thousands of visitors from Toronto, Hamilton and towns along the lake crowded the parade grounds.

Hon. Dr. Borden, Minister of Militia, accompanied by Major-General Hutton, Col. Otter and other staff officers, began the inspection of battalions at 11.30 o'clock a.m. As they passed down the line they were saluted by the officers of each battalion, and were shown through the quarters.

Never since 1871 have there been so many cavalry regiments receiving instruction. There are in all about 900 mounted men, and this has added greatly to the life of the camp. The brigade that received the greatest praise was the cavalry brigade, which was cheered lustily.

As His Excellency, dressed in riding costume, advanced towards the brigades at precisely 3.15, he was given a royal salute. As the 3rd Brigade band struck up "The Cock of the North" the march past began, the direction being from west to east and return. First came Major-General Hutton and his staff, then the cavalry staff, "A" Battery, G.G.B.G., 2nd Dragoons, 3rd Dragoons, 12th Battalion, 31st Battalion, 34th Battalion, 35th Battalion and 36th Battalion.

Major-General Hutton was the only officer to carry a sword, and after marching he joined Lord Minto and Dr. Borden in the enclosure.

The special feature of the afternoon was the trot past and gallop past of the Cavalry Brigade. The horses seemed to be frightened by the noise of the band, but the riders had them in full control, and they moved along in spirited style.

When the infantry were drawn up in review order, they presented the face of one company all along the line. A general advance was made, a halt called and a general salute given. The soldiers then presented arms, and the massed bands played in unison "God Save the Queen," thus finishing the review.

His Excellency was greatly pleased by what he had seen, and remarked that he never saw a finer body of men, nor any better for service. Another year he hoped to see, if possible, a better turnout. He then complimented the officers on their corps, and the work they had done.

The Dragoons embarked for the return trip at 7.45 Saturday morning and B. and S. squadrons on board the Cambria arrived at Port Hope at 3 p.m. They entrained and B. squadron separated at Millbrook, while C. squadron reached town about 7 o'clock.

The only mishap that happened to any of the men of the regiment was that to Private Hefferman, who was kicked by a horse on the first day and had a rib broken. He was confined to hospital during the stay in camp.

THE ARTILLERY.

The right wing of the Durham Field battery, twenty-nine strong, arrived in town on the same train as the dragoons from the camp at Kingston, having joined the cavalry at Port Hope. They were under command of Lieut E. O. Bradburn, Capt. Snyder having returned some days ago. The camp at Kingston was composed of artillery and one regiment of cavalry, and the outing was a successful one. The camp was under command of Lt.-Col. Montizambert and the men were drilled at Kingston in the same hard soldierly fashion as were those at Niagara.

MECCA'S HOLY CARPET.

Mohammed's Tomb Gets a New One of Silk Every Year.

Each year there is a new rug or silken carpet made in Cairo and carried in solemn pomp to Mecca and carefully hung over the sacred Caaba, above Mohammed's tomb.

There are two processions. The first carries the carpet from the citadel to the Saidna Husein mosque, where it is sewed together and lined and made ready for the pilgrims. This procession takes place on April 6, and the khedive, the ministers, high officials and notables all take part in the ceremony.

The train which conveys the holy carpet and its escort to Suez leaves on May 16, and usually presents a very gay appearance.

At Suez the carpet and its guard of honor are conveyed on board the pilgrim ship along with a fearful rush of ragtag and bobtail, who have no respect for government regulation concerning the Egyptian pilgrims.

In addition to the devout pilgrims, camels and horses there are always one or more beggars or buffoons, who accompany the caravan, and a man or woman to take care of the cats which are carried all the way there and back again.

The mahmal is a curious feature of the pilgrim train and perhaps the most striking. It is carried, like the ark of the covenant, at the head of the procession. It looks not unlike the elephant howdah, in spite of its pyramid at top. Its framework is square and its covering black brocade richly worked with inscriptions. The sultan's thumb mark and a view of the Caaba are embroidered on the front.

The mahmal is considered a sacred object by the faithful, who jostle the crowd in their effort to touch it with their hands. Women let down their shawls and head veils from the latticed windows in order that they may receive a blessing from contact with it.

Directly behind the mahmal there always rides a half naked sheik, who rolls his head from side to side incessantly.—Boston Globe.

THE MAN EATING LION.

He Uses Cunning and Takes No Unnecessary Chances.

When lions become man eaters, these inert and treacherous brutes take no unnecessary trouble to catch men, and while human beings are plentiful none of them undertakes perilous enterprises or proceeds on any haphazard expeditions. They know what to do and where to go in order that prey may be procured with the least amount of risk or exertion. Such a lion is well aware of who tills this cornfield or that mealie patch. He has informed himself of how many men accompany the village herds, where any outlying camps are situated and how they are guarded. There is no route by which travelers proceed or traffic is carried on that such animals have not studied with reference to the facilities for attack they afford and their own bodily powers. If otherwise good strategic positions present natural difficulties, the lion not only considers how these can be overcome, but perhaps practices his part beforehand. At all events, he has been watched while engaged in exercises that can only be explained in this way.

So puny a creature as man is, when unprovided with effective implements for offense, stands little chance against such a foe—an assailant having 40 times his own strength, backed by marvelous activity and an intense passion for carnage. Under these circumstances savages can only shut themselves up or assault their enemy in large masses. On the other hand, those precautions taken by a murderous lion might not seem to comport with that bold and often reckless temper attributed to this species. But such a discrepancy has no real existence. It only appears when a judgment is made without taking all the facts into consideration. This animal's intelligence, developed in man eaters to its highest point, together with an organic stealthiness of nature and proclivity toward unexpected attacks and stratagems, fully accounts for everything a lion does in the way of guarding against failure.—Dr. Porter in Outing.

The Joke on the Jockey.

A well known jockey relates with relish the following little story, though the laugh is decidedly against him. A few years ago he was engaged to ride the favorite in an important race. On the way to the post he found himself cantering alongside a rank outsider, the mount of a stable boy who had only just commenced riding.

"You'll have to be careful with that brute, B.," he remarked. "I've ridden him before, and you'll never be able to hold him."

B. thanked the crack for the hint and said that he would "do his best."

Half way through the race the outsider and another were in front, with the favorite close behind. Fancying that the others were in difficulties, the rider of the favorite shouted:

"Pull out, B——, and let me through! I've got the race in hand."

The crack was mistaken, however. Looking back, the stable boy replied, with a grin:

"I would, but I can't hold him!"

With which the novice let his horse have his head and shot away, the easiest of winners, to the chagrin of the crack, who finished second.

Shocked Her.

A Boston woman, a member of the Woman's Christian Temperance union, was recently traveling to the Pacific coast over the Northern Pacific railroad. Now, North Dakota is a rigid prohibition state, and the dining cars have this notice posted up in them: "No intoxicating liquors will be served while the train is passing through the state of North Dakota."

The train had been rolling along through that interminable state a long time, when the Boston woman who is interested in temperance came into the dining car for her dinner. Casting her eye out of the car window upon a somewhat changed landscape, she said to the waiter, with purely geographical interest, "Are we still in North Dakota?"

"No, ma'am," said he, alertly, and with a hospitable grin; "what'll you take to drink, ma'am?"

MISS CAPRICE.

BY ST. GEORGE RATHBONE

Author of "Doctor Jack," "Doctor Jack's Wife," "Captain Tom," "Miss Pauline of New York," Etc.

The child's mother! God pity her! to be an eye-witness of her darling's fate.

Lady Ruth turns to the colonel, to the man who so recently proudly declared that no English woman ever asked a favor that a British officer would not grant, no matter what the risk.

"Save the darling!" her pallid lips utter.

He trembles all over, groans, takes a couple of tottering steps forward, and then leans against the wall for support.

"I cannot," he gasps.

Other Britons there are who would be equal to the emergency. Mortal man has never done aught in this world that Englishman dare not imitate, and indeed they generally lead. It is unfortunate for England that an antipathy for dogs runs in the Blunt family.

This time Lady Ruth does not say "coward," but her face expresses the fine contempt she feels. With that mother's shrieks in her ears, what can she think of a man who will hesitate to save a sweet child, even at the risk of meeting the most terrible death known to the world?

She turns to face the man who a short time before positively refused to risk his life because Miss Caprice desired it.

What can she hope from him?

As she turns she discovers that John Craig is no longer there, though three seconds before his hand was on her arm.

A shout comes from the street, where, when last she looked, not a living thing could be seen but the advancing mad dog and the kneeling child. A shout that proceeds from a strong pair of lungs, and is intended to turn the attention of the brute toward the person emitting it. A shout that causes hope to thrill in many hearts, to inspire a confidence that the innocent may be saved.

The young doctor from Chicago is seen bounding to meet the maddened brute, now so terribly close to the child.

None knows better than John Craig what the result of a bite may be. He has seen more than one hydrophobia patient meet death in the most dreadful manner known to the profession.

Yet he faces this fate now, the man who was thought too cowardly to crawl out along that bleak rock and secure a white flower for a girl's whim.

He goes not because it will be a great thing to do, or on account of the admiration which success will bring him. That mother's shriek of agony rings in his ears, and if he even knew that he was going to his death, yet would he still assume the risk.

It was on account of a mother—his own—he refused to risk his life before, and the same sacred affection inspires his action now, for he could never look into her dear eyes again, except in a shame-faced way, if he allowed this child to meet death while he stood an inactive spectator of the tragedy.

As he advances, John draws his right arm from his coat-sleeve. It is not the act of thoughtlessness, but has been done with a motive.

When the coat is free, with a quick motion he whirls it around, so that it rolls about his left arm.

Those who see the act comprehend his purpose, and realise that he means to force the brute to seize him there.

All this has occurred in a very brief time. Perhaps a quarter of a minute has elapsed since Lady Ruth turned to Colonel Lionel, and besought his aid.

John Craig has at last accomplished one purpose. Just as the mad dog is about to snap at the child, the young medical student snatches the boy, and throws him to the rear. The child rolls over and over, and then, sitting up, begins to cry, more from surprise at the rough treatment than because he is hurt.

There is no time for John to turn and fly and pick up the child on the way.

The dog is upon him.

John has only a chance to drop on his knee, and thrust his left arm forward.

Those who are watching, and they are many, hold their breath in dread suspense.

"Heaven preserve him!" says Lady Ruth, wringing her clasped hands in an agony of fear.

They see the youth, he is hardly more, offer his bound arm to the beast, and those glittering fangs at once close upon it.

Then, quick as a flash, having filled the dog's jaws, John Craig throws himself forward, his whole effort being to crush the animal to the ground by his weight.

It is the work of a strategist. A veteran hunter when met by a fierce panther could not do better than this.

As John has expected, the dog, taken by surprise, does not offer the resistance that his powerful strength would warrant, but is at once borne backward, nor can he release his hold from the cloth-bound arm which his teeth have seized upon.

A struggle under such circumstances must be a terrible thing, and the shorter it can be made the better.

They see the man throw himself upon the brute; they know his other hand has sought the animal's throat, as the only means of ending his existence.

Prayes for his safety arise from many a heart, as the people watch the dreadful conflict from windows, and balconies, and other places where they have sought refuge.

The struggle is of brief duration.

John has the advantage in the contest, and the desire in his soul to prevent this mad beast from injuring others lends him a strength beyond what is naturally his portion.

With a grip of iron he clutches the brute's throat, and in a few moments the dog stiffens in death.

The young medical student arises, but the ferocious brute lies there harmless in the roadway. The smallest child in Valetta may play on the street now and fear no evil, thanks to the love one American bears for his mother.

Now that the danger is past, people flock out.

With the rest, our tourists hasten toward the young hero. A form flies past them with wild eyes and dishevelled hair; a form that pounces upon the little chap, still crying in fright, and presses him convulsively to her breast.

That is the mother of the child.

They rush to the spot, some to congratulate the youth who slew the dog, others to gaze upon the horrible spectacle the animal presents as he lies there devoid of life.

Lady Ruth comes with the rest, and upon her fair face and in her sunny eyes can be seen a warmth of keenest admiration, such as poor Blunt failed to receive when he leaned far over the dizzy precipice to secure the flower Miss Caprice desired.

"Oh, doctor, how noble of you! I shall never forgive myself for the foolish blunder I made. See! these people look upon you as a hero, for you risked your life for a child of Malta. I am proud to be known as your friend.

Her looks as well as her words are enough to send any man into the seventh heaven of delight.

John Craig is very white; a set look is upon his face, but he smiles a little.

"I am glad the little fellow was not touched."

"And you?" she gasps, a sudden fear arising.

He slowly unwinds the coat which was thrust into the mad dog's mouth, and then rolls up his shirt-sleeve, to disclose to her horrified eyes the blue imprint of two fangs in the muscular part of his forearm.

CHAPTER III.

She looks up into his eyes; there is a set expression to be seen there, but his face is no whiter than before, although it must be a terrible shock to any man to see the imprint of a mad dog's teeth in the flesh of his arm.

"Oh, it has happened, the worst that could come about! What will you do doctor?"

He is a man of medicine, and he knows full well what such a wound means.

"There is only one thing to be done. Excuse me for a minute or two, Lady Ruth."

He springs away from her side, and turning with surprise, she sees him dart into the smithy of a worker in iron just down the road a bit.

"Let us follow him!" says Philander.

"Poor, poor boy!" remarks Aunt Gwen.

"Oh, aunt! do you believe he will go mad?" gasps the young lady in a trembling voice.

"I am afraid; I have known of cases that happened like this. One thing's in his favor."

"And that?"

"He wasn't bit in the face or on the hand."

"How does that matter?" demands Sharpe.

She gives him a look of scorn.

Then, ignoring her spouse, she says as if continuing her speech to Lady Ruth:

"The dog's teeth went through several thicknesses of woollen cloth before entering the skin. The fabric very probably absorbed the poison. A rattle snake's fangs are a different thing they cut through the cloth and the poison is then injected from the hollow teeth or fangs."

"Oh!"

They have reached the smithy, and, standing in the door-way, witness a singular scene.

The smith is a brawny native Maltese with a form a Hercules might envy. He has just taken from the fire a slender rod of iron, one end of which is hissing hot, even red.

With this he advances upon John Craig, who has laid his arm, bared almost to the shoulder, upon a high window ledge.

Then the iron just touches the flesh and a little gust of white smoke puffs up.

"Jove! the boy has grit," mutters Colonel Lionel, unable to restrain his admiration, even for a rival in love.

As if overcome with the sensation of inflicting such pain, the blacksmith shudders and draws back.

"Again, it is not near enough," cries John Craig.

RIFLES FOR THE CARLISTS.

Lord Ashburton's Yacht Fire Fly, Carrying 4,000 Rifles, Seized.

Madrid, June 19.—Official confirmation has been received here of the seizure of the yacht Fire Fly at Arcachon, a popular summer bathing place, 35 miles by rail southwest of Bordeaux, France, with 4,000 rifles, said to have been intended for the Carlists. It is claimed the Fire Fly belongs to Lord Ashburton, who is looked upon as being the representative in England of Don Carlos, the Spanish pretender.

A well-known Carlist who has been interviewed on the subject, said: Even if 4,000 rifles have been seized, 8,000 have already entered the country.

The rifles are of the Chassepot pattern. The Fire Fly arrived at Arcachon from Dartmouth, England.

A FEW MORE KILLED.

American Soldiers in the Philippines Keep Dropping Off.

Washington, June 19.—Major-General Otis has reported to the War Department an additional list of casualties among soldiers under his command, numbering five men killed and 50 wounded. He also reports the death of 11 men from wounds and disease.

War and Earthquakes Trouble Them.

Manila, June 19. — An earthquake shock was felt at Iloilo at 3 o'clock on Friday afternoon. The inhabitants say it was the severest ever known. It is supposed that the shock was caused by the volcano Conloan, in Negros, in eruption. An explosion was heard, apparently under Iloilo, followed 30 seconds later by shaking of the earth.

Rhodes Has Active Enemies.

London, June 19.—The Pall Mall Gazette says that a petition has been prepared against the bestowal by Oxford University on June 21 of an honorary degree upon Cecil Rhodes. The petition bears many important signatures, including that of the head of a great college. The signers were influenced by the crisis in the Transvaal and by the fact that Lord Elgin and Gen. Lord Kitchener are also to receive degrees.

IT'S TOO RISKY

To undergo an operation for itching Piles when Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment is a surer, cheaper, easier way to cure.

Cruel, barbarous methods belong to the dark ages of the past. There was a time when a surgical operation was considered the only possible cure for piles. Not so now. Occasionally there is still found a physician who adheres to this dangerous and expensive method, but to every one who still believes in using the knife, ninety and nine recommend the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Dr. C. M. Harlan, writing in The American Journal of Health, said:

"We know that 'Dr. Chase's Ointment' meets all the requisitions of the highest standard of worth, that it will be held in high esteem wherever it is used, and consequently we endorse it to every reader."

By force of merit alone Dr. Chase's Ointment has won its way into this wide, wide world, until it has made the name of Dr. Chase familiar in almost every home, and won for the venerable discoverer the title of "America's Greatest Physician."

Dr. Chase's Ointment has never been known to fail as a cure for piles. It matters not whether blind, itching, bleeding or protruding, Dr. Chase's Ointment is an absolute and perfect cure.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment is the discovery of the author of Dr. Chase's Recipe Book, whose portrait and signature is on every box of the genuine. All dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

THE ODORLESS CREMATORY CLOSETS.

I have been appointed Sole Agent for the Odorless Crematory Closet manufactured by the Crematry Closet and General Heating Co., of Hamilton.

This Closet has found a place in many of the best homes in the province, and all who have used it cannot speak too highly of its merits. Medical men speak of it from a sanitary point of view, claiming that, if health is any consideration, no home should be without one. Here are some of the

TESTIMONIALS

Alliston, March 1st, 1898.

I have had one of your "Crematory Closets" in use now for several weeks and am glad to be able to say that I have found it entirely satisfactory in every respect. I have not been able to detect the slightest odor from it at any time and would not be without it. I am sure it must prove a great convenience to people in the country and in towns where water is not obtainable.

Yours respectfully, JAMES CONWAY.

Sheddon, February 28th, 1898.

I have used it for some time and find it perfectly odorless. It is a long felt want and I believe it will become very popular especially in rural districts, towns and villages where wells are so frequently contaminated by the ordinary closets. I am, yours, etc.,

DIRECT FROM SURPASSINGLY SPLENDID TRIUMPHS AT MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK

SPECIAL NOTICE—These are the same great shows, the same gigantic aggregation, the same colossal combination that so startled the metropolis of the country by its overwhelming magnitude, its comprehensive completeness, and its veritable avalanche of novelties and floodtide of innovations when it inaugurated its tour of this season at the Madison Square Garden, New York City. Its tremendous triumph was attested by the unanimous and unqualified praises of the press and plaudits of the people, and patronage only limited by the capacity of the largest temple of amusement in the world.

SPECIAL NOTICE—EXTRA!!—It is hereby promised without reserve, and the promise will be faithfully kept, that the programme of the shows to be presented in this city will be absolutely and exactly the same, man for man, horse for horse, animal for animal, feature for feature and detail for detail as the exhibition that so completely conquered the mighty metropolis.

EXTRA SPECIAL NOTICE—EXTRA!!!—The prices for the great consolidation in New York were as high as $2 per seat. Here only the usual prices charged by merely ordinary shows will be asked. No advance over usual prices in spite of the double shows.

His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it, he says: "I was taken with Typhoid Fever, that ran into Pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of Consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvellous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all Throat and Lung Trouble. 50 cents and $1.00. For sale by James Lynch, druggist, Hunter-st., Peterborough; every bottle guaranteed.

THE REPORTS.

The following reports were read at the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute on Saturday:

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

The secretary's report was as follows:

To the Members of the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute:

Gentlemen,—On behalf of your Board of Directors, I beg leave to present for your approval, the annual report of the Institute for the year 1898-99:

Our regular weekly meetings were held as usual, the first at Peterborough County Council Chambers on Nov. 29th, when interesting addresses were given by the delegates—first, Major J. Shepherd, of Queenston, on "County Roads, and How to Build Them"; second, by T. G. Raynor, B.S.A., on "Clover Culture." In the evening a meeting was held in the town hall, North Monaghan, when Major Shepherd took as his subject, "Four Reasons Why We Till the Soil." T. G. Raynor spoke on "Agricultural Education." J. McCraig, B. A., explained very fully, "Sheep in Ontario." R. Vance, of Ida, and John Crow, of Dummer, also gave short but interesting addresses on general farm topics.

The next day and evening two meetings were held at Lakefield, when Major Shepherd spoke on "The Planting and Care of Orchards," T. G. Raynor gave an address on "Selection and Cross-Breeding of Animals. E. Hawthorne, of Dummer, the present Warden of the county, took up for his subject, "Ensilage and the Silo." George Matthews, Sr., of the George Matthews Pork Packing Company, read an excellent paper on "The Best Hog for the Export Bacon Trade," who was followed by R. Cockburn of Lakefield, with a paper on "Poultry on the Farm."

At the evening meeting F. J. Lillicrap, Reeve of Lakefield, presided, when we had a bumper house. The chairman welcomed the farmers to the village in a neat speech, and then called for Major Shepherd to give his address, "Three Historical Days on the Niagara River." T. G. Raynor spoke on "Evolution in Agriculture."

The supplementary meetings were held at Bridgenorth on the 20th, and at Lakehurst on the 21st January, when the deputation sent us were A. C. Laitman, of New Dundee, and J. E. Orr, of Fruitland, who delivered able addresses on their particular lines. Messrs. G. J. Galvin and G. W. Fitzgerald gave addresses, and W. C. Wilson read a very valuable and instructive paper. We cannot speak in too high terms of the gentlemen who composed our delegation, as they are able and willing to instruct the farmers by imparting to them new and advanced ideas in relation to their business. While some of the farmers take a great interest in attending these meetings to receive instructions and interchange ideas and experiences still there is a large number who are careless and apathetic, thinking that they know all about their own business, but these are the men who are behind as regards any improvements in their methods.

We would suggest that the very best men should be selected as a board who will represent the different municipalities in which meetings are to be held, as on them, to a large extent, depends the success or failure of these meetings. It is expected that every director will put forth his best efforts to increase the membership, and thereby make the Institute what it is intended to be—a genuine farmers' club.

At the regular and supplementary meetings it was thought advisable to run an excursion to the Experimental Farm in June, and your secretary corresponded with the executive of the East Durham Institute, asking them to join in with us, each sharing alike in the guarantee, or profits, if any accrued. We held a joint meeting in Peterborough, and made the arrangements with the Grand Trunk Railway, and signed a contract to run an excursion on June 8th, which has been done, and would have proved a great success only for the fact that the trackmen's strike was still on, which prevented a great many from going through fear as to the condition of the road, and others would not travel on the line, through sympathy with the men, while quite a number went by the C.P.R. who reduced their rates to meet ours. Although we have not yet got a complete settlement with the company, we will have enough to pay our expenses, after meeting the guarantee.

The financial statement of the excursion cannot be given in the past year's business, as the financial year closes on May 31st by the Institute rules.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

E. M. ELLIOTT, President. W. COLLINS, Secretary.

THE FIELD OF GENERAL SPORT

SOME NOTABLE ADDITIONS TO THE LACROSSE TEAM.

A Couple of Strong Men From the Cornwall Team—The Markham Match next Friday—Saturday's Game.

Lacrosse.

The management of the lacrosse club are able to make an announcement which will be received with pleasure by the lovers of the game in town, namely, that two well known players from the big league have secured permanent situations in town and become residents of Peterborough. They are Messrs. Horace Lewis and Joe Burns, both of whom played in the early part of the season with Sherbrooke, and who will now turn out with the local team. Both were formerly members of the Cornwall team, playing there last year. Lewis is the well known cover point player, and Burns is a fast home fielder who has received much praise from the press for his good playing this year. They will both play in the match on Friday against Markham. They are expected to arrive in town this evening. They will be a great addition to the team.

"Bud" Bogart, of Belleville, arrives in town on Wednesday morning, and will begin practice with the team immediately and is expected to play centre-field in the Markham match on Friday.

The first senion league match of the season will be played on the P.A.A.A. grounds on Friday afternoon next, when the Peterboroughs take on the fast Markham team. It will be a splendid match.

On Monday next the Hastings team comes to play the juniors in the junior C.L.A. series.

The management are making arrangement with the town authorities to have police officers present in uniform to keep the crowd from obstructing the view from the grand stand. This is a move for which a majority of those who attend will be grateful.

All owning cameras are invited to go over to the grounds and take views of the fence birds.

Some interesting lacrosse matches were played on Saturday. At Toronto on the Rosedale grounds before a crowd of 5,000 people the Toronto team defeated the Capitals by a score of 4 goals to 3. The match was a close and exciting one. Having gained the lead the Torontos blocked their goals effectually. The Torontos have this season defeated the Nationals, the Shamrocks and the Capitals in succession.

At Toronto also on Saturday the Tecumseh-Elms defeated the Orillias by 6 goals to 4. The match was an easy victory for the Toronto team and the Orillia supporters were disappointed. At Montreal the Nationals defeated Cornwall by 5 goals to 3, and at Sherbrooke the Montreal Shamrocks won from the home team by 6 to 2.

Golf.

In the second round of the contest among the beginners of '99, the following draw was made. This round is to be played off by Wednesday:

Miss K. Hall vs. Miss L. Dennistoun.
Miss Belcher vs. Miss Fair.
Mrs. Garvin vs. Miss G. Dennistoun.
Miss W. Carnegie vs. Miss Kempt.
Miss E. Rackham vs. Mrs. R. S. Davidson.

In the contest for the Culverwell trophy the draw was as follows:

Mrs. Dennisteun vs. Miss Hamilton.
Miss Fair vs. Miss Aggie Hall.
Miss Fairweather vs. Miss Carnegie.
Mrs. Greenwood vs. Mrs. Rogers.
Mrs. Stratton vs. Miss L. Hall.
Miss L. Dennistoun vs. Miss G. Dennistoun.
Miss Boucher vs. Mrs. Campbell.
Mrs. R. S. Davidson vs. Miss K. Hall.

Football.

The Y.M.C.A. football team will practice at the Nicholls park this evening at 7 o'clock.

The Bacon Hog.

Millbrook Reporter: — Mr. Isaac Richardson has received the following letter from the Geo. Matthews Co., regarding the feeding of too much corn to bacon hogs, also extract from a letter from the Old Country. Our farmers will do well to note its contents.

Mr. Isaac Richardson,
Millbrook,

Dear Sir,—We have had lately several complaints from our English agents that a portion of the bacon shipped from here was turning out very indifferent as to quality. You will notice by the enclosed extract that they consider that the hogs in this district have been fed on too much maze or corn, this class of feed no doubt tends to make soft pork, but at the same time we are of the opinion that the farmers are feeding altogether too much rubbish in the shape of clover, grass, and in the winter too much roots. We wish you would take this matter up with the farmers in your vicinity as it is a very important matter, for if the quality does not improve we will be forced to reduce our prices.

Yours truly,
THE GEO. MATTHEWS CO., Limited.
Peterborough.

Extract from letter from Mills & Sparrow, London, Eng., 31st—We notice that in Peterborough bacon there are a fair proportion of hogs that are not fed quite so well as usual. Do you think the farmers are giving too much maze? The breed seems right, but the flesh, especially the fat, is tender, on the other hand the bacon that arrived from Ottawa by "St. Paul" last Friday was beautifully firm and the comparison was most marked when the bacon was compared side by side.

BOTH TRAINS SHARP ON TIME.

The "Imperial Limited" Heard of From Banff and Fort William.

Banff, N.W.T., June 20.—The Canadian Pacific Imperial Limited No. 2, which left Vancouver at 1 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, arrived at this resort on time at 4.10 yesterday, having made the trip with splendid success.

Fort William, June 20.—Half the town turned out yesterday afternoon to greet the first through Imperial Limited express from Montreal. The train arrived promptly on time—16.55—and left in a few minutes on her race towards the Pacific.

Creditors Are Principally Farmers.

Cornwall, Ont., June 20.—L. W. Heward, who for a great number of years was manager of the Molsons' Bank at Morrisburg and resigned that office a year or so ago to open a private bank at Chesterville, is in financial difficulties. A run was made on him on Thursday, and he was compelled to close up. An informal meeting of local creditors was held Saturday, and a general meeting will be held on Thursday, when it is conceded Mr. Heward will make an assignment and present a statement of his affairs. One legal firm here alone, Leitch, Pringle & Cameron, have claims amounting to more than $12,000. The creditors are principally farmers.

Recommended for Commission.

Kingston, Ont., June 20.—The results of the recent examinations at the Royal Military College show these cadets to be recommended for commissions in the Imperial service:

For Royal Engineers—B. S. M. Carr-Harris and Sergt. Bingay.

For Royal Artillery—C. S. M. Poole and Sergt. Ridout.

For Indian S. Corps—C. S. M. Peters and Sergt. Sweeney.

For Infantry of the Line—Sergt. Wilkie and C. S. M. Kaulback.

Roach Is Surrendered.

Washington, June 20.—The Secretary of State yesterday issued his warrant for the surrender to the Canadian authorities of John T. Roach, who is wanted for larceny of bank funds at Napance, Ont. He was committed by a magistrate in Boston.

Waldeck-Rousseau Gives It Up.

Paris, June 20.—It was announced late last evening that Waldeck-Rousseau had declined the task of forming a new Cabinet.

HOME RULE NOT A DEAD ISSUE

Factions Said to Be Negotiating for Concentration.

They Expect to Hold the Balance of Power in the Next Parliament With a United Band of Eighty-Three and to Dictate to the Commons—Regarding Transvaal Affairs, Liberals Favor Peace at Any Price.

London, June 20.—Although the Irish Nationalist party plays practically no part in English politics at present, it is learned on excellent authority that negotiations looking to concentration are in progress which will alter the position of affairs in the next Parliament. Mr. Healy is no longer regarded as a serious rival by Mr. Dillon, who at the next general election, which cannot now be long delayed, will return to Westminster at the head of a united band of 83 Nationalists.

As neither the Tories nor the Radicals are likely to obtain a majority of more than 100, this means that the Irish will hold the balance of power and so will be able, if the Radicals are returned to power, to insist that prominence be given to home rule legislation.

Germs of Liberal Defeat.

In that case the Radicals will not remain long in power, for the House of Lords is certain to reject any home rule measure. It is not altogether unlikely that the Radicals will be returned to power at the next election, supremely confident as the Tories undoubtedly are. One political prophet of repute, who precisely predicted the Unionist majority in 1895, foretells a Liberal majority of 120 in the general election, and also the practical extinguishment of the Liberal-Unionist party.

Liberals for Peace at Any Price.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's speech Saturday, which was devoted to the Transvaal crisis, was a notably outspoken declaration, voicing the sentiment of the Liberal party that nothing would justify warlike action or even military preparation. It is the latter phrase that is especially important, for it is the general opinion in Tory circles that the only chance of avoiding an outbreak will be prompt action on the part of the Government to sustain Sir Alfred Milner by the despatch of strong reinforcements. If reinforcements are not sent, it is argued, President Kruger will conclude that the Cabinet does not mean business. If, however, an overwhelming force be despatched, the result will be the same as followed Sir Charles Warren's expedition after the Boer raid into Stellaland and Gooseland. In the absence of reinforcements collisions between the two races are considered pretty certain to occur.

Warlike Preparations.

London, June 20.—The Cape Town correspondent of The Daily Mail says: "The Government has forwarded a battery of heavy guns to Kimberley for the defence of the diamond fields. There is great activity in the Cape Imperial command, and munitions of war are being sent northward in large quantities."

KAISER HOLDS THE REINS.

Peace Conference Delegates Marking Time Until His Will Is Known.

The Hague, June 20.—Dr. Zorn, the member of the German delegation to the international peace conference, who was despatched Friday by Count von Munster, the chief German delegate, after a conference with his colleagues, to inform Emperor William personally of the condition of affairs in regard to the board of arbitration question, returned to Scheveningen yesterday from Berlin. It is said, however, that owing to the absence of the Emperor, Dr. Zorn was only able to consult with the officials of the German Foreign Office. Dr. Zorn is discretely reticent regarding his mission, but it is understood he obtained the impression at Berlin that all hope need not be abandoned of effecting an understanding regarding the organization of an arbitration board by amalgamating the various schemes. It is understood that Emperor William will reach a decision this week. Matters, therefore, remain unchanged, and the drafting committee will not meet until the Kaiser's decision is known.

The general desire of the conference favors an established arbitration tribunal, recourse to which shall be optional. It is believed that if Germany declines to participate, the other powers will still achieve some such result before separating. They may decide upon a draft scheme, pending Germany's decision.

Killed by a Woman Cyclist.

Toronto, June 20.—While returning home last night, after a hard day's work, Mrs. Lizzie Smith was knocked down by a lady cyclist and sustained internal injuries from which she died a few hours later. The woman on the wheel did not look to see what she had done, but quickly got away. Coroner Johnson has issued a warrant for an inquest.

A $10,000 Fire.

Toronto, June 20.—One building was totally destroyed by fire and another badly scorched last night of the Toronto Glass Company's premises. A pile of dressed lumber was also consumed. The contents destroyed were valued at $5,000 and the loss to the buildings will be about the same amount.

CONTRACT OR DAY LABOR?

By Which Method Should Government Work Be Done?

Mr. Nicholas Flood Davin Complains of the Big Cost of the Day Labor System—Mr. Tarte, Minister of Public Works in Reply Points to the Western Block to Show the System's Superiority to the Contract Method.

Ottawa, June 20.—Questions were asked and answered in the House yesterday afternoon and six were allowed to stand.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in reply to Col. Prior, said that the Government had under consideration the question of bringing in legislation this session constituting the full court of the Supreme Court of the Province of British Columbia, and an appellate court for the Yukon district.

Col. Prior was informed by Mr. Blair that the Government had made no direct expenditure on the harbor at Quebec since 1870, but advances to the amount of $3,745,519 had been made to the Quebec harbor commissioners, no part of which had been repaid, and the sum of $1,305,115 was also due for interest.

In reply to Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, Hon. Mr. Sifton gave the names of the officers in the public service in the Yukon district who had given bonds, and said that a complete list of the officials was being made to ascertain which of them had given bonds, and which of them had not.

In answer to Mr. Graham, Hon. Mr. Blair said that Messrs. Pope and McKenzie were the valuators for the Government to value land along the Lake Balsam section of the Trent Valley Canal. No complaints of unfairness had been made in connection with these valuators and only two of the landowners had refused to accept the compensation offered them for their land.

In reply to Mr. Graham, Mr. Blair said that the total amount paid by the Government to F. D. Moore, barrister, of Lindsay, for conveyancing and other expenses in connection with the purchase of land for right-of-way along the Balsam Lake section of the Trent Valley Canal, was $559.48.

In answer to Mr. Quinn, Hon. Mr. Blair said that the payment of the plebiscite accounts in Montreal rests altogether with the Auditor-General. All claims made by the returning officers in Montreal have not been paid, some of the items being held in suspense, awaiting explanation, and some having been disallowed on the ground that they are not legitimate charges. The total amount claimed was $9,934.60, of which $8,560.01 had been paid, $1,290.09 disallowed and $74.50 suspended for further information.

Motions for Returns Passed.

Copies of all papers, etc. in connection with the dismissal of John Hearns, caretaker of a public building in Napanee, were ordered, as asked by Mr. Wilson.

An order was granted Mr. Foster for a return showing:

1. The combined engine and mileage total, and that of the Intercolonial Railway, for each month from March 1, 1898, for the terminals, bridge and other leased portions of the Grand Trunk Railway as contemplated in the third and thirty-third sections of the schedule to bill No. 138.

2. The amounts for (a) maintenance and repairs, and (b) for all other operating expenses incurred by the Grand Trunk Railway Company and the Intercolonial Railway Company each month since March 1, 1898.

3. Copy of returns and information made under section 8 of said schedule for each month from March 1, 1898.

Mr. Dugas, for Mr. Monk, moved for a copy of all correspondence between the Government and the Boards of Trade of the Dominion in regard to the passing of an insolvency law. Carried.

Public Work Without Tender.

Mr. Davin moved for an address to His Excellency the Governor-General for copies of orders-in-council respecting the letting of contracts without tender, it was absolutely necessary in order to keep his business in a perfectly sanitary condition to have sewage connection, he applied for connection with the main sewer on Rink-st. at the corner of Bethune-st. Ald Sawers said they should settle this matter at once and he moved that Mr. Kennedy be not allowed to connect with the sewer. Ald. McWilliams seconded the motion and condemned the course of the Town Commissioners in this matter. Ald. Langford moved in amendment that the matter be referred to the Market Committee to report. Ald. Hall, while not at present in favor of the request, thought it well to refer to the Committee. He seconded the amendment. The amendment was carried on the Mayor's casting vote, Ald. Langford, Hall, Neill voting for the amendment, and Ald. Denne, McWilliams and Sawers voting nay.

THE TOWN COUNCIL HOLD A SESSION

From W. M. Jones and two other men, "staunch supporters of the above council," asking for a lease of a piece of land at the foot of Park-st; near the powder magazine, for a boat house for private use.—Referred to the Property Committee.

From the Harrisburg Foundry & Machine Works, asking for early settlement of their account for road roller. —The Board of Works.

From S. R. Armstrong, returning officer, giving the result of the vote on the new fire hall by-law, the majority against being 39.—Received.

From G. W. Ranney offering the town his map of the town for $200.—Received.

From E. B. Edwards stating that the Grand Trunk had refused to maintain the bridge on Smith-st. near Jackson park. This being the case he suggested that the town rebuild or repair the bridge and if it can be shown that the company is assessable for the maintenance of the bridge then the cost of the work can be recovered from the company by an action.—Board of Works.

From John Corbey, secretary, notifying the Council that the Public Library had appointed Dr. Geo. Burnham to act on the committee to consider the question of a free library.—Received.

From John Corkey, secretary, notifying the Council that Dr. Mober had been appointed to represent the Separate School Board on the committee to consider the Free Library question. —Received.

From G. W. Morrow, secretary of the Board of Education, notifying the Council that Mr. W. H. Hill had been appointed to represent the Board of Education on the committee re free public library.—Received.

ACCOUNTS.

The following accounts were presented:—

Good Roads Machinery Co.	$ 8 00
G. H. Giroux	5 40
A. McDonald	80 17
Light & Power Co.	15 00
Light & Power Co.	2 10
Union Publishing Co.	2 00
Examiner Printing Co.	4 00
Gutta Percha Rubber Co	10 00
Harrisbury Foundry and Machine Work s	2,800 00

These were referred to the Finance Committee.

RENTAL FOR STREETS.

Ald. McWilliams introduced a by-law to amend the by-law regulating the erection of poles and stringing wires for the transmission of electric current for lighting and power purposes. This by-law amended the by-law by striking out the clause which allowed the Power Co. to transmit power at a rental of $1 a year. The amendment makes the Auburn Power Co. liable for the $400 tax.

Ald. McWilliams in urging the passing of the by-law said the former by-law had been granted under false misrepresentations, as Mr. Meldrum had said there was no agreement between the two companies when there was. He also thought the company had not kept faith in the matter, and as the town wanted power for its crusher the matter should be dealt with.

Ald. Neill thought consideration might lead to better results. As he understood it concessions had been made to the Light & Power Co. which evened matters up.

The third reading of the by-law was allowed to stand, and a meeting of the Board of Works will be called to-night and the matter considered with a representative of the Auburn Power Co. present.

THE BRIDGE CONTRACTS.

Ald. Langford introduced a by-law to authorize the execution of the contract with the Hamilton Bridge Co. for the erection of the iron bridges over the creek on Dalhousie and Sherbrooke-sts.

The by-law was given its readings, passed and signed.

On motion of Ald. Denne and Langford the treasurer was authorized to issue checks for the stones broken on order of the engineer.

Ald. Denne brought up the observance of the holiday, Dominion Day. The market clerk wanted to know what was going to be done. He moved that the merchants be requested to observe Monday.

Ald. Langford thought such a request should come from the merchants.

Ald. McWilliams thought it well to leave the holiday on the proper day.

The Mayor explained that the St. Joseph's picnic had been advertised for Saturday under the belief that there was to be no change.

The motion was withdrawn.

Ald. McWilliams asked for some explanations. One of these was regarding the grant for a deputation to Ottawa re the Trent Canal. He though Mr. Carnegie should have been one of the committee that went to Ottawa as he could present the canal to business men better than any man in Peterborough. The Council should have a right to say who should be on the deputation when paying a share of the expenses.

The Council then adjourned until nine o'clock to-night.

How Old People May Be Healthy and Happy.

Paine's Celery Compound Will Surely Banish Their Ailments and Troubles.

It Preserves Health and Prolongs Life

The most successful and popular physians of our times are those who can banish all the ailments and distresses of men and women in old age.

Three-fourths of all the aches and pains that make old age miserable arise from retarded circulation. The slow blood is choked with accumulations of waste matters that produce rheumatism, neuralgia, scatica and lumbago. Sluggish circulation speedily produces digestive disturbances, and unlooked-for complications arise that in the majority of cases prove fatal to old people.

Paine's Celery Compound is a precious boon to those advanced in years. Soon after its use is commenced there is noticed an increase in the blood supply, which is pure, ruddy and active; in its coursing through the body. The brain becomes clear, digestion is easy and natural, the heart does its work with regularity, nerve force is acquired and flesh is built up.

If old people desire health and strength to meet the enervating and trying weather of midsummer, they should build up at once by the use of Paine's Celery Compound. Mr. John Holdsworth, Claremont Street, Toronto, says:

"I was taken sick last summer, and was in bed for five weeks or more, and my physician was attending me all the time. My case was pronounced to be weakness of the heart and old age, for I am now seventy-eight years old.

"I kept getting worse until my recovery was considered hopeless. One of my relatives recommended me to use Paine's Celery Compound, which I did with good results. After the first dose I felt relieved, and after a few days I was able to leave my bed and walk around. I used four bottles, and found your medicine to be a most excellent remedy, as I am now quite well. I hope other sufferers will receive as much benefit as I received."

CONTRACT OR DAY LABOR ?

passed since June 23, 1896.

In support of his motion he said there was a growing tendency on the part of the Government towards letting of contracts for large works without tenders, and also a growing disposition to have extensive works carried out by day labor under departmental control without any tender whatever being invited. The public accounts, as shown by the Auditor-General's report, and the debates in committee of supply on the estimates last session and this session, during the two years ending June 30, 1898, showed that immense sums had been expended without tenders being invited and very extravagant prices paid in some instances. The $40,000 lighthouses the Department of Marine and Fisheries was building, the Edmonton bridge, the repairs to the western block, Ottawa, the dredging at Coteau Landing, the stone and iron fence along one side of Major's Hill Park, and other works showed how large sums had been spent without tenders being called for. A strong-minded Minister might, through the letting of contracts without tender, commit a Government to a course which the majority of his colleagues may not approve of, and the result would be that no matter how glaring the wrong was, the Government and the majority of the ruling party in Parliament would feel bound to support the Minister. It would be a safeguard if all orders-in-council authorizing work without tender should be forthwith published in The Canada Gazette. With regard to works which were done by day labor, they should always be authorized by order-in-council.

What Mr. Tarte Says.

The Minister of Public Works (Mr. Tarte) said that the question of doing work by contract or by day labor was a fair one for discussion, and he felt as if he could deal with it in an impartial manner, as he did not consider it a question of party politics, and also because in the present state of his health it was quite possible that unless there was a considerable improvement he might not be able to remain long in his present position. With regard to dredging, he considered that letting the work by tender was by no means so satisfactory as having the work done by the Department of Public Works, under the supervision of its officers. Experience had shown him that this was the cheapest and best way. In many instances works were of such a nature that it was impossible to call for tenders, because the works were frequently largely experimental, and it was only after the work had been commenced that any proper estimate could really be made of what was necessary to be done. He took up several of the cases instanced by Mr. Davin, and defended his action in each case, and said that he had acted after consultation with the proper officers of his department, and in the manner which seemed both to them and to him to be most in the public interest. He was very much in favor of the Government doing as much of its own work as possible, without the intervention of contractors at all. The work had to be done by day labor, and the Government had to pay for the labor and a larger amount for supervision and for profit for the contractor than if the work was done directly under the departmental supervision. He claimed that the workingmen employed by the Government were treated better than if employed by contractors, to whose interest it was that they should get the work done as cheaply as possible and charge as much as they could, so as to make the largest possible profit, while the principal aim of the Government, if the work was done directly by the department, was to get the best work done that could be done, and allow the workingman a fair wage. He instanced the repairs to the west block after the recent fire, and said they were of such a nature that they could not be let by contract, and he invited inspection of the work, as he thought it would convince any competent judge that better and more satisfactory work could not be found anywhere, and he did not think that the cost of doing it by day labor was as great as it would have been if the work be let by contract.

After Mr. Mackay and Mr. Poupore had spoken,

Mr. Foster's Criticism.

Hon. Mr. Foster said he agreed with Mr. Tarte that the question of the method of expending public money was one which should be dealt with outside of party lines, but at the same time he thought the statement of policy, as outlined by the Minister of Public Works, was inadequate. It did not appear from the Minister's remarks that he was in favor of contract by tender, but, rather, that he favored doing the work by day labor. He thought the Minister of Public Works should employ his ingenuity to make contracts more stringent, so that defaulting contractors should suffer immediate penalties. All things considered, the tender system was the best in the interests of the country, and the Government should make a clean statement of its policy with regard to it. He alluded to the power the use of day labor put into a Minister's hands at election time.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said he thought the Opposition was inconsistent in attacking the Government without having the return asked for brought down. It would be time enough then to declare the policy of the Government.

After some further discussion, the motion passed committee. Mr. Casey followed after recess.

Private Bills.

After recess a number of private bills were advanced a stage, amongst them the act to incorporate the Niagara, St. Catharines & Toronto Railway Company, which was reported after it had been amended in committee by reducing the bonding power to $15,000 per mile, and stands for third reading.

Mr. Flint asked if the Government would fix a date for the discussion of his prohibition resolution.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said he would do so after the redistribution bill was disposed of.

Mr. Casey then resumed the discussion of Mr. Poupore's motion for papers relating to the Georgian Bay Canal, speaking in support of the scheme, and was followed by Messrs. Mackie, Edwards and Davin in the same strain, the debate being adjourned by Mr. Broder.

Mr. Richardson's civil service bill was read a second time, the Premier observing that, while he would consent to the second reading, he did not thereby commit himself to the principle of the bill, but he objected to the House going into committee with so few members present.

The House adjourned at 10 o'clock.

RIOTS IN THE LEEWARD ISLANDS.

Montserrat for a Time in the Hands of the Mob.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 20.—Advices received here from Antigua, British West Indies, say there has been a recurrence at Montserrat, Leeward Islands, of serious riots in the northern district, extending to the capital, Plymouth, over the old excise duty collections, which occasioned the riots last year. The people have been openly rebelling against the police abuse of the domiciliary search law. The police were overcome and the island was for a time in the hands of the mob. The chief Government officials were confined in their houses until the arrival of the British cruiser Talbot changed the conditions. After a sharp conflict between a detachment of marines and the rioters the ringleaders were arrested.

There has also been a continuation of the troubles in the French island of Guadaloupe, where 27 more or less disastrous incendiary fires have occurred on the plantations since the burning of Point-a-Pitre, each preceded by an anonymous threat to the Governor, protesting against a continuation of the protection of immigrant labor on the plantations by the military.

MR. J. R. BARBER WILL SIT.

Tories Had No Evidence to Offer on Which to Unseat Him.

Milton, June 20.—John R. Barber is the undisputed local member for Halton. The Tories' petition against him was yesterday dismissed by Mr. Justice Osler and Mr. Justice Falconbridge here. J. W. Elliott, for the petitioner, John Whaites, said he had no evidence to offer. The court asked Frank Denton, counsel for the respondent, if he desired costs. "I have no instructions to ask for costs," returned Mr. Denton. The petition was therefore dismissed without costs.

WEDDING WAS ALL ARRANGED.

Sadie Holt and Thomas Rambo Were to Marry on Monday.

Windsor, Ont., June 20.—Sadie Holt, the domestic whose sudden death at Wheatley was caused by an overdose of oil of cedar, was to have been married at noon yesterday to Thomas Rambo, the young man with whom she drove to Leamington the night before her death. Her wedding garments were ready, and arrangements completed for the event. Sadie was in good spirits while in Rambo's company Thursday night, and all the way home she frequently spoke of her future wedded life.

A Woman Deserted Her Child.

St. Catharines, June 20.—A woman called at the Sheahan House on Saturday evening and spent the night there with her infant child. Early Sunday morning she left the hotel, and was seen about the Grand Trunk depot with the child in her arms, which was crying bitterly. She awaited her chance, and when no person was looking her way left the child on the waiting bench and decamped. Chief Cumming was notified, and he had the child sent to the Protestant Orphans' Home, the matron having consented to take it.

Suicide of a Medical Student.

Montreal, June 20.—Fred. Williams, a second year medical student of McGill, is dead, having become despondent and taken a deadly drug. The suicide took place almost at his brother's side in a West End boarding house. Deceased belonged to Boston and it is said was given to strong drink.

The Fire Still Burning.

Halifax, N.S., June 20.—There was no change in the situation at the Caledonia mines yesterday morning. The fire was still burning in the pit, all efforts to subdue it being so far unsuccessful. A conference of officials will take place to decide whether the colliery shall be flooded

DROPPED DEAD.

The man with heart trouble never knows when his time may come. When he leaves home for work he may never return alive. He may drop dead on the street, in his pulpit, in his office, over his work bench. Heart disease is no respecter of persons. The Christian minister is liable the same as anyone else.

Rev. C. L. Mundell writes:

"I suffered from that dreadful tired feeling and weakness, and in 1893 I lost my health altogether. I went to one of the best doctors in the state and he said I had heart, stomach, liver and kidney trouble. His treatment did me no good. I tried different kinds of patent medicines but got worse all the time. If I walked up hill or a little fast it seemed as though my heart would jump out. I had almost given up all hope, and my money was all gone; was scarcely able to make a living. Finally I wrote Dr. Pierce and following his advice I purchased at my nearest drug store a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and a bottle of his 'Pleasant Pellets.' This was a year ago and now I am happy to say that I am in the enjoyment of perfect health. I am so glad of my health that I cannot say too much. I first return my sincere thanks to Almighty God and then to Dr. Pierce.

"I would not do without your 'Pellets' for one hundred dollars ($100.00) per month.

"Do not think I am exaggerating. My statement is true and if any doubt it they can write to Pinegrove, Ohio, where I live, and if any should think this an assumed name and that such a man as C. L. Mundell does not exist, they may look in the minutes of Providence Association, or in the Baptist Year Book, in the list of Elders, and they will find my name."

Constipation and biliousness are radically cured by Dr. Pierce's Pellets.

Mr. Jas. Cumming spent Sunday and Monday in Campbellford.

Rev. Mr. Thompson, of Hastings, was in town yesterday.

H. Nicoll leaves on Friday to join his brother, J. Nicoll, at Leithbridge, Alberta, N.W.T.

Edwin Squire is giving the exterior of the cheese and butter factory a coat of paint.

A new kitchen and culinary department is being built at the rear of the Clancy house.

Mr Frank Jeffs, of Havelock, has been engaged by Robt. Stewart to take charge of his drug business here.

Mr. Wm. Choate is selling out his household effects by auction, and will leave for Uncle Sam's domains in the near future.

Mrs. Butterfield received the sad intelligence by telegram on Saturday night of the death of Mrs. Vars, of Buffalo, who died quite suddenly. Miss Butterfield left on Monday morning to attend the funeral.

Reeve. H. G. Buck and party, consisting of Messrs. J. G. Keefer, W. A. F. Campbell, D. A. Fraser, L. H. Kirkpatrick, J. McKelvie, W. R. Cameron, T. J. Findlay and Wm. Carberry, left this week for their annual cruise per yacht "Rube," up the lakes. They will also take in the excursion to Muskoka to-day.

The Y.P.S.C.E. will hold a lawn social at the manse grounds on Friday evening, June 23rd, and will close their meetings until next autumn.

C. D. Owens, of Peterborough, a student of great promise, took charge of the services at Christ church last Sunday, morning and evening.

The Norwood High and Public School Board met in regular session in the school room on Monday night, June 12.

Chairman W. E. Roxburgh being absent, it was moved, seconded and carried that Thos. Fraser act as chairman pro tem. The following members were present:—Messrs. Thos. Robson, Wm. Webster, Wm. Brethen, John McNaughton, Jas. Cummings, Jas. Pen-Jas. Cumming and Brethen that the and P. W. Stevenson. The minutes of the last regular meeting of the Board were read and confirmed and signed. Communications were read from the principal of the High school and Misses Lewis, Waters and Brighty asking the board for a restoration of old salaries paid before the fire of 1897. Also from Miss McLaughlin asking for a raise in salaries. Moved by Selly, J. L. Squire, P. W. Reynolds, communications of the Misses Lewis, Waters, Brighty and J. Davidson be received and laid over until next regular meeting of the board.—Carried. Moved by W. H. Brethen and Jas. Cumming that Miss McLaughlin's communication be received and that her request be complied with, and that she receive a raise of salary equal to the salaries received by the other lady teachers.—Carried. The treasurer's report of fees paid was handed in and showed a total receipt of $162, five scholars being still in arrears. Moved by P. W. Stevenson and Jas. Cumming that the treasurer be instructed to notify the parents of scholars who were in arrears, that to comply with the rules of the school laid down by the Board it would be necessary for them to pay said fees at once. The question of Model schools was introduced by the secretary. Mr. Scoville, principal of the Public and Model schools, was present and addressed the Board at some length, giving some practical hints re advertising our Model school, and its attractive advantages, throughout surrounding High school districts previous to the opening of the Model school term. He also threw out some good hints to be considered in advertising and selecting an assistant for the Model school term. Moved by Messrs. P. W. Stevenson and J. McNaughton that the Board advertise in the Daily Globe, Mail and Empire, and Norwood Register for an assistant teacher to take the principal's work in the Public school during model term, to be of Normal school training, and at least three years' experience in teaching, salary $130.—Carried. An account for pump repairs, amounting to $1.75, from Robt. Elliott, was laid on table and ordered to be paid. Moved by Messrs. Stevenson and Brethen that the secretary bill the town council for their share of fence repairs around park lot. The meeting then adjourned.

THE "WALTZ KING."

DEATH STILLS THE MUSICAL PEN OF JOHANN STRAUSS.

Wrote His First Waltz When He Was a Little Fellow of Six Years Old—His Father Opposed the Cultivation of the Boy's Genius, But the Mother Sent Him to the Best Teachers.

Johann Strauss, the famous musician and composer, is dead. When Strauss was a little fellow of 6 he wrote his first waltz. It was the germ of his genius, but it took a mother's hope and love to recognize it. His father, himself a conductor and composer of ability, brought his fist down upon the family table with a bang and declared that one fiddler in the Strauss family was quite enough; Johann should not be a musician. The mother was silent. With a little money of her own she sent her boy to the best teachers she could find. And Johann senior stormed and raved and finally separated entirely from his wife.

The father's opposition to his son's study of music could hardly have been due to a desire to spare the boy the hardships of a musician's life, for his own had been made comparatively easy. Born in March, 1804, of poor Viennese parents, the elder Strauss had had such good fortune that he hardly knew what the study of music under difficulties meant. His father kept a little inn, "Zum Guten Hirten" ("At the Sign of the Good Shepherd"), where an orchestra of three interpreted music of the lighter order to the delight of strolling guests. Little Johann loved their music, and was invariably to be found under the table, listening attentively. Of the toys given him he was chiefly interested in a small violin. He would play upon it for hours, running over snatches of dances and airs he had heard while in hiding under the inn table.

He had no liking for school, though he was fortunate enough to be sent to a teacher who at once recognized that the boy should have a thorough musical education. His parents could not afford this, and Johann was sent to learn bookbinding. But he soon tired of this trade, and before he was 14 years old, with his violin under his arm, he started out to play for a living. One of the frequenters of the "Zum Guten Hirten" was Herr Polischansky. He had taken an interest in little Strauss, and finally got the consent of the boy's parents to let him have—at Polischansky's expense—a systematic musical education. He learned rapidly. What it took the usual student a year to acquire he accomplished in a week, and soon he was playing in Vienna with a favorite string quartet. A little later he was engaged by Joseph Lanner to play in the various gardens and beer halls of the Austrian capital.

Lanner and Strauss became good friends. On one occasion when the former was prevented from writing a waltz promised for a concert on the following evening, Strauss undertook the task. The composition met with an outburst of applause; and although Lanner's name appeared on the program as the composer, Strauss recognized the success of the piece as his own. Thus encouraged, he continued composition. Eventually he organized and conducted an orchestra of his own, which became famous at once.

Strauss had married the pretty daughter of an innkeeper, and it was on Oct. 25, 1825, before his first concert tour, that the second Johann Strauss, just now deceased, was born. The boy's early love for music and the elder Strauss' vain attempts to stifle it have been already mentioned. In spite of his father's opposition little Johann often managed to be present at rehearsals of the Strauss orchestra. He tried waltzes on the piano, and Vienna soon predicted that the son would succeed the father. At 18 Johann was obliged by lack of money to enter a bank as a clerk; but he soon left the desk and began his career as composer and orchestra conductor. As early as 1844 the Austrian capital had gone wild over him. In October of that year, when he first conducted some of his own dance compositions in Dommayer's Garden in Vienna, the audience recalled him 16 times, and the musical world rang with his praise. Although the two conductors' relations had been strained, the son performed, as a compliment to his father, the latter's "Lorelei Rhein Klange" waltzes. The act made the younger Strauss the idol of the hour, and he was proclaimed "Waltz King Johann Strauss the Second."

At this period of his career he was a most prolific writer. He wrote day or night, whenever the fancy took him, and he had a habit of jotting down musical thoughts on his cuffs or collars. Some of the most popular dance music ever composed was thus first recorded. The Strauss dances now number nearly 500, and many of them are familiar the world over. "Artist Life," "The Beautiful Blue Danube," "Wine, Woman and Song," "From the Mountains," "German Hearts," "Harmony of the Spheres," "Village Swallows" and "The Lob der Frauen" are among the best known. "The Blue Danube," almost a national air in Austria, was originally written for a male chorus with orchestra. The early success of Johann Strauss is thus described by Hanslick, the musical critic of Vienna: "The young man's animal spirits, so long repressed, now began to foam over. Favored by his talent, intoxicated by his rapid successes, petted by the women, he passed his youth in wild excitement, always productive, always fresh and enterprising, always daring to the point of recklessness. In appearance he resembled his father, but was handsomer, more refined and more modern in dress and air. His waltzes combined the unmistakable Strauss family physiognomy with unique and original qualities of their own."

After the death of his father, in 1849, for a number of years Strauss and his orchestra gave concerts in all the principal cities of Europe, notably in St. Petersburg, Berlin, London and Paris. In June, 1837, the waltz king made his first visit to America. "Pat" Gilmore had engaged him to conduct the Boston peace jubilee. His presence there was one round of triumph. He directed an orchestra of a thousand musicians, and more than ever popularized his melodious compositions. In the same month he gave four concerts in New York at the Academy of Music. Rarely, if ever, has a composer received such an ovation in the American metropolis as was given to Strauss. His audiences seemed never to tire of his music, while the magnetism of the man with both audience and orchestra was simply astounding.

Strauss wrote more waltz music than all the rest of the world's composers put together.

PURSUED BY HIS CONSCIENCE.

A Man Guilty of Smuggling Has a Very Miserable Trip.

"I was never mixed up with a smuggling transaction but once in my life," said a New Orleans business man whose name may as well be left out, "and my experience was so painful that I swore off then and there. I had a deal in west Texas on hand at the time and had made a short trip over the Mexican frontier, during which I picked up a handful of very fine opals. A wicked friend showed me how easy it was to carry them over the line without paying tribute to Uncle Sam, and I was weak enough to yield to the temptation. When I got on the cars at El Paso, however, to come east to Dallas, I was haunted by a guilty conscience and had a horrible premonition that some secret service officer was on my track.

"Presently my attention became attracted by a man with a black beard who kept looking at me furtively from a seat across the way. I tried to persuade myself that it was all imagination, but a number of things occurred during that ride that satisfied me I was really being watched. I went into the smoker, for instance, and before long caught a glimpse of the black bearded chap peering through the end of the car window from the platform. It was the same in the dining car, and, to make a long story short, I reached Dallas thoroughly unstrung. That evening I began to think I had shaken the fellow off my track, when I happened to stroll out of the hotel, and there he was standing behind a pillar. Needless to say I didn't sleep a wink, and when I bumped into the sleuth next morning and saw that he had shaved off his beard I gave myself up for lost. However, that was the last of him, and for the balance of my stay I was unmolested and gradually regained my equanimity.

"That the man had been shadowing me was undeniable, but what his purpose could have been and why he dropped the game so abruptly were mysteries which I was forced to leave unsolved. It was two years before I found out. Then I ran across the man one day by accident in a St. Louis restaurant and he owned up. It seems that he had been a public official in a small Texas town and got mixed up in his accounts. He swore to me that it was only bad bookkeeping, but the grand jury indicted him for embezzlement, and he skipped until things calmed down. I happened to coincide with a description he had of a detective, and all his strange moves were actuated by exactly the same motive that prompted me to run—namely, to see whether he was being watched. We were both fooled by our fears. His affairs have since been settled up, and we enjoyed a good laugh and a cold bottle together. But I am a reformed smuggler for life."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

THEY ALL WANTED IT.

The Row a Mild Mannered Man Raised Over a Quarter.

"Say!" said the street car conductor to a mild mannered man who was deeply engrossed in his newspaper. "Say, young feller, I don't want this quarter. I can't use it." The mild man continued to hold his hand for his change, but paid no other attention to the conductor.

"See here!" yelled the conductor, getting red in the face, "you can't pass no quarter like that on me. It's slick. I can't take it for more than 20 cents."

The mild man looked up and said: "I'm sorry, because you gave me that very quarter yourself last night, and I've been laying for you since. Well, give it here." He took the quarter and gave the conductor a nickel. As he took the quarter from the conductor he suddenly dropped his newspaper and gave a chuckle.

"Well, well," he exclaimed, "here's luck. Bless me, if that isn't an 1882 quarter with 14 stars and an arrow. It's worth $3.82." He slipped it into his pocket with evidence of much satisfaction.

"Here, give me that quarter," said the conductor. "I was only fooling. That's my quarter."

A hungry eyed man in the corner who had overheard the conversation jumped up and said:

"Isn't that the very quarter I gave you yesterday morning. I missed that quarter. It was a pocket piece and a valuable coin. I remember now that I gave it to you. I demand it!" he said, looking fiercely at the mild man. "If you are a gentleman, you will give it to me."

"It isn't yours. You never gave it to me. My wife gave me that coin by mistake. It's part of a collection that's been in the family since 1827!" yelled the conductor.

"I tell you it's mine," said the hungry eyed man. Thus they wrangled and quarreled all the way down town.

"No," said the mild man to a neighbor, as he stepped from the car. "It's only a plain, ordinary old shiny quarter that I've been trying to pass off for a week. We were all lying. It's worth about 23 cents."—Kansas City Star.

Savage Crabs.

The most savage specimen of the crab species is found in Japan, seeming to dream of nothing but fighting to delight in nothing half so much. The minute he spies another of his kind he scrapes his claws together in rage, challenging him to the combat. Not a moment is wasted in preliminaries, but at it they go hammer and tongs. It sounds like two rocks grinding against one another as their claws rattle against the hard shells. The sand flies as the warriors push each other hither and thither until at last one of them stretches himself out in the sun tired to death. But he does not beg for mercy or attempt to run away, only feebly rubbing his claws together in defiance of the foe. That foe comes closer, and with his claws trembling with joy at his victory, the conqueror catches hold of one claw of the vanquished crab, twists it until it comes off and bears away the palpitating limb as a trophy of his prowess. Such is a battle between warrior crabs.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Way to Fold a Coat.

To fold a man's coat, lay it out perfectly flat, with the wrong side down; the sleeve should be spread out smoothly and then folded back to the elbow until each end of the sleeve is even with the collar. Fold the revers back and then double the coat over, folding it directly in the center seam and smoothing it out carefully so that there may be no wrinkles. The coat is then ready to place in the trunk or on the closet shelf. Unless space is limited do not turn up the tails when folding a coat.—Ladies' Home Journal.

A Slight.

"Isn't McCorkle awfully thin since his return?"

"Yes. Do you know what they call his valet at the club?"

"No."

"They call him the valet of the shadow!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ELEPHANTS THAT WORK.

Great Animals That Straighten Out Lumber Yards in the Far East Instead of Idling Away Time in a Zoo.

There is a great difference between the elephant as one sees him at the circus or at the zoo and the busy, workaday elephants of India, Burmah, Siam and the east generally. At the circus and the zoo the elephant is a gentleman of bespangled leisure, or at least chiefly remarkable for his intellectural qualifications. In India, once a warrior in the battlefield, the friend of princes and rajahs, he now is more or less of a day laborer, and, as is shown in the pictures, can do a day's work in a lumber yard with grace and ease.

Heavy timbers that with us would be lifted by machinery, swung on giant cranes, or pushed about on trucks, the elephant lifts up unconcernedly. He is also good at pushing and pulling and can set up or take down a lumber pile and do all sorts of odd jobs and chores that are required of him. As the Hindoos take life easily, enjoy ordering the elephant about and lastly watch him as he plays the lumberman under their directions. Elephants thus engaged may not have as good a time as their brothers of the zoo, but they take life serenely and seem to enjoy work as much as the next one.

An Incredulous Jury.

In a criminal prosecution recently tried in York, Neb., the jury, after a brief deliberation, returned the following remarkable verdict: "We, the jury in the above-named case, do not believe one word that the witnesses have sworn to, neither do we believe that any of the attorneys have spoken the truth, nor that either of them could do so, even if he should care to take the trouble to try." The humor in remarks casting doubt upon the veracity of the legal profession has lost the freshness of early youth, and a good stiff penalty for contempt in cases of this kind would probably redound to the benefit of mankind in general.—Law Notes.

No Right to Ugliness.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, eyes, smooth, velvety skin, rich complexion. It will make a good-looking, charming woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50 cents. For sale by James Lynch, druggist, Hunter-st., Peterborough.

FOR A SMALL SUM.

Judgment Given in the Case of Walsh vs. Reynolds.

An adjourned session of the County Court was held yesterday afternoon before Judge Weller for the hearing of the suit of Walsh vs. Reynolds, an action for alleged breach of contract. John Walsh is a drover carrying on business in the township of Asphodel, and the defendants, T. H. Reynolds and John Darch, at the time of the making of the alleged contract were carrying on a butcher business at Bowmanville. The plaintiff claims that the defendants entered into a contract to supply him, the said plaintiff, with a shipment of hogs at a certain price to be delivered at Montreal at set date and plaintiff paid defendants $20 thereon, but the hogs, plaintiff claims, were not delivered. He claimed $180 damages and costs.

The case occupied a couple of hours in hearing and judgment was entered for the plaintiff for $20, the question of costs being reserved. Ruddy & Clarry, Hastings, for the plaintiff, and R. Loscombe for defendants.

A NEW YACHT.

Mr Breese Has a New Steamer Ready for Stony Lake.

The fleet of craft on Stony lake will have an addition next week in the shape of the new steam yacht built for Mr. D. Breese by Mr. H. B. Rye. The boat is a fine one and will be about the staunchest of her size on the upper lake waters. She measures 25 feet long by 6 ft. beam and a depth of 32 inches, and is very roomy, with great beam and carrying capacity. The lines are fine and graceful and the hull is painted white, the decks being of oak varnished. A neat brass rail at bow and stern trims up the craft in good shape. Over all is a neat canopy. The boat is driven by a 3½ h. p. engine with tubular boiler. The cockpit is comfortably seated and cushioned with lockers underneath. The boat will be taken from Mr. Rye's shop on trucks and drawn to Lakefield where she will be given her trial trip on Saturday.

Yearlings as well as old cattle are affected and the beasts become run down when the disease attacks them.

—The summer resort business has opened out with grand prospects of a successful season. Fifteen members of the Rochester Yacht Club were in town yesterday and went north to Burleigh for an outing at Stony lake. A number of ladies and gentlemen well supplied with fishing rods and other requisities for an outing went up to Lakefield on the noon train to-day. Although the trains have been running but a few days the Snowden house has accommodated over fifty guests en route to the back lakes.

RETURNED TO WORK.

The Local Trackmen of the Grand Trunk at Work Again.

The local members of the Trackmen's Brotherhood, who have been on strike for the past month, applied for their tools this morning and resumed work on the tracks. They received official notification yesterday evening that the strike had been settled and that an agreement had been signed on Saturday. Particulars were not given.

There seems to have been a general feeling among the strikers yesterday that the report of the settlement might not be all right, and in many places they refused to return until notified directly by the chairman of their executive. In many places some of the men went to work, while others held out, but to-day all seem to have returned. Two of the Belleville strikers are being tried for intimidation.

COUNTY COUNCIL IN JUNE SESSION

THE WARDEN'S ADDRESS TOUCHES ON MANY MATTERS OF BUSINESS.

The Warden Suggests a Re-adjustment of the Arrangement Between the Town and County Regarding the Maintainance of the Court House, Goal Etc.—The Chemong Bridge.

The June session of the County Council opened at the Court House this afternoon with the Warden, Mr. Hawthorne, presiding. Present were Messrs. Pearce, Peck, Anderson, Eastland, Shaw, Fitzgerald, Forster and Crowe.

The minutes of the January session and the special session in May were read and confirmed.

THE WARDEN'S ADDRESS.

Warden Hawthorne then addressed the Council in "the speech from the throne." He said:—

Gentlemen,—It gives me much pleasure to again greet you on your assembling together for the transacting of business affecting the county.

The promising state of the growing crops and the prosperity of the rural population evinced by building operations throughout the country is a matter for congratulation and a good indication of better times.

It is a source of great satisfaction that notwithstanding the almost unprecedent state of high water, that all our bridges have escaped serious injury, and we may feel assured, that if the present levels are maintained we need have no apprehension as to high water in the future.

My attention has been called by Mr. Pearce to the state of Taylor's Mill and Crow river bridges in Belmont re flooring, who will report to you as to their present requirements. The matter of bridge flooring I think should receive more attention from the Council; for instance the Burleigh bridge, erected

THE TOWN COUNCIL HOLD A SESSION

THE RENTAL FOR THE USE OF THE STREETS BY THE POWER CO. UP AGAIN.

The Proposal is to Make the Company Pay the same Rental as the Light Co.—Many Communications—Some Short Discussions.

It was about 9.30 o'clock when the Town Council went into session last evening, the Court of Revision and a matter regarding the Provincial Paint and Varnish Co. occupying the time earlier in the evening.

Mayor Davis presided and present were Ald. Denne, Langford, Hall, Neill, McWilliams and Sawers.

The reading of the minutes was on motion dispensed with.

COMMUNICATIONS.

Communications were received:

From D. W. Dumble asking the Council to appoint a committee to act with the County Council and Board of Trade in considering an excursion for the Montreal Board of Trade over the Trent Waters.—Joint Committee.

From Jos. Green and ten others asking that the Council open out and grade Stewart-st. situated between Park and Perry-sts.—Board of Works.

From W. O'Brien, clerk of Douro, calling attention to the bad state of the boundary road between Douro and the town.—Board of Works.

From the hon.-secretary of the Lacrosse Club asking permission for the members of the police force who are off duty to attend the lacrosse matches and assist in keeping order, the club to pay the men for services.—Granted.

From J. W. Carey, asking remission of dog tax as he had disposed of the dog.—Court of Revision.

From John Clancy making declaration re dog tax.—Court of Revision.

From D. H. Kernegham and others asking that a pipe sewer be constructed on Gilmour-st.—Board of Works.

From Jas. Jackson and others asking for about 50 yards of sidewalk on Dalhousie-at. east of Reid and west of Rubidge-sts.—Board of Works with power to act.

From E. B. Edwards re the agreement with the C.P.R. re the Wolfe-st. The Company had not executed this agreement, but were ready to do so as soon as the town were ready to do likewise.—Committee of the whole Council.

From E. B. Edwards, town solicitor, notifying the Council that the County Judge had allowed an appeal and quashed a conviction under the by-law dealing with second hand or junk shops. After reciting argument on the points involved, Mr. Edwards suggested the passing of a new by-law in accordance with the new Act. He enclosed a draft by-law for the consideration of the Council if it deemed it advisable to pass the same.—Committee of the whole Council.

From Dennistoun, Peck & Stevenson, solicitors for Mr. Jas. Bogue, asking for particulars of the work which has not been done in accordance with the terms of Mr. Bogue's sewer contract, the Council having instructed the town engineer to notify Mr. S. Belcher not to give Mr. Bogue certificates until the work is completed, for which payments are due. — Referred to the Committee of the whole Council.

THE CATERPILLARS.

Now is a Good Time to Exterminate Next Year's Crop.

Although the caterpillars as a living, crawling nuisance are nearly over for this year, people should not cease in their efforts to rid the country of the pest. At present the cocoons or cases of the caterpillars are to be found in nests or clusters in trees, under the eaves of houses, on fences and in all such places. These should be gathered and destroyed. There will then be no caterpillars the next year. From these cocoons the pest comes out in its chrysalis state and then turns into a moth. It is these moths that lay the eggs in the bracelets on the limbs of the trees and from these the caterpillars are hatched in the spring. As they multiply at an amazing rate it is easy to see that a few cocoons destroyed now means many times that number of caterpillars that will be missing next spring. One man can now do as effective work at the cocoons as several can by spraying or clipping in the spring. All property owners should act on this suggestion, and it would be advisable for the Town Council to put a man or two out to destroy the cocoons that can be found on the streets.

AN ENJOYABLE MUSICALE HELD

ON THE ANNIVERSARY OF THE OPENING OF THE Y M C A BUILDING.

A Nicely Arranged Programme of Vocal and Instrumental Music, Contributed Largely by Local Talent, and a Short Address on a Timely Topic.

The second anniversary of the opening of the Y.M.C.A. building was marked last night by a musicale at Association hall. It was a very pleasing evening. There was a short and easy address by Rev. Mr. Symonds on the topic of Christian unity, but the main part of the entertainment was musical. The program was not lengthy, but was distinctly meritorious, all the numbers, both vocal and instrumental, reaching a high degree of artistic excellence. In the sterling character of the selections and the varied nature of the programme the evening was a most enjoyable treat. The audience was not large but was sincerely appreciative. The ladies were in the majority.

Dr. Scott acted as chairman. In announcing the opening number he expressed the gratitude of the Board of Directors to the Ladies' Auxiliary for the effective work they had done for the association, especially in the way of raising money. He stated that the Board expected to clear the debt off entirely this year.

The programme was opened with a charming pianoforte selection, "Des Sylvains Chaminade," played with skill and expression by Mrs. Torrance.

Mrs. A. G. Parker rendered "The Garland," Mendelssohn, with rare sweetness and perfect articulation, Mrs. Torrance playing the accompaniment. The song was warmly applauded.

The next was a pleasing solo "The Carnival," by Mr. Herb Morphet, sung to Mr. Rodgers' accompaniment.

Miss Clara Pelleghem sang "Rejoice Jerusalem and Sing," in excellent voice, Miss Macdougall accompanying.

Rev. Mr. Symonds followed with an address on "Christian Unity." After a witty opening he proceeded with his brief remarks. Christian unity is desirable because it is according to the mind of Jesus Christ. He should be the head and source of all our thinking. That some kind of unity was in the mind of the founder of the Christian religion was the reason for the speaker's stand on this matter. Christ has formed us into a society of men and women which should include all sorts and conditions, without regard to race or rank. Christ came to found a kingdom. This is the word used in the Scriptures. It gives the idea of a community of people bound together and obeying the same laws. The word "kingdom" is used in the Scriptures in a sense somewhat analagous to an earthly kingdom. Christianity is described by St. Paul as a society to be realized upon earth for the purpose of binding all men in the bonds of unity. Christianity is to be a universal society and all men upon earth are eligible for members. Therefore, some sort of unity is desirable.

Now, the question might be asked what kind of Christian unity. Unity does not necessarily mean uniformity. Different races and people occupy different positions in civilization. The speaker believed that the Papacy of middle ages was of Divine origin and fulfilled a Divine mission. But when the Germanic peoples, once converted, outgrew their childhood and came of age these bonds were no longer suited to them and they were cast off. Conditions change. There are also many forms of worship. Some get the best benefit from a liturgy, others from impromptu prayer. Some are assisted by a ritual, others do not need it. In the New Testament the speaker could find nothing to say how the Holy Communion was to be administered. The speaker, therefore, from all these things did not believe in uniformity.

Rev. Mr. Symonds, however, did not believe that unity of spirit was all that unity to be desired. In mission-work there should be unity so that there would be no overlapping or contradiction. In conquering the world for Christ there should be common government to decide, for instance, what part should be taken by the Baptists, or what by the Methodists and others.

There are also many social questions which could be better dealt with if united action were taken by all the Christian bodies of the world. There should be some body in which all sects might be represented for the discussion of these problems that trouble and interest the world to-day.

The Y.M.C.A. is a practical illustration of both the needs and the accomplishment of this unity. The association has already done much to unify

A STRONG PETITION

Asking That the Dominion Day Celebration be Held on Monday.

There is a vexed question agitating the town. It is whether the Dominion day, July 1st, holiday shall be held on Saturday, the day on which it falls, or on Monday, July 3rd. The merchants seems to be almost unanimously in favor of having the celebration held on Monday. A petition was in circulation among them to-day asking the Town Council to declare Monday as the official holiday. This petition will be presented at the Council meeting this evening. It is certainly one that carries great weight with it for at two o'clock to-day it had received the signatures of all the prominent merchants and firms doing business on George-st, with the exception of three. Thus the general opinion of those doing business in the town seem to be in favor of a Monday celebration. The petitioners ask that the celebration be postponed on the ground that if the stores are closed on Saturday a great deal of money will be lost to the merchants. They are certainly entitled to consideration at the Council's hands. They also claim that the closing of the stores on Saturday will result in great inconvenience to the farmers. The petition had been signed by the managers of the Locks works and other manufacturing concerns were also expected to sign. Those who are against changing the date have also good reasons to urge. The matter will be settled to-night.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

THEY ALL GO BACK.

The Grand Trunk Trackmen's Strike Is Now a Matter of Domestic History.

Toronto, June 20.—The G.T.R. strikers in Toronto yesterday morning received an answer to their telegram of Sunday night asking for further news to confirm the report of the settlement. The following is the message which arrived at 10 o'clock:

"Clawbar. Settlement all right and agreement signed by Hays on Saturday.
"(Signed) W. Pole."

In accordance with the previous telegrams telling the strikers to return to work, several of the local members started at noon. It is expected that more will commence this morning. Out of the 80 trackmen in Toronto not more than 20 will return. The remainder have all got better jobs, and have no intention, so they say, of going back. Sectionmen who were in the city yesterday from Scarboro, East York and Weston, all say that the strikers in their districts have commenced work again.

Hamilton Trackmen at Work.

Hamilton, June 20.—The G.T.R. trackmen here returned to work yesterday, but it is reported that only two out of seven gangs south of here on the northern division of the road are at work.

HESPELER WEAVERS ON STRIKE.

Nearly 200 Workers Quit Because of an Alleged Injustice.

Hespeler, Ont., June 20.—At 1 o'clock yesterday noon the entire staff of weavers employed in the A. W. Brodie mills here, numbering nearly 200, went on strike. The trouble arose over fines inflicted for darning their cloth, which work was performed by a staff of girls who were paid ten cents an hour for doing the work, which amount was deducted from the weavers' wages, and which in some instances amounted to quite a large sum. The weavers claim that this is a hardship at the present scale of wages paid. They are willing to bear half the cost of darning, but think Mr. Brodie should pay the other half. It is their intention to appoint a committee to wait on the mill management to-day to see if better terms or a fairer tariff cannot be arranged. The strike is creating a considerable amount of excitement in town.

Cleveland Tracks Greased.

Cleveland, Ohio., June 20.—The Street Railway Company and their striking employes held no conference yesterday. Early in the morning men and women set to work greasing the tracks at the corner of Pearl street and Clarke avenue, and at the corner of Scranton avenue and Clarke avenue, and also at the corner of Jenning avenue and Clark avenue. The tracks were so well greased with soap, oil and other substances that the operation of cars was effectually prevented. The company yesterday opened two new lines, Central and Scoville avenues running cars at six-minute intervals. There has been rioting.

Labor Situation at Buffalo.

Buffalo, N.Y., June 20.—The committee appointed by the striking freight handlers to wait upon the different railroad companies and demand 15c an hour for regular work and 20c for overtime, called upon the different superintendents yesterday afternoon and in every case were met by an absolute refusal to grant the increase. The committee reported to a turbulent meeting of the strikers held in Fillmore Hall last night. On a vote being taken there was a big majority in favor of continuing the strike, and it will go on.

Miners Gain Their Point.

Grand Forks, B.C., June 20.—Jay P. Graves sent word yesterday from Spokane to the superintendents of his various mining properties in the Boundary country instructing them to comply with the recent legislation limiting the period of work for miners underground to eight hours daily. The intimation that the old rate of wages, $3.50 per day, would still prevail, was well received. The properties affected by this arrangement are the Knob Hill, Old Ironsides, the Lincoln and the City of Paris.

THE ROYAL YACHT.

The New Victoria and Albert Has Been Launched and Will Be Completed Very Soon.

The new royal yacht, the Victoria and Albert, was launched a few weeks ago at Pembroke, England, and as the Duchess of York shattered the bottle against the shearwater, the magnificent hull slid down the ways and dipped her nose for the first time deep into the waves.

The new yacht is a gift from the nation to the Queen, a monument to mark the love of a grateful people toward a revered sovereign. The vessel has been called the Victoria and Albert just as all the principal royal yachts during the Queen's reign have been called by that name. The first of these was built and presented by the nation to the young Queen and Prince Albert as a wedding present. Before that the yachts had, of course, been sailing vessels, the principal one being the Royal George, launched in 1817, and now the oldest yacht in the world.

The present yacht is built of steel and the interior is divided into a number of watertight compartments.

There is a cellular double bottom extending from bilge to bilge, and this "inner skin" is virtually carried up above the water by the side coal bunker bulkheads.

Decks and platforms are also made watertight where required. In addition to these structural arrangements further security is provided and freedom from serious fouling of the bottom obtained by sheathing over the steel hull with teak planking, outside which copper sheathing is fastened.

This wood sheathing in steel-hulled ships usually extends only a few feet above the deep load waterline. In the royal yacht it is carried right up to the upper deck, the copper stopping a little above the waterline.

Comfort is thus increased by securing a more equable temperature, especially if the vessel should proceed to very hot or very cold climates, and a better external appearance is also obtained. It was decided that comfort should not be sacrificed for the purpose of securing very high speed, and a sustained sea speed in fair weather of about 17 knots was named in the design, in association with a speed of 20 knots on the measured mile trial of eight hours.

The "state deck" of the new yacht is about 10½ feet above water. Between it and the upper deck are situated the Queen's apartments and those of the royal family, the cabins assigned to their suites, and those appropriated to the commanding officer and the principal naval officers attached to the vessel.

These rooms occupy the central portion of the state deck, where the minimum of motion in a seaway should occur. The apartments of the members of the royal family are placed abaft those of Her Majesty, extending over a considerable length on the state deck.

These are succeeded by the apartments of the royal suite. Rather more than half the length of the vessel is occupied by these three series of apartments, and a wide corridor extends from end to end, with convenient staircases leading to the upper deck.

Above the upper deck, toward the after part, is built a large pavilion or saloon, which contains the state dining-room, that will accommodate 50 persons, besides reception and smoking-rooms. The top of this pavilion forms a promenade.

The portrait shown above is that of the captain, Prince Louis of Battenberg.

That man who tried to bribe a New York policeman for $1 and was arrested for doing so has probably learned something. Next time he may loosen and make it $3.—Oil City Blizzard.

Besides the racket championship Boston now holds the court tennis championship. It has been a notably triumphant season for the amateur champions that represent the city.—Boston Journal.

MISS CAPRICE.

BY ST. GEORGE RATHBONE

Author of "Doctor Jack," "Doctor Jack's Wife," "Captain Tom," "Miss Pauline of New York," Etc.

The blacksmith shakes his head.

"I cannot," he says, in English.

"My life may depend on it, man. This is no time for hesitation. Give me the iron!"

His words are spoken with authority, and the brawny smith surrenders the rod of glowing iron.

Without an instant's hesitation, only compressing his lips firmly together, the Chicagoan presses the red-hot iron upon his arm.

Then he tosses the hissing thing aside and begins to draw his shirt over the raw red scar an inch square, which the merciless brand has seared upon his white arm.

Seeing the blanched face of Lady Ruth and the anxious countenances of the others near-by, the doctor, who has recovered from the shock, smiles in a reassuring way.

"I am sorry you saw this; I didn't intend you should. Let us go to the hotel!" he says, slipping a coin in the hands of the honest smith, who seems loth to accept it.

Then the party continue down in the direction of the hotel, where they stop while the steamer undergoes repairs.

"Colonel Blunt, will you do me the favor to come to my room? I want to put a small bandage with iodoform on the burn," he says aside, but Lady Ruth hears it.

"Colonel Blunt, indeed, what sort of trained nurse do you suppose he would make? I have had experience—you may smile if you like. Tell the colonel where to find your box of liniments and bandages and bring it to me."

"But, my dear Lady——"

"Not a word, doctor. I shall esteem it an honor; and what I lack in scientific knowledge my aunt can supply."

This clinches the matter, and John can offer no further argument against her wish; so Blunt, the Royal Engineer officer, is sent after the doctor's case, which errand he performs willingly enough, for although he knows this affair has brightened up the chances of his rival, still, as an Englishman, he has a deep inborn admiration for bravery, no matter whether shown in a Zulu warrior, armed with war club and assagai, or in a Yankee youth who throws himself between a dusky child of Malta and a mad dog, to receive the monster's attack.

So he hastens up-stairs to the room which John Alexander Craig temporarily occupies, opens the door, and speedily returns with the little travelling case in which the young physician keeps many important medicines, an assortment of ready liniment and lint, with the wonderful remedial agents known to modern surgery.

To John's surprise, after he has opened the case and started to arrange the small bandage, it is gently taken from his hands.

"Allow me," says the pretty "doll," as he has at times been forced to mentally term Lady Ruth, after she has played with his admiration.

"But, do you know——"

"I never told you my uncle was a surgeon, Sir Archibald Gazzam——"

"What! that great man your uncle!" cries the student, with the deep respect a young M.D. has for a famous practitioner.

"Yes; and more than once I have assisted him in some simple case at the house. He gave me credit for a fair amount of nerve."

"Fair amount! Jove! for a girl you have a wonderful quantity. Why, I believe you'd have faced that brute yourself, if I hadn't gone," he says, enthusiastically, the others being momentarily at the window to witness a procession pass the hotel, with the dead dog on a litter.

"No, no, I could not do that; but Doctor Chicago, was that what sent you out to meet that awful beast?"

Her head is bent over her work, so that the intense blush remains unseen, but it fades away at his cool reply.

"Oh, no; quite another thing! I told you I never considered myself a coward, and when I saw that dear little child apparently doomed to a terrible death, I could see the eyes of one I revere looking at me, and though death were sure I could not refrain."

He says this quietly and earnestly, yet without an apparent desire to arouse any feeling of chagrin on her side.

Lady Ruth bites her lips, but her hands are steady, and the touch is exceedingly gentle as she binds up the ugly red mark which he has inflicted on himself with what she is disposed to term Spartan-like courage.

"There; it is done, doctor."

"And neatly done, too," says Aunt Gwen, with a nod and a look of pride.

"I thank you sincerely, Lady Ruth."

"Ah! you are a thousand times welcome. There is not a woman in Valetta who would not feel it an honor to bind up the wound of the hero who saved that Maltese child," says this young lady, frankly.

More shouts without.

This time the men of Valetta are clamoring for the American to show himself. The do not know much of America, but the recognize true grit wherever they meet it.

Of course, a rush is made for the balcony, but John remains behind.

He is feeling somewhat weak after the exciting events of the afternoon.

And, as he sits there, smiling to hear the clamor without—for he is human, this young Chicago M.D.—some one touches his arm.

"Lady Ruth, I thought you were out with the rest," he stammers, with a guilty blush, for it chances that at the very moment he is thinking of her, and what a soft, electric touch she has, so soothing, so very delightful.

"I did not go; I was watching you."

"An interesting study, surely."

"It was to me. I desired to know whether you secretly feared the results of your wound."

"And I did not dream you were so concerned about me. Considering the matter calmly, I am disposed to believe there is now no danger—that the hot iron radically destroyed the last chance of infection."

"I am very glad to hear you say so."

"You care a little, then?"

How quickly she is on her guard.

"Because I would not see a brave boy needlessly sacrificed."

"You look on me as a boy. I am twenty-three."

"My own age, sir. That gives me the right to feel myself your senior."

"How so?"

"You know a woman is older at twenty-three than a man. Then you do not wear a beard."

"I shall cultivate one from this hour. Why, a year ago I looked a pard,' but was influenced to change."

Again that quick flash of intelligence.

"Ah, Doctor Chicago has left a lady love in the city on the lake."

"What makes you say that?"

"Several remarks you have made; the one just now, and then in reference to the spur that sent you to face that dog. Ah! my friend, it must have been a strong motive to influence you like that."

He overlooks the peculiar patronizing air, such as a young woman sometimes assumes toward a boy her junior.

"Lady Ruth, the person you refer to, the thought of whom sent me to save that child, bears what is to me the holiest name on earth—mother,"

She draws a quick breath.

"Forgive me. I was rude."

"Not at all. My words admitted of just such a meaning as you placed upon them."

"You left her in Chicago, of course."

John looks at her steadily.

"Lady Ruth, it may sound strange to you, after what I have said, but my memories of my mother are all confined to the far past, to a period when I was a mere child; but they are none the less precious on that account."

She looks puzzled, as well she may.

"Do you mean she is—dead?"

"Heaven forbid, but I have not seen her in all these years. That is one reason I am abroad, Lady Ruth. I have a sacred mission to perform—to find my mother—to seek the solution of a mystery which has embittered my life. Perhaps some time, if we know each other a little better, I may confide a strange and sad story to you."

"Just as you please, doctor," she replies, with deep feeling in her voice, and at this moment the others bustle in.

"You must show yourself on the balcony. The dear people clamor for a sight of you, and I'm really afraid they'll tear the house down soon if you don't appear before them," says Aunt Gwen, with unusual vigor.

"Yes, they unquestionably desire to publicly show their appreciation of your services, and I for one feel proud to be an American this day."

"Philander!"

"Excuse me, my dear. John, my boy, allow me to lead you out."

"One minute, please," says Lady Ruth, who has made a comfortable sling of a long white silk kerchief, which she wore around her neck.

This she insists on securing over John's shoulder.

"That arm must be painful. I know it from my long experience as the reliable assistant of my surgeon uncle. You will be glad to have this."

"But—for such a mere scratch—people will laugh at me," he protests, feebly, though it may be noticed that he makes no effort to deliver himself from the silk sling which she is now tying.

"People laugh at you! A mere scratch! Confound it, boy, there isn't a man living who would go through with what you have to-day for a cool hundred thousand. I know one man a million would not tempt," cries the professor.

"I suppose I must submit," and accompanied by Philander, with the two women bringing up the rear, he passes out upon the balcony, where the colonel of Royal Engineers has remained, to be a curious spectator of the scene.

At sight of the hero of the street drama, those in the square before the hotel shout and cheer. They are mostly natives, but men and women feel very strongly drawn toward this young—smooth-faced—American who risked his life to save a child, and that child a Maltese boy.

John bows, and presses his uninjured hand upon his heart, bows again, and retires.

WHEATON'S NARROW ESCAPE

Hot Fight With Filipinos 20 Miles From Manila.

The Americans Were Hit Hard—Five Killed and 25 Wounded—Their Ammunition Ran Out Again and the 4th Infantry Were Practically Defeated—The Fighting Continued Until After 5 p.m. on Monday.

Manila, June 20.—A battalion of the 4th Infantry, which left Imus, where General Wheaton is in command, yesterday morning to reconnoitre toward Peres das Marinas, where it was believed most of the rebels who escaped from Paranaque and Bacoor had fled, was attacked by apparently friendly natives in the rear, which brought on a sharp engagement, lasting several hours. It resulted in five Americans being killed and about 25 being wounded. The loss of the rebels was very heavy.

The battalion soon exhausted its ammunition and at 2.30 in the afternoon General Wheaton and his staff, with the 2nd Battalion, two mountain guns and one field piece, went to reinforce the troops attacked. General Wheaton was fired on in a road and had a narrow escape. Later the 3rd Battalion was ordered to the front and formed on the Das Marinas road. Heavy firing on both sides followed, the artillery being freely used. The enemy was located in the woods at 4 o'clock, showing signs of retiring, as the rebels were being pressed very hard. One gun of the 6th Artillery, in an advantageous position, did great execution.

The fighting was still in progress at 5 o'clock, at which time the Americans had secured a quantity of Filipino arms, which had been abandoned in the woods. The scene of the fight is over 20 miles from Manila.

They Want to Quit.

Washington, June 20.—The following cablegram has been received by the Adjutant-General from General Otis at Manila: "All volunteer organizations here desire to muster out San Francisco."

Reinforcements Arrive.

Manila, June 20.—The United States transport Sherman, which sailed from San Francisco May 24, with 1,800 men and 75 officers, under command of Brigadier-General Fred. D. Grant, has arrived here after a smooth voyage. One private died after the transport's arrival.

THE PLAN OF CAMPAIGN.

What the Boers Will Do Within Two Weeks After the Declaration of War With Great Britain.

London, June 20.—The St. James Gazette yesterday afternoon claimed to have received from an absolutely reliable source at Pretoria, capital of the Transvaal, the plan of campaign which will be followed by General Joubert, commander-in-chief of the Boers, in the event of war between the Transvaal and Great Britain. General Joubert's force, it appears, will consist of 20,000 men armed with Mauser rifles, in addition to 46 quick-firing guns and 1,000 artillerymen, most of them drawn from the German and Dutch armies.

Help Expected From the Free State.

With these troops and help expected from the Orange Free State, Joubert expects to take the offensive immediately after the declaration of war, enter the Orange Free State and march on Kimberley, the British diamond mining centre in West Griqualand, which forms four of the 70 divisions of Cape Colony. Kimberley is about 160 miles northwest of Bloemfontein. In his march on Kimberley Joubert will use the railroad as far as available, expects to capture the town with slight loss and blow up the De Beers diamond mine.

Will Destroy Railroads.

Simultaneously, it is added, the railroad from Cape Town to Buluwayo will be destroyed by Boer sympathisers and agents in Cape Colony, who will also destroy the Port Elizabeth-Pretoria line, south of Bloemfontein, to prevent British troops from using it.

Finally, immediately after Kimberley is captured, General Joubert will advance on Cape Town, the capital of Cape Colony, through the western provinces, where the Dutch predominate and are expected to join the Boers. Joubert calculates he will be master of Cape Town a fortnight after the declaration of war and that he will then be able to dictate terms of peace.

ONE INDIAN SHOT ANOTHER.

Violent Wind and Hail Storm Near Stockton, Manitoba.

Winnipeg, June 20.—The Attorney-General's Department received word yesterday afternoon from Lac Seul of the shooting of an Indian in the territory north of that point. An Indian, whose name is not given, was supposed to be going wendigo, or, in other words, insane, and a member of the tribe, named Chooseman, shot him as a duty. He has not escaped and is not yet arrested.

A very violent windstorm from the west passed over Stockton, Man., yesterday, accompanied by rain and hail, covering a strip of territory about one mile in width. Rain fell in torrents and hail to the depth of six inches covered the ground. Some of the hailstones measured an inch in diameter. Trees were stripped of both leaves and young branches, and crops in the path of the storm were probably destroyed. No accidents are reported.

Marchand Welcomed Home.

Thoissey, France, June 19.—Major Marchand arrived yesterday morning at Thoissey, his birthplace, and was received by the mayor and enthusiastic crowds. His passage from the railway station to the residence of his father was a triumphal progress.

Halifax for Next Assembly.

Hamilton, June 20.—At the Presbyterian General Assembly yesterday, college matters, temporary preachers and changes in the rules were the subjects discussed at the morning sederunt. Halifax was the place chosen for the next meeting of the General Assembly.

During the afternoon the foreign mission committee was instructed to make a grant not exceeding 400 rupees, exclusive of fees and Government grants, to the high school and college at Indore, India. It is felt that this will remove the friction that at present exists. The Sunday school report showed 2,500 schools, 19,000 teachers and 160,000 pupils.

How Rooms Are Rented In Mexico.

Strangers sometimes mildly wonder what newspapers or sheets of blank paper are tied on the windows or balconies of certain houses for. A sheet of paper thus arranged is a sign meaning that there are rooms to rent in the house on which it is displayed and is just as significant in its import as three golden balls over a pawnbroker's shop are in other countries.—Mexican Herald.

IT'S TOO RISKY

To undergo an operation for itching Piles when Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment is a surer, cheaper, easier way to cure.

Cruel, barbarous methods belong to the dark ages of the past. There was a time when a surgical operation was considered the only possible cure for piles. Not so now. Occasionally there is still found a physician who adheres to this dangerous and expensive method, but to every one who still believes in using the knife, ninety and nine recommend the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Dr. C. M. Harlan, writing in The American Journal of Health, said:

"We know that 'Dr. Chase's Ointment' meets all the requisitions of the highest standard of worth, that it will be held in high esteem wherever it is used, and consequently we endorse it to every reader."

By force of merit alone Dr. Chase's Ointment has won its way into this wide, wide world, until it has made the name of Dr. Chase familiar in almost every home, and won for the venerable discoverer the title of "America's Greatest Physician."

Dr. Chase's Ointment has never been known to fail as a cure for piles. It matters not whether blind, itching, bleeding or protruding, Dr. Chase's Ointment is an absolute and perfect cure.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment is the discovery of the author of Dr. Chase's Receipt Book, whose portrait and signature is on every box of the genuine. 60 cents, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Rheumatism for years, and Nerviline is the only remedy that has done me any good." So writes Thomas McGlashan, North Pelham, July 24th, 1890, and his testimony is supported by thousands of others who have experienced the wonderful penetrating and pain subduing power of Nerviline—the great nerve pain cure. Nerviline is just as good to take as to rub on, and is the best family remedy in the world. Nerviline is sold by dealers everywhere.

HON. HUGH JOHN MACDONALD.

Conservative Leader in Manitoba in Montreal—Party Is All Ready.

Montreal, June 20.—Hon. Hugh John Macdonald arrived here last evening, and was warmly welcomed by a great number of friends. The Conservative leader states that it is highly improbable that the session of the Manitoba Legislature will be resumed, for he thinks the Government will bring on an election the last of July or the first of August. Mr. Macdonald says that the Premier is, however, yet undecided, and is en route for Ottawa to see what the Dominion Government can do to help the locals out of their trouble. If a dissolution is delayed the election will not be brought on till November. However, the popular leader says the party is ready and thoroughly united, let an appeal to the electorate come when it may. Mr. Macdonald says they have 90 of their candidates in the field, and the rest are ready to move at a day's notice.

B.C. LABOR PARTY IN ARMS.

Demand That Local Legislature Ignore the Japanese Bill Veto.

Vancouver, B.C., June 20.—The labor party in British Columbia are very indignant at the demand of the Dominion Government which compels the Provincial Government of British Columbia to rescind legislation prohibiting Japanese working in mines in British Columbia. Their agitators in Vancouver say that in another generation, unless British Columbia is allowed to legislate in her own interests, and if the head tax of Chinese is not made exclusive, there will be nothing left for white people in British Columbia. With this sentiment prevailing the Vancouver Council passed a resolution, in which they desired the British Columbia Legislature to ignore the Dominion Government's demand. As the labor party dominate the Government in the Canadian Pacific Province at present, no doubt the request of the Labor Council of Vancouver will be granted.

THE ODORLESS CREMATORY CLOSETS.

I have been appointed Sole Agent for the Odorless Crematory Closet manufactured by the Crematry Closet and General Heating Co., of Hamilton.

This Closet has found a place in many of the best homes in the province, and all who have used it cannot speak too highly of its merits. Medical men speak of it from a sanitary point of view, claiming that, if health is any consideration, no home should be without one. Here are some of the

TESTIMONIALS

Alliston, March 1st, 1898.

I have had one of your "Crematory Closets" in use now for several weeks and am glad to be able to say that I have found it entirely satisfactory in every respect. I have not been able to detect the slightest odor from it at any time and would not be without it. I am sure it must prove a great convenience to people in the country and in towns where water is not obtainable.

Yours respectfully, JAMES CONWAY.

Bheddon, February 28th, 1898.

I have used it for some time and find it perfectly odorless. It is a long felt want and I believe it will become very popular especially in rural districts, towns and villages where wells are so frequently contaminated by the ordinary closets. I am, yours, etc.,

A SCAFFOLD FELL AT THE "RAISING"

AND FIVE OF THE WORKMEN WERE SOMEWHAT INJURED.

An Accident at a Barn Raising at Mr. George Wood's, Near Bensfort—Injuries are not Serious.

An exciting, and what might have been a serious accident occurred on Friday last, the 16th, near Bensfort at a barn raising on Mr. Geo. Wood's farm. A scaffold gave way and a gang of men were precipitated to the ground. Several were injured. Mr. Wood, with the help of neighbors, was "raising" a new barn in the usual way and the frame was completed as far as the lifting of the purloin plates. For this purpose a temporary scaffolding was placed on the beams and covered with lumber sufficient to work on. The majority of the men were on this scaffold and had a purloin plate about five feet high. They had just commenced lifting it a second stage when the scaffolding gave way, precipating nearly all to the floor beneath. When the excitement of the crash was over it was found that four or five at least of those who fell were rather seriously shaken up. Amongst those who were hurt are John Emerson, Fred. Perrin, W. Wood, and Alex. Ferguson.

Mr. J. Emberson seems to have suffered the worst. His physician says his injuries will prevent him from getting to work again for at least six weeks. The building was completed later without further harm, but almost unlimited precaution was carefully considered in every movement.

His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it, he says: "I was taken with Typhoid Fever, that ran into Pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of Consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvellous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all Throat and Lung Trouble. 50 cents and $1.00. For sale by James Lynch, druggist, Hunter-st., Peterborough; every bottle guaranteed.

the Christians of the town, and Rev. Mr. Symonds wished it all success in this work. He would be pleased to see all study the theoretical side of the Christian unity agitation and urged them as well to watch and assist in its practical workings.

The chairman expressed the pleasure of the audience with the interesting remarks of Rev. Mr. Mr. Symonds and returned thanks for his reference to the Y.M.C.A.

The audience next had the pleasure of listening to a pianoforte solo by Miss Macdougall, of Toronto. It was marked by clever execution and the appreciation was shown by loud applause and Miss Macdougall responded with an encore number.

Mrs. Parker followed with a delightful pair of songs, one of Mendelssohn's and one of Rubenstein's. They were very sweetly rendered, the accompaniment being played with much expression by Mrs. Torrance.

Mr. Morphet's solo "Answer," which came next, was the last and one of the most pleasing numbers of the evening, Mr. Rodgers accompanying.

The audience dispersed after singing "God Save the Queen."

COUNTY COUNCIL IN JUNE SESSION.

only about ten years, will have to be re-floored during the coming season. If it had been originally floored with cedar I venture to say it would have lasted twice as long. Whilst it may be advisable to floor bridges with pine where traffic is heavy, country bridges should be floored with cedar, because the flooring rots out before it is worn out.

The thanks of the Council are due our representatives in parliament, Messrs. Lang and Kendry, in securing a grant of ten thousand dollars towards the rebuilding of the Chemong Lake bridge. The grant is of such a substantial amount that immediate action can be now taken without burdening the county to the extent anticipated.

My attention has been called by Mr. Shaw to the approaches on the Harvey side of the Gannon's Narrows ferry. The high water has washed out a portion of the approach, and it is at present dangerous for public travel. The question as to whether the county or the municipality of Harvey is liable for maintenance should be decided at once so that immediate action may be taken.

A resolution of the Council of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham in reference to the maintenance and care of the Bensfort bridge, and also in reference to a grant for repairs of a road between Cavan and North Monaghan will be submitted to you. General satisfaction is expressed as to the action of this council when in special session we assumed our share of the maintenance of this bridge.

The committee who have had in charge the consolidation of the By-Laws have completed their labours and will report to you at this session of the Council and submit for your approval some slight changes to by-laws. This has involved on our esteemed clerk, Mr. Pearse, a large amount of additional labour and deserves recognition.

I have been notified by Mr. P. W. Reynolds, treasurer of the Norwood Board of Education, that there was a serious mistake made in the statement of the amount claimed by the Board from the County for the County's share of the cost of the maintenance for 1898. Mr. Reynolds claims that there is still due to the Board $283.84, the particulars of which claim will be submitted to you.

I have received a petition from residents of the Township of Cavendish praying that a new school section be established in Cavendish.

This Council I think should have a new arbitration to adjust the amount payable by town to the county towards maintenance of court house, jail and registry office.

The Auditors' report and the estimates for the year will be laid before you, and I feel assured that they will receive as careful consideration from you as their importance demand.

On motion of Messrs. Pearce and Peck the Council was appointed as a Committee of the Whole to report on the Warden's address. Mr. Fitzgerald moved, seconded by Mr. Foster, that this Council visit the Chemong bridge in a body on Thursday morning to inspect with a view of erecting a new structure, and that the Councils of the town of Peterborough and the township of Ennismore, and the members of the Legislature be invited to be present.

The Council then adjourned until 9.30 o'clock to-morrow morning.

THE "HONEST" GAMBLER.

How New York Supplies Him With Crooked Tools of Trade.

"Cards and dice fixed to order," is the way a sign in the window of a shop in a New York side street reads. The man who in this open hearted way caters to men who prefer dishonesty to fair dealing is as free with his tongue as his sign is candid and with the casual visitor or would be customer will chat cheerfully about the tricks that are vain.

"Yes," he says, "I can give you anything you want in the line indicated by the sign in my window. What I haven't got in stock I can secure from an establishment in Union square. I keep on hand, however, all kinds of marked cards and loaded dice. I have cards that are so easily read by their backs that a child can tell what the other fellow holds. And, again, I have 'em fixed so cleverly and intricately that it will take a week's close study for a man to be able to read them by their backs. I have ordinary, everyday playing cards doctored up to the queen's taste, and I have special packs that are printed with the markings in them. And the low price at which I sell them places them easily within the reach of all.

"As for dice, I have sets that will throw any number desired. I can sell a man a double set, which he can manipulate to suit himself. One set comes low. The other comes high. The purchaser can allow his antagonists to use the low set, while he uses the other. Of course, he has to be very handy at palming or substituting to make the scheme work. It all rests with the man who buys. I guarantee my dice.

"Then, again, I have dice that are absolutely square and fair. They are transparent, and any one can tell at a glance that they are not loaded. I may say, however, that there is not much of a demand for this kind. Men who deal in my goods are usually looking for a shade the best of the bargain, and the loaded article is what they ask for. The transparent dice are made of celluloid and are absolutely the only dice that can be depended on nowadays.

"Crooked faro layouts or roulette wheels I do not keep in stock, but I can get them on short notice from a man who keeps a place in Union square. He is an expert and is doing a rushing business both here and in other cities. He fills orders from Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston and the southern cities and also sells to shrewd men in Europe. His goods are also guaranteed and are not at all difficult to manipulate when the secret is known.

"Illegal? Well, yes, I suppose so, when you come down to cases, but I never have been molested. Of course I do not use my own goods. I merely sell them and do not ask to what use they are to be put. Somebody will mark cards and load dice as long as gambling exists. I am merely catering to a want."

A Wicked Parrot.

A parrot that had grown old and gray and wicked was the property of a man who was delighted by the bird's uncanny speeches and yet was often annoyed by their rudeness. One day the rector of the parish came to call on the owner, and the bird happened to be in the room. The pastor was a short, fat man, with a smooth face, a clerical coat and a white tie.

For a time the bird was quiet, but suddenly, after some personal experience, related by the clergyman, the wretched creature squawked out, "Oh, what a lie!"

Of course Polly was punished, and severely, too, and for a time seemed to mend her wicked ways.

One day a friend of the family from out of town came to make a visit. As soon as he caught sight of Polly he at once tried to make friends with her. He was a short, fat man, with a smooth face, and Polly looked at him with her head cocked on one side in a decidedly wicked fashion.

But she didn't say a word.

Finally he turned away, and then that naughty parrot shrieked after him:

"You can't catch me, you old fool! Where's your white necktie?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

What, Indeed?

"There's no use trying to make anything out of a man who wears a No. 6 hat and No. 9 shoes."

"Perhaps not, but what are you going to do with the 'by Jove' fellow who wears No. 5 shoes and a hat that holds half a bushel"—Chicago News.

A NOVEL SCRAP BOOK

This is at Once Useful and Intensely Interesting.

A Toronto Man Owns It—The Record of Nearly Ten Years—First Volume now Complete and Ranging from the Covers.

Toronto, June 19.—A gentleman in this city has just completed the first volume of a most novel and intensely interesting scrap book. It is made up entirely of newspaper clippings. Each clipping contains the story of someone cured of some form of Kidney Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills. They were clipped as they appeared from Toronto papers only. The book is a thick one and is now full from cover to cover.

The owner who has made a study of Kidney Diseases and has taken an interest in the marvellous success of Dodd's Kidney Pills since they were given to the public nearly a decade ago, on the completion of the book conceived the idea of wrtiing to a number of the names chosen at haphazard from the volume, including some of the first ones, and in this way determining if cures by Dodd's Kidney Pills were permanent or not. Below is the first reply he received:—

Housey's Rapids, Ont.,
May 27th, 1899.

Dear Sir,—I am in receipt of your letter enquiring for my health. Well, sir, I will say right here on the start of this letter that I am cured of my Kidney Complaint. I have no doubt about it in the least. I weigh ten pounds more now than I did fourteen months ago and can do a fair day's work any day. I can say I am clear of my old enemy, lame back, heavy aching arms, dull, bloated eyes—yes, it is all gone, purged out by Dodd's Kidney Pills. The work was done fourteen months ago by taking six boxes of your life saving pills. I often wonder at the powerful virtue that the pills contain. I don't entertain the least doubt that what Dodd's Kidney Pills are said to do they will do every time. This is strong talk, but I can prove it all the same. If anyone is in doubt I request them to write me. The Dodd's Medicine Company is at liberty to use my name any time they wish. I request them to do so, so as it may help some despondent, doubtful sufferer to grasp Dodd's Kidney Pills like a gold field for that is what they are. Thanking you for writing me,

Yours truly,
G. C. CHALKER.

Only Thirty and Gray

How is this?

Perhaps sleepless nights caused it, or grief, or sickness, or perhaps it was care.

No matter what the cause, you cannot wish to look old at thirty.

Gray hair is starved hair.

The hair bulbs have been deprived of proper food or proper nerve force.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

Increases the circulation in the scalp, gives more power to the nerves, supplies missing elements to the hair bulbs.

Used according to directions, gray hair begins to show color in a few days. Soon it has all the softness and richness of youth and the color of early life returns.

Would you like our book on the Hair? We will gladly send it to you.

Write us!

If you do not obtain all the benefits you expected from the Vigor, write the doctor about it. He may be able to suggest something of value to you. Address, Dr. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

The Natal Volunteers Ordered to Get Ready for Active Service.

London, June 21.—The Cape Town correspondent of The Daily Mail says: The Natal Volunteers have been officially ordered to hold themselves in readiness for active service.

Soda Fountain Exploded.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 21.—Andrew Hammer, sr., 55 years old, was yesterday morning charging a soda fountain at his place of business No. 134 Beaver avenue, Allegheny. The carbonic gas tank exploded. Mr. Hammer was almost blown to pieces, his body being horribly mangled. He died half an hour later. The building was considerably damaged.

Vladimir's Frosty Reception.

St. Petersburg, June 21.—Grand Duke Vladimir, who was recently sent to Finland to inspect the troops there, was received unfavorably, even with hostility. Popular irritation in Finland over the Government's scheme to Russianize the province is daily becoming more pronounced.

The Arrival of Dreyfus.

Paris, June 21. — The approaching arrival of Dreyfus at Rennes is causing an influx of foreigners there. The hotels are besieged with applicants for rooms, which command immense prices. Dreyfus is expected to reach Brest early in the morning, and precautions have been taken to prevent anybody from seeing him either at Brest or at Rennes.

The Figaro says it understands Dreyfus will arrive at Rennes June 30, and that he will be landed elsewhere than at Brest.

The Grand Lodge C.O.O.F.

Ingersoll, Ont., June 21.—The Grand Lodge Canadian Order of Oddfellows met in the Town Hall here yesterday. Grand Master Robert Clark of Troy was in the chair, and nearly all other officers were in their places. About 100 delegates were present at the opening session, but many more will arrive before the most important sessions begin.

THE STRIKE AT CLEVELAND.

Sympathizers Did Some Queer Work to Non-Union Men.

Coupling Pins Used as Weapons Against the Men Who Tried to Run the Cars—Strikers Knocked Non-Union Conductors and Motormen Senseless and One Man Was Shot—The Weavers' Strike at Hespeler.

Cleveland, O., June 21.—Cars were running during the day on all lines opened by the Street Car Company since the strike. At 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon the special committee of the City Council appointed to try to settle the street car strike met the representatives of the strikers and the company. Pending preparations of the formal statement a recess was taken.

Riotous disturbances broke out about noon. A crowd boarded a Wade Park avenue car near Lindus and Anadale avenues and beat the non-union motorman into insensibility. The conductor deserted his car and fled. Another Wade Park avenue car was stoned and one on the Euclid avenue line was attacked. Many women were on board and shrieked with terror as the stones crashed through the windows. One woman fainted.

One Man Was Shot.

At the corner of Wilson avenue and Quincy street one man was shot and others had narrow escapes. The passengers escaped as best they could when the stones began to fly, but the conductor and motorman were struck repeatedly. The latter drew a revolver and fired three times into the crowd. He then put on all speed and ran his car out of the mob's reach. George Berg, jr., a striking conductor, was hit in the leg by a bullet. No arrests were made.

Use a Coupling Pin.

The crew of Scoville car No. 924 was badly beaten by ten men at 11 a.m. The car was on its way down town. At Wilson avenue one man got on, and at every crossing thereafter one or two more men boarded the car until there were ten passengers. While Harry C. Clark, the conductor, was taking up fares he was struck on the head from behind by a coupling pin in the hands of one of the passengers. Several of the other men then jumped on him and pounded him into insensibility. The others turned their attention to the motorman, John Clark. He was hit on the head and body and sank to the floor in an unconscious condition. At Hackman street the men all left the car. A block further on Clark recovered sufficiently to shut off the current and bring the car to a stop. After a short wait it was run back to the barn. Both men were badly hurt.

Company Refuses Arbitration.

Akron, O., June 21.—Not a street car was running on the Akron & Cuyahoga Rapid Transit lines yesterday. Some time ago there was a disagreement as to wages and the matter was referred to arbitration. The report, which was submitted last night, included a clause providing for arbitration in the future, and this the company refused to accept. The men held a meeting and then decided to strike. No effort was made to run cars yesterday.

THE HESPELER STRIKE.

The Weavers Will Present Mr. A. W. Brodie With an Ultimatum.

Hespeler, Ont., June 21.—The strikers of the A. W. Brodie woollen mills held a meeting in the council room last night to discuss the advisability of forming a union. The strike trouble was talked over and it was decided that a committee should call on Mr. Brodie this morning and present him with the written terms the weavers had come up to, and for the committee to await the proprietor's answer. The warpers also are out of work, the beams being all filled up, while present indications point to the whole manufacturing concern being closed down.

A BOOM FOR IMPERIALISM.

The Australian Colonies Voting on the Question of Federation.

Sydney, N.S.W., June 21.—The Australian colonies voted yesterday on the federation question. The struggle was most acute in New South Wales. Incomplete returns in this colony up to the present show 100,034 votes in favor of federation and 78,939 against it.

Sydney Votes for It.

Sydney, N.S.W., June 21.—The referendum on the federation question has resulted in 11,045 votes in favor, as against 10,551 opposed, in the city of Sydney. In the suburbs the voting was 24,458 in favor and 25,048 opposed, and in the country districts the returns, now practically complete, show 65,597 for federation, as against 44,055 opposed. The result has been received here with great enthusiasm, and the federation leaders are applauded and eulogized on all hands.

British Colonies Still in It.

Berlin, June 21.—The committee on the commercial proviso between Germany and England has rejected the Agrarian amendments to the measure. These provided that the English colonies be excepted from the benefits of the provisorium.

BETHUNE CHANGED HIS COAT

Member for Victoria, N.S., Says Liberals Are Conservative.

His Flop Is Discussed in the House and It Transpires That the Provincial Premier Now Ladies Out the Federal Patronage—Bergeron Gets After Mr. Blair, But Minister Blair Simply Sits and Smiles.

Ottawa, June 21.—The opening proceedings in the House yesterday were of a decidedly lively nature for a couple of hours, while Mr. Bethune was on the gridiron for his desertion of his party, the debate on the motion to adjourn, which caused the discussion of Mr. Bethune's change of parties being of a decidedly "scrappy" nature, hon. gentlemen saying things about each other which calm reflection may show them it would have been judicious to leave unsaid.

Bergeron Gets Back.

After this matter had been disposed of Mr. Bergeron called attention to some dismissals on the Beauharnois Canal, and in the course of his remarks said that the superintendent of the canal had informed him that Mr. Blair had said there would be a general election this fall, and he wanted the names of any supporters of Mr. Bergeron, so that they may be dismissed. The list had been furnished and dismissals had been made.

Mr. Blair sat and smiled, but said nothing.

In the Senate.

The Senate made some important amendments to the Criminal Code bill yesterday, amongst them being a change in the seduction clause, which adopts the English Act, a clause being added that anyone who seduces a girl of previously chaste character between the age of 16 and 18 shall be liable to one year's imprisonment.

Both Bills Will Carry.

The Drummond County and Grand Trunk Lease bills will probably come up to-morrow or Thursday.

From careful enquiry amongst the Senators your correspondent is led to the conclusion that both bills will be carried probably even without a division and after only a short debate. The general impression amongst the Conservative Senators seems to be that by throwing out the first bargain, and enabling the Government to make a second bargain, by which the purchase price of the Drummond County road was reduced $550,000, and there was a very material betterment in the agreement with the Grand Trunk, the Senate had done all that was required of it, and had fully justified the position it had taken two sessions ago.

IN THE COMMONS.

Ottawa, June 21.—At the opening of the House yesterday the receipt of a report of the Joint Committee on Printing was used in the usual manner, when Mr. Foster read a paragraph from The Halifax Herald about the Commons being supplied with the same kind of stationery used in the Senate. The circumstances of the case are that up to this year the stationery for both Houses has been bought by a sub-committee of the Joint Committee on Printing, which is composed of members of both Senate and Commons, and has been largely purchased in Scotland. Last year the Speaker of the Commons claimed the purchase of stationery for the commissioners as one of his prerogatives, and gave an order to Warwick Bros. & Rutter, the Senate continuing to purchase their stationery in Scotland. There have been complaints this year about some of the articles supplied, and there was a short discussion to-day, the upshot of which was that Mr. Speaker said that when the item for stationery has been reached in the estimates he would make an explanation if called on to do so.

Mr. Fitzpatrick's Proposition.

Mr. Fitzpatrick introduced his bill to amend the Exchequer Court Act, so as to overcome a difficulty which now exists with respect to the disposal of a railway which runs through more than one Province.

Representatives of Victoria, N.S.

Mr. McDougall read a letter from Hon. William Ross, which appeared in The North Sydney Herald, with reference to the exercise of patronage in Victoria County, N.S., represented by Mr. Bethune, who was elected at a convention, but lately crossed the floor, and now sits and votes with the Government. Mr. Ross, in his letter, explains that the patronage of the county is exercised by Premier Murray, and during Mr. Murray's absence by Mr. Ross. Mr. McDougall claimed that the county was practically unrepresented in the House, because the gentleman who was elected as a Conservative had changed his politics without any adequate cause, and was not sufficiently trusted by his new friends to be given the patronage of the county.

Taffied Mr. Bethune.

Mr. Fielding complimented Mr. Bethune on giving the Government an independent support, and said that gentleman had never asked to dispense the patronage of the county; that had been done by the defeated candidate until he had been appointed to an office. [Opposition laughter.] Since then Mr. Murray, the Premier of the Pro-

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 21, 1899.

WILL CELEBRATE ON SATURDAY

Co., moved an amendment that the Board of Trade take no action in petitioning the Town Council and that the holiday be kept on Saturday, July 1st. He argued that people were ready to sign any petition which came to them. Many of those who were on the petition were not enthusiastic in favor of it. Saturday had been declared a legal holiday by the Dominion and if an attempt was made to change there would be no holiday at all. Though there might be a small loss for the day it would make no difference in the year. The working class should be considered and be allowed the proper holiday. The holiday was for them.

Mr. M. L. Henry seconded Mr. Stock's amendment.

Ven Archdeacon Casey referred to the hospital picnic on July 1st. Some time ago he had consulted the Mayor and had been assured that the holiday would be observed on Saturday, especially as the excursions from Toronto were coming on that day. It would be impossible to change the date of the picnic, all arrangements having been made. Dominion Day was celebrated from patriotic motives and should be properly observed. It would not be fair to the clerks to make a change. If a change was made there would be no business done on either day. He felt that it would be grievous wrong to make at this late time a change that would greatly injure the picnic in aid of the hospital.

President Carnegie made an explanation. The meeting was a meeting of the Board of Trade. The petition that had been read was intended for the Council and not for the Board of Trade. But he believed it would be in order for those present to express an opinion as the Board of Trade and let it go before the Council.

President Carnegie then put the amendment that the holiday be observed on Saturday to a vote, asking that only members of the Board of Trade vote. The amendment was lost, there being five votes for it and seven against. The motion that the Council be asked to proclaim Monday the holiday was then put and carried by the same close vote, seven ayes and five nays.

IN COUNCIL.

The matter came up at the meeting of the Town Council an hour afterwards and was all changed. There was a fair attendance of members. The Mayor presided.

Ald. Neill stated that he had been asked to move in Council that the Mayor call for an observance of Monday as a holiday. He was personally opposed to closing his store on Saturday. He then presented the petition and backed it with a statement of the importance of a Saturday's receipts. He moved that the Mayor proclaim Monday a holiday.

Then the discussion was renewed and both sides presented arguments respectively for and against closing on Saturday. Mr. Fair was the first spokesman who urged that the holiday be observed on Saturday.

Mayor Davis stated he told Ven. Archdeacon Casey that he (the Archdeacon) would be warranted in going on with his preparations for the picnic on Saturday.

Ven. Archdeacon Casey thought the interests of the general public of the town should be considered as of more weight than those of the merchants alone. He thought that the interests of the workingmen were such that it behooved the Council not to change the holiday. The holiday was given by the Dominion and should be kept. Would the Americans have the Fourth of July postponed? He thought the merchants who had got up the petition had made a mistake.

Mr. Macfarlane Wilson stated that as one of the petitioners he was willing to withdraw if it was thought that the general interests demanded that the stores be closed on Saturday.

Mr. Neill consulted with the chief supporters of the petition and stated that he would withdraw his motion and that they would observe the holiday on Saturday. In the action they had taken they had desired not that no holiday be observed but rather in order that the merchants all observe the holiday on the same day. They were satisfied with the Saturday holiday if all observe it on that day.

So everybody will sing "The Maple Leaf Forever," on Saturday, July 1st.

A Great Conqueror.

Napoleon was a great conqueror of nations, but Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure is as great a conqueror of the human family's direct enemy — Rheumatism. Mr. John Hunter, 321 Brock St., Kingston, Ont., suffered intense agony for six weeks with Sciatic Rheumatism. Two bottles of Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure made a complete cure in his case. He has not had a twinge of pain since. This preparation is used internally. One bottle contains ten days' treatment, price 50 cents. For sale at all drug stores.

A BUSINESS CHANGE.

Messrs. Cinnamon and Everson Purchase the Business of Wards & Hall.

A new firm started business in Peterborough yesterday, when Messrs. Cinnamon and Everson took over the general hardware, stoves and tinware business of Wards and Hall, which they recently purchased. Both members of the firm are well known and experienced merchants, having carried on a hardware business at Oshawa for the last fifteen years. They have also a financial interest in a business in Lindsay and Sault Ste. Marie and do the buying for five stores in all. They will carry on the business they have purchased in the same stand, 392 George-st., but will make extensive changes. They will have the second floor fitted up as a show room, the present accommodation on the ground floor being found too limited. They will carry a full line of general hardware and stoves, mechanics' tools, builders' hardware, house furnishings, sporting goods, bicycles, etc., and the tinsmithing department will receive careful attention. The new firm is a valuable addition to Peterborough's business strength.

vince, had been consulted about appointments in Victoria County.

Cape Breton Unrepresented.

The member for Cape Breton (Mr. McDougall) seemed to think a county was unrepresented if its sitting member did not dispense the patronage of the county. If that was so Cape Breton was unrepresented, for he could assure him neither Mr. McDougall nor his colleague (Sir Charles Tupper) would be consulted about the patronage of Cape Breton County.

Sir Charles Tupper disclaimed for himself and Mr. McDougall any desire to control the patronage of the county and said it was quite proper for Mr. Murray to do so while Mr. Bethune was in Opposition. That was not the point. The point was that a gentleman elected as a Conservative had changed his seat in the House and had gone to the support of the party he was elected to oppose without making any statement to the House or his constituents as to his reasons for so doing. He had betrayed the trust reposed in him by his constituents and they would attend to that when the proper time came. He argued with the Government that Mr. Bethune had shown himself so unworthy of confidence that he was not fit to be trusted with the patronage of the county.

Why Bethune Jumped.

After some remarks by Messrs. Fraser, Gillies and others, Mr. Bethune said that he had gone over to the Government because he liked that side best. (Laughter.) He knew that his action was affirmed by two-thirds of his constituents, and, if any member of the House doubted it, let him resign his seat and contest Victoria with him. Amid considerable laughter, he said that he liked the policy of the Government because it was very much like the Conservative policy.

After a little scrap between Mr. McDougall and Mr. Bethune, the motion to adjourn, which had been moved by the former, was withdrawn.

The House then went into committee of supply, taking up the supplementaries for this year, with which fair progress was made, and afterwards passing a few items in the main estimates.

Mr. Maclean's Notice.

Mr. Maclean gives notice that on the third reading of the bill to incorporate the Niagara, St. Catharines and Toronto Railway Company he will move, "That the bill be not now read a third time, but that it be referred back to the committee of the whole House, with instructions to amend it so as to provide that the maximum passenger rate on said railway shall not exceed two cents per mile."

Money Lenders Protest.

Ottawa, June 21.—In the banking and commerce committee of the Senate yesterday morning Mr. Dandurand's usury bill came up from the sub-committee. Mr. St. Jean appeared for the money lenders and said that many merchants in Montreal, when their banking accounts were overdrawn, made loans on their personal cheques at a cent per cent. The bill stands for further consideration till Thursday.

BOERS ARE GREAT FIGHTERS

Lord Compton, Captain of Lancers, Tells About Them.

He Served Five Years in South Africa, and Knows Something of the Qualities of Oom Paul's Troopers—The Dutchmen Are Great Shots and Full of Courage —Circumstances Would Make Them Hard to Conquer.

Chicago, June 21.—Lord Cecil Douglas Compton, an English captain of Lancers, after a brief stay in Chicago, left for the east last night with his wife. Lord Compton served in South Africa for five years. He knows the Boers and their country, and has considered both critically from the standpoint of a military officer and student.

He spoke of the Transvaal problem merely as a military man. He said: "There are motives of fair play and humanity which make Great Britain exceedingly reluctant to interfere in South Africa by force. But it is only candid to say that considerations of a military character also operate to make us chary about rushing into a campaign, which must present the most formidable obstacles and involve questions of transport, supply and strategy that might stagger a military expert.

Boers Are Great Fighters.

"In the first place the Boers of the Transvaal are magnificent fighters. Their history has proved it, and they are fully up to their standard to-day. They are expert marksmen, born rough riders, such as your cowboys, and their courage and tenacity is undeniable. Individually they are as good military stuff as the world possesses. They also are thoroughly convinced of the justice of their cause, and would die to a man at the order of Oom Paul.

"But aside from their morale and their fitness, the Transvaal country is one admirably adapted for the purpose of defences. It is inland, with large uninhabited spaces. An army invading it must have a distant base and its supplies must be brought up through a semi-tropical country under the most disadvantageous conditions. Cape Town is a thousand miles from the Vaal River, and if an attack were to be made from Natal there would be mountains to work through and much tropical growth.

Transportation Question Serious.

"The question of transportation would be serious. We would need thousands of mules, which must be brought from South America. The ocean distance and the adverse climate will kill animals by thousands and the actual work would entail even greater losses.

"There is a question of strategy as well. The Boers would be difficult to hit in a mass. Indeed, they might not be mobilized in an European sense at all. In an arid, rocky country, filled with splendid shots, with no real objective point to capture, with a disaffected or actively hostile population on your flank or rear, the conquest of the Transvaal would be one of the most arduous undertakings we ever entered upon. In my opinion no less than 60,000 would be required. Your own Philippine war is not so difficult."

Dark Side of Klondike Life.

Port Townsend, Wash., June 21.—A number of Klondikers who arrived here in the steamer Dirigo present the dark side of Klondike life. They say that Dawson is crowded with idle men, who are willing to work for almost any wages. Thirty-five cents an hour and board yourself is the prevailing wages for common labor. They say there are hundreds of men who have nothing but beans and bacon to eat, with no prospect of securing work, and that the only way they will be able to get out of the country will be through Government assistance.

Lightning Freaks.

Kingston, Ont., June 21.—Lightning yesterday morning struck the belfry of St. Luke's Church, partly destroying it and a portion of the interior walls. The dwelling of Charles Parks, west of the city, was also struck and set on fire, but the downpour of rain extinguished the flames.

Edward McCabe, a farmer residing a few miles from the city, while walking through his dining room, suffered from an electric shock. He was knocked down and rendered unconscious.

Ontario License Holders.

Kingston, Ont., June 21.—The Ontario License Holders' Association met in convention at the Whig Hall yesterday for the discussion of matters pertaining to the interests of the trade. The association has now branches all over the provinces, most of which have representatives here.

THE LEGISLATIVE TOUR.

Hon. E. J. Davis Advises Increased Colonization Road Grants for Algoma.

Port Arthur, June 21.—The touring legislators enjoyed open-handed hospitality at Port Arthur, going via Port Arthur, Duluth & Western Railway. They visited the West End silver mine, which is running night and day, and turning out silver concentrates to be treated at Omaha and Newark, N.J., smelters. They visited Kakabeka Falls, which rival Niagara in wild magnificence, and took in three construction camps on the Ontario & Rainy River Railway.

During the public reception at the Northern Hotel last night, Mayor Marks presented an address of welcome, and speeches were made by Hon. G. W. Ross, W. H. Hoyle, James Conmee and John McKellar, ex-Mayor of Fort William.

Hon. E. J. Davis, in his speech, said he believed every member of the Legislature should vote for increased colonization road grants for Algoma.

Minister Ross on Algoma.

Fort William, Ont., June 21.—Speaking at the reception to the touring legislative representatives here last night, Hon. G. W. Ross made the strongest statements yet made in favor of aiding Algoma. He said he had seen enough to convince him that the Legislature should henceforth bend every energy to the completion of the Ontario & Rainy River Railway, which would open up the country undoubtedly rich in iron and gold, as well as agricultural belts. He favored the establishment at Fort William, Rat Portage and other points, of Government assay offices like that at Belleville, for the benefit of prospectors. He said he hoped soon to see smelters erected in this district, near the source of supplies of raw material, as well as at Hamilton and other eastern points. He likewise spoke in favor of the Legislature making liberal grants for colonization roads to open up the agricultural and mineral areas.

During the day the party had their eyes opened by the visit to fine farms and grazing lands near Thunder Bay.

The visitors were entertained last night at Kaministiquia Hotel, where Mayor C. W. Jarvis tendered an address of welcome.

Grain Elevator Burned.

Wellington, Ont., June 21.—James M. Squires' grain elevator was burned to the ground yesterday afternoon. By the heroic work of the men, his large pea house was saved. Cause of fire unknown. There is said to be some insurance.

PEN AND CHISEL.

Marie Corelli's real name is Eva Mary Mackay. She is the daughter of the late Charles Mackay, LL. D.

George Meredith has produced little more than an average of one book in every two years of his writing life.

It is profitable to be a fad, and Bessie Potter, the sculptor, became that in Chicago, where every other woman of wealth had a bust of herself made by the young sculptor. "Sketchy little statuettes" they are called.

Rudyard Kipling once sat in a London club listening to a discussion concerning the existence of God. He said nothing until toward the last and then, with a vehement gesture, said, "I know that there is somebody somewhere who gives us our licks." "Lick" is a colloquialism meaning punishment.

FAIR-VANDERBILT.

The New Yorkers are perverting the famous "F. F. V." to the Family of Fair-Vanderbilt. This is enough to make the very genius of aristocracy itself squirm.—Richmond Dispatch.

"Valuable heirlooms" are reported to have been lost in the Vanderbilt fire. But they could not have been very ancient. The Vanderbilt and Fair families are quite modern.—Baltimore Herald.

When witnesses are examined the Court insists that they shall tell only what they know, not what they think or believe. Time and again the wandering witness is brought back to the point by the stern voice of the judge: "Madam we are not interested in what you think, we want to hear what you actually know."

There's no such trouble experienced with the worthy women witnesses to the cures wrought by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. They know what they are talking about. Women who suffered from painful irregularities, from inflammation, ulceration, displaced organs, bearing-down pains, or any other form of female disorder, which undermines the health and shatters the nerves,—such women know when they are well and why they are well. They do not hesitate to say: "I know 'Favorite Prescription' cured me." There are half a million women witnesses like these:

"I am enjoying good health, thanks to your kind advice and valuable remedies," writes Mrs. Anna Willy, of Northville, Spink Co., S. Dak., (Michigan House). "I suffered very much with female weakness and other ailments for more than two years, when I wrote to you for advice. After carefully following your advice and taking six bottles each of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery' I am now a well and happy woman."

"I had been a great sufferer from female weakness" writes Mrs. M. B. Wallace, of Muenster, Cook Co., Texas. "I tried four doctors and none did me any good. I suffered six years, but at last I found relief. I followed your advice, and took four bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and eight of the 'Favorite Prescription.' I now feel like a new woman. I have gained eighteen pounds."

Sick women can consult Dr. Pierce without charge, and thus get the benefits of his long experience in diseases peculiar to women. Write freely. Write fully. Your letter will be treated as a sacred confidence, and its answer will be written with fatherly friendliness, as well as medical knowledge. Write without fear as without fee.

TO PETITION THE COMMISSIONERS

shortest notice possible, three months, to remove from the premises secured by him from the Commissioners.

Alderman Sawers hastened to second this motion, which was also carried.

The spectators present who resided in the vicinity of the stock yards applauded these passages at arms warmly.

The by-law arranging for the taxation of all electric companies for transmission of current was passed for the third time and signed.

Ald. McWilliams stated he believed a bill for about $20 had been passed at the last meeting providing for the payment of a couple of gentlemen who had made a valuation of the buildings of the Rubber Co. He as chairman of the Manufacturers Committee disclaimed all responsibility for that expenditure. He thought that the Rubber Co. had "jollied" Peterborough. He moved, seconded by Ald. Sawers, that a statement of all expenses in connection with the Rubber Co. be brought down.—Carried.

This brought Ald. Neill to his feet. He stated that Ald. McWilliams had recommended that something should be done to secure the Rubber Co. and it had been thought by several of the Aldermen to send gentlemen to make the valuation mentioned. There was a little bill that Ald. McWilliams had asked Mr. Neill to endorse, so Mr. Neill said, that it would not be well for it to be known.

Ald. McWilliams retorted that Ald. Neill might name any bill but the latter gentlemen declined to do so.

Mayor Davis and a deputation of the Council, likely Alderman McWilliams, Deane and Langford, will accompany the County Council to Bridgenorth on Thursday morning to consider the expenditure, including the Dominion grant, which is to be made upon the new Mud Lake bridge.

A matter re the sewer contract of Messrs. Wade & Kennedy was referred to the Board of Works with power to act.

The Council then adjourned.

His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. H. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it, he says: "I was taken with Typhoid Fever, that ran into Pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of Consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvellous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all Throat and Lung Trouble. 50 cents and $1.00. For sale by James Lynch, druggist, Hunter-st., Peterborough; every bottle guaranteed.

GREAT RIDING CONTEST.

Famous Equestrians to Contest for the world's Championship Belt.

Circus bareback riding is not what it used to be. No, not by a great deal. The remarkable evolution of modern time riders would prove a stunning surprise to the ancient equestrians could they but glance in at an up-to-date circus.

Without doubt the three greatest male bareback riders in the world are Oscar Lowande, of Buenos Ayres, South America; William DaMott, of Great America; and "Stick" Davenport, of this country. Numerous efforts to arrange an international riding tournament in which the famous equestrian kings could participate in a contest for the world's championship belt were fruitless, and it remained for a representative of the Forepaugh-Sells circus, after two years of negotiations, to close a contract with the riders to appear with that show throughout the present season.

However, this was only accomplished by an offer of a princely sum of money to the individual men and a costly diamond championship belt to the winner of the contest. Famous horsemen of eight cities, where the Forepaugh-Sells show will appear during the season, have been selected to act as judges of the tournament, and their decision of points will be accepted as final. When the season closes these points will be tabulated, and the rider will be awarded the championship belt, designed by Tiffany, the New York jeweler.

These noted riders will appear with the Forepaugh-Sells circus when it exhibits in Peterborough on Saturday, June 24, at which time a splendid opportunity will be presented to the citizens of this vicinity to witness a great equestrian exhibition.

THE OPENING OF THE SEASON

STONY LAKE COTTAGES FILLING UP FAST.

The Season Promises to be the Best Yet—The Lake Growing in Popularity With Visitors From Abroad.

A great many rules and observances affecting the public are unwritten. This is the case with the season at Stony lake and places of resort adjoining, and the rule agreed to is that the season shall be considered formally opened on and after June 15th. This season it would seem that accommodation, such as is available to the public, will be taken up early. There is no doubt that the locality is growing immensely in popularity, not only in Canada, but particularly with our American cousins across the border. The American knows a good thing when he sees it, he has generally the money to pay for the best, he tells his friends and brings them to share in the summer joys he has found. Already a large number have arrived, especially those who are owners of cottages at the Boschink end of the lake. At the Burleigh Falls hotel three or four parties to the number of 30 have taken rooms, while at Young's Point two parties numbering 15 have elected to stay. A number are arranging for rooms at the Morgan hotel at McCracken's Landing.

NOTES.

Mr. Wm. Loch, sr., went up to the lake on Tuesday to open up for the summer.

"Viamede," the popular place of Mr. W. M. Graham, is filling up. Notwithstanding the additional accommodation gained by erecting a large addition, nearly all the room available is spoken for.

Mr. D. Breeze has his houses open and guests are flocking in. His new steam yacht will go on duty next week.

Miss Brown and Miss Stewart have opened Fairy Lake villa and are ready to receive guests. The villa is sure to be popular.

The mails for Stony lake will go up by the morning boat until the 1st of July. Afterwards they will be sent by the afternoon boat.

The water is up above the record mark for June as yet, and not likely to fall for some time.

Juniper Island store is open and ready for business.

Mr. H. P. Gould and family are at "Woodcrest." A fine piano, to be delivered to Mr. Gould, was taken up on the Majestic on Tuesday.

Mr. Bobt. Neill has all the material, some 20,000 feet, for his new cottage on the ground. Work on the cottage will commence on Thursday. The building now erected will be used as a kitchen. When finished the cottage will be one of the smartest on the lake.

Mr. A. M. Allen, who hails from Kentucky, has bought Mr. Roland Strickland's cottage and is occupying it. Mr. Allan expects his steam yacht to arrive at the lake on Saturday.

Mr T S Cole, of Toronto, is at his cottage on Otter Island.

Dr D W Dumble was at "Ballyrackitt" getting things in shape for the season.

Dr Bonner, of Bethlehem, Penn., spent a part of last summer at the South Beach hotel, foot of clear lake. He was so well pleased with the locality that he has bought Mr Douglas' cottage on the river below Young's Point, and is having the place thoroughly repaired and brightened up, and along with his family and friends will occupy it during the season.

Mr T M D Croly took up a quantity of timber to commence work on a new cottage for himself, which he will build on the island south of Mr D Breeze.

The wind blew a gale over Stony lake on Tuesday. The lake was lashed with foam and the waves rolled a quantity of water into the bow of the Majestic. So heavy was the flow that a large quantity of freight destined for different cottages on the windward side of islands could not be landed, and had to be carried back on the boat to Lakefield.

The new steel steamer of Capt. Reynolds is nearly ready for launching. The hull is about finished and the engine and boiler have been placed in position. The boat is a fine model and promises to be very speedy.

—The Order of Railroad Conductors of the C.P.R. will hold a big excursion from Toronto to Peterborough on August 7th.

EASY TO FOOL US.

Discard Sight and Smell, and Water Will Pass For Coffee.

It would now seem from experiments which have been carried on in the University of Iowa that we do not taste many of the things which we eat at our daily meals. It is asserted confidently that we merely smell them. If the nose is tightly closed in the ordinary man and he is blindfolded, he will not be able to distinguish coffee from water or a weak solution of quinine. This has been proved by experiments made on many persons. Common coffee was said to be water; it was also said to be quinine. Water was said to be coffee. Tea was called coffee. Turkey was called pork. Raw apple was called grape juice. Malt extract was sherry wine. Lard was pronounced butter. In short, experienced persons were unable to distinguish many common foods and drinks when sensations of smell were removed, and the conclusion was reached that a person might even practice economy in eating by merely blindfolding the eyes and substituting lard, pork and beef for butter, turkey and venison, while if the further precaution was taken to close the nose, a very weak solution of quinine would pass for good coffee and vinegar for the most costly wine.

The experiments which led to these conclusions were carried on by Professor G. T. W. Patrick of the University of Iowa, who communicated some of the results of his work to the American Psychological society. Professor Patrick was enabled to attain great accuracy in his work by the fact that one of the persons he experimented upon was an anosmic—that is, absolutely devoid of the sense of smell. He was enabled thus to determine which sensations were those of taste and which were smell. He experimented also on normal subjects, and some of the results were surprising.

There are only four simple taste sensations—namely, sweet, bitter, sour and salt. It is said by some that there are only two, sweet and bitter. All other sensations which are commonly called tastes are complex results of sensation of smell, touch, temperature and sight. The means by which we distinguish almost all of our common foods and drinks is not the sense of taste so much as it is the senses of smell, touch and sight and temperature. All the fine differences by which we distinguish the various fruits, meats and drinks depend not upon taste at all, but upon these other senses. Pure sensations of taste add hardly more than a certain emotional element to the complex sensations.—Detroit Free Press.

A BALL OF FIRE.

The Queer Pranks It Played In a Telegraph Office.

"Electricity is like a mule in one respect," said a veteran operator. "You can never tell just when it's going to get up on its front legs and kick you into the middle of next week. I remember years ago, when I was night chief operator at the office in Richmond, a very strange thing happened. I was sitting at my table one night at about 11 o'clock waiting for it to stop raining so I could go home. There was a big storm up the line, and, while we didn't feel it to any great extent in the city, the lightning had been playing the mischief with the wires in the office and several of the connections had burned out.

"All of a sudden I heard a strange snapping sound at my instrument, and next thing I knew a flash of bluish white fire lit up the whole room. Then a globe of flame about the size of an orange seemed to spring from the armature and began to roll slowly over the top of the table. As nearly as I can describe the thing, it was like a globule of molten metal, glowing through and through with incandescent fire and shimmering with every color of the rainbow. It was beautiful to look at, and fascinated me like a snake. Moreover, it seemed as fragile as a bubble—as if a touch would shiver it to atoms—and without thinking I reached for it with a wooden ruler.

"Luckily my assistant had more sense, and he yelled at me so frantically that I stopped before I touched it. Just then the fiery ball reached the edge and rolled off. As it struck the floor it shattered like a drop of quicksilver and suddenly disappeared. When I recovered my senses and looked at the table, I was shocked. The instrument was a wreck and the track of the electric apparition was charred into the wood half an inch deep. If I had prodded it, I wouldn't be telling the story, for the ruler had a metal edge, and I would certainly have been electrocuted then and there.

"I have heard of such fire balls from a few old operators, but that's the only one I ever saw, and I'm not yearning to see another. Nobody has ever been able to explain them. Of course the time I speak of was before the introduction of improved current arresters, and nowadays such visitors are pretty effectively barred out."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Feel Lobster.

"I think the biggest fool in water is a lobster," said an old Virginia oyster shucker. "I suppose you know how we catch lobsters in the sound? Take a box, bore holes in the side of it and sink it. Put out your buoy so you'll know where to find the box. Leave the box sunk all night and go out next morning and haul it up, and you've got a box full of lobsters. And the funny thing about it is that they go into the holes backward. Even people will put their heads into holes where they are looking, but it takes a lobster to back into a hole, and they keep on doing it. Fish are smart. You'd have to play with them to get them to bite. But lobsters, they back right into your arms. Biggest fools that live."

The Well Bothered Him.

A Hartford lawyer tells of a client in one of the adjoining towns who had a farm to sell. He had recently sunk a well on it, and the job cost quite a sum; consequently, when he talked of disposing of his property, the well caused him considerable anxiety.

"How much do you ask for the farm?" the lawyer asked.

"Waal, I'll tell yer," drawled the farmer; "I'll sell the dern place for $700 with the well, and I'll let it go for $600 without the well."

Keeping In Condition.

"John, John; wake up! I hear burglars down stairs."

"Lemme 'lone, Laura; you know I'm booked for that football match. I can't go down and get all banged up by those fellows."

Robert Barr once offered to lay Julian Ralph a wager that if he would step off a train anywhere in England and, at any three houses he chose to stop, would ask the question, "Have you any relative in America?" two replies out of three would be "Yes."

Doctors now agree that consumption is curable.

Three things, if taken together, will cure nearly every case in the first stages; the majority of cases more advanced; and a few of those far advanced.

The first is, fresh air; the second, proper food; the third, Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil with hypophosphites.

To be cured, you must not lose in weight, and, if thin, you must gain. Nothing equals Scott's Emulsion to keep you in good flesh.

BEE BUZZES.

Tall sections require more honey to fill them.

The average life of a queen bee is about 3½ years.

Feeding should begin as soon as warm weather sets in.

Old queens may be moderately productive early in the spring.

Some queens are better at 3 years old than others are at 2 years.

Young queens are the most prolific and are less inclined to swarm.

Bee feeding must be done regularly in order to secure the best results.

Stimulative feeding is the means by which colonies are made strong.

Bees should be kept on every farm, if for no other purpose than to fertilize the blossoms of the fruit trees.

While in some respects thick separators are better than thin ones, a strong argument in favor of thin separators is that they are so thin that they can be thrown away when used once.

The body and flavor of the honey are largely due to the method of handling it. This is especially true of the body, an important factor in the make up of a fine quality of extracted honey.—St. Louis Republic.

THE CYNIC.

It is safe to suspect a man who talks too much about his fairness.

No man can pay a woman a compliment that will sink as deep into her memory as those paid by her milliner.

If a superstitious man is single, everything is a sign of marriage, but after he marries everything is a sign of death.

When a bore takes up a good deal of a man's time, the man who was bored takes up the time of those around him in complaining about it.

About all the consolation a man has is that when his widow reads on his tombstone that he was a good husband she may be convinced at last.

An eligible widower is like an empty house—every one wonders how soon it will be for rent and if it would prove a desirable investment to move in.

The eyes of all the women in town are on the first clothes a man buys his wife to see if they are cheaper or more expensive than those her father bought her.—Atchison Globe.

POULTRY POINTERS.

Keep all young fowls dry.

Give the hens all the skimmilk you can.

A pair of geese should yield $2 worth of feathers in a year.

A little salt in the soft food given to the fowls will be acceptable.

Young poultry of no kind should be allowed to wade around in the wet grass.

Pigeons will thrive in small yards. They must be mated or an extra male will cause them to quarrel.

In selecting the breeding fowls, if the hens are somewhat dark, let the cocks be lighter, and if the hens are heavy use a lighter cock.

Geese may be picked every ten weeks. Old geese should be kept for breeding and the young ones for marketing as soon as they are large enough.—St. Louis Republic.

No Right to Ugliness.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, eyes, smooth, velvety skin, rich complexion. It will make a good-looking, charming woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50 cents. For sale by James Lynch, druggist, Hunter-st., Peterborough.

It Was Wasted on Him.

He was a callow youth and assumed many liberties.

"Ah, Lucy," he said to a young woman with whom he was somewhat acquainted, "you look tired. What you been doing?"

"Hunting a flat," she answered.

"And did you find one?" he asked.

Her eyes snapped.

"I found one," she replied with a meaning look.

But of course, he didn't see the point of it.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Why He Looked at It.

Mr. Upson Downs (seated by a stranger in railway carriage)—What time is it by your watch, if you please?

Stranger—I don't know.

"But you just looked at it."

"Yes, I only wanted to see if it was still there."—Wasp.

NO TRIP TO ROCHESTER.

The 57th Battalion Will Not Go Away—A Church Parade—A Full Inspection.

There was a parade of seventy or eighty men at the drill shed last evening when the 57th Battalion paraded for regular drill. There were several recruits learning the "goose step" and the men were practiced in company drill.

After "orders" had been read Lt.-Col. Bell addressed the men. He said the officers in talking of the trip to Rochester had made it conditional on the ranks filling up in time to allow the Battalion to make a creditable showing by July 4th. The numbers had not been satisfactory, and therefore the officers had decided that the trip was out of the question. He knew there were many men in the ranks who would not want to see the Battalion go away, especially to a city of a foreign country, unless it could make a creditable showing, and they would agree with the officers in the decision arrived at. If any men had enlisted purely because the trip was in prospect and had no higher motive they could apply to the Adjutant and they would receive their discharge at once. A church parade had been ordered for Sunday, July 2nd, and he hoped the men would turn out. After that it was proposed to discontinue drill during the warm months, resuming in the fall, when something in the shape of amusement, as well as drill, was contemplated by the officers.

The orders read were as follows:—

HEADQUARTERS,
PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO,
20th June, 1899.

Orders by Lt-Col. R. W. Bell, commanding 57th Batt. of Infantry, P.R.

No. 1. Detail of duty for week ending July 1st: Subaltern for the week, Lieut Clurton. Next for duty, Lieut. Walker.

No. 2. The Battalion will parade on Sunday, July 2nd, at 3 o'clock p m, with both bands, to attend divine service at St. John's church.

No. 3. The commanding officer has been pleased to make the following promotions:—"E" Co.—To be sergeants provisionally, Corps. Trantler and W Roberts, vice Murphy and Roberts, left limits. To be corporal provisionally, Pte. Cousins, vice Roberts, promoted.

By order,

TO PETITION THE COMMISSIONERS

TO TERMINATE THE LEASE HELD BY MR. KENNEDY.

The Interests of the Residents of the South Ward Well Looked After by Ambitious Alderman—No Sewer Connection for the Stock Yards—Business Done in Council.

The meeting of the Town Council last evening was not of the happy family order. Almost all the aldermen seemed to have their knives sharpened for their fellows and disagreements were numerous. A great deal of time was spent by those present in stating their positions on various matters, chiefly, however, the Kennedy cattle market, and it looked as if no one wanted to be outdone in making himself popular by showing himself a friend and protector to the residents of the south ward.

There were present Mayor Davis, and Ald. Best, Danne, Langford, Neill McWilliams, Corkery and Sawers.

After the Dominion Day matter had been disposed of the followig report of the Property and Market Committee was brought in by Ald. Sawers:

Your Property, Market and Health Committee beg leave to report as follows:—

1. In reference to Mr. Kennedy's application for a connection with the Rink-st. sewer, as Mr. Kennedy does not state for what purpose he wants the connection, or how he proposes to use it, your Committee with the information it has at present cannot recommend that it be granted.

2. That as your Committee does not think it advisable to have a boathouse near the powder magazine, they cannot recommend that Mr. W. M. Jones' application for permission to erect one there be granted.

Ald Sawers moved the adoption of the report with the exception of the first clause.

Touching this, Alderman McWilliams moved that the report be amended by stating that Mr. Kennedy do not receive any permission to connect with the sewer. The Council had refused to give Mr. Kennedy the lots but the Commissioners had overridden the action of the Council and the Council was now justified in blocking the cattle yard scheme by any means.

Ald. Sawers expressed similar sentiments, and seconded the amendment, which was carried.

Alderman Langford thought the last two speakers were talking for effect. The report as presented gave no concessions to Mr. Kennedy It denied his request and there was no need for any amendment.

Ald. McWilliams thought no man talked to the back benchers more than Ald. Langford. The speaker believed that the report as presented left a loophole and that was why he moved his amendment.

Ald. Langford went one better. He moved that the Council ask the Commissioners to give Mr. Kennedy the Provincial Oil and Varnish Co, Limited, Makes an Offer.

Mr. W. A. Stratton, representing the Provincial Oil and Varnish Co., Limited, appeared before the Town Council in committee last evening and asked for the grant for a building site of that portion of the town property recently granted to the Stanley Piano Co., the latter now waiving their claim. He stated that the company proposed to construct a brick building 40 ft. by 100 feet, 3 storeys, with annex 16 ft. by 20 ft., sheds, cooperage and varniah shop. They expected at the end of the year to double their capacity. The capital stock of the company is $100,000 a large number of the stockholders being Peterborough people. They asked a deed of the land. This was evidently not agreeable to the Council and they suggested a lease with right to buy. No agreement was reached. Mr. Stratton state afterwards that nothing but a deed would satisfy those interested in the enterprise.

POWER FOR CRUSHER.

A Communication From the Auburn Power Co.

At the committee meeting of the Council last night the following letter, which speaks for itself, was read:

Peterborough, June 20, 1899.

To A. L. Davis, Esq.,
Mayor.

Dear Sir,—As that portion of The Review's report of the proceedings of the Town Council last evening under the heading of Rentals for Streets, is caclulated to convey the impression that the town could not get "power for its crusher," on reasonable terms, I beg to call the attention of the Council, through you, to the fact that the Auburn Power Company last year supplied the power required for the same free of charge, and that with regard to the present year I have (after consultation with Mr. Kendry) informed Mr. Hay that the Auburn company are prepared to leave it to Mr. Hay himself, to fix what would be a fair remuneration for the services rendered.

Yours,
J. CARNEGIE,
Pres. A. P. Co'y.

WILL CELEBRATE ON SATURDAY

MERCHANTS DECIDE TO CLOSE STORES ON SATURDAY, JULY 1ST.

The Market Will be Held on the Friday Preceding—Discussion on the Subject at the Meetings.

The matter of the Dominion Day holiday was threshed out last evening, first at a general meeting under the auspices of the Board of Trade and later before the Town Council. The proceedings were interesting.

President Carnegie presided at the Board of Trade meeting and explained the purpose of the meeting briefly.

Mr. Robert Fair spoke in favor of observing the holiday by closing the stores on Saturday. He gave several reasons, first, because some few years ago the Queen's Birthday fell on Saturday and many declared for a Monday holiday and the petition was granted but the result of the confusion was that the stores were kept open on both days; secondly, Friday could be held as market day; the cheap railway rates come in force for Saturday; the matter is being sprung too suddenly. For all these reasons Mr. Fair thought the holiday should be observed on the day on which it falls and that Friday could be advertised as market day.

Mr. Macfarlane Wilson spoke for those petitioners who desired to have the holiday observed on Monday and the stores kept open on Saturday. The merchants could not see why they should sacrifice a good day's business on Saturday for a celebration which might as well be held on another day. The petition that had been got up showed that the marchants were almost unanimously in favor of celebrating on Monday. It was a matter of regret if the attractions that have been arranged should be interfered with but he did not see that it could be helped.

Mr. H. Le Brun found fault with the agitators of the change. He was one of the oldest merchants of the town and yet he had not been called upon by those who got up the petition. He did not know any reason why he had not seen the petition, especially as he was always willing to do as the majority desired.

The following resolution was then moved by Mr. Macfarlane Wilson, seconded by Mr. R. Kerr:

"Owing to the fact that Dominion Day this year falls on Saturday, the principal business and market day of the town, be it hereby resolved that his worship the Mayor be requested to proclaim Monday, July 3rd, as a public holiday to be observed by the business houses and manufacturers of the town of Peterborough instead of Saturday, July 1st, believing it will be to the interest of the town generally as well as more profitable for the merchants and more convenient for the farming community."

Mr. H. W. Stock, of A. Mercer &

JUDGMENT TO BE GIVEN ON FRIDAY

MR. JOHN NUGENT CHARGED WITH PRACTISING MEDICINE.

A Case of Unusual Interest in Police Court—The Results of a Detective's Search—Judgment Reserved.

A case of unusual interest was heard at the police court this morning when it was charged that Mr. John Nugent, druggist, did "for hire, gain and hope of reward, practice and profess to practice medicine by prescribing," not being registered therefor. The information was laid by Detective Macpherson, of Toronto, acting under Detective Wasson for the Ontario Medical Council.

The charge was read of practicing medicine, the definite charges being of prescribing for Jas. Mapherson, the detective, and Mr. Robt. Goheen. Mr. Nugent pleaded not guilty.

The Chief then read over quite a large number of witnesses who had been served and as several were not present County Crown Attorney first asked for an adjournment but, a number of the missing ones then coming in, the case was proceeded with.

Detective Macpherson was the first witness. His evidence was mainly as follows:—He came to town last Saturday and called at Mr. Nugent's drug-store. He complained to the barkeeper at the Morgan House that his leg was troubling him and the barkeeper advised him to see Mr. Nugent. He went to Mr. Nugent and showed him his leg in the back shop. Mr. Nugent called it eczema, made him up a bottle, gave him a lotion and charged him forty cents. The detective had the bottle in court. He stated that he had found the medicine very good. The witness was then cross-examined by Mr. Stratton. He had represented himself as a traveller selling harness fixtures. He did not know whether he, the witness, had been speaking to the witnesses or not. He had no prescription on going into Mr. Nugent's.

Robt. Goheen was the next witness. He works in the electric works. He had visited Nugent's shop for medicine, the last time being about two months ago. He had a recipe from Dr. Chase's recipe book and got a bottle made from it. Chase's was doing him no good and Mr Nugent had given him another bottle, the witness having asked for something else. Did not know whether it was a patent medicine on was labelled by Mr. Nugent. His memory was very defective and the prosecuting attorney made little out of him. He took the bottle back to be filled more than once.

Hattie Fanning swore that her sister, Sarah Fanning, was ill last January. She refused to have a doctor and the witness went to Mr. Nugent and told him that her sister had la grippe. He made up a bottle and wrote directions on it.

Mrs. Aikens stated that her child had the grippe in the winter. She went down and asked for quinine and got it from one of the clerks.

Mrs. Kingscote stated that Mr. Nugent had come to her house with an elastic stocking, which Dr. Young had ordered for her. She had also got zinc ointment but it was on her own suggestion.

Mr. Wood stated that this was the case. There were two informations but the prosecution desired only one conviction. It was not a case of persecution.

Mr. Stratton submitted that no case had been made, especially in the Goheen charge. In this there was no case whatever.

In the case of the detective there was some evidence but he would put Mr. Nugent in the box.

Mr. Nugent testified that on the 17th Mr. Macpherson had asked for "Doctor Nugent." Mr. Nugent replied that he did not know such a man. Mr. Macpherson stated that he had been recommended to "Dr." Nugent. He also intimated that he had a rash on his leg. Mr. Nugent repeated that he was no doctor but that he could give something for it. The witness had turned into the back shop and the detective had followed him in and pulled up the leg of his trousers. Witness had then put up the mixture for the detective and put it up before him in the shop. It was his own mixture for rash and he had used it for years. Cross-examined by Mr. Wood the witness stated that he believe 'he had gone into the back shop first. He did not believe that he said, "Let me see it." He did not know who mentioned eczema. He did not say to Mr. Macpherson that there was a dispute among the doctors as to the cause of eczema. The lotion in court was the only lotion for

JUDGMENT TO BE GIVEN ON FRIDAY

MR. JOHN NUGENT CHARGED WITH PRACTISING MEDICINE.

A Case of Unusual Interest in Police Court—The Results of a Detective's Search—Judgment Reserved.

A case of unusual interest was heard at the police court this morning when it was charged that Mr. John Nugent, druggist, did "for hire, gain and hope of reward, practice and profess to practice medicine by prescribing," not being registered therefor. The information was laid by Detective Macpherson, of Toronto, acting under Detective Wasson for the Ontario Medical Council.

The charge was read of practicing medicine, the definite charges being of prescribing for Jas. Mapherson, the detective, and Mr. Robt. Goheen. Mr. Nugent pleaded not guilty.

The Chief then read over quite a large number of witnesses who had been served and as several were not present County Crown Attorney first asked for an adjournment but, a number of the missing ones then coming in, the case was proceeded with.

Detective Macpherson was the first witness. His evidence was mainly as follows:—He came to town last Saturday and called at Mr. Nugent's drug-store. He complained to the barkeeper at the Morgan House that his leg was troubling him and the barkeeper advised him to see Mr. Nugent. He went to Mr. Nugent and showed him his leg in the back shop. Mr. Nugent called it eczema, made him up a bottle, gave him a lotion and charged him forty cents. The detective had the bottle in court. He stated that he had found the medicine very good. The witness was then cross-examined by Mr. Stratton. He had represented himself as a traveller selling harness fixtures. He did not know whether he, the witness, had been speaking to the witnesses or not. He had no prescription on going into Mr. Nugent's.

Robt. Goheen was the next witness. He works in the electric works. He had visited Nugent's shop for medicine, the last time being about two months ago. He had a recipe from Dr. Chase's recipe book and got a bottle made from it. Chase's was doing him no good and Mr Nugent had given him another bottle, the witness having asked for something else. Did not know whether it was a patent medicine on was labelled by Mr. Nugent. His memory was very defective and the prosecuting attorney made little out of him. He took the bottle back to be filled more than once.

Hattie Fanning swore that her sister, Sarah Fanning, was ill last January. She refused to have a doctor and the witness went to Mr. Nugent and told him that her sister had la grippe. He made up a bottle and wrote directions on it.

Mrs. Aikens stated that her child had the grippe in the winter. She went down and asked for quinine and got it from one of the clerks.

Mrs. Kingscote stated that Mr. Nugent had come to her house with an elastic stocking, which Dr. Young had ordered for her. She had also got zinc ointment but it was on her own suggestion.

Mr. Wood stated that this was the case. There were two informations but the prosecution desired only one conviction. It was not a case of persecution.

Mr. Stratton submitted that no case had been made, especially in the Goheen charge. In this there was no case whatever.

In the case of the detective there was some evidence but he would put Mr. Nugent in the box.

Mr. Nugent testified that on the 17th Mr. Macpherson had asked for "Doctor Nugent." Mr. Nugent replied that he did not know such a man. Mr. Macpherson stated that he had been recommended to "Dr." Nugent. He also intimated that he had a rash on his leg. Mr. Nugent repeated that he was no doctor but that he could give something for it. The witness had turned into the back shop and the detective had followed him in and pulled up the leg of his trousers. Witness had then put up the mixture for the detective and put it up before him in the shop. It was his own mixture for rash and he had used it for years. Cross-examined by Mr. Wood the witness stated that he believe the had gone into the back shop first. He did not believe that he said, "Let me see it." He did not know who mentioned eczema. He did not say to Mr. Macpherson that there was a dispute among the doctors as to the cause of eczema. The lotion in court was the only lotion for —The leader of the George-st. choir requests a full attendance at rehearsal to-morrow, Thursday, evening as matters of importance to the choir are to be discussed.

—A bicycle rider struck an old gentleman at the corner of George and Hunter-sts. to-day about one o'clock but neither were seriously hurt.

—An excursion from Fenelon Falls arrived in town on a G.T.R. special this morning. The majority of the excursionists picnicked in Nicholls park.

—Mr. Allan Graham, formerly of town and late of Grand Forks, Dakota, intends opening up a clothing and gents' furnishing store in Lindsay about July 15th.

—Lindsay citizens will vote on a by-law to raise $45,000 to make permanent improvements in streets, build a fire hall, improve town hall, and purchase park in each ward.

—The 57th battalion band will give a concert in Chemong park this evening and a visit to the park should be a matter of much pleasure. Busses will run up from the post office for those desirous of going.

—An old resident of the town made a suggestion to-day which might do much to rid the country of the troublesome pest the caterpillers. The suggestions is that after the caterpillars have changed into butterflies, if small fires were lighted about, they would flock to them and then destroy themselves by flying into them. It is a good suggestion and people would do well to act upon it when the time comes.

Idyl Wyld Summer ....Resort
RICE LAKE, ONTARIO.

THIS Beauty and Beautiful Inland Summer Resort will re-open for the season of 1899 on June 12th, under entirely new and up-to-date management. Important new additions to the building and hotel equipment have been effected. Twenty new Bed Rooms, Sitting Rooms and Writing Rooms have been added, and entirely refurnished in modern style. Broad balconies extend around each of the two new stories erected, affording picturesque views of the surrounding scenery.

The cuisine will be a special feature—fresh meat, fresh fish, fresh eggs, milk and butter, as well as wholesome vegetables and fruit in abundance, necessitated by a robust appetite, sharpened by the ozone and continual breeze of this idyllic spot.

Good bass and muskinonge fishing are along the shore and lake. No charge for Americans fishing—no permits required. Boats and competent guides furnished. The inland steam launch "Outlet Queen," can be engaged for cruising and sailing parties. The Park is open for excursion parties, whether public or private. Tables and Seats for picnic parties are all over the ground in shady groves. Come and spend your summer vacation at Idyl Wyld, and for your life don't miss it.

After several attempts Archibald Reid of Toronto recovered the body.

Samuel Bayley, an 18-year-old lad employed in Barchard & Co.'s box factory at 124 Duke street, Toronto, met a shocking death on Tuesday evening while at his work. Bayley was engaged in removing sawdust from underneath the saws, and not thinking that the saw was running, or forgetting his danger, he reached his head up and came in contact with the rapidly revolving saw. His head was completely cut in two down as far as his ears, severing the skull and crushing the brain. He lingered from 7 o'clock until 9.30, when death ended his sufferings.

Papering the Wall.

Often the housekeeper desires to paper a ceiled partition or wall, and it is very vexatious to have the paper crack off, as it is almost certain to do. Various expedients have been tried, including papering over the wood with newspapers, pasting strips of cloth over the cracks, etc., all of which have been found unsatisfactory. The best way, the only really successful way, is to cover the entire wall with cloth, the cheap 3 cent muslin being as good as any, and put it on not with paste, but with upholstery tacks, which are small and flat headed and do not show under the paper. Put the muslin on in strips as you do the paper. If you wish to paper a ceiling, seam the breadths of muslin together, tack it at one end and stretch it tightly to the other. Tack that end and then drive tacks a foot apart all over the surface. Then it is ready to paper.

One Needed Rest.

"Your husband needs rest, madam," said the doctor.

"I know it!" she exclaimed triumphantly. "I've told it to him 40 times a day for the last two months if I have told it to him once. I've just kept telling it to him all the time. John, how many times have I told you that you need rest?"

"On second thought," interrupted the doctor, "perhaps it would be better if you rested."

MISS CAPRICE.

BY ST. GEORGE RATHBONE

Author of "Doctor Jack," "Doctor Jack's Wife," "Captain Tom," "Miss Pauline of New York," Etc.

Slowly the crowd disperses. Lady Ruth completely ignores the colonel, but that veteran is not crushed by any means. He watches the capricious maiden with a quizzical light in his eye, which shows that he has not yet lost confidence in the kindness of fate, or his own charms as a beau.

Lionel Blunt's success in life has come from the fact that he has ever been ready to watch his chance and take advantage of every possible opportunity.

So night settles over Malta, over the dreamy, blue Mediterranean, over the singular city of Valetta, where this little company of tourists have been temporarily marooned, and where Doctor Chicago, aided by fate, has been enabled to make his first charge upon the heart of the proud English girl, Lady Ruth.

CHAPTER IV.

It is a night of nights, destined to mark, as with a white stone, the progress of at least two life currents that have until recently flown contentedly on, each in its own individual channel.

Valetta, being a city of the Italian school, makes much ado over the coming of Lent. The people, as if to prepare for six weeks of fasting, indulge in all manner of feasting.

Even the Mohammedans, who are present in no small numbers, join the festivities, for they, too, have a period of fasting, according to the example set by the prophet, and commanded in the Koran.

Hence Valetta is very gay when night comes on; fancy Chinese lanterns hang in the streets, music is heard on every hand, and laughing, good-natured crowds jostle elbows in a way that would horrify a high-caste Hindoo.

Valetta has long been known as the headquarters of the famous Order of Malta. The representative commanderies of different nations have their inns, each called an auberge, on the principal streets, while the palace of the grand master is three hundred feet on each side, facing four streets, with a large square in front known as the Piazza St. Giorgio.

A small tower on the top known as the Torretta is used as a station from which men-of-war are signaled.

Everywhere can be seen the insignia of this ancient order, the white Maltese cross on a blood-red field, arousing thoughts of men in armor, the crusades, and much that is stirring and romantic in the history of the centuries that are gone.

A student of history would find much to entrance him in this peculiar hill side city on the British Island of Malta.

Supper is served at the hotel just as night comes on, and John Craig, M.D., has managed to eat in an unconcerned way, talking with his friends and trying to appear unconscious of the fact that two score of curious eyes are upon him, the incident of the afternoon having spread like wild-fire among the rest of the delayed steamer's passengers who stop at the hotel.

This is the first time the young master of medicine has found himself the center of observation, and he comes through the ordeal very fairly, as Lady Ruth informs him laughingly, when they, by chance, leave the dining-room together.

Another ordeal awaits John. In the parlor he finds the mother of the boy whose life he saved. She cannot talk much English, and John is hardly at home in Arabic or the mixed language used by the Maltese.

When two persons are very much in earnest, they manage to get on, and the poor woman calls down the blessings of Heaven on his head ere she leaves.

"I wish all this were over," he laughs, rejoining the English girl.

"Make the most of it, doctor," says the colonel, sauntering up with a choice weed between his teeth; "such occasions come rarely and had better be appreciated. Take the advice of an old campaigner, and make hay while the sun shines."

"Oh, I mean to, colonel," replies John, and there is a hidden meaning in his words that causes the officer to look at him steadily and mutter:

"Hang the boy! I really believe he expects to enter the lists against me. Colonel Lionel Blunt, who carries a Victoria Cross and knew what a love affair was before he was born. Well, the end is not yet, and he laughs loudest who laughs last."

All of which is very true, and proves that the colonel of Royal Engineers does not mean to let the opportunity pass.

A few minutes later John and Lady Ruth stand on the piazza of the hotel. The scene is well worth looking at, with its many lights, bright colors, and constantly changing crowds.

She expresses surprise, and seeks an explanation, which fortunately the young doctor is able to give, thanks to certain information he picked up in scanning his guide book.

"In time of peace prepare for war. They seek by a double allowance of gayety to make up for the amount to be lost during Lent," he says.

"Is Mr. Craig here?" asks a voice, and all look at the speaker, who is a quiet appearing man, perhaps a native of England.

"That is my name, sir."

"John Alexander Craig?"

"The same."

"Of Chicago?"

"Well, what can I do for you?"

The other has been looking at him steadily.

"I desire to speak a few words with you, Doctor John Craig."

"Go on."

"I beg your pardon—it must be in private."

"In that case my friends will excuse me for a few minutes."

"Oh! yes," replies Lady Ruth, looking at the bearer of the message again.

"Certainly," says Blunt, promptly dropping dropping into the chair John vacates at her ladyship's side, and his celerity to take advantage of the circumstance arouses a little suspicion in her mind that after all it may be a ruse to get him away, with the Briton's gold backing it.

She pays little attention to what the colonel is talking about; twice she turns her head and looks to where John and the stranger talk, while to herself she says:

"Strange why I am interested in him and his fortunes. What is this singular story concerning his mother, which some time he means to tell me—when we become better friends? And now comes this man to hold a secret consultation with him! Where have I seen him before, where heard his voice? I cannot remember just now, but there is something familiar about him. The doctor appears to be excited—there he lays his well hand on the other's arm and speaks quickly. Pshaw! it's none of my business," and she resolutely turns her face toward the bright scene on the street, only to glance back again a dozen seconds later.

The doctor comes up; singularly enough, Lady Ruth has just bethought herself of her fan, and the military figure of the stalwart Briton is seen passing through the doorway upon a wild-goose chase after the much maligned article of ladies' warfare, which has played its part in many a bit of diplomacy, and which he will never find as it is at that moment resting in the folds of milady's dress, cleverly hidden from view.

"I trust you have had no bad news, doctor?" says the English girl with a touch of sympathy in her voice.

"On the contrary, Lady Ruth, I have heard something that is of intense moment to me," he replies, showing emotion.

"About your mother?" she asks, quickly.

"It is so. Lady Ruth, you have heard me speak enough of my past to realise that it has been a lonely life. My father loves me after his own fashion, and I respect him deeply; but all my life I have longed for the love of a mother, until it has reached an intensity you can hardly comprehend. Now I have received certain news that gives me a wild hope.

"I, too, lost my mother when young, and that circumstance enables me to feel for you."

Her tender eyes thrill him as he never yet has been touched; the bond of sympathy is akin to love; he has never had a confidant, and human nature yearns to unbosom itself.

"I promised to tell you the story, Lady Ruth. If I were sure we would not be interrupted, I would be inclined to speak now, for I am about starting upon a mission, the result of which Heaven alone can foresee."

His earnestness impresses her ladyship; trust a bright girl for bridging over a difficulty such as this.

"There is a little private parlor attached and generally empty," she suggests, artlessly.

"Just the ticket," he boldly exclaims.

In a few minutes they are seated alone in this bijou parlor; its decorations are quaint, even barbaric, in their splendor, and a lover of the bizarre would happen upon such a scene with the keenest pleasure.

"Here are some drawings we can be looking over," she suggests, and he nods eagerly, inwardly blessing her ready sagacity.

Thus they look harmless enough.

"Now I will play the lady confessor. What is it all about? Have you fallen into debt like a bad boy, and don't dare write the pater?"

He looks at her and laughs.

"You see the comical side of everything, Lady Ruth. This, I fear, bids fair to be a tragedy."

"A tragedy! Dear me, didn't we have quite enough of that this afternoon? What can it be? Surely you and the colonel——" and she colors furiously upon realizing how near she has come to betraying her thoughts.

"The colonel and I have had no words, as yet, Lady Ruth. This affair is something that concerns my past. Let me briefly tell you a few facts that are of especial interest to me, and may claim your attention."

DESPERADOES AT AVENING.

A Gang of Four Carried Revolvers and Fought the Constables.

Creemore, Ont., June 21.—Four suspicious-looking characters, armed with revolvers, tried to take possession of the Feltis House at Avening last night. When interfered with they began firing at all parties within range. Chief Turner of Creemore was telephoned for, and left at once for Avening with three assistants. Upon their arrival there they proceeded to arrest the men, but they offered a desperate resistance, and many shots were fired. The constables were successful in arresting two of the men, but the other two escaped, and made for the railway track, firing as they ran, and are still at large. The captured men were brought to the lock-up here, and will appear before Magistrates Hood, Mackie and Kitson this morning.

THE WAR ON SAN JOSE SCALE.

First Meeting of the Commission Was Held at Niagara.

Niagara, Ont., June 21.—The San Jose scale commission began its session here at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Dr. James Mills of Guelph was in the chair. Prof. Dearness and W. H. Bunting are his coadjutors. A number of witnesses were examined. There were present: J. H. Benn, W. H. Lee, Major James Hiscott, T. H. Watt, Charles H. Wilson (Youngstown), G. B. Wilson (Virgil), Rev. N. Smith, Alex. Muir, C. A. F. Ball, J. H. Hutchinson, John Frost, William MacFarland, Thomas A. Stuart (Niagara).

J. H. Benn was the spokesman of the party that complained of the Scale Act. He read a prepared statement, claiming that the Government had no right to enter a man's property and destroy his trees. He advocated more compensation than an average of 50 cents a tree. He claimed that the destruction of the trees injured the value of the land. Furthermore, he argued that the "yellows" and "rose leaf," two other pests, were more injurious than the scale. He believed in leaving the matter alone to the care of each fruit grower.

In the evening the other side of the question was taken up. The witnesses testified to the benefit the act was doing, but favored more compensation.

The session goes on to-day.

FELL DOWN A SHAFT.

Three Men Killed in the Black Sturgeon Mine.

Rat Portage, Ont., June 21.—It is said four men on the night shift of the Black Sturgeon mine fell down the shaft with the bucket as they were going to work. The shaft is 900 feet deep. Later word was received that three of the men who fell in the bucket down the shaft at the Sturgeon mine, Rat Portage, were killed.

The names of the dead are: Charles Adams of Nova Scotia, Charles Haas, Sudbury; John Howe, Rat Portage. The injured man is Charles Adamson of Rat Portage. Engineer McMullen, who was in charge of the hoisting apparatus, lost control of the machinery, thus causing the accident.

They Will Raise a Million.

Hamilton, June 21. — The General Assembly decided yesterday to celebrate the end of the century by raising $1,000,000. The report of the committee appointed to consider the century fund project was in favor of it, and the report was adopted. A large and influential committee was appointed to superintend the raising of the fund.

Rev. Dr. Campbell was appointed agent of the century fund and he accepted, promising to give the position his best efforts. The salary will be $2,000 or $2,500 a year.

Call Came Suddenly.

Gloom was cast over clerical circles last night when it was learned that one of the representatives to the Synod of the Diocese of Toronto, Rev. H. B. Owen, F.R.S.L., and pastor in charge of St. Philip's, Unionville, had died suddenly. After returning from a walk to the residence of Mr. Harry Hutchinson, 317 Sherbourne street, he suddenly fell and expired. The deceased clergyman formerly resided in Markham, and a few years ago removed to Unionville.

Gen. Otis Praises Gen. Wheaton.

Washington, June 21.—General Otis forwards the following:

Manila, June 20.—Adjutant-General, Washington: Wheaton at Imus, Cavite Province, with four guns, four battalions, 4th and 14th Infantry, Nevada troop cavalry; sent battalion south on reconnaissance in the direction of Das Marinas yesterday morning, where enemy reported concentrating scattered forces; battalion encountered enemy's force of 2,000, marching to attack Imus; successful in impeding its progress. Wheaton, with two guns and two battalions, hurried forward; repulsed enemy with heavy loss, enemy leaving over 100 dead on the field; our loss was five killed and 28 wounded. Wheaton reinforced last night by battalion 9th Infantry; is driving the enemy beyond Das Marinas, which is now in his possession. Casualties to-day not reported. Wheaton's qualities for bold and successful attack unsurpassed. Otis.

His Death Instantaneous.

Toronto, June 21.—A horrible accident, in which John Nicholl was electrocuted, occurred yesterday morning about 11 o'clock, near the corner of Conduit street, Toronto Junction, and Dundas street, in the city. The accident was caused by the water sprinkler running off the track at this point and the fatality happened in trying to get it on to the track again. John Gilroy, John Nicholl and J. B. Thompson made a circuit with a big iron lever, and, as the trolley had not been disconnected from the wire, the electric current of full strength passed along the lever held by the three men. Nicholl was in the middle, and never moved again. The other two had their hands burned and were thrown to the ground and stunned by the shock. An inquest will be held. Deceased was 27 years of age, and leaves a wife and family.

GOOD HEALTH FOR WOMEN

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food Restores Weak, Sickly Women to Robust Health.

Any irregularities in the monthly uterine action is sufficient cause for women to be alarmed about their health. Whether painful, suppressed or profuse menstruation, the cause can be traced to some derangement of the nerves.

A few boxes of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food will completely build up the exhausted nerves and restore the regular monthly action which removes from the body the clogged matter that would otherwise cause pain and serious disease.

It is as a restorative for pale, weak women that Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food has been singularly successful. It counteracts the debilitating diseases peculiar to women by feeding the nerves and creating new nerve fluid, the vital force of the human body.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food has restored scores of hundreds of weak, sickly women to robust health. 50c. a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Dr. Chase's new illustrated book "The Ills of Life and How to Cure Them," sent free to your address.

"I Have Had

Rheumatism for years, and Nerviline is the only remedy that has done me any good." So writes Thomas McGlashan, North Pelham, July 24th, 1899, and his testimony is supported by thousands of others who have experienced the wonderful penetrating and pain subduing power of Nerviline—the great nerve pain cure. Nerviline is just as good to take as to rub on, and is the best family remedy in the world. Nerviline is sold by dealers everywhere.

Parrott's Hangman Gets a Mask.

Hamilton, June 21.—Sheriff Middleton does not expect the Government hangman, Radcliffe, to arrive here in time for the hanging of Parrott on Friday morning and he has engaged a Toronto man to do the job. Yesterday afternoon he purchased a league baseball catcher's mask from Billy Carroll, the sporting goods man, for the use of the hangman, who fears Parrott may strike him when he goes to pinion his arms. The mask will be covered with leather from the eye holes down, so he cannot be recognized by the spectators. The sheriff has decided to admit only one reporter from each of the newspapers in the county, and a number of physicians. No other persons will be allowed to witness the execution. Parrott has asked to have four ministers present, and this request will be complied with.

TESTIMONIALS

Alliston, March 1st, 1899.

I have had one of your "Crematory Closets" in use now for several weeks and am glad to be able to say that I have found it entirely satisfactory in every respect. I have not been able to detect the slightest odor from it at any time and would not be without it. I am sure it must prove a great convenience to people in the country and in towns where water is not obtainable.

Yours respectfully, JAMES CONWAY.

Sheddon, February 28th, 1899.

I have used it for some time and find it perfectly odorless. It is a long felt want and I believe it will become very popular especially in rural districts, towns and villages where wells are so frequently contaminated by the ordinary closets. I am, yours, etc.,

LETTERS OF THANKS.

Messrs. Cox & Davis, Peterborough: Peterborough, 10th March, 1896.

Gentlemen,—I thought I would drop you a note and let you know that the way Mr. McInnes, Inspector of the London Mutual, settled my loss was very satisfactory, and if I can send you any one to insure I will do so. Yours truly, (Signed) PATRICK MURPHY.

Messrs. Cox & Davis, Peterborough: Peterborough, 22nd Oct., 1896.

Dear Sirs,—I am deeply indebted to you and your Company for the quick and good settlement of my loss on household furniture, &c., which happened night before last, and for the payment of the same by cheque this day. Yours truly, (Signed) MRS. ANNIE MARSHALL

Mr. Richard Anglesy, of Smith, who had his barn and contents burned, says that Mr. McInnes, Inspector London Mutual, acted like a man that wanted to do the square thing between man and man, and settled his loss right.

COUNTY COUNCIL IN JUNE SESSION

THE COMMMITTEE ON THE WARDEN'S ADDRESS REPORTS.

Matters Referred to Committees—The Finance Committee Will Deal With the Re-adjustment Between This Town and County.

The County Council went into session at 10 o'clock this morning, with the Warden in the chair and the members all present.

The minutes of the opening session were read and confirmed.

REPORT ON THE WARDEN'S ADDRESS.

Mr. Pearce presented the report of the Special Committee on the Warden's address. It read as follows:—

The Special Committee appointed to consider the Warden's address beg leave to report as follows:—

1. Your committee concur with the Warden in expressing confidence in the many evidences of the increasing prosperity and growth of the country, and also the outlook for a good and abundant harvest this year.

2. Your committee recommend that the matter of flooring the bridges of the county and the most suitable material to be used therefor be referred to the Road and Bridge Committee for consideration. Your committee also recommend that the questions which have arisen with respect to the approaches to the Gannons Narrows Ferry be also referred to the same committee.

3. Your committee recommend that the matter of a consolidation of the by-laws of the county and all matters with respect thereto mentioned in the Warden's address and also the matter of the claim of the Norwood High School for maintenance thereof in the year 1898 be referred to the Finance committee.

4. Your committee recommend that the petition from residents of Cavendish praying for the formation of a new school section be referred to the Committee on Schools.

5. Your committee recommend that the matter of an arbitration between the county and the town of Peterborough for the purpose of adjusting the amount payable by the town to this county on account of the administration of justice and the maintenance of court house, jail and other public buildings, be referred to the Finance committee.

6. Your committee also beg to thank the representatives of this county in the Dominion Parliament for their efforts and success in procuring a special grant towards the Mud Lake bridge and further recommend that the members of the Provincial Assembly for this county be urged to press for a substantial grant towards the same object.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. B. PEARCE,
Chairman.

On motion of Messrs. Pearce and Shaw the report was adopted.

The Council then adjourned to go into Committee work.

DALLEY'S FAMILY or LIVER PILLS.
Their action is mild.

Personal

Mrs Davidson and Miss Elsie left on the 4.40 train yesterday to spend the summer with friends in St. Thomas, North Dakota and Manitoba.

Mr. John Nunnn, representing Her Majesty's Army and Navy Veterans, of Toronto, was in town to-day making final arrangements for the visit to the Veterans on July 28th.

The Douro Picnic.

The Douro picnic at St. Joseph's will be held to-morrow. For those who will not wheel out a 'bus will leave the Oriental hotel for the picnic grounds at 10 o'clock a. m.

His Leg was Broken.

Word was received in town to-day that Mr John Rear, a member of Peterborough Lodge, I O O F, had his leg broken yesterday while working at Cambray. He was engaged in squaring timber when one of the sticks rolled from the pile and pinned his leg to the ground. The limb was broken in two places.

FIELD OF GENERAL SPORT

Lacrosse.

The Elms, of Ashburnham, defeated the Northenders on the Nicholls' park by a score of 3 to 0. The Elms deserve much credit, being the lighter team of the two. The ball was faced at 7 o'clock p m. The teams lined up as follows:—

Elms.		Northenders.
J Gilman	Goal	S Armour
G Leslie	Point	D Arsenault
J Gorham	Cover Point	D McCrea
S Elvey	1st Defence	Campbell
F Courtey	2nd ..	Simpson
W Primeau	3rd ..	Shaw
J Clancy	Centre	J Brisbin
H Gilman	3rd Home.	Detcher
M Teale	2nd Home	Long
S Primeau	1st Home	Long
E Sullivan	Outside Home	Mann
L Mowry	Inside Home	E Smith
H Overend	Field Captain	O'Brien

Umpire—T Dineen.

The game was fast from start to finish, but the Elms being the faster played all round their opponents.

Things are looking bright for the Markham game on Friday afternoon. The team is out every evening at practice. Lewis, one of the new men, joined the force last night and proved himself a dandy. Everybody was pleased with his style. Bogart is also here and will practice to-night. Burns, the other man from Cornwall, arrives to-night. A record crowd is expected for the match.

Wheeling.

All Crescent riders interested in getting up a club are requested to be at the Crescent shop, George-st., at 8 o'clock Thursday evening.

Angus McLeod is now riding a 96 gear, but will switch to 92 next week, and will push it at the World's Meet. McCarthy pedals an 84, Dunbar a 100, and Boake an 88.

The management of the Michigan State L.A.W. meet has made arrangements with Fred. J. Loughead, of Sarnia, Ont., to ride an exhibition mile during the meet, paced by the fastest quad team in the State.

JUDGMENT TO BE GIVEN ON FRIDAY

rash that he had put up. Witness stated that he had no stethoscopes and never had one in his possession. The second remedy he had given Gobeen was according to his own recipe. It was his own recipe. Gobeen had asked if he could give him something other than Chase's and he had given him a mixto purify his blood. Mr. Wood asked him if he had done so from the appearance of the man and the witness stated that Gobeen had the rash on his face. Witness gave Gobeen a blood mixture as it was plain to be seen that he was suffering from a rash. Mr. Wood asked regarding the case of a man at Fowler's Corners but Mr. Stratton objected. Mr. Wood stated that he wanted to put the question whether the witness had treated other people. Mr. Nugent then stated that he did not remember John McCarrol, of Fowler's Corner's. Mr. Wood then produced a bottle and Mr. Nugent stated that he had filled it. It was a grippe mixture that he kept prepared. It is his own grippe mixture. He did everything he thought legitimate in the drug business. Mr. Wood asked if people had come to Mr. Nugent for prescriptions when he was ill, but the question was ruled out.

Mr Stratton quoted authorities to prove that there must be evidence of more than one case of practicing. Mr. Wood quoted authorities in support of the case. The magistrate noted these cases and reserved judgment till Friday morning.

BAPTISTS OF PETERBOROUGH

PROCEEDINGS AT THE 97TH ANNUAL MEETING

Of the Peterborough Association of Baptist Churches—Reports, Addresses, etc—Next Meeting at Campbellford.

The 97th annual convention of the Baptist churches of the Peterborough district, opened at Park-st. church yesterday. There was a good attendance of delegates, clerical and lay, and the proceedings were interesting.

The Women's Circle held preliminary session yesterday afternoon.

The main convention opened on Tuesday evening. Rev. Mr. Wallace was elected Moderator. Mr. Gillespie, on behalf of Park-st. church welcomed the delegates, and Rev. Mr. Cowsert responded suitably.

Miss A. Walton read the report of the Women's Mission Circle. Remarks were made by Mrs. Dr. Hunter and Rev. Mr. Peer.

Mrs Dr. Scott rendered a pleasing vocal solo.

Rev. J. P. McEwen, superintendent of Home Missions, gave the chief address of the evening. He dealt chiefly with the mission work of Manitoba and the Northwest.

Rev. Mr. Gunton, of Gilmour Memorial church, followed with an interesting address on life in the missions of British Columbia.

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

The Wednesday morning session was opened with devotions by Mr. T. H. Cornish, Indian River.

The Moderator's address was then given by Rev. Mr. Wallace, and was heard with much interest.

The introduction of new pastors followed, and was an interesting feature. The new pastors were Revs. J. Barlow, T. H. Cornish, C. N. Carew, A. G. Huddleton, S. J. Bridgeman and J. A. Moyle.

A digest of the work of the year was then presented.

Just before noon Rev. T. Watson, Colborne, preached the annual convention sermon.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

The attendance on Wednesday afternoon was large. The first part of the meeting was of a business nature. The Nominating committee reported Rev. L. B. Raedall, Port Hope, as Moderator, and Rev. P. K. Dayfoot, Port Hope, as Clerk. Report of Home Mission Secretary, Foreign Mission Secretary and Grand Ligne Mission Secretary, were read and adopted. Campbellford was chosen for the convention of 1900.

HOW TO GET PLUMP AND ROSY.

Nature meant every woman to be pulmp, rosy and well developed, and if she has become pale, weak and nervous, Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food will restore and revitalize the wasted nerve cells, make the blood rich and pure, and give new vigor and elasticity to the whole body. For ills peculiar to women there is no remedy so successful as this great food cure of Dr. A. W. Chase. At all dealers.

A LIFE MEMBERSHIP

Presented to Mrs. Potter by the St. Andrew's Auxiliary.

At a meeting of the St. Andrew's church auxiliary of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society last evening Mrs. (Rev.) Potter was the recipient of a pleasant surprise, when the members of the Auxiliary presented her with a certificate of life membership in the Women's Foreign Missionary Society. This life membership is secured on payment of a fee of $25, which was done by the Auxiliary. The following address, which expresses the relations existing between the Auxiliary and Mrs. Potter, accompanied the certificate:—

To Mrs. Potter, Peterborough, Ont:—

Dear Mrs. Potter,—Ever since you came among us as our minister's wife you have won our respect by your gentle manner and kind words, and as we have known you better in connection with our work in the different societies, our hearts have been filled with love and esteem for you. We, the officers and members of the W.F.M.S. of St. Andrew's church, wishing to extend to you an expression of our love in a more substantial manner than by words, take much pleasure in presenting you with this certificate of life membership, and our earnest prayer is that you may be long spared to labor in the Master's vineyard—a work of love to you—and when our labors here are ended we may all meet around the throne of God in Heaven.

Signed on behalf of the W.F.M.S.,
MRS. LAEY. STEWART,
President.

June 20th, 1899.

Mrs. J. D. Tully read the address and Miss Forsythe made the presentation.

Mrs. Potter acknowledged the kind gift and the feelings expressed in suitable remarks.

A pleasant hour was spent socially, ice cream and cake being served.

WEARY OF EXPERIMENTING.

With salves, suppositories and ointments and dreading a surgical operation, scores and hundreds have turned to Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment and found in it an absolute cure for piles. The first application brings relief from the terrible itching, and it is very seldom that more than one box is required to effect a permanent cure.

SATURDAY CLUB.

Closing Meeting of the Y W C A Club for the Summer Months.

The Saturday Club in connection with the Y W C A, which has met regularly each week during the last three months, has disbanded for the hot weather. The closing meeting on Saturday evening last was most interesting and enjoyable. The reports read telling of the successful work done and the prospects and plans for the future show the necessity for the work of the Y W C A, and the power for good it may become. The address of Mrs Roger (former secretary) giving information gathered of Y W C A work and boarding houses during her recent European trip, was listened to with the utmost interest and attention. The musical programme which was appreciated and thoroughly enjoyed consisted of: Piano solos by Miss Acar, Mrs. Dr. Torrance and Miss Campbell; and vocal solos by Mrs. Dr. Scott, Mrs. Shorey and Mrs. Seward.

The Club desires to thank all who have so kindly contributed to the enjoyment of their Saturday evenings during the past months. Meetings will be resumed in September with greater zeal it is hoped, and broader plans of usefulness and helpfulness.

Bible class will be held on this and succeeding Saturday evenings during the months of July and August.

Mother's meetings, as usual, on Sunday afternoon at 4.15.

MATRON AND MAID.

Mme. Lilli Lehmann, the prima donna, is a vegetarian, believing that a meat diet is very injurious to the nerves.

Mrs. McKinley's favorite flower is the Easter lily, and, as her friends all knew this, the White House was simply crowded with these flowers on Easter Sunday.

Mrs. Alice M. Sullivan, wife of Dr. James E. Sullivan of Providence, will give $10,000 to the Brown university library for the purchase of books on church history.

Miss Florence May Lyon has received the appointment of fellow in botany in the University of Chicago for the coming year. She is the only woman fellow in the various science departments.

Miss Cockrell, daughter of the Missouri senator and the young woman who is to christen the battleship Missouri, is described as beautiful, statuesque and the possessor of an exceptionally fine contralto voice.

During the last few weeks Lady Henry Somerset has been occupied at Eastnor castle, England, in modeling a statuette of her close friend and fellow worker in the temperance cause, the late Miss Frances Willard.

Mrs. Ayrton, wife of Professor W. E. Ayrton, F. R. S., professor of applied physics in the London Institute, has been invited to read a paper before the English Institution of Electrical Engineers. This is the first time this body has so honored a woman.

It is said that Mrs. Marshall O. Roberts was the first woman in America to offer her wardrobe of colored clothes for sale on the occasion of her going into mourning. Since then such sales have often been made, that of Mrs. and Miss Brice's clothes being one of the most recent.

Miss Elizabeth Plankinton of Milwaukee, a daughter of the late John Plankinton, has made a proposition of a gift of $100,000 to build a home for the Young Women's Christian association of that city. The gift is conditional in that a suitable site must first be obtained.

Mrs. Helen S. Grenfell, state superintendent of public instruction for Colorado, has jurisdiction over 1,500 school districts in 56 counties, which she is expected to visit at least once a year. Her journeys to different schools are not always made by rail, but often on horseback, by stagecoach or by ranch wagon.

The album which Miss Helen Gould will cherish among her war souvenirs contains the autographs of 3,000 soldiers and sailors who fought in the late war. It is 14 inches long, 11 inches wide and 3½ inches thick. Among other autographs are those of General Wheeler, Governor Roosevelt and Governor Hastings.

THE SEXTON OF THE SEA.

You scatter flowers on the grassy mound
That marks the spot where your loved ones be;
You bring them emblems with never a thought
For the dead beneath the sea.

For every ship that the hands of men
Have builded with chart and wheel
The bones of men in a hundredfold
Are laid beneath its keel.

A canvas shroud and an iron bar
At the weary head and the wearied feet,
And, lo, from the deck they move away
From the hearts that throb and beat!

Soldiers and sailors and captains grand,
Babes with a mother's breast
Wet with the lips that will touch no more
Come down in my arms to rest.

And I lay them gently alone to sleep
Where the bed of the sand is clear,
And none may wander and none shall stray,
For I keep them, oh, so dear!

And hark! When the bellbuoy tolls at night
Above the wave where the fishes swim,
You may know that I keep my Father's watch
For the day I shall give them back to him!

DRUMSTICKS FOR BASS DRUMS.

Old Style With Stuffed Head, Modern With Head of Felt.

The old style, familiar drumstick for bass drums is made with the head of sheepskin or chamois, stuffed with yarn. Years ago the head of this sort of bass drumstick was made egg shaped; it is now commonly made pear shaped and secured to the stick, which is inserted into the head by winding around the neck of the head, with waxed cord. That part of the handle that is thus wound around is turned with a slight flare in its shape, so that the head cannot possibly slip off. This sort of drumstick is usually made with a hickory handle, though sometimes with a handle of rosewood.

The modern drumstick for bass drums is made of felt. Three pieces of very thick felt of a size sufficient to form the drumstick head are pressed together into a compact body that is firm and solid and yet has some degree of elasticity. This block of felt is bored transversely of its layers to receive the handle, and the head is turned down to shape in a lathe, the felt drumstick being made with an apple shaped head. At the base of the head and also at the top there is a metal cap, the cap at the top being held with a screw running through it into the end of the stick, the head being thus held between two metal caps. The handle is of rosewood.

The felt drumstick has been in use about four years. It costs about three times as much as the old fashioned drumstick, but it is much more durable and more satisfactory in operation. The yarn stuffed head with long continued use flats down more or less when struck, and the stitching of the seams is liable in the course of time to draw out. The felt head preserves its shape and gives greater certainty of execution.

There is also made for bass drums a stick called a double header, having a head at each end. It is in appearance something like a dumbbell, except that the handle is longer than the handle of a dumbbell would be, and the heads are made with one a little larger than the other. This is a felt headed stick. It is used in ruffling the drum, as is done also with the old fashioned stick, in that case the head and the end of the stick being brought alternately into play. The double header is used not in marching, but in orchestral playing only.

Bass drumsticks are sometimes made to order, with head or handle of some special dimensions to suit the players.—New York Sun.

The land occupied by olive orchards in Italy is estimated at 1,300,000 acres and the quantity of olive oil annually produced at from 70,000,000 to 75,000,000 gallons.

A Risky Undertaking.

Paris, June 22.—M. Bourgeois arrived here yesterday morning from The Hague, and called at the Elysee Palace at 8.45 a.m. with M. Delcasse. He declined the task of forming a Cabinet.

M. Delcasse, Minister of Foreign Affairs in the Dupuy Cabinet, will now probably be asked to form a Ministry.

Oxford Confers Degrees.

Oxford, Eng., June 22.—The honorary degree of doctor of civil law was conferred yesterday upon General Lord Kitchener of Khartoum, Mr. Cecil Rhodes, resident director in South Africa of the British Chartered South Africa Company, and the Earl of Elgin, the former Viceroy of India.

KIRKPATRICK-MULOCK.

Fashionable Wedding Celebrated in St. James' Cathedral, Toronto.

Toronto, June 22.—At St. James' Cathedral yesterday afternoon Miss Ethel Mulock, daughter of the Postmaster-General, was united to Mr. A. E. Kirkpatrick. The church was filled with a very fashionable assemblage, among those present being Lady Laurier, who came up specially from Ottawa in the morning. The ceremony was performed by his lordship the Bishop of Toronto, assisted by Rev. A. Hart.

Dairymen Are Kicking.

Chicago, June 22.—Men with dairy farms in the vicinity of Chicago are becoming alarmed at what they term the wholesale slaughter of cattle for the purpose of making tests for tuberculosis. Directors of the Milk Shippers' Union, at a meeting in this city, resolved to advise farmers not to allow tests to be made in their herds.

Orange Free State Dutch to Help the Boers—Engine Driver on the Cape Railway Saw Armed and Mounted Men Drilling—Imperial Military Loan Bill—Mr. George Wyndham Asks for Money for Defence Works.

Cape Town, June 22.—The activity of the War Office local authorities has been suspended in the matter of contracts for certain military requisites, on the ground that the regiments are now ready to leave Cape Town for Kimberley at short notice.

An engine driver on the Cape Railway declares that he has seen men, armed and mounted, engaged in drilling at Hout-Kraal, near Dessar and Ponsfontein, not far from Kimberley. He was informed that they were Dutchmen preparing to assist the Boers in the event of hostilities.

Gradual Reinforcement.

London, June 22.—The Daily Mail says this morning that the Imperial Government has practically decided upon a gradual reinforcement of the British troops in South Africa up to a total increase of 40,000 men.

THE KHALIFA AGAIN.

Said to Have Recruited 30,000 Men and to Have Seized an Island.

Brussels, June 22.—Advices received here from the Congo State say that the Khalifa has recruited 30,000 men, and has crossed the White Nile below Khartoum, capturing the Island of Abia on that river.

MILLIONS FOR DEFENCE.

At Home and Abroad—Significant Resolution in the Imperial Parliament—Halifax Included.

London, June 22.—When the House of Commons went into committee yesterday on the military works loan bill, the Parliamentary Secretary of the War Office, Mr. George Wyndham, moved a resolution authorizing the introduction of a bill providing a loan of $30,000,000, repayable in yearly instalments, for defence works, barracks and rifle ranges at home and abroad.

He explained this was merely a continuation of the policy laid down by the Military Works Loan Act of 1897, and pointed out that all British seaborne commerce converged at a point between Cape Clear and Ushant, necessitating strategic harbors of refuge, all of which must be defended by heavy guns. In this manner and on other works, he explained, it was proposed to spend $5,000,000, and on barracks the sum of $13,850,000 was to be spent, of which sum $3,375,000 would be expended on the present barracks. The balance would be devoted to the expenses of the new stations, and Weihaiwei would absorb $650,000.

Why Mr. Davitt Protested.

Mr. Michael Davitt, Irish Nationalist, opposed Mr. Wyndham's resolution, saying he objected especially to the expenditures at Halifax, Bermuda and Jamaica as being altogether unnecessary, "because, at present, the Governments of Great Britain and the United States are engaged in exchanging diplomatic love messages; yet these proposed guns were pointed at their Anglo-Saxon cousins. If the Government was sincere in its professions of love and friendship, it was acting perfidiously and insincerely in making these fortifications on the Atlantic coast."

The resolution was adopted by a vote of 241 to 66.

Halifax Included.

Mr. Wyndham's barracks expenditure includes $200,000 for Halifax, N.S.

AUSTRALIAN FEDERATION.

The Referendum in Queensland and Victoria—London Papers Pleased.

Brisbane, Queensland, June 22.—The Federal enabling bill has passed both Houses of the Colonial Legislature, and the referendum is fixed for Sept. 2.

In Victoria Next Month.

Melbourne, Victoria, June 22.—The referendum on the federation proposal will be taken in Victoria toward the end of next month.

London Papers Pleased.

London, June 22.—The Times and other morning papers contain editorials in a congratulatory vein regarding the New South Wales referendum, "which assures the success of Australian Federation, inasmuch as the results in Victoria and Queensland are a foregone conclusion."

The Secretary of State for the Colonies, Joseph Chamberlain, in the House of Commons yesterday announced, amid cheers, that New South Wales had voted in favor of federation by a large majority.

YUKON TELEGRAPH LINES.

Did Government Fool the Men Who Proposed to Build Them?

Premier Taken to Task—Col. Prior, Sir Charles Tupper, Mr. Foster and Mr. Wallace Strongly Denounce the Government for Its Unstatesmanlike Conduct in Connection Therewith—Mr. Foster Points Out Unconstitutionality.

Ottawa, June 22.—At the opening of the House yesterday the usual number of questions were put and answered, comparatively few of which were of general interest.

No Brewery Licenses Issued.

Sir Henri Joly, in answer to Mr. McInnes, said the Government had not issued any brewery license for the Atlin Lake district, and had no intention of doing so. The Government was not aware that there were any breweries in operation in the district, nor that any brewery plant had been imported.

In reply to Mr. Foster, the Minister of Militia said that some of the majors of field batteries had been asked to resign, on the ground that they are commanding officers whose term of office has expired.

To the further question, "Are the field artillery majors, as field artillery majors of a brigade, less efficient, or why should they alon not succeed by seniority to be lieutenant-colonels?" the reply was made, "There are no regulations."

On motion of Sir Hibbert Tupper, the return containing the accounts of Chief Engineer Coste's trip to the Yukon were referred to the public accounts committee.

Killing the Douglas Grain Bill.

On the motion to go into supply, Mr. Davin regaled the House with a series of articles from The Winnipeg Tribune, of which Mr. Richardson, M.P., is proprietor, and other papers, with reference to the killing of Mr. Douglas' grain bill.

Mr. Sifton defended his course with regard to the bill.

There were cries from the Opposition for Mr. Douglas to explain, but he smiled benignly and said nothing.

Those Telegraph Companies.

Col. Prior brought up the matter of the Northern Commercial Telegraph Company, and the Dawson City and Victoria Telegraph Company, and spoke at considerable length to the effect that the Government had granted charters to these companies, and had encouraged Mr. Roach, the promoter of the former company, to go on with the work when he applied to the Minister of Railways last October, and yet had allowed the Minister of Public Works to commence the construction of a Government line to Dawson, which would practically kill both companies. He also charged the Government with suppressing part of the correspondence, as two letters from the Premier, which he read, were not included in the return.

Hon. Mr. Blair explained that the Government was very anxious to have the telegraphic communication established with Dawson City, and when approached by Mr. Roach in October he did not hesitate to encourage him, but told him the project must be taken up in a businesslike way and pushed. Nothing more was heard of the Northern Commercial Company until after the announcement was made that the Government would build the line itself. The letters written to Mr. Roach were confidential and their publication by him in the London press showed he was untrustworthy and no gentleman.

A Vigorous Denunciation.

Sir Charles Tupper, in a very vigorous speech, strongly denounced the Government's policy, and claimed the action of the Government in first encouraging the company and then starting a line of their own would seriously affect the credit of Canada in the British money market and deter investors from embarking in Canadian enterprises.

The Premier Reads the Letters.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier explained that the two letters omitted from the return were private letters from himself, but he had no objection to reading them and he did so. Dealing with the merits of the case,

The Board then adjourned, after the matter of paying fees being discussed by the salesmen. Factories who have failed to pay their fees must pay up.

His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it, he says: "I was taken with Typhoid Fever, that ran into Pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of Consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvellous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all Throat and Lung Trouble. 50 cents and $1.00. For sale by James Lynch, druggist, Hunter-st., Peterborough; every bottle guaranteed.

HEALTH OF THE PROVINCE.

The Monthly Report of the Provincial Board of Health.

Toronto, June 22.—Yesterday the monthly report of the Provincial Board of Health for the month of May was published. Only 92 per cent. of the total population reported as against 97 per cent. last month. During May there were 1,767 deaths from all causes, against 2,073 for April. There was a decrease in the number of deaths from tuberculosis from April of 27, the total number for May being 230. There were 168 deaths for the same month last year. From April there was a drop in scarlatina from 28 to 17, and diphtheria decreased from 33 to 18. Three deaths were caused by measles, and whooping cough carried away seven, the same number as in April. In typhoid an increase is recorded, there having been 18 deaths, while in the previous month there were 15.

Hugh John at the Capital.

Ottawa, June 22.—Hon. Hugh John Macdonald came up from Montreal by the noon train yesterday and paid a brief visit to the Conservative headquarters in room No. 6, where he received a hearty welcome from his old confreres in the House. He afterwards visited the Senate and had a brief conference with Sir Mackenzie Bowell and a pleasant chat with some of the other members of the red chamber. Last evening he was entertained to dinner at the Rideau Club by Sir Hibbert Tupper and left for Toronto last night on his way back to Manitoba.

he said that the idea of the Opposition seemed to be that the public interests should have been sacrificed for the benefit of the company. He thought otherwise. He detailed the circumstances of the case, saying that Mr. Rosch's scheme involved the laying of a cable, which would land on what was claimed as United States territory, and he thought the people of Canada would support him in preferring an all-Canadian land line, owned and controlled by the Government. Nothing whatever was heard of Mr. Rosch and his scheme between Oct. 6, last year, and April 11, this year, six months, and nearly a month after the Government had announced that the line would be built as a public work. It was of the utmost importance that telegraphic communication with the Yukon should be opened this year, and when nothing had been heard of the company for over five months, the Government decided to build the line, and he was pleased to be able to say that it would be completed this year. He characterized the whole debate as a tempest in a teapot.

Mr. Foster's Criticisms.

Mr. Foster said the building of the Government line without an appropriation from Parliament was unconstitutional, and that the statement that it was built at the rate of $12,000 for telegraph lines in British Columbia was the flimsiest excuse, as the money was voted for the maintenance of existing lines and at least eleven-twelfths of it must have been spent in salaries, etc., by this time. The Government had no right to spend money without the authority of Parliament, and there had been no authority in the case. He denied that there had been the urgency for the work claimed by the Government, and held that when the Government was so careful as to advise the Northern Commercial Company about a rival company, the Northern Company had a right to expect that the Government would not undertake to build a line itself without first giving them notice to proceed.

Mr. Wallace said that Parliament had been treated very discourteously and he denounced the Government's action in the entire transaction.

The House then went into supply at 11 o'clock on the supplementary estimates for this year, taking up the inland revenue, customs and other items, and very nearly getting through the supplementaries before adjournment.

A Lively "Scrap."

At a quarter-past 1 quite a "scrap" took place on a point of order, which led to an appeal to the House against the decision of the chairman, which was sustained by a vote of 89 in favor of the decision and 10 against. The point was this: Mr. Clarke Wallace was replying to some remarks made by Mr. Fielding, in answer to the question whether Mr. Charleson, who is in charge of the telegraph construction in the Yukon, was the same Mr. Charleson mixed up in the Crow's Nest Employment Agency scandal. Mr. Wallace said that the Minister of Finance had spoken with his usual "flippancy and impertinency." Mr. Fielding jumped up and demanded a withdrawal.

Then the fun began, and lasted half an hour, Mr. Foster, Mr. Wallace and Mr. Fielding having the liveliest tilt of the session.

Then the chairman decided that the word "impertinency" was unparliamentary, and an appeal was taken.

Mr. Wallace said, in compliance with the decision, he would withdraw the word, but hoped the Minister of Finance would not humbug the House any more.

The House is still in committee and continuing the "scrap" about Charleson at 2 o'clock, with every prospect of sitting all night.

PETITION WILL PROCEED.

West Elgin Trial Will Go On—Non-Validity of Macnish's Disclaimer.

Toronto, June 22.—The proceedings which have been instituted against Donald Macnish, in West Elgin, are not going to be allowed to be dropped because of the disclaimer filed by him a few days ago. A motion will be made to the court this morning at Osgoode Hall on behalf of the petitioner, J. G. Munn, in which permission will be formally requested for the hearing of the protest. Mr. W. D. McPherson will make the motion, having received instructions from St. Thomas to that effect. The motion is a formal one, because statutory provision empowers the holding of an election trial in spite of the filing of a disclaimer. The validity of the disclaimer itself, in Mr. Macnish's case, is to be contested. It is claimed that the oath of office once having been taken, and a seat in the House having been occupied and voted from, Mr. Macnish is precluded from making use of the disclaimer as a means of escaping from the responsibility of the conditions of his election.

In support of the motion this morning will be read an affidavit by Barrister Price of St. Thomas, in which he in part says: "I believe there is abundant evidence to show that a general organized system of corruption prevailed throughout the riding, and that agents of Macnish took part in the scheme to have strangers act as deputy returning officers under assumed names."

DISAPPOINTED RED MEN.

The St. Regis Indians Claim They Were Deceived.

Cornwall, Ont., June 22.—Twelve Indian chiefs were elected at St. Regis on Wednesday for a period of three years. The poll was opened at 10 o'clock by Indian Agent George Long, but there was no business transacted until the arrival at 3.30 p.m. of Mr. MacRae of the Indian Department.

When the vote was counted, 137 were in favor of the 12 elected, and none against, but when the poll closed, and the red men found their chiefs were only elected for three years, and that the Government had carried their point, and that they were practically in the same position as before the recent trouble, they were a sadly disappointed and crestfallen lot of Iroquois. They claim they were told they could elect chiefs according to the old custom, viz., for life.

In anticipation of trouble, Mr. MacRae had an armed body of constables at Hogansburg awaiting orders to come on to St. Regis in case hostilities should break out, but fortunately their services were not necessary. Whether or not the arrangements of yesterday are satisfactory to the Iroquois time alone can tell.

NEW DISTILLERS COMBINE.

Many Concerns Merged Into a $125,000,000 Central Company.

New York, June 22.—A merging of the American Spirits Manufacturing Co., consisting of 85 separate concerns, the Kentucky Distilleries & Warehouse Company, consisting of 56 concerns, the Standard Distilling & Distributing Company, consisting of 15 concerns; the Spirits Distributing Company, and a number of the most important rye whiskey concerns, into one central company has been effected by the organization of a new concern called the Distilling Company of America. The capitalization is $125,000,000, of which $55,000,000 is 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock and $70,000,000 common stock.

Our Criminal Population.

Ottawa, June 22.—The annual report of the Minister of Justice on the penitentiaries of Canada was laid on the table yesterday afternoon by Solicitor-General Fitzpatrick. Mr. Douglas Stewart, inspector of penitentiaries, in his report, says that the average daily population of the penitentiaries last year was 1,415, an increase of 62 over the year before, which the inspector does not consider alarming.

Stole Marlborough's Plate.

London, June 22.—At the Oxford Assizes Joseph Stookley was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment for stealing a quantity of plate belonging to the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough, which had been left in charge of a steward.

Almost a Mile a Minute.

New York, June 22.—Charles Murphy rode a mile on a bicycle behind a locomotive on the Long Island Railroad yesterday afternoon in 1.05, the fastest time ever made on a wheel.

Dreyfus Must Wait.

London, June 22.—The steamer Stax, which is bringing Dreyfus to France, will stop at the Azores until the new Government is formed.

TOURISTS AT RAT PORTAGE.

Legislative Party Saluted Eastbound Imperial Limited at Kaministiquia.

Rat Portage, Ont., June 22.—Algoma legislative tourists left Fort William at 8 a.m. yesterday. At Kaministiquia they met and saluted the first eastbound Imperial Limited.

At Savanne, Miss Mitchell, on behalf of the lumber mill employes and Shabandowan miners, presented an address. The party paused a moment at Bonheur, the entrance to the Sawbill and Hammond Reef gold mining district. At Ignace the Ojibway Indians waited on the Ministers, receiving the train with a salute of small firearms.

At Wabigoon, the centre of the Manitou, Minnitakie and New Klondike mines, Alfred Cars, T. R. Lumby, L. S. Robinson, F. H. Sangster and A. H. Davidson, read an address, praying for new roads. At Dryden Reeve H. L. Blair presented a similar memorial.

At different points Hon. Messrs. Ross and Davis and Messrs. Marter and Lucas responded encouragingly.

The party reached here at 9 o'clock last night. They will see the Lake of the Woods mines to-day.

SIX MEN WOUNDED.

Importation of Negroes Resented by Striking Miners at Evansville, Ind.

Evansville, Ind., June 22.—The local miners' strike assumed a serious aspect here early yesterday morning. Operators had imported 30 negro miners from Kentucky and were delivering them at the mine at 1.30 a.m., when unknown parties concealed in the bushes near the mines opened fire on the negroes. It was very dark and a stampede followed. Some of the non-union men responded with revolvers and many shots were fired. Six men were badly wounded.

The Hespeler Strike.

Hespeler, Ont., June 22.—The strikers waited on Mr. Brodie yesterday morning, but received no satisfaction. A representative of the mill company arrived here yesterday afternoon, and it is expected Mr. Brodie will soon come to terms with the strikers.

Miners on Strike.

Wellsboro, Pa., June 22.—A big strike of coal miners is on at Arnold, this county. The trouble has been brewing for some time, and yesterday 800 miners quit work, demanding an advance of 15c a ton.

OUTLOOK IN THE PHILIPPINES.

Americans Cannot Stand the Climate—Where Aguinaldo's Strength Lies.

San Francisco, June 22.—Dr. Charles A. McQuesston, who was on the staff of General E. S. Otis, and who was health officer at Manila, has returned home, invalided by the climate.

Captain McQuesston is of the opinion that it will take from 100,000 to 150,000 soldiers to properly subdue and hold the islands. He also says that the peace commission was an absolute failure, and that its work from the start was without effect. He strongly supports the military government of the islands.

"Unless troops, thousands of them, are sent to the aid of our men there they will be driven back into Manila in the course of the next few months, during the rainy season. The American soldiers simply cannot stand the climate."

Filipinos Take to the Swamps.

Manila, June 22.—The insurgent army has taken to the swamps and hills beyond Imus.

Miles to Go to Manila.

Philadelphia, June 22.—The Times yesterday prints a special from Atlantic City, N.J., saying that General Miles, who is at the seashore, will receive the command of the American forces in the Philippines, and that in all probability he will start for Manila within a week.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT.

What they are depends mostly on the condition of the eater.

Most anything is good to eat if a man is properly, healthily hungry.

Every man is properly hungry at more or less distinct intervals if he is healthy.

Corned beef and cabbage taste better to a healthy, hungry man than terrapin and pate de foi gras to the jaded appetite of a dyspeptic. The enjoyment of eating depends on the condition of the stomach, liver, bowels, and kidneys. If these do not do their work properly there accumulates in them undigested, fermenting, putrid, blood poisoning matter. The appetite cannot be healthy till this is removed. A machine will not run if it is all clogged up with dirt. The stomach cannot appropriate food unless it is clean, and so healthy hunger cannot come. The stomach cannot be clean if the liver and bowels do not dispose of the food passed along to them. If poisonous effete matter is allowed to accumulate and congest the liver and bowels more or less of it gets into the blood, and is carried all over the body. Is it any wonder that it makes you sick?

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is designed to correct all disorders of the digestive and blood-making system and to drive all impurities out of the blood itself.

It restores lost appetite and vitality, builds healthy flesh and muscle, changes sickness to health, misery to happiness.

John A. Calloway, Esq., of No. 218 10th Street, Columbus, Ga., writes: "I had catarrh for four years and also liver and kidney trouble. In 1894 I was working at night and I broke out in lumps all over and when these left, the skin peeled off. My eyes were sunken and I had pimples and brown spots on my face. Now these are all gone, and I believe I am entirely well. I have a good appetite, but before I commenced taking your 'Golden Medical Discovery' I had no appetite at all. Now I am like a child—ready to eat at any time of the day or night."

NORTH MONAGHAN.

Business of the Court of Revision and the Township Council.

The adjourned Court of Revision met in the Town Hall on Wednesday, June 14. The following alterations were made:—The name of John Totter was struck off; E. C. Bradburn was added as joint owner with T. E. Bradburn; D. McRoberts was allowed one dog struck off; R. Monarief and Jas. Brown will also be allowed to have a dog each off upon their fyling the necessary declaration. The assessment of Mrs. Dabbin was reduced by $100. With these allowed the roll was declared as the final revised roll for the year 1899. The Court then dissolved.

The Council immediately resumed session. There were present Messrs. Hunter, reeve, and Hall, Brown, Madill, councillors. Communications were read from T. A. S. Hay, town engineer, asking the Council to take action with regard to an alleged dangerous place on the town boundary, near Weller-st.; from D. Callowing re an unpaid account of J. K. Moore for work done in 1898. The following accounts were presented, passed and paid:—A. Walton, repairing road grader $1.50; J. J. Bennett, material and work constructing culverts, &c., $5.50; Municipal World, books, $3.39; D. Galloway, on account of commutations, North Div., 1899, $51.25. A committee consisting of Messrs. Hall, Bradburn and Madill, was appointed to attend the County Council and ask a grant towards repairing the Cavan boundary.

The clerk was instructed to communicate with Mr. Forster re the expenditure of the county grant.

The account of J. K. Moore was referred to Commissioner Galloway with power to act.

Mr. Hall was appointed to instruct Mr. Revington in regard to a communication from Mr. Hayes.

Mr. Hall was instructed to arrange for the purchase of gravel from the Chamberlain estate.

A by-law was passed increasing the amount of commutation of statute labor to 75 cents per day.

Council then adjourned.

No Right to Ugliness.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, eyes, smooth, velvety skin, rich complexion. It will make a good-looking, charming woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50 cents. For sale by James Lynch, druggist, Hunter-st., Peterborough.

Give Holloway's Corn Cure a trial. It removed ten corns from one pair of feet without any pain. What it has done once it will do again.

COUNTY COUNCIL IN JUNE SESSION

DEPUTATIONS HEARD AT A SHORT AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Children's Aid Society Asks for a Grant—The Summer Road's Claims Presented by a Deputation.

The County Council went into session Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock, the Warden in the chair.

THE CHILDREN'S AID.

A deputation from the Children's Aid society was present to ask for the usual grant or an increased one if possible. The deputation consisted of Mr. J. J. McBain, president, Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, Ven. Archdeacon Casey, Rev. Mr. Shorey, Rev. Mr. Crossley and Mr. J. H. Burnham.

Mr. McBain made the first appeal for the society. He gave a brief account of the work and asked for sympathy and liberal support as it was a worthy cause in which the society was engaged.

Ven. Archdeacon Casey stated that he was present to show his sympathy with the good work done by the Children's Aid Society. There was a great expense in connection with the work and the County Council should assist in supporting the poor of the county. He hoped for a liberal grant.

Rev. Mr. Crossley, of Charlotte-st. church, stated that the more he knew of the C.A. Society the more he had found it worthy of the support of all who could dispense charity. The society had done wonderful and excellent work during the year, especially for poor children. The county or city in caring for young children assist to make them good citizens and it is better to have them worthy men and women than to let them grow up as criminals.

Rev. Mr. Shorey addressed the Council as business men. The Council had already shown themselves in sympathy with the cause and he hoped that they might see their way to increase their grant. Much is contributed to the funds of the society by private individuals, the worthy president having been most generous and unselfish. It is a piece of the wisest statesmanship to spend one dollar on a child now rather than ten dollars later on. It is at once a wise and humane move to support the society cordially.

Mr. J. H. Burnham was next announced and was received with applause. He gave statistics to show how the money already contributed had been spent, a most satisfactory statement, and also gave an account of some of the wards of the society, these chiefly from the rural parts.

Mr. Dennistoun stated that the town grant of last year of $300 and the county grant of $100 did not begin to pay all the expenses of the society. If it were not for a long list of persons who subscribe annually to the society the work would have to be dropped. But private contributions seemed to have reached their limit and the only way in which the revenue could be increased was from municipal sources. Every child taken by the society that would otherwise be sent to Industrial schools meant a large saving to the municipality. The Grand Juries of the county had endorsed the work and he felt that the County Council would be justified in making a grant of $300.

Councillor Pearce stated that he was heartily in accord with the work of the society. It was a matter closely related to that of the House of Providence, of which the county had offered to meet the town of Peterborough in any action.

The matter, on motion of Councillors Pearce and Buck, was referred to the Finance Committee.

THE DUMMER ROAD.

A deputation from the Council of Douro, Messrs. Moloney and Quinn, was next introduced and asked for a grant from the county for the Warsaw road. It was in very bad shape and urgently needed extensive repairs. The Council of Douro had made a grant of $150 for the purpose and he asked that the County Council do likewise. The road was a main highway and was used by many people of the county.

Mr. J. Quinn also spoke. He stated grounds for a grant as were described by the last speaker.

The matter was referred to the Road and Bridge Committee.

The Council then adjourned to resume committee work.

VERERAN SOLDIERS OF THE QUEEN

company was wiped out at Cawnpore. Shields escaped the massacre, which was death to all the officers, men, women and children of the company, by being one of a party of twelve men sent on to relieve Sir Colin Campbell. Shields wears a bar for Lucknow and the relief of Lucknow, a decoration not worn by any other man in Canada, or, probably, in the world. Then another veteran who will be here will be George Richardson, of the 34th, who wears the proud decoration of the Victoria Cross. Such are the old soldiers who will come to Peterborough to loyally celebrate the eightieth year of Her Majesty's birth and the 62nd year of accession.

Peterborough will extend these veterans a warm welcome, and next Wednesday will be a day to be remembered in Peterborough.

To make the occasion historic the good suggestion has been made that the Mayor send a cablegram of congratulations to Her Majesty on the occasion of the assembling of Her Majesty's here. The suggestion will probably be acted on.

The great pyramid of Cheops is the largest structure ever erected by the hand of man. Its original dimensions at the base were 764 feet square, and its perpendicular height or the highest point is 481 feet.

THE WALDORF-ASTORIA HOTEL.

Ingenious Automatic Mechanism By Which Its Coal Is Handled.

There are many things about the management of a large hotel which the patron takes for granted without inquiry or investigation. He can form no idea of the methods employed from what he sees in the office, the corridors, the dining rooms and the other parts of the building to which he has access, and there are not many guests who wish to pry into the secrets.

For those who take an interest in such matters the arrangements for receiving and disposing the coal are not the least interesting. The Waldorf-Astoria uses 140 tons of coal every 24 hours during the winter months. This coal is all delivered on the Thirty-fourth street side of the building, but one rarely sees a coal cart in front of the hotel. It is all of the pea and buckwheat sizes and is dumped from the carts into an opening in the ground in the middle of the Astor court roadway. It falls into a hopper, which holds about 10,000 pounds, and from there it is carried on an endless chain provided with buckets to a vast coal bin, which has a capacity of 700 tons. Daylight never reaches this bin, which, with its few blinking lights, and great piles of coal, reaching nearly to the vaulted roof, looks like a corner in a coal mine and little like an annex to a palatial hotel. By an arrangement of levers the coal may be dumped from the buckets at various points, so that with the aid of a shoveler it may be evenly distributed in the bin.

The boiler room is situated lower down in the ground, and the coal reaches the fire boxes without being handled. When the boiler attendant needs coal for his fire, he pulls a lever, which opens a trap, and through this half a ton of coal falls into a feeder, which looks like a monster funnel. When the feeder has been filled, it is pushed forward on an overhead track, and when it has reached the proper point a trap in the narrow end of the funnel is drawn aside, and the coal drops into a trough in front of the fire box, whence it goes into the fire.

From the time it leaves the coal wagon until it enters the fire the coal takes care of itself, and, with the exception of the straightening out in the bin, which is done by one man during the day and one man at night, and the distribution over the fire surface by the boiler attendant, the 140 tons of coal which are used every day are handled by machinery.—New York Tribune.

DID AS LOGAN DID.

When Medill Gave Cullom the Chance of Making It.

Joseph Medill, the famous editor of the Chicago Tribune, and Senator Cullom were once political antagonists, and at that time Cullom read all manner of "shots" at him on the editorial page of The Tribune. That time, too, was in a campaign when such shots were supposed to count. Mr. Medill held to the good old fashioned doctrine that an infusion of the personal in journalism seasoned the editorial page. The senator understood this and treasured no grievance. One day at the close of the campaign during which The Tribune had conducted continuous hostilities toward him he was in Chicago and, meeting a Tribune man, inquired how his old friend Medill was. Before he knew what was going on the senator found that smart young man had informed Mr. Medill he wanted to see him and that Mr. Medill had telephoned back that he was at The Tribune office.

"Of course," said the senator, "I went up there, although I had no such intention when the conversation started. As I went in Mr. Medill greeted me very cordially. He evidently wasn't entertaining anything personal against me, so I asked:

"'Look here! Medill! Why in thunder have you been roasting me all through the campaign?'

"'Cullom, sit down and let me tell you a story.' John A. Logan asked me a question very much like that at the close of a campaign some years ago. He didn't like what The Tribune had been saying about him. One day I heard a knock at the door. I said, "Come in!" The door opened, and there was "Black Jack" with his eyes flashing, his hair thrown back and a look on his face a little fiercer than usual. "Come in," I said again. "Do I come in a friend or a foe?" said Logan. "I pass, senator. You make it," I said. Logan came in and sat down, and we had a pleasant visit.'

"Of course," said Senator Cullom, "I 'followed suit' when Medill had told his story on Logan. I found him very genial. It was evident at once he hadn't anything against me."

The Birth of the Daisy.

The origin of the daisy is very prettily told in the following legend: It was the belief of the Celtic people that when an infant was taken away from earth a flower was sent. A woman, Malvina, lost an infant son, but as she sat brooding and inconsolable her attendants came running in with joyful news. "Oh, Malvina," they cried, "your babe has come back—a wondrous new flower has come to earth—white are its leaves near the heart, but nearer the edges tinted with pink or crimson like an infant's flesh! When the wind waves it on the hillside, dances, as a child playing to and fro!" And Malvina rose and looked upon her flower and no more mourned, saying, "This flower, Malvina's son returned, will comfort all mothers that have lost their infants."

Stand Up For Your Own.

Frank Everest of Atchinson—and peace to his ashes—going to Europe for the first time, met an old traveler, who exclaimed: "What, have you never been in London? Why, I go over every year!"

An hour later Everest and the traveler were talking of the Missouri valley, when Everest got it back with: "Never been to Omaha? Why, I go there every week!"

There are too many men on earth who believe with the traveler that dense population makes civilization, and too few Everests brave enough to stand up and testify for the Omahas of this world.—Atchison Globe.

THE ONTARIO BANK.

The report of the annual meeting of the shareholders of the Ontario Bank appears in another column, and from the reports presented at that meeting it will be seen that the bank has enjoyed a satisfactory year. The net profits for the year, after deducting charges of management, etc., has been $103,117, which was sufficient to pay the usual dividends, amounting to $50,000, to carry $25,000 to rest account (making it $110,000), to write $5,000 off bank premises, to reserve $5,000 for the officers' guarantee fund, and allow a substantial balance of profits to be carried forward. Among other figures of interest in the financial statement are noted the current loans and discounts which aggregate $6,372,151; municipal and other debentures held, $1,371,132, and calls loans $433,284. A perusal of the report will give the reader the complete facts. The satisfactory progress of the Ontario Bank is a matter of gratification to the shareholders, and is creditable to the management, in which Peterborough takes a special interest owing to the fact that the General Manager went to Toronto from here.

AT CHEMONG PARK.

The Formal Opening of the Resort for the Summer Season.

A beautiful moonlight evening, fine music by the 57th Battalion band, and jolly crowd helped to make the gathering held at Chemong Park last night to initiate the summer season a great success. The opportunity for an outing at the delightful park was taken advantage of by many, the busses taking out good crowds, others going out in private vehicles and a large number wheeling out. The band furnished a pleasing programme, and the evening was enjoyed by all present. Mr. Geo. Brown, the new proprietor of the hotel, was much pleased with the opening. The members of the band were entertained at supper and the party from town returned before midnight.

Friday Market Day.

Farmers and all others accustomed to dealing on the market or to doing business on Saturday as market day are particularly requested to note and retain in their minds the fact that Friday, June 30th, will be market day instead of Saturday, July 1st. Owing to Saturday being Dominion Day and a public holiday, the market will be held on Friday and there will be no business doing in town the Saturday following.

PUPILS' RECITAL.

A Pleasant Musical Evening With the Pupils of the Misses Hurley.

Last evening the pupils of the Misses Hurley held their annual piano recital and the gathering was a most pleasant one. The programme was of an interesting nature and the style in which it was carried out reflects great credit upon the teachers. Members of both senior and junior classes took part and the style of music was nicely varied. Some of the senior pupils showed a cultivated touch and scholarly training, and the smaller ones took their parts with great taste and skill. A large number of parents and friends were present for the evening.

The programme was as follows:—

FIELD OF GENERAL SPORT

Lacrosse.

Peterborough Juniors play in Hastings on July 1st in a league match.

The Executive of the Lacrosse Club met last evening when the following team was chosen to represent the Peterboroughs against Markham on the P. A. A. A. grounds to-morrow afternoon: Goal, F. Dobbin, point, Horace Lewis; cover point, John Brown; defence, M. McDonough, R. Glover, Jas. McCabe; centre, E. G. Bogart; home field, Lionel King, Jack McCabe, Geo. Lipsett; inside home, Arthur McClellan; outside home, A. A Hollingshead; spare man, Victor McWilliams.

Mr. Joe Begley will act as field captain and it is expected that every member of the team will obey his instructions to the letter.

Peterborough never put a stronger team in the field than will cope with Markham to-morrow. All are fast men in the best condition and one of the greatest games ever played on the P. A.A.A. grounds will be witnessed. Mayor Davis will face off the ball at 2.30 p.m.

Don't forget the Junior game against the Hastings team on Monday. The Seniors beat Hastings by 5 goals to 2 and the Juniors are going to do their best to show that they are as fast as the Seniors. The ball in this match will not be faced off until half past three or four o'clock.

Wheeling.

We have received a copy of the advance programme of the second Ontario provincial bicycle meet to be held at Guelph on June 30th and July 1st. It is a neat booklet and a good variety of attractions is presented, the features besides the regular championship races include a grand burlesque circus, an inspiring cake walk, etc. Two days of unmitigated fun are promised.

The Trigger.

The Gun Club held a match yesterday. The score in a 25 bird shoot were as follows:—R. Tivey 14, C. James 11, E. Hartly 11, W. Dayman 11, D. Jewett 14, R. G. Kingan 12.

Golf.

In the 3rd round for the Culvernell prizes the following draws have been made:

99 Players.
Mrs. R. S. Davidson vs. Miss L. Dennistoun.
Miss G. Kempt vs. Miss Fair.
Miss G. Dennistoun a bye.

Club Players.
Miss D. Hamilton vs. Mrs. R. S. Davidson.
Miss Boucher vs. Mrs. Greenwood.
Miss G. Dennistoun vs. Miss Fair.
Miss Jessie Fairweather vs. Miss L. Hall.

Both rounds to be played off by Saturday noon.

VETERAN SOLDIERS OF THE QUEEN

MEN WHO HAVE SEEN SERVICE ON FIELDS OF HONOR COMING.

The Programme for the Visit of Her Majesty's Army and Navy Veterans—Will be Met by the Mayor and the Veterans of '66.

Mr. John Nunn, who was in town yesterday representing Her Majesty's Army and Navy Veterans, of Toronto, who will come to Peterborough on Wednesday next, the 28th, to observe their annual celebration, is a fine type of the enthusiastic, loyal and intelligent British veteran. Mr. Nunn was the first president of the Army and Navy Veterans, and he held office for four years. During that time he had the honor to introduce the veterans, 376 strong, to the Duke of Connaught on the occasion of his visit to Toronto when passing through Canada. He also introduced the veterans to Lord Stanley, and presented His Excellency (he was then Governor-General), with an address at the Queen's hotel. Lord Stanley subsequently accompanied the veterans to church. Mr. Nunn is now war correspondent and chaplain of the Veterans. He also holds a record with the rifle which can well be envied by the younger soldiers of to-day. With an Enfield rifle he made a score of 19 consecutive bulls-eyes out of 21 shots, and won distinction as the first shot of his time. Mr. Nunn is enthusiastic in his desire to cherish and cultivate the patriotic fire, and he is proud of the Veterans Association and the men of which it is composed.

Mr. Nunn interviewed Mayor Davis when here, and the Mayor and other prominent citizens, accompanied by the Veterans of '66 and the 57th Battalion band will meet the Army and Navy Veterans on their arrival at the C. P.R. station on a special about 10.15 a.m. The Toronto Veterans will be accompanied by their splendid band of thirty pieces in uniform. A procession will be formed and the visitors will be escorted to the market square, where addresses of welcome will be read and speeches made. After this ceremony the veterans, headed by their band, will parade the principal streets, led by the handsome flag which was presented to them by the various regiments of which His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Connaught, Lord Wolsley and many other general officers are connected and regiments which the veterans represent. First in honor on this flag is the battle of Navarino, 1827, and last in Chitral of India. Capt. Newton, a veteran 89 years of age, who was present at Navarino, will be with the men on this occasion, along with many other old soldiers who stood loyal and true on many a field of honor, including Balaclava, Inkerman and Sebastopol. Among the number is one of the 93rd who stood so loyal at Balaclava, and under Sir Colin Campbell at the relief of Lucknow. Another is John Shields, of the 84th, a County Antrim man, whose

CLOSING EXERCISES.

Entertainment by the Children of the South Central Kindergarten.

The summer exercises of the children of the South Ward kindergarten were held yesterday afternoon in the kindergarten room and formed a highly pleasing and instructive form of entertainment. The children all looked their neatest and brightest and went through their various songs, marches, exercises and occupations with life and spirit. The room had been handsomely decorated with flowers and flags and presented a charming appearance. A large number of parents and friends were present and were highly pleased with the work of the afternoon, many high compliments being paid to teachers and pupils alike;—

BAPTISTS OF PETERBOROUGH

PROCEEDINGS AT THE 97TH ANNUAL MEETING

Full Report of the Nominating Committee—Addresses on Wednesday Evening—A Special Session on Young People's Work.

The annual convention of the Baptist churches of Peterborough district is being continued to-day and concludes this evening. A summary of the proceedings is as follows:—

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

The Wednesday afternoon session began with a devotional exercise led by Pastor Carew.

The Nominating Committee reported the following list of officers for the coming year:—

Moderator—Rev. L. B. Randall, Port Hope.
Clerk—Rev. P. K. Dayfoot, Port Hope.
Preacher of annual sermon—Rev. J. W. Kirkpatrick; alternate, Rev. O. C. Elliott.
Com. on arrangements — Moderator, clerk, Pastor Carew, and Miss Walton.
Com. of nomination—Rev. T. Watson, E. J. Bridgeman, Bros. Caswell, Hinman, Baker, Patterson, Webb.
Com. on resolutions—Revs. Cowsert, Gunton, Wallace.
Com. on obituaries—Rev. Mr. Peer, Bros. J. Chard and Geo. Graham.
Home Mission Board—Revs. T. Watson, V. H. Cowsert, P. K. Dayfoot, W. A. Gunton, J. Bastow.
Foreign Mission secretary—Rev. J. Bastow. Manitoba and Northwest missions, Rev. W. A. Gunton. Grand Ligne secretary, Rev. V. H. Cowsert. Education secretary, Rev. J. T. Marshall. B.Y.P.N. representative, Rev. O. C. Elliott, Place of meeting, June, 1900, Campbellford.

The remainder of the session was spent in hearing reports of the various secretaries and discussing the same.

WEDNESDAY EVENING.

The evening session began wtih an open air service led by Pastor Bridgeman. The first speaker was Prof. Russell, of Woodstock College, who ably and earnestly presented the claims of the colleges.

Rev. J. Bastow, in an address of high order, spoke on Helps and Hindrances to the Spiritual Life of the Churches. During the evening, the Moderator, on behalf of the association, gave the hand of fellowship to Pastor Peer and Bro. Webb, of the newly organized church at Havelock.

It was a pleasant surprise to see Dr. Wilson come in. He received a hearty welcome as he rose to speak on the work of McMaster University, especially regarding the fund for ministerial education.

THURSDAY MORNING.

Pastor Kirkpatrick led the morning devotions. Mr. L. B. Randall gave a most suggestive address on how to increase the effectiveness of the Sunday school.

Rev. O. C. Elliott reported for the Young People's societies, showing that there are seven societies with 247 active and 50 associate members, being an increase of 78 during the year.

Pastor Cowsert spoke on how the young people may help the church, suggesting that they, first, consider themselves part of the church; second, recognize the other services of the church; third, work on the church committees; forth assume special responsibility in church work; fifth, keep themselves informed on the great questions of the denomination.

Pastor Bridgeman discussed how the young people can hinder the church. He spoke of, first, the failure to consider themselves as a part of the church; second, the spending of funds independently of the church; third, the holding of services apart from the church; fourth, the lack of spiritual work for saving of souls. The topic of the young people's work was then debated with much interest, the general belief being that the work is destined to prosper but that some new methods might assist.

Rev. W. Peer, Norwood, then took the floor to introduce the discussion on the financial problem in the smaller churches. He dealt chiefly with the poor churches in the remote settlements. Methods must be adapted to the condition of things. Where the people have little money much cannot be expected from them, but many little attractions can be gotten up by which the church supporters can get assistance from their friends. In this way the poor churches can do more for Christ in proportion to their means than the rich ones.

This evening's program will be as follows:—

7.00-7.30—Devotional service, Rev. W. A. Gunton.
7.30-8.15—Address, Foreign Missions, Rev. Dr. McDairmid, Toronto.
8.15-8.30—Introduction of new officers.
8.30-9.00—Fellowship meeting.

Judging from the above programme the meetings should be both interesting and profitable.

A TRAMP ROUND-UP.

Five of the Wandering Children Appear in Police Court.

The police court this morning was a lifelike representation of Burnham's point in the joyful summer time, the officers having collected five tramps in the moonlight last night. They were brought before Ald. Davidson, J. P., this morning for sentence. John Blake and George White were the names given by two who were arrested last evening about ten o'clock near the C.P.R. station. They were regarded as dangerous characters and Blake was given 40 days in gaol, while White was let off with 30 days. Alex. Genac, a one armed man claiming to be from Tweed, and Pat. Hooley, who acknowledged Madoc as headquarters, were another pair. They were given two hours to withdraw from the city. David Stinson, a demented man who has been wandering about town, was also ordered to leave.

Idyl Wyld Summer ....Resort

RICE LAKE, ONTARIO.

THIS Roomy and Beautiful Island Summer Resort will re-open for the season of 1899 on June 12th, under entirely new and up-to-date management. Important new additions to the building and hotel equipment have been effected. Twenty new Bed Rooms, Sitting Rooms and Waiting Rooms have been added, and entirely refurnished in modern style. Broad balconies extend around each of the two new stories erected, affording picturesque views of the surrounding scenery.

The cuisine will be a special feature—fresh meat, fresh fish, fresh eggs, milk and butter, as well as wholesome vegetables and fruit in abundance, necessitated by a robust appetite, sharpened by the ozone and continual breeze of this idylic spot.

Good bass and muskinonge fishing are along the shore and lake. No charge for Americans fishing—no permits required. Boats and competent guides furnished. The island steam launch "Outlet Queen," can be engaged for excursion parties, whether public or private. Tables and Seats for picnic parties are all over the ground in shady groves. Come and spend your summer vacation at Idyl Wyld, and for your life don't miss it.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

LATHAM'S WINNING RUN.

And How It Figured In Having Him Dubbed "the Dude."

Charley Comiskey told the story of how Arlie Latham came to be called "the dude."

"One spring during Latham's term of service with the good old St. Louis Browns," said Comiskey, "he jumped into the opening game of the season and won us a victory by knocking out a home run in the last inning. Chris Von der Ahe from his place in the grand stand saw Arlie make his sensational hit and naturally enthused. After the game 'der boss president' entered the clubhouse and in that peculiar dialect of his said to Latham:

"'Arlie, my poy, you must be glad that I, Chris, vas proud mit you, an I vill show you vat my feelings is by giving you the present of somedings for you to wear on yourself. Take dis order on mine own tailor an go an dress up yourself.'

"Chris' order on the tailor read something like this:

"'Give to Arlie der t'ings vat he buys, an send to me der bill.'

"Latham didn't do a thing on the strength of that order but replenish his wardrobe. For three days in succession he showed up at the ball park in a fine make up, and every suit of clothes was brand new. On the fourth day Chris got a bill from the clothing people for $100. Naturally he sent for Latham and demanded an explanation.

"'Why, Chris, old pal,' said 'Lath,' 'there's nothing to explain. Didn't you agree in that order you gave me to pay for what I bought, and haven't I just begun to buy? Why, old pal, I have only got three suits and expect to be measured for another this afternoon. What's wrong?'

"'Arlie,' replied Von der Ahe, 'you vas de one infernal dude in de pisness. I vill dis bill pay, but you vill yourself go to der tailor an mit him explain vot I dink of der impudence of you yourself. You vill also stop mit de clothes you now have on an do no more mit such foolishness mit der man vot pays your salary. Arlie, you vas one dude, an if you play mit any errors dis afternoon I vill myself fine you all der bootiful clothes you have yourself bought.'

"From that day Latham is known to the baseball world as 'the dude.' Between ourselves, he was a neat dresser, and as good a third baseman in his day as ever played the position."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

A MIGHTY TRIBUTE.

What a Cent From Each Person on Earth Would Mean.

A tramp who lately sought a night's lodgings announced that he was bent on collecting one penny from every person on earth. He had already got 85 cents.

This fantastic idea of a humorous adventurer is not lacking in suggestiveness, though it isn't necessarily suggested that anybody should take up his alleged job in dead earnest.

In the first place, when Mr. Tramp or anybody else gets his coin collecting task done he will find the need of making arrangements with the railroad combine for a lot of large sized freight cars. He will have something like 5,860 tons of metal on hand, which won't transport itself.

And if he gets tired of thinking of his precious 1 cent pieces by weight he can think of them in miles. Stood up on edge and stretching away in long lines, the coin would reach from New York to Chicago and back to Buffalo, with a whole lot to spare. There would indeed be 1,484 miles of hard cash in the narrow, continuous rolls.

This, it seems, should be a lot of money. So it is, yet no Rockefeller, Gould, Astor or Vanderbilt would have particular cause to envy its possessor.

The sum represented would be, in round numbers, about $15,000,000, since it would consist of 1 cent each from about 1,500,000,000 persons.

As to the time that it will take to collect this tribute from the earth at large, let no one think it's a job for a weak, a month or a day.

If a persistent person is willing to stay at the task for 40 years, working Sundays and holidays and can manage to average something like $684.93 per day in collections, he will just about complete the work laid out by the tramp.

MISS CAPRICE.

BY ST. GEORGE RATHBONE

Author of "Doctor Jack," "Doctor Jack's Wife," "Captain Tom," "Miss Pauline of New York," Etc.

"I told you I had not seen my mother since I was a child, yet she is not dead. An unfortunate affair happened, and she was exiled from home. Heaven knows I have ever believed her innocent.

"On several occasions, unbeknown to my stern father, I have received a line without a signature, a line that called down Heaven's blessings on my head, a line that caused me to cry like a baby.

"Thus, year by year, my resolve became stronger; I would find my mother, I would seek the solution of the dreadful mystery that hangs over the Craig home."

"My studies were done; I graduated at the head of the medical class and spent a year under the most eminent professors at Heidelberg. When they gave me my diploma, they wrote my father that I ought to have a year of travel to improve my health before entering upon the life work to which I am devoted.

"Of course my desire was granted, and I began the search. I have been six months at it without success; it is like pursuing an ignis fatuus. A clue would take me to Russia, whence I would fly to Persia, then to Turkey, and next to London. In Paris I felt sure of success, but the lady I was tracking turned out to be a grandmother, and there was a lively scene in her house when I sprung my game.

"Talk of Japheth in search of his father!' why, he wasn't in it at all, compared with me. At last came another clue; among the letters forwarded in a bunch from home was a line in the same precious hand. See, here it is."

He takes out from a note-book a slip of paper; the writing is elegant and feminine.

She reads:

"January 12th. Just twenty years to-day. Oh! Heaven! teach me to kiss the rod."

No signature, only a mark like a tear drop.

"Now, you realize my position; you can, in a measure, understand the peculiar mingling of love, reverence and pity with which I think of this mother, and how the thought of her enters into every act of mine."

"Yes, yes, I do, indeed," sympathetically.

"I have sworn to find her— to let her know there is one who loves the poor exile. Let my father rage if he will, my heart burns to meet her. I will proceed. The letter was postmarked Malta, here at Valetta."

"But you did not mention——"

"I knew the steamer would stop a few hours at least, and thought that might be enough in which to learn the truth. Strange things have happened since we landed. I have learned several facts which astound me.

"You saw a man come in and draw me aside? That man controls the destinies of these people of Valetta, even as a chief of police would in our cities. When first I landed I sought the presence of Luther Keene——"

"There, your mention of his name revives my recollection like a flash. Now I know just when and where I met that man," she says.

"He promised to assist me, for a consideration, of course, and was especially delighted at the chance to prove that even out here in Malta there might be a second Vidocq.

"In his first report he told me the party I sought had been in Valetta only recently, but he believed she was now gone.

"The man told me just now where Blanche Austin stayed during her residence here, at a house on the Strada Mezzodi, and I shall go as soon as I leave you to make enquiries there. If you are interested in my story, you might perhaps care to hear what news I may pick up on my visit to this house, which has so recently covered my mother."

"Indeed, I am more than interested in your story, and anxious to learn how you succeed. Would you know your mother if you should meet her to-day?' she asks, mentally wondering why he has taken her into his confidence.

"I believe so. A son's loving eyes would do much toward solving the problem."

"But your memory of her must be exceedingly hazy, to say the least."

"That is true, but I have another clue. Once, when a boy, I was rummaging through some old papers in an antique secretary which I found in the attic, when I ran across an ivory miniature that had been overlooked.

"Upon it was painted a girl's face; my heart told me who it was, and underneath I found the words 'Blanche Austin at eighteen.'

"I have treasured that ever since; it has been my most valued possession. Would you like to see it, Lady Ruth?'

"Most assuredly," she replies, warmly, eagerly.

He places it in her hands.

"It was plain when I found it; with my spending money for a whole year I had that gold locket made which holds it now. Ever since it has been very close to my heart."

"Such devotion is wonderful. I sincerely hope it will meet its reward."

Then she looks at the miniature, which time has not in the least harmed, looks at it and utters a little ejaculation.

"She was beautiful, indeed, Doctor Chicago—most charming. A face to haunt one. I can see a trace of sadness in it, even at this early age, as though her coming troubles cast a shadow before. You will be surprised when I tell you I have met her."

CHAPTER V.

The medical student looks at her eagerly.

"Where—where? he asks huskily.

Any one who has met the woman about whom cluster all the tender associations and thoughts of his lonely years of childhood must assume new importance in his eyes.

"It was a year or so ago. At the time I was in Paris with my uncle, Sir Hugh, then alive."

"Yes, yes, she was there about that time, as I have since learned."

"I was out driving alone; it was just at dusk when we were returning from the boulevards, and a wheel came off the vehicle.

"Though a little alarmed, I kept my senses and bade the driver tie his horse and then seek another vehicle for me.

"The neighborhood chanced to be a rather unsavory one. I could hear boisterous men singing, and on finding myself alone I grew alarmed. From windows frowsy heads were thrust out and rude women mocked at me. I feared insult, injury. I was ready to fly for my life when a hand touched my arm and a gentle voice said:

"'Come with me, miss, I will protect you.'"

John trembles with emotion.

"Then you have heard her speak! Oh, what bliss that would be for me—my mother, my poor mother who has suffered so long."

"When I looked in her face I knew I could trust her. Besides, her garb reassured me."

"Her garb," wonderingly.

"Yes. She was dressed as a Sister of Charity or some other order in Paris. Willingly I followed her to an adjoining house. She begged me to sit down and await the vehicle. I was grateful, and asked her questions about the great work being done by such organizations in the gay city of Paris.

"I was interested in her and asked her her name. She told me she was known as Sister Magdalen. Then the carriage came and I left."

"One question, Lady Ruth—how did she impress you?"

"Frankly, as one who had passed through the furnace of affliction; her face was sad, yet, oh, so inexpressibly sweet. It haunted me. I have looked at every sister I met wherever I travelled, in the hope of meeting her, but it has been useless."

It can be readily believed that this arouses the deepest interest in the young student of medicine. The desire to find his mother has been the one aim of his life; it has carried him over many a dark crisis, and has become stronger with the passage of years.

Now he is getting daily, hourly, nearer the object of his solicitude, and his anticipation so long and fondly cherished, bids fair to be a realization.

"How I envy you Lady Ruth. You have seen her, pressed her hand. It makes you seem less a stranger to me to think that my mother was able to do you a service."

"I am positive it was she. Wait—perhaps I can prove it. I noticed she had a medallion secured around her neck with a guard, and once I was enabled to see the face upon it. It was that of a man."

"Oh! describe it if you can."

"The gentleman, I should judge, was about twenty-three. He wore a moustache and small side whiskers. I judged he was English. His hair was light and inclined to be curly."

John Craig smiles.

"Ah! the last doubt has been swept away."

"You recognize this picture, then?"

"Yes; your description answers for my father when he was a young man. I have not the slightest doubt that it was the one I seek who rendered you this service. And she is a Sister of Charity! I don't understand.'

"Your story has interested me deeply, doctor. You have my most sincere wishes for success: and if I can in any way assist you, don't hesitate to call upon me."

"I believe you mean every word of it, and from my heart I thank you. I must leave you now, to seek the house in the Strada Mezzodi—the house that may reveal much or little."

At this moment the others enter; fortune has been kind to allow the conversation to reach its legitimate end, and John, with a pleasant word for Aunt Gwen and her husband and only a peculiar look for the Briton, hurries out.

In five minutes more he comes down stairs, ready for the street. To his surprise, he is stopped near the door by some one he knows—Philander Sharpe, wearing a ridiculous helmet hat, as becomes a traveller.

"Pardon me, but I am in a hurry," he says, as the other plucks his sleeve.

"Oh! yes, but I'm going with you, Chicago," pipes the little professor shutting one eye and nodding in a very knowing manner.

"But I'm not off to paint the town red," says John, believing the other thinks it is his intention to see the sights of Malta's capital by night—"I have an engagement."

"In the Strada Mezzodi, eh?"

"Thunder, how did you guess it?" ejaculates the man of medicine, astonished beyond measure.'

"I am not a guesser. I know what I know, and a dozed sight more than some people think, especially my beloved wife, Gwendolin."

"What do you know—come to the point?"

"First, all about your past and the trouble in the Craig family."

"Confusion! and you never told me you had ever heard of me before? This explains the manner in which you seemed to study me at times on the steamer," reproachfully.

"Just so. I had reasons for my silence; she was one of them," jerking his thumb over his shoulder in the direction of the parlor above, whence the voice of the amiable Gwendoline Makepeace floats to their ears.

"In haste, then, let me tell you a secret, John. I was not always what you see me, a docile, henpecked man. Twenty-five years ago Philander Sharpe, young, good-looking, conceited and rich, had the world before him."

"Cut it short, I beg, professor," groans John, impatient to be off.

THE SAN JOSE COMMISSION

A Lot More Evidence Taken on Wednesday at Niagara.

Speaking Generally, It Was Against the Working of the Act—Some Orchardists Fared Badly—A Charge Against the St. Catharines and Grimsby Districts—A Suggestion for Providing a Fund for Proper Compensation—The Program.

Niagara, Ont., June 22.—The San Jose scale commission continued its sessions yesterday morning. Among the witnesses examined were Inspector Robert Thompson, St. Catharines; W. H. Lee, Virgil; Inspector Joseph Healey, Niagara; James Robinson, Niagara; Alf. Ball, Niagara, and L. M. Nelles, Niagara.

All the witnesses were against the working of the act. It was claimed that the climatic conditions of Ontario were sufficient in themselves to kill out the scale. Furthermore, if this was not true, yet the scale had progressed so far that even the drastic measures in vogue could not overtake it; for it is to-day not only prevalent in Niagara district, but also all over Ontario, in nearly all fruit orchards. The fruit men here claim that the act was the outcome of urgings from fruit men in St. Catharines and Grimsby districts, who gained by the destruction of the Niagara trees.

A Suggestion.

It was suggested that a county tax of one mill be placed upon all fruit trees in a district so that an adequate compensation could be given to the owners of destroyed orchards. As it now is, a tree is valued by the inspectors at $2, and the owners get but 50 cents when it is cut down as being infected with the scale. It is claimed that such a tax would be just, because those whose orchards were not decimated would be gaining by the lessening of the limit of supply.

Fruit Men Were Sad.

In the afternoon the commissioners, accompanied by Stenographer Yates, drove through Niagara Township and inspected the work of devastation. They were met by many fruit men whose orchards have been shorn. Some had tears in their eyes, so sad were they that the orchards that had taken years to cultivate should be cut down in a day at the behest of the Government. One man said his orchard was worth $7,000 two years ago. It had a mortgage upon it of $3,500. To-day he would willingly give it away to anyone who would assume the incumbrance.

The Program.

This morning the commissioners go over to Youngstown to see how the scale fares there. To-morrow night they go to St. Catharines, and thence to Grimsby. Next week they will be in Essex and Kent Counties.

Niagara is characterised as being opposed to the act, St. Catharines is divided in opinion, while Grimsby lauds the act to the skies.

Since the commission began its work, the blazing of trees and the hauling of them from the ground has ceased, though the inspecting still goes on. For the time being the act is suspended. It is not generally known, but it is a fact, that had a commission not been appointed, a test case would have been made of the act by the fruit men.

Reeve Greene's Evidence.

Late last night Joseph Greene, reeve of Niagara Township, was examined. He was satisfied to have the inspection go on, but thought the compensation should be larger. He raised the question of compensation for small fruits that were destroyed under the act. He thought the scale was being kept well in hand.

BROME SCOTT ACT DEFEAT.

Hon. Sidney Fisher Said to Be Pained at the Result of the Voting.

Montreal, June 22.—Hon. Sidney Fisher is said to have a pain over the anti-Scott Act victory in Brome. The result was a surprise only in the overwhelming character of the majority, which at present is figured up at 506. Outsiders who have been in the county during the past few weeks can bear witness to the general dissatisfaction with the old system that has prevailed for so long a time, and the desire for a change. Up to the eve of polling the most sanguine opponents of the Scott Act placed the probable majority at 300. Every township except West Bolton gave a majority for repeal, and only several polling places show majorities in favor of the act.

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

Observance of the Sabbath Was the Subject for Discussion.

Hamilton, June 22.—Sabbath observance was the subject of debate at the General Assembly yesterday morning, when the consideration of the report of the committee on church life and work was resumed.

The committee's recommendation under this head was "That the observance of the Lord's Day be made the subject of instruction from the pulpit as occasion requires, and that continuous and determined effort be put forth to preserve it in its entirety from the encroachments that are being made upon it."

RAILWAY TIES.

Electric cars have displaced the last remaining cable cars in Baltimore.

There are nearly 2,000 more miles of trolleys than there were in 1897. The total mileage of this country is 15,673.

More than 2,000,000 trees have been planted along the line of the Northern Pacific railroad in Dakota to serve as protection from snowdrifts.

The Northern Railway of France has on its schedule one train making 57.7 miles per hour, one making 56.8 miles and two making 55.8 miles per hour. The Caledonian of Scotland is the only British line with a faster schedule, one train running 33½ miles at 59.1 miles per hour.

Kautz Defends Himself.

San Francisco, June 22.—The U.S. cruiser Philadelphia arrived here yesterday from Apia. On board the cruiser are the bodies of Lieut. Lansdale and Ensign Monaghan, who lost their lives in the fight between the Matoafans and the combined forces of the American and British seamen. Admiral Kautz is in command of the cruiser, and he reiterates that he has done his duty in the matter of the Samoan trouble, and he believes that he has been subjected to much unjust criticism in certain quarters.

Dewey at Colombo.

Colombo, Island of Ceylon, June 22.—The U.S. cruiser Olympia, with Admiral Dewey on board, arrived from Singapore this morning.

DR. GAUTHIER ENDORSES

The statement that Mr. Major cures his wife to . . . . DR. CHASE'S Kidney Liver Pills

Dr. J. T. A. Gauthier, of Valleyfield, Que., writes: "I, the undersigned, certify that the contents of this letter, in regard to the cure of Mr. Isadore Major, by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, is correct."

Here is Mr. Major's letter: "After 20 years of suffering from backache and kidney disease I owe my life to Dr. A. W. Chase. I had tried an endless variety of remedies to no avail, and on the recommendation of a friend began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Two pills that night and two next morning gave great relief, and I continued their use until now I am completely cured. My friends are surprised and pleased to see me well again, for I spent hundreds of dollars in vain trying to get cured. Before using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills my back ached so I could not put on my shoes and couldn't lift so 10s. My shoulders were sore, I had headaches and a bad taste in the mouth. These troubles are now entirely gone and what I say I am ready to prove. I have told my friends of my wonderful cure, and many have been greatly benefited by using these pills."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are the greatest kidney cure the world has ever known. One pill a dose, 25c. a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

TESTIMONIALS

Allistan, March 1st, 1899.

I have had one of your "Crematory Closets" in use now for several weeks and am glad to be able to say that I have found it entirely satisfactory in every respect. I have not been able to detect the slightest odor from it at any time and would not be without it. I am sure it must prove a great convenience to people in the country and in towns where water is not obtainable.

Yours respectfully. JAMES CONWAY.

Sheddon, February 28th, 1899.

I have used it for some time and find it perfectly odorless. It is a long felt want and I believe it will become very popular especially in rural districts, towns and villages where wells are so frequently contaminated by the ordinary closets. I am, yours, etc.,

ANNUAL PICNIC AT ENNISMORE

A SUCCESSFUL GATHERING HELD AT TARA GROVE.

The Special Holiday of the Parish of Ennismore—Big Crowds on the Grounds—Various Attractions.

The annual picnic of the Roman Catholic parish of Ennismore, St. Martin's, was held at Tara grove on Tuesday, June 20th. The gathering was a successful one, the day being delightful, the attractions numerous and the crowd large. Father McColl had been unceasing in his preparations and to him the chief credit for the success of the picnic is due.

Shortly after dinner the chair on the orator's platform was taken by Rev. Father McColl and short speeches were made by Rev. Father Bretherton, of Emily, Mr. J. B. McWilliams, Mr. Jas. Stevenson, Mr. Geo. E. Elliott and others. Father McColl extended a hearty welcome to all present.

The dancing pavilion was one of the chief places of recreation, being well patronized all day. The LaBelle brothers gave an exhibition of slack wire work.

The athletic events were won as follows:

Standing jump—W. E. Purdue, J. Sullivan.

Running long jump—T. Hickson, G. Gatty.

Hop, step and jump—T. Hickson, E. Kelly.

Vaulting with pole—W. E. Purdue, M. O'Donoghue.

Putting heavy weight—T. Hickson, D. Kennedy.

Men's race—G. Dotty, M. Kelly.

Boys' race, under 15 years—B. Davis, J. Dolan.

Tea was served about 5 o'clock, after which the dancing was continued until dark.

The committee under whose auspices arrangements were carried out was composed of Messrs. Paul Costello, Wm. Crough, Cornelius O'Connor, P. Crough, J. Scollard, Stephen O'Reilly, John Flood and Richard O'Killen.

EVENING ENTERTAINMENT.

In the evening a splendid concert was given by the children. Rev. Father Bretherton occupied the chair. The programme was as follows:

Chorus—children..... Red, White and Blue
Song—Mr. J. K. Galvin ... Selected
Recitation—Celia Crough .....
Song and Dance—..... Misses. O'Donoghue and Galvin
Dialogue, "Sam Weller and Son,—..... B. Bell and E. Stafford
Song—Gertie Maloney, ..."Won't you ....Come to My Tea Party."
Drill—"Milk Maids," May Leonard, Ida Galvin, Lottie Scollard, A. Scollard, Mamie Gannon, Celia Guiry.
Song—B. Bell, ... "I want my Lulu"
Tableau—"There was an old woman who lived in a shoe." In 3 acts.

Part II.

Chorus—by children .....
Song—Miss Ida Galvin ..."The Old Lock"
Drill—By twelve children.....Flag Drill
Recitation—Mr. J. K. Galvin ... .
Quartette—Misses Galvin and Scollard and Mr. B. Bell ... ."Juanita"
Recitation—Celia Crough ....
Song—Mr. J. K. Galvin ... ... Selected
Dialogue— .... "Advertising for a Companion"
Song—"Dear Heart"... ...Miss McKenna
Tableau—"Nations" ....
Chorus—Children ... ... "Mermaid"
God Save the Queen.

The orchestra was composed of Mr. Galvin, banjo; Mr. T. Hickson, mandolin; M. O'Donoghue, violin; Miss K. Scollard, violin; Mrs. Cadigan, autoharp; T. Guiry, accompanist. It rendered excellent music.

The children's choir under the direction of Miss McKenna, was composed of Miss Agnes, Lottie, Etta and Nora Scollard, Maggie Young, Ida Galvin, Lottie, Celia, and Mary Crough, Gerie Mober, Jeito Galvin, Kate and Mary Costello, Lizzie Sullivan, Nellie and Lottie O'Connor, M. Celia Leonard, Celia Guiry, Mary O'Donoghue, Mamie Gannon and Mary Brick and Willie Bell, Ernest Stafford, Ed. Crough, Willie Mober and P. Cadigan.

STATE THEIR CASE.

The Mud Lake Indians Pass a Resolution Regarding the Fishing Regulations.

To the Editor of Review, Peterborough—

Sir,—At a meeting of Mud Lake band of Indians held at Chemong on the 17th day of June, 1899, it was moved by L. D. Taylor and seconded by Be McCue, that—

Inasmuch as J. R. Stratton, Esq., M. P.P., has induced the Minister of Marines and Fisheries to favorably consider the changing of the close season for bass and lunge, and the Examiner in advocating the change has made statements which are contrary to our interests and unjust to us as a people, we desire to set ourselves right.

1st. The statement that "The Indians in the fall of the year stake out all the beds where the fish congregate during the winter," is quite untrue. The Indians do not stake out the fishbeds, though they would be within their rights if they did.

It is said that we build "Fishing shanties" over the holes, and being thus protected from the weather we "fish continuously." This statement has not even the shadow of a foundation in truth. We never build "fishing shanties." No such thing was ever seen in these parts. Nor do we fish continually.

It is further stated that the fish "being hungry bite freely and are caught by the sleigh load." This is a statement so much at variance with the truth that it is astonishing that any one could make it. The fish never bite freely until after the 1st of April and we do not think the best fishermen average more than 25c. per day during the winter season.

The statement is made that "sleigh-load after sleigh-load of fish leave Stony Lake, etc." As far as we know or are concerned, this is false. We do very little fishing in Stony Lake, either winter or summer, and we do not believe that our people have caught one sleigh load there by winter fishing in the past ten years even if all were put together.

It is further stated that we are "subjected to the importunities of those who pose as our friends who purchase our fish at 2 or 3 cents a pound to sell at a large profit," and that therein lies the "material foundation for some of the friendly interest in our welfare so loudly expressed." This statement is as void of truth as all the others.

Mr. Kennedy has not traded in any way with the Indians for the past five years, and when he did we never received less than at least twice the price named, and he is not now even living on the reserve, and last winter we received from 6 to 9c. per lb. for our fish or an average of about 7c. for the winter.

And we protest that we are not the cause of the depletion of fish in these waters.

We believe from experience and observation that the depletion is due to the destruction of spawn and fry every spring, caused by the flooding of our flat shores where the spawn and fry are left to perish when the water goes down in May, and to this cause, and the excessive fishing by the hundreds of sportsmen and summer visitors, is due the depletion of Stony Lake, for the Indians do very little fishing there. And we request that the secretary send copies of this resolution to the Peterborough papers, and to the Hon. the Minister of Marine and Fisheries.

Carried unanimously.

W. J. McCUE, Secretary. JOSEPH IRONS, Chief.

Chemong, June 17th, 1899.

Mr. D. W. Dumble, ex-president of the Stony Lake Cottagers Association, was shown the above resolution, as the Cottage Owners' Association had been the prime movers in the agitation which resulted in the change in the regulations being made. Mr. Dumble said changes had been desired because the Cottager Owners Associations of these lakes and Muskoka wanted to see the small back lakes preserved as fishing grounds for sportsmen and local purposes. Their desire and the object of the Government in changing the regulations was to preserve the fish for sportsmen and local demands, and prevent fishing for commercial and export purposes. The small lakes would not stand the drain of these latter operations. He believed that there were some inaccuracies in what had been said in regard to the Indians, who were entitled to some special consideration. Still the Indians could make profit out of sportsmen who employed guides and paddlers, and if the lakes became depleted of fish, not only would the fish be gone but the summer employment would also cease. The Government's object was to prevent fishing for commercial purposes, although no one could object to the Indians fishing for their own wants or local demands.

WEARY OF EXPERIMENTING.

With salves, suppositories and ointments and dreading a surgical operation, scores and hundreds have turned to Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment and found in it an absolute cure for piles. The first application brings relief from the terrible itching, and it is very seldom that more than one box is required to effect a permanent cure.

THE FASHION PLATE.

Among the latest accessories of the toilet are lace blouses and lace jackets and jacket fronts.

The new toques are wider than they have been in many seasons. The simple Trelawny is one of the latest styles.

The long overdress in princess style is perhaps one of the best compromise forms of dress for one not pleased with the present outlining styles.

Chiffon, mousseline de soie and all the other very light transparent textiles reappear as leading adjuncts for dressy gowns and toilets of every description.

Some of the most stylish of the fancy waists of the season are of all black or all white silk or of white taffeta or faille barred, dotted or striped in black satin.

Some of the Eton and bolero jackets have belted backs and elongated, space shaped fronts; others are doubled breasted and do not reach the waist line by perhaps three inches.

A new matelasse silk shows a shadowy ground of pinkish mother of pearl gray, with figures of shaded flowers and shaded green foliage and a narrow line of stem green satin crossing the lustrous surface.

On many of the new light, faced cloth tailor costumes for the summer machine stitching and cloth strappings seem to be giving way to a somewhat more fanciful trimming of rows of silk or mohair braid, with buttons to match.

Chrysanthemum rosettes are used with very pretty effect on evening toilets and summer picture hats. They are made of shaded tulle, chiffon or mousseline brilliante and are used to complete draperies of the same airy material.

There are very few summer silks that do the general service of a foulard. Not only are gowns of these fabrics cool, light and comfortable, but many of the colors and designs render them suitable for occasions when full dress is necessary, while other shades and patterns are good for common wear.

BEE BUZZES.

If the bees are fed too heavily, the combs will be filled up.

Many keepers clip the queen's wings when they hive their swarms.

Strong colonies prevented from swarming is the key to large honey crops.

If moths once gain a footing in the hives the colonies will soon be destroyed.

Italian bees are better workers and are more easily controlled than black ones.

A little pine tar smeared on a board and placed near the hive will keep ants away.

Approach a hive of bees from the side or rear, so as not to disturb the bees at work.

Thick, well ripened honey will not granulate so readily as that which is thin.

There is no possible economy in taking from a strong colony to build up a weak one.

Basswood is said to be the greatest money producer for the time that it is in bloom.

A large number of extra combs are necessary when extracted honey is the object sought.

Colonies that are well fed will increase to more than double the number of those not fed.

Leaving honey about at any time where they can get at it will often start the bees to robbing.

There must be promptness in putting on surplus boxes or sections whenever the hives are crowded.

In rendering beeswax a tin, copper or brass vessel should be used. An iron vessel will darken it.

LIBELS ON WOMEN.

It doesn't take a woman very long to discover the defects in a mirror.—Chicago News.

The Chihuahua girls have taken to carrying magnets because, they say, there are so many men with hearts of steel.—Mexican Herald.

Every woman imagines that she looks younger in a new hat, and that the more she pays for it the younger she will look.—Atchison Globe.

It's only married women that say all men are alike. Every girl knows at least one man who is superior to all others.—Chillicothe Enquirer.

Lightning never strikes twice in the same place. The analogy between lightning and a woman driving a nail, while striking, is doubtless quite accidental.—Detroit Journal.

TOWN TOPICS.

The latest agitation in Chicago is for a fireproof river.—Leavenworth Times.

If Henry Fuller calls Chicago a horror, what does he think of St. Louis?—Kansas City Star.

The St. Louis World's fair for 1903 is assured. The whole country should now get into the St. Louis World's fair band wagon. It's going to eclipse the Chicago matinee and make the eclipse total.—Madison (Mo.) Times.

The differences of opinion that exist in Boston concerning the abatement of the English sparrow nuisance arise mainly from the fact that there is nothing in the writings of Emerson to show what ought to be done.

THE COOKBOOK.

To scald milk set it in a jug or basin in a pan of cold water over the fire. When the water boils, the milk is scalded.

To make a steak tender mix two tablespoonfuls of vinegar with one of oil, brush this over the steak and let it lie in the mixture three hours before cooking.

Cut the thin skin from the outside of a leg of mutton, or the mutton chops, before cooking them, in order to remove the "woolly taste" that some find so objectionable.

In baking cakes or muffins in gem pans it should be remembered that if there is not quite enough batter to fill all the set a little water should be put in each one of the empty ones before they are put into the oven.

And Not With Water.

"I gave that poor man a dollar a few days ago and told him to come around and let me know how he got along."

"Oh, that was good of you! He was your bread cast upon the waters."

"I suppose he was. Anyhow he came back 'soaked.'"—Pittsburg News.

The French Shore Question.

St. John's, Nfld., June 22.—The gravity of the situation arising out of the French assertion of territorial rights on the treaty coast is increasing steadily. Commodore G. A. Gifford, commanding the British squadron in Newfoundland waters during the fishing season, conferred yesterday on the subject with the Governor, Sir Hugh McCallum, and the Colonial Cabinet. As a result of the conference strong representations were wired to the Imperial Government, urging vigorous action to maintain the rights of the colony. An answer is expected to-day.

FRANCE HAS A NEW CABINET

Senator Waldeck-Rousseau Has Succeeded in His Task.

There Are Several New Names—Delcasse Is Minister for Foreign Affairs—Marquis de Gallifet Takes the War Portfolio and He Is Favorable to Dreyfus — Some Other Peculiarities That Will Strike the Keen Observer.

Paris, June 23.—Yesterday afternoon the announcement was made that Senator Waldeck-Rousseau had completed the formation of a Cabinet. The Senator,

THE NEW PREMIER.

accompanied by the new Cabinet Ministers, proceeded to the Elysee Palace at 6.40 p.m. to present his colleagues to President Loubet.

The new Cabinet of France, as organized, is as follows:

Senator Waldeck-Rousseau, President of the Council of Ministers and Minister of the Interior.

M. Delcasse, Minister of Foreign Affairs.

General the Marquis de Gallifet, Minister of War.

M. de Lanessan, Minister of Marine.

M. Monis, Minister of Justice.

M. Caillaux, Minister of Finance.

M. Millerand, Minister of Commerce.

M. Leygues, Minister of Public Instruction.

M. de Crais, Minister of the Colonies.

M. Jean Dupuy, Minister of Agriculture.

M. Pierre Bandin, Minister of Public Works.

Some Peculiarities.

The appointment of General the Marquis de Gallifet as Minister of War is an extraordinary example of the way in which the Dreyfus case has revolutionized political conditions. For years past the General has been the bugaboo of the extremists, not only because of his monarchical sympathies, but on account of the rigorous manner in which he took part in repressing the Commune. His entry into the Cabinet is undoubtedly due to his attitude towards the Dreyfus case, which has been thoroughly favorable to Dreyfus, although he holds that the proclamation of the prisoner's innocence should not include placing the responsibility of the apparent judicial blunders upon the general staff. Senator Waldeck-Rousseau entered Parliament from Rennes, where he once practiced law.

M. Waldeck-Rousseau was born at Nantes, Dec. 2, 1846. After practicing law at Rennes he became a member of the Paris bar. He was elected to the Chamber of Deputies in 1879 and was Minister of the Interior in the Gambetta Cabinet, 1881-82, and in the Ferry Cabinet, 1883-85. He was re-elected in 1885, retired from politics in 1889 and was elected Senator in 1894. In politics he is a Republican and a revisionist.

BOERS PREPARING TO FIGHT.

Transvaal Government Will Make a Stubborn Fight.

London, June 23.—The Daily Mail yesterday morning says an extremely brisk business is being done at Lloyd's in war risks at daily advancing rates.

The Kolnische Zeitung of Berlin publishes a despatch from The Hague asserting that Dutch official circles are aware that the Transvaal Government is preparing to make a most stubborn defence in the event of war with Great Britain, and is arming in the most complete fashion. According to this information, Pretoria has just ordered 25 quick-fire and several heavy-calibre guns for fort artillery from the Krupps.

Kruger Hasels a Little.

Pretoria, June 23.—In accordance with the promise made by President Kruger to Sir Alfred Milner, British high commissioner for South Africa, at the recent conference in Bloemfontein, capital of the Orange Free State, the Transvaal Executive has finally decided to increase the representation of the gold fields in the Volksraad. The Government will probably give six members, instead of two, the present representation.

Four Children Drowned.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., June 23.—Summerside was the scene of a tragedy which carried sorrow and weeping into three homes and involved the loss of four lives. The victims were four little girls, the eldest 11 years of age, the youngest 6 years, who were drowned within sight of their homes. There were five in the party, which had gone clam digging, the names of the little ones being Bell May Fraser, Laura, Aggie and Janie Gallant, and Daisy Perry. The girls had wandered along the sand bars about the shore for several hours and before they noticed it the tide came in and surrounded them. They immediately started to wade ashore, but only one, Aggie Gallant, succeeded in reaching a place of safety.

The Anglican Synod.

Toronto, June 23.—The proceedings at the Anglican Synod yesterday were exciting. Every report was contested and speeches for and against the various proposals were made by both lay and clerical members. After prolonged discussion it was agreed to grant the Bishop of Algoma $1,000 for three years for missionary purposes. A new scheme for the widows and orphans' fund proved exciting. Ultimately the matter remained in the same position as last year.

AN UNFORTUNATE MOVE.

The Sending Home of American Volunteers Makes Filipinos Believe War Is Being Abandoned.

Manila, June 23.—The rebels have learned that the American volunteers are returning to the United States, and the Filipino newspapers show they construe this to mean that the Americans are abandoning the war and are encouraged thereby.

The outposts of the Washington Regiment yesterday captured General Pio del Pilar's brass band of 32 pieces, the members of which somehow became separated from the rebel army and came near the American lines without having the means of resistance. Some Chinamen of Manila have filed a claim against the instruments, which, it appears, were leased by the musicians of General Pio del Pilar.

Four of the wounded of the 4th Regiment's recent fight with the rebels have died in the hospital.

The Argonauts in England.

Henley, Eng., June 23.—The members of the Argonaut Rowing Club of Toronto, who were passengers on the White Star Line steamer Teutonic, arrived here yesterday after travelling all night long. In spite of this they tried their new four-oared shell.

The crew found the boat unsatisfactory, but covered the full course. The men say they average ten pounds too heavy. The time was 7 minutes and 57 seconds.

The Argonauts' sight are satisfied with their boat.

COMMONERS UP ALL NIGHT.

Wednesday's Session Did Not Adjourn Till Thursday.

The Estimates Are Now Being Hurried Over, and the Supplementaries May Be Completed Without More Delay—Mr. Sifton Had Studied the Text, and Showed He Was Well Posted on Indian Affairs.

Ottawa, June 23.—When the report of Parliament proceedings closed in yesterday's paper, the struggle between the Government and the Opposition in committee of supply was still going on, the point of issue being that Mr. Foster, who was leading the Opposition, was insisting that more information was needed with reference to the Government's policy of building a telegraph line of its own into the Yukon, while Mr. Fielding, Sir Louis Davies and Mr. Blair were contending that the Government had furnished sufficient information.

Continued Till 5.30 a.m.

The struggle was continued until half-past 5, when Mr. Fielding gave in and read to the House a copy of the instructions given to Mr. Charleson when he left on May 10 last to commence construction of the line. This very nearly caused an adjournment, but the Government held out for an hour longer in an endeavor to get a few items passed. At half-past 6, however, a compromise was effected by which the vote for $25,000 for the Yukon telegraph lines and a couple of small items for public works were allowed to pass, and the House adjourned, having scored its second all-night sitting of this session.

In the House Again.

The Speaker took the chair again at 3 o'clock p.m. yesterday, when a couple of questions were answered, and the House at once went into committee of supply, taking up the supplementary estimates for 1899-1900. A small vote for the geological survey was passed, and then some votes for the Department of Indian Affairs were taken up and discussed at some length.

Mr. Bennett brought up the question of an export duty on logs, and argued that the Government should at least place an embargo on the export of logs cut on Indian reserves.

Sir Henri Joly, without entering into the merits of the case at all, merely urged that as the lumber question and export duties were amongst the matters referred to the consideration of the Anglo-American conference it would be very inopportune to discuss export duties on lumber at the present time.

Dr. Sproule deprecated procrastination in dealing with the question of export duties, and could not see that any good end could be attained by a "waiting policy." He regarded the plea that immediate action might interfere with the proceedings of the Anglo-American conference as a mere subterfuge, and urged the Government to lose no more time, but to deal with the question at once.

Mr. Ives was opposed to dealing with the question at present, and thought its consideration should be delayed until after the Anglo-American conference had concluded its labors. The Ontario law he considered both illegal and illogical, and it ought to have been disallowed when it was passed by the Local Legislature.

After some further discussion, the items in the supplementaries for the Indian Department were passed.

At the request of Mr. Sifton, the supplementaries were then dropped for a while, and the Indian Department votes in the main estimates taken up. Mr. Sifton explained that some of these votes were urgently needed.

A general discussion of the Indian and his development followed, which was participated in by several members on both sides of the House, in course of which Mr. Sifton showed an amount of familiarity with his subject such as is seldom displayed by a Minister.

Mr. Foster's Suggestion.

Mr. Foster said that in view of the fact that very large sums were annually spent in maintaining the Indian industrial schools, he would be pleased if the Minister would fix a day some time for a general discussion of the question of

The Daily Review.

FRIDAY, JUNE 23, 1899.

No one is surprised that Mr. Tarte defends his practice of letting contracts for public works without asking for tender. This suits Tarte's "business is business" style. But some may be surprised that the old-time Liberals who were so wrathy if in an exceptional case work was done without tenders being called for, should sit quietly by now and see it as a common thing and never utter a protest.

ALL Peterborough's merchants are patriotic Canadians. Then all will gladly and loyally unite in observing and celebrating Canada's national holiday, July 1st. The decision to observe the holiday on Saturday will therefore be respected by them all. This being the case, purchasers cannot purchase on that day and will have to buy on the Friday previous or wait until the following week. No trade will go to other places, and at the end of the month the Peterborough merchant should not be one cent shorter in his sales because of the holiday on Saturday than he would be if it was on Monday.

IF it was a desire to re-adjust the constituencies with a view to equalizing the representation with a more just regard for population that actuated the Liberal Government, would they not wait until the census had been taken in two years and the population of the electoral divisions would be known. Constitution provides for the redistribution of seats at this time, and if it was not a desire to "fix" the country for an election the Government would certainly wait. But an election must be held before the next census, and, therefore, the gerrymander is proposed. But an unfair measure that is not provided for by constitution may meet a deserved death when it reaches the Senate.

WHAT a record the organized gang of Government agents that worked the bye-elections in the desperate effort to keep office for the discredited Hardy combination have made. The operations of boodling, corrupting and fraud has been a disgrace to the province, and the Government cannot free itself from a certain amount of responsibility, especially when two members of the Government are among the unseated candidates who were elected by the aid of these professional Government boodlers. The people will deal effectually with these men when they appeal to the country again, for one and all are convinced that a long sojourn in office has made them unfit to rule. There needs to be a cleaning out, and Mr. Whitney will be entrusted with the task.

AT the general election the popular vote stood thus:—

Conservative	417,685
Liberal	392,108
Independent	55,522
Patron	30,655

Yet the Liberals had a majority of the members and took office. In Ontario the party vote stood thus:

Conservative	191,020
Liberal	166,335

Yet the Liberals elected forty-four members and the Conservatives forty-three. The gerrymander is designed to cure this injustice by enabling the minority of Liberals to elect a still larger majority of members. It is fraud upon the people worse than the Crow's Nest steal, for while the Crow's Nest took money, the gerrymander steals liberty. —Mail and Empire.

His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it, he says: "I was taken with Typhoid Fever, that ran into Pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of Consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvellous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all Throat and Lung Trouble. 50 cents and $1.00. For sale by James Lynch, druggist, Hunter-st., Peterborough; every bottle guaranteed.

Rochester, N.Y., June 23.—Word has been received from Kingston that the 14th Batt. of the Prince of Wales' Own Rifles will arrive at Charlotte either Sunday night or Monday morning preceding the 4th, to take part in the 4th of July celebration in this city. Altogether 1,500 Canadian troops will be in Rochester on the 4th.

Company Will Not Budge.

London, Ont., June 23.—At the conference between Vice-President Smallman, Manager Carr of the Street Railway Company, and City Council representatives, at noon yesterday, the position of the company and its old employes was fully discussed, and an effort was made to get some concessions from the company, but its representatives were obdurate as to the recognition of the union and increase in men's pay, nothing resulting.

Hespeler's Strike Still On.

Hespeler, Ont., June 23.—Mr. A. W. Brodie shut down the greater part of his mill yesterday. It cannot be learned how long it is to remain idle. He intends to do some repairing to the dam, which broke away during the spring freshet, and is taking advantage of this opportunity to do so. The weavers are still on strike and there are no further developments.

Chicago Butchers on Strike.

Chicago, June 23.—Sixty men employed by Swift & Co. yesterday joined the ranks of the 400 striking platform men and butchers employed by several stock yard firms. The Chicago Packing & Provision Company agreed to the advance demanded, and the strikers from that house resumed work. It was reported Armour & Co. would also grant the increase.

what progress had been made by the Indians, and what became of these Indian children after they left the schools. He would like to know whether they became absorbed in the population, or if they resorted to their nomadic habits.

Mr. Sifton said he would have all the information he could get on the subject prepared for the benefit of the House, and would be happy to adopt Mr. Foster's suggestion of having this whole question discussed.

The Stationery Supply.

On the vote for legislation in the supplementaries some discussion took place about the quality of stationery supplied, as compared with that supplied to the Senate, in the course of which Mr. Foster remarked that the Senate would always have better stationery than the Commons, because they had a smaller number to supply, and a larger vote proportionately than the Commons, and he did not think there was any necessity for either decreasing the vote of the Senate, or increasing that of the Commons.

Speaker Edgar Explains.

The Speaker made his promised explanation about the purchase of stationery for the Commons. He said that he had only followed the established practice in purchasing the stationery himself, instead of allowing the printing committee to purchase it. He had thought it best to give Canadian industries a show, and had bought part of the supplies from a Toronto firm, but there had been so many complaints about the quality of the paper that for next year he had placed the order in Scotland, as had been the custom for many years.

Robert Gordon Was Killed.

Kingston, Ont., June 23.—Rev. John Mackie received a telegram stating that Robert Gordon, while engaged at work at Vancouver, B.C., met with an accident on Tuesday, the nature whereof was not specified, but from the effects of which he died yesterday. Deceased was until recently a resident of Kingston.

Duke of Albany Succeeds.

London, June 23.—It has been definitely decided that the young Duke of Albany, grandson of Queen Victoria, is to succeed to the throne of the Grand Duchy of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha on the abdication of the Duke of Edinburgh and the renunciation of the Duke of Connaught.

DEWEY REACHES COLOMBO.

Welcomed by Both Military and Civil Authorities.

Half a Ton of Tea Presented by the Planters' Association and the Chamber of Commerce—Admiral Made a Speech in Which the Anglo-Saxon Idea Was Prominent—A Cheer That Reached America.

Colombo, Ceylon, June 23.—The United States cruiser Olympia, with Admiral Dewey on board, arrived here at 6 a.m. yesterday from Singapore, saluted the forts ashore, and was saluted by the latter in return.

An aide-de-camp, representing the Governor of Ceylon, Right Hon. Sir Joseph West Ridgeway, boarded the Olympia at 7 in the morning, in order to welcome Admiral Dewey, and Col. Savage, commanding the troops, called at 10 o'clock.

The visits were returned by Admiral Dewey at 11 o'clock.

Gave Him Half a Ton of Tea.

Afterwards he received a deputation representing the Planters' Association and the Chamber of Commerce, and was presented with a silver casket and an address as a memento of his visit. The presentation of the casket was made on board the Olympia, instead of in the Council Chamber, because the Admiral's doctor had forbidden him to participate in any official function. The delegates also presented a thousand pounds of tea to the crew of the Olympia.

What Dewey Said.

The Admiral, replying to the address of welcome, said he wished he could reply in adequate terms, reciprocating the sentiments expressed. But, he added, he spoke from his heart when he said he deeply appreciated the welcome.

Continuing, Admiral Dewey remarked: "That cheer raised on the jetty when I landed went to the hearts of all of us. We are 14,000 miles from home, but that cheer will be heard in America, although the way in which it has touched me I shall never be able to fully express. The two nations were never so closely allied by mutual sympathy and appreciation as now. The American people realized this during the late war, and you can imagine how all those who were at Manila and met Sir Edward Chichester (commander of the British first-class cruiser Immortalite) and his gallant comrades, hold that feeling very deeply."

The Admiral will remain in Ceylon about a week. He says he had a good voyage from Singapore, and that his health is fairly good.

FIRE BUGS AT KINGSVILLE.

Third Incendiary Attempt to Burn the Town in Three Weeks.

Kingsville, June 23.—At 1 o'clock yesterday morning a dastardly attempt was made by incendiaries to destroy the business portion of the town. The fire was started with the aid of pine boxes at the rear of Dr. Andrew Wigle's and Alex. Burns' business places, which are the only two wooden buildings on the street and in the centre of the block. For the second time this week, by hard work, the fire department saved the town. The only damage done was the scorching of the rear of three stores and the total destruction of an outbuilding containing 50 tons of ice.

The Town Council will offer $1,000 reward for the conviction of the perpetrators. This makes the third incendiary fire in the last four weeks.

DUMDUM BULLETS.

The Hague Conference Considers the Projectile Question, and Prohibits Entirely the Use of Explosive Bullets.

The Hague, June 23.—After short sessions of the sub-committee of war and navy of the peace conference, at which reports by Major-General Den Beer Poortugael of the Dutch delegation and Count Soltyk, the Austrian naval expert, were respectively adopted, the first committee met to discuss the same in the above order. The delegates declared in favor of any state using any new explosives or new inventions for ordnance, Russia and Bulgaria alone refraining from voting.

The question of dumdum bullets was discussed by Major-General Sir John Ardagh of the British delegation, who declared that Great Britain did not desire to use any projectiles inconsistent with the principles of modern war, and that dumdums should only be used against an uncivilized foe.

Explosive Bullets Prohibited.

The convention finally resolved in favor of prohibiting the use of bullets which easily flatten out in the human body, such as explosive bullets, bullets in a hardened case, which does not entirely cover the point, or bullets with an incision. The British and American delegates alone voted in the negative.

The use of any new explosives in projectiles from balloons was prohibited for five years.

The question of restraining the introduction of new types of rifles was deferred.

Count Soltyk's report was then taken up. It declared that the sub-committee, though unable to agree regarding the proposed abolition of naval rams, submarine boats and the use of explosives, had declared against the use of asphyxiating gases, which the first committee also approved.

Four Doctors Failed.

Think of a woman being sick and suffering six years when she might have been well all that time! Think of her taking the treatment of four doctors and getting no better.

Think of the pain she endured—of the uselessness of her life in those six long, dreary, miserable years.

Think of the distress of a refined, modest woman during the useless examinations and treatment of four different doctors who each and all failed to give her any comfort.

Think of all this and then think that she was finally cured—completely, wholly, permanently cured right in the privacy of her home without the abhorrent "examinations" and local treatment so uniformly insisted upon by home physicians—cured just as she might have been six years before.

These are simply the facts in the case of Mrs. M. B. Wallace, of Muenster, Cook Co., Texas, who writes:

"I had been a great sufferer from female weakness. I tried four doctors and none did me any good. I suffered six years, but at last I found relief. I followed your advice, and took four bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and eight of the 'Favorite Prescription.' I now feel like a new woman. I have gained eighteen pounds."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a medicine made for just one purpose—to cure disorders or diseases of the feminine organism. It is the only preparation of its kind introduced by a regularly graduated physican—a skilled specialist in the diseases of women, whose thirty years of successful practice are a guarantee of health to all sufferers who consult him.

Every woman may write fully and confidentially to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and may be sure that her case will receive careful, conscientious, confidential consideration, and that the best medical advice in the world will be given to her, absolutely free.

In addition to this free advice Dr. Pierce will send a paper-bound copy of his great 1,000-page book "The Common Sense Medical Adviser," to any one who will send 21 one-cent stamps to pay cost of customs and mailing. French cloth-binding, 50 stamps.

NEWSY NOTES FROM NORWOOD

AN INTERESTING BUDGET FROM THE EAST RIDING CAPITAL.

Norwood, June 21, '99.

Mr. Carman Waters has just completed a handsome summer cottage at Stony Lake.

Mr. R. J. Stuart has commenced the erection of a summer cottage on his newly purchased lot at Stony lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Rev. J. S. Somerville and Norman are established at the lake for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Davidson were at the lake on Saturday, and placed their cottage in readiness for immediate occupancy.

Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Reynolds and Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Buck sail on the 1st of July for the Old Country, and as a result Mr. Reynolds intends to let his Stony lake cottage for the season.

Mrs. Butterfield, Mrs. McLeary and family are at Rice Lake for a few weeks, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Captain Birdsall.

As a result of the recent outlay in the way of improvements on the Stony lake road, travelling has not the terrors it once had for campers, etc., who used this road so much in July and August. Yet there is room for improvement.

Croft Gear, of Chicago, is spending a few days in town visiting the boys.

Mr. and Mrs. James Cummings are in Campbellford to-day attending the funeral of their niece, Miss Cumming, who died on Monday from the effects of burning, caused by the accidental upsetting of a kerosine lamp.

Mr. Owens, of Peterborough, conducted services in Christ church last Sunday, morning and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Carnahan, of Toronto, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Carnahan, King-st.

Miss Christie, Peterborough, is visiting at the Roxburgh's this week.

Mr. Alex. Fraser and Miss Winnie Reynolds were married at the bride's residence, Colborne-st., to-day by the Rev. J. A. McCamus. Particulars next week.

Mrs. Wm. Rutherford, of Nelson, B. C., is in town visiting relatives and friends.

Mr. A. Hall is disposing of his household furniture by auction on Saturday.

Mr. R. W. Reynolds, of Texas, an old resident of Norwood, of 27 years gone by, and his daughter Annie, are in town this week to attend the Fraser-Reynolds wedding to-day.

A team belonging to Mr. Blake, of Westwood, became frightened on Queen-st. on Tuesday evening, and ran away scattering the rig and contents along the road for a distance of 3 miles in the direction of Hastings.

A painful accident occurred to Mr. Reeves on Saturday, near the station, through the upsetting of the Clancy House 'bus, which he was driving, in a race to the station. Mr. Reeves was thrown to the ground and rendered unconscious for several hours as a result. Drs. Moffat and Ford attended him and report him out of danger.

A farewell social was given to Mr. and Mrs. Rev. McCannus by the people of the Methodist church, last evening, on the church lawn. Mr. and Mrs. and Mrs. Rev. McCamus by the people coming to Norwood, who will regret their departure.

The Y.P.S.C.E. are giving a lawn social at the parsonage grounds on Friday evening.

No Right to Ugliness.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, eyes, smooth, velvety skin, rich complexion. It will make a good-looking, charming woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50 cents. For sale by James Lynch, druggist, Hunter-st., Peterborough.

Give Holloway's Corn Cure a trial. It removed ten corns from one pair of feet without any pain. What it has done once it will do again.

STRIKERS ARE GRATEFUL.

They Express Their Thanks for Sympathy and Assistance Extended to Them.

The local Grand Trunk trackmen who were out on strike but are now back at work, are grateful to all who extended sympathy and support to them during the strike. The Review's appeal for contributions in aid of the strikers was made on the last day of the strike, but notwithstanding a very generous response was made, even after it was reported that the trouble was settled. Besides the contributions already acknowledged the Review received $3 from Dr. Geo. Burnham, and $1 from "J. L." These brought the total up to $28, which sum would have been augmented by much more if the strike had not ended so soon after the appeal. The money has been handed over to the men, and will be of great service in several cases. The trackmen expressed their thanks in the following letter which they desired The Review to publish:

To the Editor of The Review:—

Sir,—Now that the strike in which the trackmen of the G.T.R. were engaged is settled, the local men desire through your columns to express their sincere thanks for the kind and very general sympathy extended to them during the trouble.

Especially do we desire to return our warmest thanks to those who gave practical expression to their sympathy in such a generous manner when you signified your willingness to receive contributions on our behalf. I have to-day received the sum of $28 from The Review, the amount contributed in respond to its appeal, which was made on the last day the strike was in progress. We know that this amount would have been multiplied several times had the strike continued, and the necessity for assistance existed. To The Review and those who so readily responded with contributions we again return our thanks, and now that we are back to work under more satisfactory circumstances we will be able all the more to appreciate the sympathy expressed and the assistance extended. The money will be well applied.

We will also thank the press generally for support given and sympathy shown.

Signed on behalf of the Brotherhood of Railway Trackmen.

No Limit to Happiness.

There is no limit to earthly happiness after a rheumatic sufferer has once used Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure. Mr. John Clarke, Pittsburgh, Ont., suffered with Muscular Rheumatism in his legs for ten months. He tried doctors and numerous patent medicines without relief. One bottle of Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure cured him completely. He has not suffered with the disease since. This preparation is used internally. One bottle contains ten days' treatment, price 50 cents. For sale at all drug stores.

Christian Unity.

To the Editor of The Review:—

Sir,—Mr. Symonds delivered a very good address to the people present at the concert in the Y.M.C.A. hall the other evening during which he dwelt upon the fact that the Y.M.C.A. had shown itself an exemplification of the true doctrine of Christian unity. Congregational differences are laid aside within its folds and dissension is healed. This all involves, however, an unfortunate comparison—a comparison of the Y. M. C. A. and the churches — and means that all congregations should combine as their young men have done, or, in other words, learn from their juniors. It is the old story of the bud forcing its way up through the dead and ancient covering which has at least the merit of being a good fertilizer. If this comparison be correct and timely it must be laid to heart. If it cannot be carried out in its entirety it may be done go piecemeal by forming an O.M.C.A. or old men's association, then an O.W.C.A., or old women's association, and so on. Then they could meet once a year and express their views ex cathedra, and from these what the Lord really intended and meant to say could be safely and surely gathered. It does away largely with the need of private prayer and in time would put us all in the hands of a chosen (by themselves) few. It should be called the Christian Trust. I think that Christian unity had better wait till Christians become united by reason of their boundless (and hence over-lapping) charity and love of their neighbors rather than according to any plan, and I may ask what plan?

Yours, &c.,
LAISSEZ-FAIRE.

tion in regard to Platt Hinman, Esq., the retiring treasurer; 10, a strong brotherly commendation regarding Rev. W. T. Rigga, of Almonte; 11, in regard to Rev. Dr. McDiarmid, who leaves the foreign missionary secretaryship to take charge of the new Baptist college in Manitoba.

An address by Rev. J. W. Kirkpatrick, of Belleville, on work in rural communities brought the afternoon session to a happy conclusion.

At the close of the afternoon session the entire assembly gathered in front of the church and were photographed

THURSDAY EVENING.

The Thursday evening session was marked by a very large attendance. The meeting was opened with prayer and hymns.

Rev. Mr. Randall, of Port Hope, moderator-elect, was introduced by the moderator, Rev. Mr. Wallace. He thanked the delegates for the honor of his election and expressed the hope of good work to be done in the future.

Rev. Mr. Bosworth, of the Grande Linge mission, Quebec, gave an address on that work. He described the number and power of the French Canadian race and iterated that its influence was growing as well as its numbers.

Nearly all these people are Roman Catholics. Besides out of regard to their deplorable condition it was necessary for the defence of Canada that these be converted. So the Grand Linge mission had been established below Montreal and is achieving great results as an educational institution. The students who enter there, however, besides being educated are evangelized and many have professed to be born again. The mission tries to do for the people in Quebec what the home missionary societies do in Ontario. In some of the country places graphophones are used to draw the people and the gospel is conveyed to them by this means. They have also a converted priest, who assists in the work. They have a house of Refuge in Montreal and an employment committee. Surely $12,000 a year was not much to ask from the Baptists of Ontario and Quebec for a work like this.

REV. DR. McDIARMID.

Rev. Dr. McDiarmid, who has been secretary of foreign missions, but who has resigned that position to take charge of the new college for Manitoba, delivered the chief address of the evening, speaking on the subject of foreign missions. It is one thing to acknowledge an obligation and quite another thing to endeavor honestly to meet it. The speaker feared that in the churches there are many who acknowledged the obligation of spreading the Gospel and who yet do not earnestly and honestly seek to fulfil it. Everybody in this position should be led to meet the obligation honestly. They should be made to feel inspired. They must feel their obligation to the love of Jesus. They must be made to feel His love. Love of Christ should be the supreme motive. But other considerations may be introduced to help. The need of humanity, the woes and distresses of men, should invite Christian work, just as Paul, Christ's greatest apostle, was moved by the sorrow and suffering he saw. The vision of people should be widened so that they may see the deplorable condition of men until their hearts are touched with God's pity and they are ready to do a share for the suffering ones. In the consciousness of the Master's love and presence there is also something to inspire and this feeling should bring a new courage and a new stimulus. The speaker gave some account of the successful work in the Telugu district, showing how great is the blessing that has come upon the work. There are over 4,000 church members among these people to-day. Native schools have been established and native pastors are assisting actively. The knowledge of God's power in the work should stimulate the hearts of all to prosecute this work and all mission work. Rev. Mr. McDiarmid next took up the work in Bolivia, which was started only about a year ago, when the first resident missionary of the country was sent down. Internal troubles impeded with the work and the public preaching of the gospel is not allowed in the country. But a Sunday school was established and then a regular day school. Present indications point to an era of increased liberty in the country and the prospects for good work are most encouraging. Rev. Mr. McDiarmid discussed the "forward movement" of the day. At the last convention, held a few weeks ago, it was decided that the churches should aim to raise $150,000 before the next convention, expressly for mission work. This looks large but it is only an increase of 25 per cent. It means five cents each week from every one of the 40,000 Baptists of Ontario and Quebec and in eighteen months that will amount to over $150,000. Nobody is too poor to spare that 5 cents. He hoped that everyone would feel the proper assurance in the ability to carry out this work. Nobody should be pessimistic and with the proper hopefulness the work will be accomplished.

Rev. Dr. McDiarmid stated that he was retiring from the position as secretary of foreign missions not because of declining interest. Mission work is the great work of the church and all other work is subsidiary. He was changing because he believed he was entering a department where he could more effectually work for the wider spread of the Gospel. To his hearers he commended his successor, Rev. Mr. Brown. He is eminently fitted for the work, both mentally and inasmuch as his heart is in the work, this latter being the great requisite. He also has the great knowledge gained by experience. Rev. Mr. McDiarmid, therefore bespoke sympathy and support for his successor. He thanked the pastors and people for the great sympathy and help that had been extended to himself during his time of office. He appealed for united work.

Rev. Mr. Wallace spoke a few encouraging words on the same subject.

The resolution of thanks passed by the association was then read and presented to Rev Mr. Elliott, who replied both for his own church and for the people of Murray-st. church, who were entitled to more than half the credit for the reception and entertainment of the delegates. He expressed a sense of pleasure with the result of the convention, which he had found to be a most pleasant one.

Mr. E. B. Edwards made a few remarks on the "forward movement" asking what part was to be taken by the association. Rev. Mr. Bastow explained that a resolution had been passed asking the churches to bear their share.

The meeting was adjourned after a baptismal service and devotional exercises.

Man's Mastery Over the Animal Kingdom is Marvelously Displayed.

The marvelous, diversified character of the wonderful performances of the combined Adam Forepaugh and Sells Brothers' circuses has been widely commented upon by the metropolitan journals. No other show ever attempted such a gigantic display of arenic, aerial or terrestrial achievements, zoological exhibits and hippodromatic triumphs. The biggest of all American circuses will on its visit here on Saturday, June 24, present an astonishing array of wonderfully trained animals, including the surprise of the era—Jules Carr's celebrated troupe of highly educated grizzly bears which dine with their master, eating and drinking in precisely the same manner, and subsequently engaging in wrestling bouts, waltzes and laughable cake walks, concluding the sensational scene by unfurling Old Glory to the breeze, giving three cheers and a tiger.

The Prominence of Water at Social Functions.

Bonfort's, the leading American wine journal, says: The popularity of Apollinaris apparently has no limits. It is to be had in practically all parts of the world; and here, as in England, at every social function, "The Queen of Table Waters" is brought into evidence. The menus of the Assembly balls, given at the Waldorf-Astoria; the Metropolitan Club dance at Sherry's, as well as the Vanderbilt and Astor balls, and the various large banquets of this winter and spring, establish the pre eminence of Apollinaris. While the viands and wines vary, there is one uniform feature about the menus of these social functions, the presence thereon of Apollinaris.

COUNTY COUNCIL TOOK NO ACTION

WHEN ASKED TO MAKE A GRANT TO THE TRENT CANAL ASSOCIATION.

Messrs Carnegie and Dumble and the Mayor and Aldermen Present a Request—A Grant is Moved But is Withdrawn.

Messrs. John Carnegie and D. W. Dumble, a deputation from the Trent Canal Association, appeared before the County Council yesterday afternoon to ask a grant for the purpose of educating the prominent Ottawa and Montreal business men into supporting the canal by a trip over the route from Hastings to Balsam lake. Mayor Davis and Alderman McWilliams and Hall were also present.

Mr. Dumble advanced the claims of the canal in telling style, chiefly by contrasting the favorable conditions surrounding it with the Erie canal, which has been so effective in developing trade. He stated that the Government had given every assurance of going on with the work. But what is wanted is faster progress. There should not be only one section put under contract at a time. If strong pressure were brought to bear on the Government the work would be put in a way to completion. If Montreal was interested in it so as to take up the scheme this pressure would be secured. A step toward this would be to have the members of the Montreal Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce come up and make an inspection of the route. The Trent Canal Association wanted the County Council to join in an invitation to these bodies and to assist also in making arrangements for this visit of the Montreal gentlemen.

Mr. Carnegie addressed the Council on the same subject. Everything that has been done on these waterways has been the result of visits by members of the Government and other prominent men. Both parties now recognize the importance of this work. But there are many claims on the country and many other enterprises are clamoring for recognition. The Toronto press had ignored the Trent route all together, although they wanted people to tax themselves $3,000,000 or so to build a railway from Collingwood to Toronto. The railroad influence also had to be contended with in the agitation for the work. Despite these adverse circumstances the canal will be built if the Government and the people of the east are interested. A visit from members of the Government and of influential commercial men was, therefore, desirable, and he expressed a hope that the County Council would do something to assist in this matter. He suggested that a committee of the Council be appointed to act in union with a committee of the town Council.

Mayor Davis believed that the time had come when it was necessary to spend a little more to secure the results of what had already been spent.

Warden Hawthorne in reply to the delegation stated that he believed the Association had done good work and that members of the Council could go before their constituents and be heartily endorsed for the expenditure that has been made and he believed that it would be a mistake not to give some assistance to the project.

The delegation then withdrew and the matter was debated by the county representatives. Councillor Shaw moved, seconded by Councillor Eastland, that $100 be granted.

Councillor Buck would give nothing. Councillor Fitzgerald took the same stand on the ground that neighboring counties had not granted nearly as much as Peterborough has. He thought this county was being imposed upon by its neighbors. Councillor Peck was opposed to voting money for a trip of this kind. The general feeling was against making any grant, or was, at least, apathetic in the matter and Councillor Shaw withdrew his motion, no action being taken.

DOURO PICNIC.

The Annual Gathering of the Parish of Douro.

Yesterday the annual picnic of the Roman Catholic parish of Douro was held. Though the weather was threatening at times the day turned out to be a pleasant one and the crowd that gathered at the grove was large. The large majority of the people were residents of the township, but quite a number drove from town. The attractions at the grounds afforded plenty of means of enjoyment. The dancing platform was patronized largely by the young people and a list of athletic sports was run off. The meals supplied by the ladies were up to the highest standard both in quality and abundance. Rev Father Keilty attended assiduously to the wants of those present, and did much to make the day pleasant for all.

DOMINION DAY.

The Event of the Day Will Have Unusual Attractions.

On Saturday, July 1st, Dominion Day, Peterborough will observe Canada's national holiday and all classes will rest from labor. The event of the day, the centre of amusement and entertainment will be the annual picnic on the St. Joseph's hospital grounds. An unusually fine programme has been arranged, including sports, a lacrosse match, quoit match, music, etc. The 57th Battalion will be present and discourse a choice programme during the day. Every one will find amusement and enjoyment on the grounds, where the shady trees and cool breezes will make a pleasant retreat for a warm day.

In the evening there will be a grand display of fireworks. The display will include 12 new electric candles, 12 colored Roman candles, 10 ball, large; 24 colored sky rockets, 6 oz.; 12 colored sky rockets, 1-2 lb.; 6 colored sky rockets, 1 lb.; 6 new colored exhibition rockets, 1-2 lb.; 2 colored parachute rockets, 2 lbs.; 2 tins crimson fire, 1-2 lb. each; 1 tin green fire, 1-2 lb.; 1 tin gold fire, 1-2 lb.; 6 colored Bengal lights, No. 6; 2 packets fire, red; 2 packets fire, green; 2 colored vertical wheels, 10 and 14 in. This will make a grand night display.

The picnic this year eclipses all others as regards attractions, while the object towards which the funds will go is worthy and deserving—St. Joseph's hospital, a charitable institution, open to the sick and suffering of all classes and all creeds.

Keep St. Joseph's picnic in mind for Dominion Day. 2td

FIELD OF GENERAL SPORT

Baseball.

On Wednesday night the "Boundary Nine" baseball team met and organized for the season, electing the following officers:—

Manager—W Hagel.

Captain—F Whaley.

Secretary-Treasurer—J Doris.

Committee—W Whaley, A Delaire and C Kemp.

The team would like to arrange a game for decoration day, June 27th. Average age 16 years.

Wheeling.

A crowd of large proportions gathered on George-st. in front of the bicycle warerooms of Messrs. McPherson & Young last night and witnessed a clever exhibition of trick riding, given by Arthur P. Buckner, Toronto, a the wheel. He can lift it from the "Red Bird," the Brantford wheel. The youth can do anything he likes with the wheel. He can lift it from the ground while riding, make it rear on the hind wheel and gambol along the a kangaroo. He rode over a ladder on two chairs. His balancing feats were especially good. He also climbed through the diamond frame. He gave some exhibitions which put the strength of the "Red Bird" to a severe test, but it came through without any accident. The exhibition is to be repeated this evening. On account of the road being in bad shape last evening some of the best specialties could not be given. The rider has no special wheel and will at anybody's request perform the same feats on any wheel in Macpherson & Young's shop. The exhibition will be at the same place this evening.

WAIT FOR IT—THE BEST EVENT OF THE SEASON.

A grand Lawn Social, under the auspices of Charlotte-st. Methodist Church Choir, will be held on the beautiful and spacious grounds of Mayor Davis, about the middle of July. Exact date and fuller particulars announced later. Keep this in mind if you wish to spend a most delightful evening. 2d146

BAPTISTS OF PETERBOROUGH

PROCEEDINGS AT THE 97TH ANNUAL MEETING

A Strong Resolution Expressing Gratitude for Peterborough's Cordial Hospitality—Introduction of the Moderator-Elect—Address on the Grand Ligne Mission—Rev. Dr. McDiarmid on Foreign Missions.

The annual convention of the Baptist churches of Peterborough district, which opened at the Park-st. church on Tuesday, was brought to a close last evening. The final session, like all the others, was interesting and helpful. A summary of the day is as follows:—

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

The session on Thursday afternoon was opened with devotional exercises, conducted by Rev. J. C. Moyle, of Picton.

An address on the Canadian Baptist and bookroom was given by G. R. Roberts, of Toronto.

Rev. V. H. Cowsert, of Belleville, delivered an address on Evangelization, and Rev. J. E. Moyle gave a statement of the work in Prince Edward county.

The report of the obituary committee was presented by Rev. R. Bridgeman. It reported that among the deaths that had occurred during the year was that of a deacon and another was one of the oldest members of the association, John Richards, Esq., father of Dr. Richards, of Warkworth.

Rev. W. A. Gunton presented a report of the committee on resolutions. One clause was as follows: That as delegates of the churches we express our opinion as being that never have we been more lovingly, loyally and abundantly entertained than we have been during these days by the Peterborough people, and that we hereby tender our sincerest thanks to the members, officers and pastor of the Park-st. church, and those associated with them in this matter, of all the kind treatment we have received at their hands, and which has done so much to make the association meeting amongst the best and most successful that we have ever held.

The following additional resolutions were presented: 1, family worship; 2, temperance and prohibition; 3, the use of tobacco; 4, the work of evangelizing among the French Canadians; 5, Christian literature and the Canadian Baptist; 6, Christian liberality and systematic giving; 7, thanks to retiring moderator, Rev. Robt. Wallace; 8, peace and good will among all English speaking peoples; 9, expression of appreciation

JUDGMENT IN THE NUGENT CASE

MAGISTRATE FINDS NO EVIDENCE TO MAKE A CONVICTION.

Evidence of the Detective Insufficient to to Make a Case—Magistrate's Opinion of the Detective—Mr. Nugent's Evidence not Considered in the Ruling.

Magistrate Dumble this morning gave his judgment in the Nugent case. It reads as follows:—

Queen vs. Nugent,—The information in this case charges that John Nugent, not being a person registered pursuant to the provisions of the Ontario Medical Act, R.S.O., 1897, ch. 176, within the space of one year past, to wit, on or about the 17th day of June 1899, at, etc., did, for hire, gain and hope of reward, practice and profess to practice medicine by prescribing and attending on Jas. Macpherson and others, and did give advice and medicine contrary to the form of the statute, etc.

The 48th clause of the Act reads as follows: "It shall not be lawful for any person to practice medicine, surgery or midwifery for hire, gain or hope of reward and if any person not registered pursuant to this Act for hire, gain or hope of reward, practices or professes to practice medicine, surgery or midwifery, he shall upon a summary conviction thereof before any justice of the peace for any and every such offense pay a penalty not exceeding $100, nor less than $25.

The information herein does not follow the statute—and I think it charges two offences—one practicing and the other professing to practice medicine, by prescribing and attending upon J. Macpherson and others, and did give advice and medicine, etc.

It is not stated to whom the advice and medicine were given.

The evidence of Hattie Fanning, Annie Kingscote and Ellen Eakins may be dropped as they disclose no offence. Mrs. Kingscote bought a pair of elastic stocking and a box of zinc ointment, which she required and ordered. Miss Fanning and Ellen Eakins stated that a friend of each had la grippe and they asked for and got suitable medicine for it. This is no offence for the druggist does not diagnose and determine the ailment and suggest the proper medicine or treatment.

Mr. Justice Rose in Regina vs. Howarth, 240 R., p. 568, says that a chemist or druggist is not entitled to ascertain from the intending purchaser the symptoms and determine from the disease and prescribe a remedy; but he may, if the purchaser tells him his complaint and asks for a remedy, inform him what remedies he has for such complaint, and also inform him which in his opinion is the better or best remedy, leaving the purchaser to exercise his judgment as to which of these preparations he may purchase." In the same judgment Mr. Rose says: "If one went to a druggist and told him that he had some particular complaint and asked the druggist if he had any medicine compounded for such complaint or ailment, and purchased the medicine on the advice if the chemist, that would not be practicing medicine."

Under this interpretation of law Mr. Nugent committed no offence in selling to these three witnesses.

Then does the evidence of the informant, James Macpherson, or of Robert Goheen, make a case? We will first deal with Goheen's evidence. He went to Nugent with a perscription from Chase's recipe book, and got it filled. He got Chase's medicine and ointment. There is not in his evidence anything to show that Mr. Nugent diagnosed or asked about symptoms. Witness' face spoke for itself. There was a breaking out and for it Goheen got what he asked for. There was some evidence of another bottle but witness was not able to show that it was anything different from Chase's medicine. I think this evidence may also be dropped.

Now there remains only the evidence of the criminal detective. This man is financially interested in the prosecution. He went to the shop with intent to trap Nugent, bringing with him his itching palm and itching leg and a lying tongue. He admits that he has to lie to accomplish his ends. He showed his useful sore leg, which he said itched, and Nugent gave him a bottle and a brush to paint the leg with. The medicine for the leg was labelled for a rash, and witness says it was good. He paid for it 40 cents. The question of what is practicing medicine is not clearly defined. If one may tell him his ailment and get from the druggist the proper medicine, surely a man who says his leg itches and exhibits the itching member may be sold the proper wash for the rash.

Practicing and professing to practice medicine should be proved by something more than was proved in McPherson's case. One single transaction of a very dubious nature sustained by the unsupported testimony of a professional detective working for his own pecuniary interest can hardly prove the charge as laid in this information.

I do not feel called on to make a conviction where there is so much doubt. I, therefore, dismiss this charge without costs.

As judgment was asked at the close of the informant's case I do not refer to the evidence for the defence. The onus of proof lies on the informant, and in this case he must succeed on his own evidence or not at all.

LARGELY ATTENDED.

The Lawn Social on St. John's Grounds Very Successful.

The lawn social on the grounds of St. John's church last evening was a very pleasant affair, those in charge of the fete having made elaborate arrangements for the entertainment of the guests. Several large tents had been erected and under these the ladies dispensed ice cream, strawberries, cakes and summer drinks. The grounds were illuminated by incandescent lights, and the view both from the street and the outlying parts of the grounds was a very pretty one. The 57th Battalion band was present in uniform and the music was much enjoyed. The crowd in attendance was large.

DR. A. W. CHASE'S CATARRH CURE ... 25c. is sent direct to the diseased parts by the Improved Blower. Heals the ulcers, clears the air passages, stops droppings in the throat and permanently cures Catarrh and Hay Fever. Blower free. All dealers, or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Toronto and Buffalo.

COOL SUITS FOR MEN

We are showing many distinctly novel things in lightweights and light colours in cool summer suitings. They make up in gentlemanly style and are worn with great comfort.

The clothes we make always lay close to the collar, with lapels of new design, foreign from ready clothing. We avoid the two extremes—the very high and very cheap. In fact, it's clothes to suit or money back dealing with us.

DIRECT FROM SURPASSINGLY SPLENDID TRIUMPHS AT MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK

SPECIAL NOTICE—These are the same great shows, the same gigantic aggregation, the same colossal combination that so startled the metropolis of the country by its overwhelming magnitude, its comprehensive completeness, and its veritable avalanche of novelties and floodtide of innovations when it inaugurated its tour of this season at the Madison Square Garden, New York City. Its tremendous triumph was attested by the unanimous and unqualified praises of the press and plaudits of the people, and patronage only limited by the capacity of the largest temple of amusement in the world.

SPECIAL NOTICE—EXTRA!!—It is hereby promised without reserve, and the promise will be faithfully kept, that the programme of the shows to be presented in this city will be absolutely and exactly the same, man for man, horse for horse, animal for animal, feature for feature and detail for detail as the exhibition that so completely conquered the mighty metropolis.

EXTRA SPECIAL NOTICE—EXTRA!!!—The prices for the great consolidation in New York were as high as $2 per seat. Here only the usual prices charged by merely ordinary shows will be asked. No advance over usual prices in spite of the double shows.

MISS CAPRICE.

BY ST. GEORGE RATHBONE

Author of "Doctor Jack," "Doctor Jack's Wife," "Captain Tom," "Miss Pauline of New York," Etc.

"I fell in love; my affection was returned; we were engaged; a friend in whose honor I fully believed stole her heart away from me, but all these years I have never forgotten—never. John Craig, the girl I loved and who was to have been my wife was—your mother."

The little man folds his arms and throws his head back in a peculiar way he has. How strangely full of dignity these undersized people can be at times.

"Is it possible, and you never breathed a word of all this to me before?"

"Ah! my dear boy, the time was not ripe. I said nothing but sawed wood."

"Why do you speak now?"

"I have an idea that you are about to make a step in the dark, and after duly considering the matter, came to the conclusion that it was time to speak—time to let you know my sympathies were with you, time to take a hand in this game myself."

John hardly knows what to do or say, he is so amazed at such a strange happening.

"But, professor, I am only going now to see if I can learn anything about my mother at the house where she stayed six weeks ago, when a line was sent to me."

The little man wags his head wisely.

That information was given to you by one whom you believed to be Signor Stucco, otherwise Luther Keene, the person having charge of the police of Valetta?"

"Yes," replies John, wonderingly.

"At that hour the signor was in his own room, engaged in other business, and oblivious of the fact whether one John Alexander Craig, M.D., was in the land of the living or not."

All of which excites the curiosity of the young man not a little.

"Since you know so much, professor, perhaps you can tell me who it is plays with me, the object he has, and whether my mother was ever in that house in the Strada Mezzodi."

"I can answer in part. I believe she was there. These enemies of yours, dear boy, have baited a trap. You are about to walk into it."

"A trap, professor! why should they seek to harm me?"

"They have reasons. I can't mention them all, but perhaps some event in your past may give you a clue. Have you ever heard of a person, by name Pauline Potter?"

The young man starts.

"Ah! I see you have," pursues Philander, dryly.

"I confess it; she was a pretty actress, but my boyish passion for her died out when I discovered her perfidy."

"Very true; but she has never forgiven you. What harm did you do her, boy?"

"The harm was on her side. When I found what deception she had put upon me I simply denounced her in the presence of several who were at supper with her, a new admirer among them. Perhaps she hates me for that, but it seems queer that Pauline Potter, whom I knew in Chicago, should bob up in Malta. Almost like a modern play."

"Well, she's here. I've seen her."

"Professor, pardon me for saying it, but you've allowed yourself to be maligned. I believed you were a nonentity, but I find you possessed of a remarkable mind. You are a second Richelieu."

"You flatter me. John, grant my favor; allow me to accompany you on this errand. I will then have a chance to explain how I managed to learn all these things."

"I see no reason to refuse."

"Good! Come, let's move off," with a quick glance over his shoulder.

"Oh," laughs the student, "she's upstairs yet,' and his words are corroborated for a burst of almost masculine laughter comes floating down from the next floor, causing Philander to shrug his shoulders.

"She'll imagine I'm seeing the sights. I went to see the modern Mabille in Paris, and have never heard the last of it. Stand by me in case of war, my boy."

"That I will, professor."

They have left the hotel, and John's face tells of the puzzle which he is trying to solve—the strange connection between Pauline Potter, the actress who won his boyish admiration only to deceive him, and she whom he seeks with reverent love in his heart, his mother, the Sister Magdalen of Lady Ruth's Paris adventure.

And the professor guesses the truth.

"I may be able to assist you, John, though you shall be the judge. Will you listen to my yarn?"

"With pleasure."

They walk on, arm in arm; the doctor has lighted a cigar, and seems to take much comfort in the mechanical puffs of smoke which he sends out into the darkness—not that there is anything of the inky pall about this, throwing a silvery pathway along the mysterious waters of the romantic sea, and besides, the lanterns that flash on trees and from house fronts serve to render the scene far from gloomy, though a modern city dweller, used to electric lights might notice the change.

"Before we enter into a discussion, my dear boy, let me explain how I came to know these facts connected with the presence of Pauline Potter in Valetta, and the duplicity of the man representing the head of police, Signor Stucco.

"After returning from our eventful walk to the hill-top back of the town, I had business in another section, business connected with my trip along the Mediterranean, and which has been kept a secret from my spouse.

"When on my way back to the hotel, just at dusk, I crossed and passed down a street, thinking to shorten my route, but in a way became confused; and made up my mind I would enquire of the first person I came to.

"That, my boy, was the hand of fate leading me on, as you will speedily learn.

"In all these years that have flown, I have at times heard of you. I knew the skeleton that lay hidden in your family closet, and believing your mother innocent, made no sign, for she was supposed to be dead.

"Let me go back a step, and begging your pardon for the fact, confess that I heard your interesting interview with Lady Ruth."

"Professor!" in reproach.

"My dear boy, it was all an accident. I had thrown myself upon the lounge in the corner of the little parlor, for an after-dinner nap, when you came in and failed to notice me, owing to the arm-chair I had drawn in front of me to shut out the light.

"At first I thought you would simply look at the picture and then go away, but when I heard you telling her your sad story and the new hopes you entertained, I felt that I had a right to listen then. Thus you understand how I know these facts.

"This takes me back to where I was lost in the streets of Valetta and forced to enquire my way. As luck would have it, I saw a man before me, but ere I could reach him he was joined by a woman.

"I stood still; in the dusk I heard him say something that gave me a thrill, and as near as I can remember those words were:

"'For love of you, Pauline Potter, I have assumed this disguise and become for the present Signor Stucco, the master of Valetta's police. Now give me orders; tell me how I am to win your favor; how bring to the Strada Mezzodi——' I heard no more, as his voice fell, but presently my ears, sharpened to an intensity, caught a name—it was —'Doctor Chicago.'"

"You interest me, professor; please proceed."

"Ah! that is all. I lost track of them and managed to work my way to the hotel in time for dinner. When the man called you out, I recognized the dim figure I had seen talking with the soft-voiced woman at dusk. It takes time for me to figure things out, and I must be beyond the range of her voice. That was one reason I lay down in the little parlor. When I heard you announce your intention of visiting the Strada Mezzodi, I made up my mind to act quickly. That is why I tapped you on the arm, why I am now tramping at your side. Now let us probe deeper.

"Mark the first point; this Pauline is a shrewd creature, and doubtless possessed of more than an ordinary Corsica nature to hate so bitterly."

"Ah! you know her mother was a Corsican?"

"I believe I have heard it told in New York, and it is easy to realize the fact now. Pauline is a good hater—her father was Scotch, I presume.

"What I want to point out is this—she has been investigating your record—the skeleton in your closet, or rather your family, is no secret to her."

"I understand that, sir. It is no accident, her presence in the same house my mother occupied."

(To be continued.)

When the children are hungry, what do you give them? Food.

When thirsty? Water.

Now use the same good common sense, and what would you give them when they are too thin? The best fat-forming food, of course.

Somehow you think of Scott's Emulsion at once.

For a quarter of a century it has been making thin children, plump; weak children, strong; sick children, healthy.

A GREAT STEEL COMPANY.

The Directors Elected in Montreal—The Capital Is $20,000,000.

Montreal, June 23.—H. M. Whitney's great steel company has at length materialized, and work will be begun at Sydney, C.B., as soon as Hon. Mr. Fielding's bounty resolutions receive the sanction of Parliament. A meeting took place here yesterday, when the following directors were chosen: H. M. Whitney, Boston, president; R. B. Angus, Montreal, vice-president; John S. McLennan, treasurer; B. F. Pearson, secretary; Sir William Van Horne, Hon. George A. Cox, Toronto; Hon. D. McKean, Cape Breton; Robert McKay, S. Padget of England, Mr. Dyer of Halifax and others, to be chosen later on.

The capital of the company is $20,000,000, and, as the site has been purchased near Sydney, C.B., work will be begun at once.

A Runaway That Caused Death.

Dunnville, June 23.—A runaway took place in Wainfleet on Wednesday, which has since resulted fatally. Mrs. Jane Priestman, widow of the late John Priestman of that township, with her son Thomas, his wife and two children, went to Dunnville on that day. On returning home they drove through a field, after which Mr. Priestman got out to open a gate to the lane. The horses took fright and whirled around and made off across the field, going against a fence or another gate, and all the occupants were thrown out with violence. Mrs. Jane Priestman, who was a large, heavy woman, received such severe internal injuries and shock that she died from the effects. Mrs. Priestman, jr., is suffering from a broken wrist.

The Bronson Burned.

Watertown, N.Y., June 23.—The tug N. F. Bronson, Captain Murray of the Montreal Transportation Company of Montreal, bound from Kingston, Ont., to Montreal, with five barges in tow, caught fire at an early hour yesterday morning near Warner's Island. The barges were released. The tug was burned to the water's edge. She carried a crew of nine. Four jumped into the water to save themselves. Two are missing. They are J. O'Neill of Kingston, deckhand, supposed to be drowned; Bert Hastings, the fireman. Several of the crew were badly burned. Loss $35,000.

Father Geoghegan's Case.

Hamilton, June 23.—Yesterday afternoon the committee on discipline of the Diocese of Niagara met in the Masonic Hall to consider the appeal of Rev. Father Geoghegan from his recent conviction at the hands of a board of triers appointed by the bishop. The meeting is presided over by Edward Martin, Q.C., chancellor, with these members present: Rev. Canon Clark, registrar; Revs. Canon Belt, William Bevan, Canon Bull, Rural Dean Mellish, Rural Dean Spencer, Archdeacon Dixon, Ven. Archdeacon Houston, Canon Sutherland and Canon Worrell. The meeting was secret.

A Morganatic Marriage.

London, June 23.—The wedding of Princess Marie of Mecklenburg-Strelitz to Count Charles de Jametel was solemnized quietly at the Catholic chapel of St. Elizabeth, Richmond, yesterday. The bride's parents, the Duke of Cambridge, and Prince and Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, were among those present. The marriage has aroused comment, because it is morganatic. The Princess and the Count afterwards drove to the parish church at Kew, where they were re-married according to the rites of the Church of England.

Fred Matthews Instantly Killed.

Cardinal, Ont., June 23.—Yesterday morning about 10.30 a man named Fred Mathews, a steam driller employed by Messrs. Davis & Sons, contractors, was instantly killed on their works here on the canal. The man was working in the cut at the time, when a passing engine caught a rope supporting the derrick, which had in some manner got lowered, causing huge pieces of timber to fall, crushing his skull, and death was instantaneous. Deceased was a married man, 40 years of age, without any family.

Union Label Bill Killed.

Ottawa, June 23.—The Senate committee yesterday morning unanimously threw out the bill concerning trade marks and designs intended to legalize the use of the union label with the consent of the employers. It was stated that under a common law the trade organizations had all the right to select a special design that they would have under this act.

The Senate committee on banking and commerce yesterday morning killed Senator Dandurand's usury bill by voting to suspend further consideration by 6 to 6.

Advertising Manager Dead.

Toronto, June 23.—Mr. Thomas W. Dyas, advertising manager of The Mail and Empire, died yesterday at Centre Island. Up till a couple of weeks ago he pursued his duties as an advertising manager, when his family insisted on his retirement. Deceased was born at Clonturkon, Cavan, Ireland, in 1845, and came to this country when a boy. He first lived in New Orleans, and at the age of 18 came to London, Ont. Seven years later he came to Toronto, and had resided here ever since.

ANIMAL LIFE.

The donkey is the longest lived of domestic animals.

Hyenas always fight kneeling, the fore leg being the most vulnerable part of their body.

Oysters are such nervous creatures that a sudden shock, such as a loud thunderclap, will kill a whole boatload.

Horses have a great dislike to camels. There are many similar antipathies in the animal world—between elephants and rhinoceroses, for instance, and pecaries and bears.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Toronto, June 23.—The run of live stock at the cattle market yesterday was large—65 carloads, consisting of 500 cattle, 500 sheep and lambs, 2,000 hogs and 500 calves. The quality of fat cattle generally was not so good, as stall-fed are decreasing in numbers, while grass cattle are becoming plentiful, in fact, some of the grassers ought to have been left on the farm a month longer. Trade was fair, with Tuesday's prices well maintained for all stall-fed cattle, grassers selling from 50c to 70c per cwt. less than grain-fed.

ITCHING PILES. . .

Positively and permanently cured by Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment is an absolute cure for piles, and has never been known to fail to cure the worst forms of this disease which has baffled medical skill for ages.

This statement may sound rather strong to persons who do not know the superior merits of Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment, but it is perfectly true, and heartily endorsed by the grateful testimony of thousands of men and women who have been cured by it after years of suffering, and after trying many preparations and consulting the best doctors.

Mr. H. Ball, Belleville, Ont., says: "I take pleasure in stating that after thirty years of suffering with Itching Piles, Dr. Chase's Ointment has completely cured me. I tried every remedy that was advertised, with little or no benefit, but as I have told different persons affected as I was, Dr. Chase's Ointment made a perfect cure."

Dr. Chase's Ointment has a record of cures unparalleled in the history of medicine. It is guaranteed to cure any case of piles. For sale by all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

"I Have Had

Rheumatism for years, and Nerviline is the only remedy that has done me any good." So writes Thomas McGlashan, North Pelham, July 24th, 1899, and his testimony is supported by thousands of others who have experienced the wonderful penetrating and pain subduing power of Nerviline—the great nerve pain cure. Nerviline is just as good to take as to rub on, and is the best family remedy in the world. Nerviline is sold by dealers everywhere.

The Rise of Penang.

The town of Malacca was in 1807 partially demolished in order that Prince of Wales island, or Penang, then newly founded, might increase in importance. When the East India company arrived at that decision, it was arranged that Malacca should be abandoned and that the staff, stores and population should be removed to Penang. Orders were sent out in 1805 to demolish the fort, and the intention of the Penang authorities was "to gradually transfer to Prince of Wales island the trade and capital of Malacca together with the most valuable part of the population." For a time, however, Penang did not realise the expectations formed of it and was accordingly reduced, for Malacca appeared to be doomed to excel Penang, but at the present moment Malacca can well be said to be in ruins—"the fallen city of the east," as it were, while Penang is one of the most important trade emporiums of the east.

For Over Fifty Years

An Old and Well-Tried Remedy—Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over fifty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhœa. Is pleasant to the taste. Sold by druggists in every part of the world. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Its value is incalculable. Be sure and ask for Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup and take no other kind.

ENLARGED—REBUILT—REFITTED—REFURNISHED.

Idyl Wyld Summer ....Resort

RICE LAKE, ONTARIO.

THIS Breezy and Beautiful Island Summer Resort will re-open for the season of 1899 on June 12th, under entirely new and up-to-date management. Important new additions to the building and hotel equipment have been effected. Twenty new Bed Rooms, Sitting Rooms and Waiting Rooms have been added, and entirely refurnished in modern style. Broad balconies extend around each of the two new stories erected, affording picturesque views of the surrounding scenery.

The cuisine will be a special feature—fresh meat, fresh fish, fresh eggs, milk and butter, as well as wholesome vegetables and fruit in abundance, necessitated by a robust appetite, sharpened by the ozone and continual breeze of this idylic spot.

Good bass and maskinonge fishing are along the shore and lake. No charge for Americans fishing—no permits required. Boats and competent guides furnished. The island steam launch "Outlet Queen," can be engaged for cruising and sailing parties. The Park is open for excursion parties, whether public or private. Tables and Seats for picnic parties are all over the ground in shady groves. Come and spend your summer vacation at Idyl Wyld, and for your life don't miss it.

Daily boat and mail to and from Harwood, Peterborough and Hastings. Parties can be met at either point when requested.

Special rates for families and for the season. Rooms may be secured in advance by letter, telephone or telegram addressed to B. S. MacDONALD, Manager, Harwood P. O., Ont.

THE ODORLESS
CREMATORY CLOSETS.

I have been appointed Sole Agent for the Odorless Crematory Closet manufactured by the Crematry Closet and General Heating Co., of Hamilton.

This Closet has found a place in many of the best homes in the province, and all who have used it cannot speak too highly of its merits. Medical men speak of it from a sanitary point of view, claiming that, if health is any consideration, no home should be without one. Here are some of the

TESTIMONIALS

Alliston, March 1st, 1898.

I have had one of your "Crematory Closets" in use now for several weeks and am glad to be able to say that I have found it entirely satisfactory in every respect. I have not been able to detect the slightest odor from it at any time and would not be without it. I am sure it must prove a great convenience to people in the country and in towns where water is not obtainable.

Yours respectfully, JAMES CONWAY.

Sheddon, February 25th, 1898.

I have used it for some time and find it perfectly odorless. It is a long felt want and I believe it will become very popular especially in rural districts, towns and villages where wells are so frequently contaminated by the ordinary closets. I am, yours, etc.,

WEDDING BELLS.

Pretty Wedding Celebrated in Smith—Davidson-Fitzgerald.

A very pretty lawn wedding took place on Tuesday evening, June 20th, at 7 o'clock, at the residence of Mr. John S. Fitzgerald, Smith, when his daughter, Miss Edythe, was united in marriage to Mr. Robt. W. F. E. Davidson, also of Smith, by the Rev. A. E. Reeves, B.A., of Lakefield.

As the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss M. White, pealed forth, the bride, supported by her father, descended through an aisle formed by two prettily-decked bridal-chains, held by Messrs. Braden Fitzgerald and Robt. Mann, and took her position under a magnificent evergreen arch, from which was suspended a floral wedding bell.

The bride was assisted by Miss Jessie D. Symington, of Port Dover, and the groom by Mr. J. Walter Fitzgerald, of Trinity Medical College, while little Kathleen McKibbin acted as maid of honor.

The bride was elegantly attired in a costume of cream nun's cloth, with the attending bride's veil and orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of Marchialneil roses. The bridesmaid looked charming in white muslin with mauve trimming, and carried a bouquet of pink roses, while the little maid of honor was dressed in cream silk and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

After congratulations were over the young couple and guests proceeded to the dining hall where a sumptuous wedding dejuner had been prepared by Long Bros., of Peterborough.

The guests numbered about seventy-five and the presents were varied, numerous and costly. The bridegroom's present to the bride was a handsome gold brooch, and to both the bride and bridesmaid a silver-mounted tortoise-shell hair comb.

An Artist.

"Who is that man in the corner of the cafe?"

"He is an artist," replied the old German. "So are all of them artists who come here."

"Is he a musician?"

"No," was the reply.

"A painter?"

"No."

"A poet or novelist?"

"No."

"What kind of an artist is he, then?"

"Oh, he's just an artist! He's poor, you know."—New York Commercial Advertiser.

A Rich "Pick-up" in Campbellford.

On Thursday evening Mr. H. LeBrun returned from Campbellford where he had been engaged in completing the purchase of Mr. W. W. Tyrrell's splendid stock of ready-made clothing. Mr. Tyrrell has been Campbellford's best clothing merchant for the past six years, but has lately decided to move west. He made a private offer to sell out to Mr. Le Brun, whose firm is rapidly pushing its Campbellford branch to the front. Mr. Le Brun closed out the deal and took in the whole stock at 62 1-2 cents on the dollar, a price much below the wholesale figures. Peterborough as well as Campbellford is to enjoy the benefit of the lucky bargain—as the sale is now in full swing at the City Clothing Store, George-st. The stock is right up to the season, well worth a hundred cents on the dollar, and as "good as wheat." These bargains have the right of way and will be railroaded through at express speed. Be on time.

HOW TO GET PLUMP AND ROSY.

Nature meant every woman to be pulmp, rosy and well developed, and if she has become pale, weak and nervous, Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food will restore and revitalize the wasted nerve cells, make the blood rich and pure, and give new vigor and elasticity to the whole body. For ills peculiar to women there is no remedy so successful as this great food cure of Dr. A. W. Chase. At all dealers.

The Undertaker's Joke.

Mr. X., a descendant of a distinguished member of President Lincoln's cabinet, is a butterfly of fashion, of whom sunshine and gayety are characteristics rather than rain and gloom. One would never think of connecting him with anything tragic and solemn. Not long ago Mr. X. rode down town in a street car with the fashionable undertaker. When his fare was asked for, he offered the conductor a $10 bill, the only money to be found in his pocket, which was promptly refused.

"Allow me," said the undertaker, paying the fare.

"I have enjoyed my ride with you immensely," said Mr. X. when he arose to go. "Many thanks for it."

"You are very welcome," replied the undertaker, and then grimly, "It is not the last ride you will take with me."—New York Tribune.

Holding Out Hope.

Yes, the slender girl, with the pale, serious face, was confident she could act.

"Can you sing and play the mouth organ at the same time?" asked the manager of the theater not unkindly.

"No, sir," faltered the girl.

"Then," said the manager, "go and learn to do these and come back here, and I may be able to give you a job washing windows."

For he could not find it in his heart to discourage the aspirations of one so earnest.

His Downfall.

"When I first knew Throggins, he was a township supervisor and a good citizen."

"What changed him?"

"I don't exactly know. All I know is that when the township was annexed to the city somebody suggested that he would make a good alderman. I guess he took it to heart."

IS THIS YOUR STORY?

"Every morning I have a bad taste in my mouth; my tongue is coated; my headaches and I often feel dizzy. I have no appetite for breakfast and what food I eat distresses me. I have a heavy feeling in my stomach. I am getting so weak that sometimes I tremble and my nerves are all unstrung. I am getting pale and thin. I am as tired in the morning as at night."

What does your doctor say?

"You are suffering from impure blood."

What is his remedy?

PARROTT DIED AS HE LIVED.

Hamilton Matricide Curses His Executioner at Death's Door.

Hamilton, June 24.—For the slaying of his aged mother, Benjamin Parrott was yesterday morning launched into eternity. Parrott died as he lived. He cursed while at death's door. His last words were addressed to the hangman after the black cap had been adjusted, and were "You —— I'd like to get a crack at you!"

These words were spoken while Rev. R. Burns was delivering the Lord's prayer and the interruption caused him to stop, and when he resumed he missed the words, "Deliver us from evil," which are always the signal for the executioner to pull the lever. Consequently the hangman waited till the prayer was completed, and then the drop fell. Death was instantaneous. Dr. Chamberlain, inspector of prisons, who superintended the dreadful job, said Parrott's neck was broken by the drop of ten feet.

Quick Work.

The hanging was a record-breaker in the matter of speed. It was just three minutes from the time the procession left the corridor till Parrott was pronounced dead. The body was cut down ten minutes after the drop fell, and after a jury had viewed it a post-mortem examination took place. The brain was normal, weighing 50 ounces.

Sheriff Middleton declines to disclose the name of the hangman. Whoever he is, he knows his business. While engaged at his work he wore a heavy false whisker. When the execution was over he disappeared, and when he appeared again the whisker was gone, disclosing a lantern-jawed face, with a heavy drooping moustache. It was said in the jail yard that his name was Thompson, and that he came from Toronto. He is an Englishman, and claims to have done the job before in England.

WAR EAGLE IS A MAN-KILLER

Four Men Killed on the 625-Foot Level on Friday.

Particulars of the Terrible Accident at Rossland—Two of the Men Were Instantly Killed, One Died on the Way to the Hospital and the Fourth Died at 4 p.m.—How It Occurred—An Inquest to Be Held.

Rossland, B.C., June 24.—Another terrible accident occurred in War Eagle mine between 10.25 and 10.30 o'clock yesterday morning. Four men were killed, two dying instantly and one a few minutes after being brought to the surface, and one man died in the hospital.

The accident was in consequence of an explosion caused by an overlooked shot in which about two sticks or a little over a pound of powder had been left.

The particulars are as follows: Charles Lee, Mike Griffin, Charles Sturges and Charles Coulson, drill men, and Daniel Green, mucker, were working in the west drift on the 625-foot level, 100 feet from the shaft, having gone to work at 7. Lee and Griffin were working one machine and Sturges and Coulson another. About 20 holes had been put in the face of the drift. The out hole in which the explosion occurred, was in about 16 inches, and could not have held much more than a couple sticks of powder. It is supposed that concussions of drills started the powder and caused the disaster. The out hole in question was blasted on Wednesday night, and drilled by the same shift which was at work when the explosion occurred, the hole having been drilled on Tuesday.

Explosion Heard by Others.

The fatal explosion was heard by a number of men working on the same level, though not in the same drift, about 20 feet away. These men understood that an accident had occurred, as this was not the time for firing to take place. They at once ran to the spot to learn what the extent of the accident was. They were met by Coulson, who was the least injured of the party, and who, numb and bleeding, was staggering forward toward them. He told them what had happened, and word was at once sent to headquarters.

The foreman immediately went down with a force of men. The smoke by this time had cleared from the drift, and the four injured men were found lying on the ground covered by broken rock.

This was cleared off, and they were carried to the hoist and taken to the 250-foot level. Two of them only, Griffin and Green, gave any signs of life, and it was evident that they could not survive. They were taken to the surface, where surgeons took them in charge.

Two Instantly Killed.

Sturges and Lee were found to have been instantly killed and Griffin died while being carried to the hospital. Green reached the hospital alive, but died at 4 p.m. Coulson, who was also taken to the hospital, has a number of bad flesh wounds, especially from the waist down, but is not dangerously injured.

Coroner Bowes will hold an inquest to-day at 2 p.m.

An Awful Way to Suicide.

Toronto, June 23.—Death was sought by Mrs. William Brecken of 23 Gordon street in a horrible manner four days ago and she died at her home early yesterday morning as a result of self-inflicted injuries. Mrs. Brecken was the wife of a street car conductor and was about 40 years of age. Her mind was deranged and last Tuesday evening she slashed a knife across her abdomen and made a wound through which her bowels protruded. Physicians replaced the intestines and sewed up the wound. Peritonitis set in and the poor woman lingered in pain until death put an end to her sufferings. Her mania was religious.

U. S. Balls for Russia.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 24.—The Commercial Gazette says: The Carnegie Steel Company has contracted with representatives of the Russian Government to furnish that country with 180,000 tons of steel rails for its immense railroad enterprises in Siberia and China. This, it is said, is the largest order ever placed with one firm in the world, and represents an outlay of between $4,500,000 and $5,000,000. In filling the order 900,000 tons of pig iron will be consumed.

Midland Carpenter Fell 75 Feet.

Midland, Ont., June 24.—At 3.30 yesterday afternoon John Johnson, a carpenter employed at the Midland Elevator Company's elevator, fell from a scaffold, which he had erected for alterations in the building, a distance of 75 feet, striking a large revolving shaft in the descent. The unfortunate man's head was crushed and his neck broken.

Italian Parliament Prorogued.

Rome, June 24.—Gen. Pelleux, the Premier, yesterday prorogued the Italian Parliament, after three weeks of successful obstruction by the Opposition and many violent scenes, without having secured the passage of the Government bills to modify the rules of Parliamentary procedure and to restrict the liberty of the press and freedom of speech.

THE EXPORT DUTY ON LOGS.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell Asks Question in the Senate.

Is the Dominion With Ontario on This Important Matter?—Hon. David Mills Knew Nothing, Except What He Saw in the Newspapers, and Said It Was a Provincial Fight—The Supplementaries in the Commons.

Ottawa, June 24.—In the Senate yesterday afternoon Sir Mackenzie Bowell, on the orders of the day, called the attention of the Minister of Justice to newspaper reports that the Attorney-General of Ontario had granted a flat to American lumbermen holding timber limits in Ontario, with a view of testing the constitutionality of the law imposing an export duty on logs cut on those limits. Of course, as the Dominion Government had allowed the law, he concluded that they were favorably disposed toward it. He wanted to know if the Dominion was a party to the suit.

Hon. David Mills knew nothing more about the matter than what he saw in the newspapers. The fight was with the provincial authorities.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell remarked that the matter might interfere with Dominion customs rights and he supposed that the Minister meant that the Government would watch events and then act as they saw necessary.

ON THE SUPPLEMENTARIES.

The Commons Takes Up and Passes Railway and Canal Items.

Ottawa, June 24.—Before the orders of the day were called yesterday afternoon, Col. Prior asked for the cablegram from Lord Strathcona endorsing the financial standing of the Northern Commercial Telegraph Company, and was promised that it would be brought down on Monday.

Mr. Blair Will Listen.

Mr. Blair informed Mr. Clarke that he had notified the labor organizations interested that he would hear any objection the employes might have to the rules to be inaugurated by the Grand Trunk and Canada Atlantic Railways. A reply had been received as to the former, that the employes had no objection to them, but subsequently representations were made that the officers of the organization who made that reply were not empowered by the employes to do so, and accordingly the rules were suspended.

"The present situation is," said Mr. Blair, "that upon consideration it appeared that it might be desirable to amend the general Railway Act so that the railway committee of the Privy Council, subject to the approval of the Governor-in-Council, should be authorized to frame a body of rules, either by itself or through some competent body, for general application to all the roads in Canada that are under the jurisdiction of the Parliament of Canada. That view having been concurred in by my colleagues in the council, I have had drafted a section to add to the general Railway Act, and a bill containing this section is now before the railway committee. It appeared to me that these general amendments were of such a nature that it was desirable the railway committee should discuss them, and make any desirable suggestion that could be incorporated in the bill. The bill is now before the committee. It was read at the late meeting of the committee, but owing to there being a very small attendance, it was suggested that it should remain over and be made the first order at the next meeting, when we are likely to have a larger attendance. That is the position."

On the Supplementaries.

The House then went into supply on the supplementary estimates, taking up the railway and canal items, which were passed after some discussion, in the course of which Mr. Blair said that he hoped to be able in a few days to announce when the Soulanges Canal would be opened for business.

Private Bills Passed.

After recess the following private bills were read a third time and passed:

Respecting the Atlas Loan Company—Mr. Ingram.

Respecting the General Trust Corporation.

THE TRANSVAAL CASE.

The threatening cloud which at present hangs over the Transvaal, and which when it breaks promises to involve England in a war with Kruger and his Boers, has caused many comments. It is common to hear Americans remarking "What right has England to interfere in Transvaal affairs? How can such a thing be justified?" They forget that their Government justified a war with Spain on the ground that the United States was called upon in the interest of humanity and commerce to interfere in Cuba, a neighboring country. Britain has possessions adjacent to the Transvaal, while in that country itself the Uitlanders, many of them Britishers, comprise four-fifths of the population and pay nine-tenths of the taxes, yet have no part or voice in the spending of that money or in the Government of the country; their children can only be educated in the Boer patois, they cannot hold public meetings, their press is gagged and they are not given a trial by their peers In a dozen ways they are trodden down and made to bear the burden, without any recognition as citizens or voters. They have appealed to Britain, and Britain is interested because of her neighboring possessions. Can the freedom-loving American shut his eyes to the Uitlanders' case, while still slaughtering the Philippines in "the cause of humanity?" Britain will not go to war in the Transvaal if rights can be secured and wrongs righted without war. But, if necessary, Britain will deal with the Boers, and will give to Transvaal subjects that freedom and liberty enjoyed wherever the Union Jack waves.

TRACK IT BY ALL MEANS.

The West Elgin Conservatives are right in pressing for the hearing of the election trial, notwithstanding that Mr. McNish, the Liberal candidate who was declared elected, has disclaimed any right to the seat. It is necessary in the public interest to still further expose the organized system of corruption and fraud that the Hardy Government and its agents inaugurated in their desperate attempt to hold office by winning the bye-elections.

Further exposure of the Grit methods in these elections may possibly bring the Globe and other Liberal organs to a proper discussion of this question of corruption and fraud at elections. The Globe in an editorial on Friday referring to this question speaks of "the mysterious outsiders," etc., and advocates "a law that will be a terror to all corruptionists, that will give the judges ample power to trace corruption to its source, and to mete out the most severe punishment to those who break the law." This is just what the Conservatives desire to do in the West Elgin case, to trace the corruption to its source, and the efforts being made by the Liberals to burke such action should be condemned by the Globe if it is sincere. The source would undoubtedly be found in Grit headquarters, for no such gang of organized boodlers could exist, could travel from one constituency to another spending money, unless they had the full and hearty support of the Grit leaders at headquarters. This being so the West Elgin case should be thoroughly gone into, and the Globe, if it is not playing its usual hypocritical part when indulging in high-sounding talk, will lend its aid in condemning the guilty.

His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it, he says: "I was taken with Typhoid Fever, that ran into Pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of Consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvellous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all Throat and Lung Trouble. 50 cents and $1.00. PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE.

Hon. John Costigan Made No Address as to His Son's Case.

Ottawa, June 24.—In the public accounts committee yesterday morning it was arranged that Sir Wilfrid Laurier's examination in the Manitoban elections case should take place next Tuesday.

No further evidence was taken in the Costigan case. Hon. John Costigan decided to make no address, saying he saw nothing in the case but absence without leave and inattention, which had been severely punished by the removal from Winnipeg to Ottawa, causing a loss of $600 a year in his son's income, a serious matter to a man of family.

Three bills were carried in short order by the Senate banking and commerce committee yesterday morning, viz., Huron & Erie Loan Company, Canada Permanent & Western Mortgage Corporation, Canada Accident Insurance Company. There was no other business before the committee.

It's Not True.

London, June 24.—In the House of Commons yesterday Lord George Hamilton, answering a question in regard to the report that English soldiers in the Rangoon district of India had ill-treated an aged native woman so that she died from her injuries, said the statement that the woman was dead was untrue.

Buying Big Guns.

Bloemfontein, Orange Free State, June 24.—The Volksraad of the Orange Free State has voted £9,870 for the increase of artillery, tents and other military supplies. A resolution was adopted directing the Government to adopt the Mauser rifle as the national weapon. A proposal to vote £22,500 for ammunition was discussed, but the debate was adjourned.

Trade with Cape Town and Johannesburg is at a comparative standstill. The Germans who are in sympathy with the Transvaal are holding meetings at which they adopt resolutions requesting Germany to intercede in behalf of Pretoria.

TENSION IS EXTREME.

Business Is Paralyzed at Cape Town and Great Britain Must Act.

London, June 24.—A despatch from Cape Town to The Outlook says: "The tension is extreme. Business is at a standstill, and the general feeling is that England must promptly bring matters to an issue. The league will have no difficulty in preventing meetings supporting Sir Alfred Milner's attitude, the desire being to refrain from embarrassing the Imperial authorities.

"The Orange Government is urging the Transvaal to make further concessions. Many people consider Sir Alfred Milner's franchise proposals are useless without the granting of 12 seats in the mining centres and the right to speak English in the Volksraad. Otherwise it will be impossible to select representative men. Failing these concessions, the Johannesburgers say they prefer a treaty providing security and judicial and educational reforms."

Shropshires Under Orders.

The Shropshire Regiment has been ordered to hold itself in readiness for immediate embarkation for Cape Town.

Mr. Chamberlain Denies It.

The Secretary of State for the Colonies, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, in the House of Commons yesterday, in answering a question, denied that the Government was reinforcing the British troops in South Africa to a total of 40,000 men.

Thinks Kruger Will Back Down.

The Standard publishes a despatch from Johannesburg explaining that the adding of four seats to the representation of the gold fields in the Raad will not be a real concession, because the Uitlanders will still be without power to vote. The six electoral divisions will be: Johannesburg, Heidelburg, Boksburg, Krugersdorp, Barberton and another. There is an impression, however, according to The Standard correspondent, that President Kruger may yet yield enough to avoid a crisis.

THEY ARE NOW IN HARNESS.

French Cabinet Ministers Have Trouble in Store for Them.

Paris, June 24.—The new Cabinet Ministers took possession of their offices yesterday morning. The Prefect of Police, M Blanc, had a long interview with the Premier, M. Waldeck-Rousseau, during the day, and it is asserted he handed the latter his resignation.

The Progressive Republicans have held a meeting under the presidency of M. Meline. Considerable diversity of opinion was developed. One faction decided to oppose the new Cabinet, owing to the presence of M. Millerand in the Ministry. The Socialist Deputies are also at variance regarding the entry of General the Marquis de Gallifet in the Cabinet, and a portion of that party has decided to found a new group, to be entitled "Revolutionary Socialistes."

The Meline meeting appointed a committee to confer with the other groups hostile to the new Cabinet for the purpose of organizing a combined opposition to the Government. Notice has already been given of a number of interpellations for Monday next.

AGUINALDO IS TROUBLESOME.

The Philippine War Does Not Seem to Be Near Its End Yet.

Manila, June 4.—Aguinaldo does not seem to be satisfied with the attempt of the insurgents to retake San Fernando, and he has taken command of General Luna's army and has massed the largest rebel force yet mobilized, bringing 2,000 men from the Antipolo region. He is exceedingly troublesome. Last night his men wounded two members of the 17th Regiment. General MacArthur's men are constantly on the alert to repel any attacks by the rebels, sleeping upon their arms. The General sincerely hopes that the Filipinos will give him another chance for a battle, for the soldiers really enjoy an opportunity to fight them when they can do so without wading through swamps to catch them.

San Francisco, Cal., June 24.—Four companies of the 24th U. S. Infantry and 150 recruits sailed for Manila last night on the transport Zealandia. The transport also carried an immense amount of provisions and supplies for the army in the Philippines.

Churchill Going Into Politics.

London, June 24.—Lieut. Winston Leonard Spencer Churchill, eldest son of the late Lord Randolph Churchill, has been selected as the Parliamentary candidate for Oldham, in the Conservative interest, to replace the late Mr. Robert Croft.
